President Blasts Administration

Oldaker Quits High School Board

Details Four Chief Issues

With a quiet statement of "I wish you a lot of luck," Daryl B. Oldaker, president of Arlington-Prospect High School District 214, resigned his school board post, nonchalantly put on his hat and coat, and walked out of the board meeting Monday night.

The quiet farewell spech was quickly countered by Oldaker's letter of resignation which was read after his departure.

In it he charged the school administration with "lack of responsibility" and "failure to present accurate information to the board."

D. B. OLDAKER

Oldaker detailed four major complaints including the failure to present budget balances and other information in advance so that the board could arrive at decision with full knowledge, criticism of the manner in which salaries were requested for the sumer guidance program, the bus contract problems last year and the failure to use the advisors who worked out a merit-pay program for New Trier for a similar study at Arlington-Prospect.

RECOVERING from their surprise, the four remaining board members in attendance quickly elected George Laubenheimer of Mount Prospect as temporary president and agreed to accept Oldaker's resignation effective immediately.

Election of a president to serve until after the April 14 school board election will be the first order of business at the board meeting next Monday, March 12.

Because more than 30 days remains before the April 14 election date, the board must appoint a member to serve until the election. If a school board post emains unfilled more than 30 days the county superintendent of schools must call a special election.

BY NAMING a replacement to serve until the next regular election — April 14 — the board will avoid the special election problem.

Candidates must file petitions for the unexpired two years of Oldaker's term at the district office in Arlington High School before March 24.

The issue of presenting information in advance to the school board was one of the major issues last year when a three-three split almost resulted in the failure to renew the contract of Harold Slichenmyer, superintendent. Publication of this controversy resulted in strong public support for the school administration.

IN PRACTICE, the school board of District 214 receives an agenda of meetings in advance with a full discussion of all items listed, as well as a board information bulletin giving additional information. Almost all items to be considered by the board are mailed to the members in advance since the board normally will not act on matters, particularly financial items, which are presented to them the night of the meeting.

The school bus problem, another major point of contention in the controversy last year, continues to a limited degree. One of the main arguments with the Jelco-Illinois company, named by the school board to succeed the Tinsley Bus Co., in spring, 1960, was the failure to provide garage maintenance facilities and parking area.

The present bus operator, Cook County Bus Co., is now parking the high school buses on the Prospect High School parking lot after a year of negotiation and court battles to gain zoning for property purchased on Busse Road in Elk Grove Township.

Jelco in his efforts to secure parking property was turned down by village authorities in a zoning request for the former Tinsley bus parking area. At that time village officials indicated the zoning might be granted if the high school itself owned the property, assuring its use for parking of school buses only. The school board, led by Oldaker and William Spomer, refused the suggestion, emphasizing it was the responsibility of the bus operator to provide the property.

IN SELECTING the Jelco firm to operate the school bus system, the school board in 1960 voted to purchase 30 buses to gain the tax saving through school purchase. The buses were to be operated and bought on a contract basis by the bus firm, giving the high school a saving in bus operation cost.

After four months of negotiations and contract revisions the Jelco firm and the school board still had not come to final terms by the opening of school in September, 1960. A temporary contract was signed by Jelco with John Schaaf, high school business manager. This contract, signed on the advice of the high school attorney, provided a basis for temporary operation, Schaaf said.

The buses, representing an investment of $200,000 in school funds, were protected by the school district blanket policy according to the school's insurance broker. Liability coverage on the buses was carried by Jelco.

OLDAKER IN his letter of resignation charged the buses were uninsured.

He also charged the buses had been turned over to Jelco without contractual protection. He did not indicate how the students would have been transported to school without the use of the school buses.

During September, 1960, the school board gave up hope of coming to final contract agreement with Jelco and advised for other bus operators. Successful low bidder was the present operator, Cook County School Bus Co.

The last straw which "finally determined my decision to resign" Oldaker said was the manner in which the summer guidance program was presented to the school board. In asking for funds for the program and in an effort to gain available federal funds which had financed the program to the extent of 70 per cent in the past, school authorities urged the board to approve a program as submitted by the guidance department. David Whiteside, chairman of the department, stated that it would be necessary to pay counselors their regular maximum salaries, including increments. This information came from a meeting with the state official in charge of such programs.

TO ANSWER questions by the board, the administration and Whiteside secured further information from the state which revealed the school board could set its own salary rate. Oldaker charged Slichenmyer with failure to "recognize his responsibilities to the board" by merely excluding the extra-duty increments from the final salaries requested for the program.

The new summer guidance program, which in 1962 will receive only $1,600 from federal funds in place of the expected $9,000, lists the average counselor's salaries at $170 per week. Whiteside stresses this is the regular salary schedule less the special counseling increment paid to these teachers.

The merit pay system, which Oldaker said he favored, was discussed by the school board last week when the new teacher salary schedules were approved. At that meeting, which Oldaker did not attend, all board members present indicated a desire to begin work on a merit pay plan for adoption as soon as practical.

'Cultural Asset'

CIVIC ORCHESTRA TO BE ORGANIZED

Local Group To Serve Area

Formation of a civic orchestra for the Arlington Heights area was announced this week by Melvin Kasen, a member of the music staff of Arlington Heights public schools.

The nucleus of the community orchestra already has held two unpublicized rehearsals with about 20 musicians participating, and enough enthusiasm has been generated to formally organize a local orchestra to serve the upper northwest suburban area.

Kasen said many people who do not play an instrument have urged formation of a civic orchestra in this area also, saying such a move is long overdue.

IN ADDITION to providing an outlet for the expression of musical talent and evenings of enjoyment for concert goers, Kasen said he hopes increased familiarity with stringed groups will interest more teenagers in stringed instruments and music of quality.

Kasen said many who take up an instrument such as the violin discontinue study when they enter high school because it "isn't the thing to do."

"It has no status," Kasen said.

Culturally, he continued, this will be a major asset for our area, complimenting other artistic groups such as Village Theatre, Countryside Art League, and Music-On-Stage.

"This area has a great many above-average people who are aware of and enjoy the arts," Kasen said, "and I think a civic orchestra will receive enthusiastic support."

IF PLANS progress on schedule, Kasen hopes to present the orchestra in its first concert late this spring.

The orchestra presently is meeting for practice the second and fourth Thursdays of the month at 7:45 p.m. on the stage at Miner Junior High School.

Kasen said there is a need for more string players, especially violinists, to achieve a balanced string choir. He urged all who may be interested in participating to attend the next rehearsal or to call him at CL 5-3572 for further information.

CENTER OF ATTENTION at the opening of CMA across from the Arlington race track last weekend was Jayne Mansfield and, to a lesser—much lesser—extent, her husband, Mickey Hargitay. Above, the camera captured a brief instant in between autograph-signing chores as she conferred with Mickey. More pictures and the story of the glamour gal's visit to the suburbs will be found on the inside pages of this issue.

Here Are Right Park Boundaries

That small area of Arlington Heights which is in both the Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect park districts is not bounded on the south by Gregory Street. Through no fault of park district administrators, the wrong southern boundary was given in last week's story on taxes.

The correct boundaries are Foundry Road and Grove Street, Donald and Rammer streets.

In Wheeling Township

States Attorney Launches Road Commissioner Probe

The Cook County States Attorney's office confirmed this week that it was investigating the activities of Oscar E. Everson, Wheeling Township Road Commissioner.

Alvin F. Morse, assistant states attorney in charge of the suburban area, said the investigation centered around the leasing to the township of a tractor owned by Everson's 17-year-old son, Charles.

Everson, a Republican, said he thought the investigation was politically inspired.

"We didn't realize we couldn't do this," he said of the rental of his son's tractor to the township. "Being new in office, we didn't know."

EVERSON said the practice was stopped once it was realized that it was improper. The road commissioner explained that he had given the tractor to his son to set him up in business. He said Charles was in the roto-tilling business for a time but has since gone back to school.

Everson said he thought the tractor was rented from his son by the township for approximately five months. Asked at what charge, he replied: "Forty dollars a day. The regular rate on a tractor."

He said Richard Schmidt, of Hintz Road, Arlington Heights, his former foreman, kept time records on use of the tractor.

Schmidt, who quit his job effective Jan. 15 of last year in protest against what he charged was the improper use of township equipment, lodged a complain at the same time with the states attorney.

John P. McGivney, 624 Bunting, Mount Prospect, one of five Wheelin gTownship Auditors, also made a complaint with the Statees Attorney's office. The assistant states attorney in charge of the case, Morse, said that McGivney's complaint followed Schmidt's "two weeks later."

MORSE SAID he would probably complete his investigation in a "couple of days." He said he was under "tremendous pressure" in his work. Asked how long the case had been under investigation, Morse paused for some time before answering that he was concerned about the suggestion that the case was of personal interest to him. He further stated, "I'm always available" to hear complaints. Morse said that townships often rent equipment out, and added that "anyone" can own a tractor, in regard to the case.

Atty. Walter P. Dahl, Wheeling Township Justice of the Peace, however, said state statutes make it unlawful for a township official to be "interested directly or indirectly" in such contractural agreements involving the township.

Morse was also questioned about a raise of $10 a day granted Everson, allegedly from the township's road and bridge fund. Morse said it appeared to be an error of the township's board in granting the raise. He said the matter had been adjusted when the board discovered it was in error and returned the mnoey.

EVERSON admitted he had been paid his $10 daily raise for a month and a half out of the road and bridge fund before it was realized that his salary had to be paid out of the town fund.

Dahl said the township road commissioner's salary is set by statute and that it stipulated he be paid from the town fund. The amount of $270, it was reported, was returned to the road and bridge fund.

Everson said everything was "in our books," which he said he took to the states attorney's office to be checked.

Township Auditor McGivney, the other complaintant, refused to comment on the situation other than to say he had been to the states attorney's office.

McGIVNEY last August had tangled with Everson when the road commissioner had been asked to solicit estimates for a township garage. Everson brought back one $34,792 estimate from the Oxford Construction Co., Chicago, although McGivney had requested a meeting with a number of architects to question them on the project. Nick S. Theodorou, 3550 N. Laverne, Chicago, an architect who had drawn up plans for Oxford, appeared instead to close the deal. He was later hired by a 4-1 vote of the board,

NAPLES, FLORIDA

The snow, rain and hail back home has really gotten us worried. We hope the weather is not as bad as the newspapers and letters report. We want to look forward to the return to our desk, but not to icy roads.

Anyway, we have had three months of delightful sunshine for which we are thankful.

The Collier County News had this heading about a shoplifting story: "Victimized by White Woman from the North."

The Naples city manager, speaking before a service club this week, said there are so many retired army officers in the city government it has been suggested that its name be changed to Fort Naples and the city hall be renamed "The Pentagon."

The generals and colonels invited into municipal service make possible highly-trained officials at a price the municipality can afford to pay.

The retired officers do not seem to mind a bit that one of their bosses is a retired sergeant, who is a member of the city council.

"When French artist Bernard Buffet paints a picture you can tell what it is." That was the opening paragraph of a news story referring to the exhibition he brought to Miami last week.

The heading of the story read: "Abstract Art? All Bad."

We agree with members of the art colony here that abstract painting in this modern age is to be deplored even if it is shown at the Chicago Art Institute and art displays other than in Naples.

Our thoughts went backward 60 years when we visited the Smallwood Store and post office at Goodland, Fla. It reminded us of the Quentin store in the 1900's at Quentin Corners, when at the corner of Rand Road there was a community with a like store and "post office," a creamery and a blacksmith shop.

The Goodland post office, built of unpainted boards, occupies a cubbyhole 6 feet square, but receives and dispatches mail twice each day. For some reason, the rural mail system has passed it by.

Life Magazine in a recent issue called a "swamp wagon" an "air boat." We didn't know the difference either until we came down here.

There's so little water in the swamps here this year the "air boat" (driven by an airplane propeller) gives very little thrill to the visitor.

The "swamp wagon," an overgrown Jeep with high wheels, was originally designed for construction purposes in the swamplands. Its principal use today is an attraction to the periodical races—no mutuel betting.

There are 32 real estate dealers in Naples who employ over 100 salesmen. There is some talk of requiring the salesmen to wear identification buttons so they will not attempt to sell each other.

'Sharin' of Green'

Next weekend, Arlington Heights merchants will hold a "Sharin' of the Green" promotion celebrating St. Patrick's Day with bargains for thrifty shoppers.

Most stores are participating and you'll be able to identify them by the large "Sharin' of the Green" stickers in the window. Inside, many of the clerks will be wearing green hats.

Watch the Herald for the green, dollar bill-type ads which will feature eye-catching, down-to-earth bargains.

At Kensington Science Fair

Young Scientists Display Experiments

More than 170 science exhibits will be displayed in the multi-purpose room of the Kensington School between 7 and 8:30 p. m. Friday, March 9, when patrons of Arlington Heights Public Schools will have another chance to attend one of a series of science fairs being held in District 25.

A wide range of experiments, collections and displays which have been created by kindergarten through fifth grade pupils, either in class or at home, will be exhibited.

The displays at Kensington will be similar to those which have been shown in three earlier fairs at Dryden, Westgate and Park schools.

Among previous exhibits were weather dolls made by Mrs. Dorothy Yoder's first grade class at Park School, which changed color according to the amount of moisture in the air.

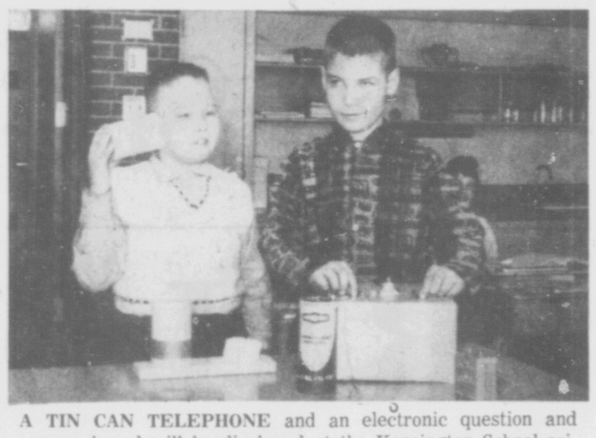
Many individual shell and rock collections also were shown. Rex Miller, first grade student at Westgate School, constructed a model of a volcano and used it to display his classified rock collection.

Other projects which created a great deal of interest included a realistic model of a tornado constructed by Jeff Smith, a fourth grade student at Dryden School; a demonstration of simple machines, by Steven Britton, third grade pupil at Park School; and a mural depicting shadows, created by Mrs. Arlene Olberg's morning and afternoon kindergarten classes at Westgate School.

Besides the Kensington exhibit tomorrow night, fairs are scheduled at Windsor School on March 23, Wilson School on April 10, and Ridge School on April 27.

Mrs. Mary Stitt, science consultant for District 25, said the main purpose of the fairs is to give recognition to those children who have done extra work in science, and to call parents' attention to the accomplishments of their children.

Most of the exhibits were extensions of the regular school system science program.



A TIN CAN TELEPHONE and an electronic question and answer board will be displayed at the Kensington School science fair Friday night by Don Cody (left) and Bob Moore. The fair is one of a series being held in each elementary school in District 25 to encourage interest in the district's science program. (AF OBSERVING HAMSTERS which will be among the exhibits at the Kensington School science fair tomorrow night are Eileen Falardeau and Gary Nye, kindergarten students at the school. The hamsters are part of the class project which will be on view. Previous fairs have been held at Dryden, Westgate and Park schools, and future fairs are scheduled at Windsor, Wilson and Ridge schools. (AF

Site Selected for New High School

Site for the proposed Wheeling-area high school of Arlington-Prospect District 214 will be the northwest corner of Hintz and Elmhurst Roads.

A conditional option on the 38-acre site has been obtained by the school board on the recommendation of the Site Subcommittee of the citizens lay committee planning the fourth high school.

The report recommending the Hintz-Elmhurst site was given to the entire lay committee Wednesday night. The report was prepared by H. J. Tindall, chairman, Mrs. Joseph Vavra and Oliver Willman.

THE NEW site was selected because of the availability of utilities, probability of annexation to the Village of Wheeling, provimity of residential area which would cut bus transportation costs, and the location on main roads for easy bus access.

The site will replace the original area selected for the high school on the south side of Hintz Road near Wolf Road. This site was abandoned because of the danger of increased air traffic from the expanding Palwaukee Airport.

The proposed fourth high school is slated for opening in September, 1964. (AF

Suburb News of The Week

PALATINE — The board of local improvements last week indicated there would be a re-evaluation of the amount of expense property owners will be expected to pay for the $100,984 street-lighting project in the business district. The proportion of the cost to property owners has been the primary objection to protesting owners since the public hearings started.

ELK GROVE — School District 59 board members authorized the sale of $750,000 in building bonds this week, and awarded bids for immediate construction of 20 "priority" classrooms, including a 10-room school in Colonial Heights subdivision near Mount Prospect, and a 10-room addition to the Clearmont School.

The new Community Center, a converted barn at 780 Tonne Road, will be initiated Saturday, March 10, with a high school age dance sponsored by the youth committee of the Elk Grove Junior Womens Club. The Elk Grove Jaycees converted the barn for community use.

ROLLING MEADOWS — Candidates for contested offices on both Republican and Democratic ballots in the April 10 primaries will be invited to attend a public forum in Rolling Meadows March 23. City voters are particularly interested in the Palatine Township committeeman races, with a favorite son running on each ticket. Congressional candidates for the 13th District will also be invited to attend.

MOUNT PROSPECT — Mount Prospect Village President C. O. Schlaver announced that the village feels it is necessary to hire a full-time village engineer at this time. He said the need was due to the increased engineering duties caused by the growth of the village.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS — Announcement was made this week of formation of a civic orchestra to serve the upper northwest suburban area by Melvin Klasen, a member of the music staff of Arlington Heights public schools. Two unpublicized rehearsals have been held already, with about 20 musicians from the area participating. More details will be available soon.

WHEELING — District 21 Board of Education has set out to determine a policy on Civil Defense. But it was stated by Superintendent Kenneth Gill that the national policy on Civil Defense is completely muddled. The board was warned by one of its members against stampeding into "ill considered" action or a "frenzy of construction that may be urged by frightened individuals (or) hysterical propaganda." It was also pointed out that one educator had called construction of fallout shelters a "misuse of school funds." Main feeling expressed by the board was that children should be with their families in times of emergency.

BUFFALO GROVE — Village President A. P. Bunescu resigned because of a lack of time to devote to village affairs. The board appointed Trustee William Farrington to replace him, and William Marsh to replace Farrington. Bunescu had been in office three years, and was a leader and an originator of the Homeowners Party which has unseated all but one member of the first board elected when the village was incorporated about five years ago.

PROSPECT HEIGHTS — A citizens committee of School District 23 is seeking to determine whether or not to extend bus transportation services to a parochial school just outside the district's boundaries. One consideration is to put the matter on the ballot in the April 14 school board election. Present bus routes evidently could not be used to service the Catholic school.

SCHAUMBURG TOWNSHIP — The budget total during the fiscal year 1962-63 in the township town fund and general assistance fund is $25,480. Town fund estimate is $17,080; general assistance estimate $8,400.

HOFFMAN ESTATES — The village is likely to have a municipal tax this year with first receipts from it received in June, 1963. The tax, probably $10 per home, is needed because receipts from building permits have been falling off sharply, officials say. (B8

Test Project

Post Office Extends Hours on Wednesdays

Effective yesterday, the Arlington Heights Post Office began staying open Wednesday afternoons as a test project which may result in a similar change for other post offices in the area now closing on Wednesday afternoons.

Donald Swanson, Chicago, regional director for the post office department, said the Arlington Heights post office is the first one in the Chicago area in which the change has been made.

SWANSON SAID many post offices in the suburban Chicago area were opened when the environment was semi-rural, and adopted Wednesday afternoon closing hours just as the business places did.

As the towns and villages grew, he said, the post offices continued to remain closed on Wednesday afternoons, even though the demand for services grew, without much fuss being made.

"The Arlington Heights Post Office is in a more urban situation now," Swanson said, "and we think we certainly should provide the same service that other urban areas get."

Swanson said there appear to be many other post offices in the Chicago area in the same situation, but Arlington Heights was chosen for the test.

"HOWEVER," Swanson said, "although this is in the nature of a test, Arlington Heights is large enough now and is continuing to grow, so it is doubtful if the post office there would ever revert back to closing on Wednesday afternoons."

He said a 90-day study probably will be made to determine to what extent the Arlington Heights post office is used on Wednesday afternoons, and on this basis the department will determine whether to initiate regular hours at other post offices now closed on Wednesday afternoons. (AF

Eye Addition Of Questions

Additional questions may be added to those enumerators already are slated to ask during the special census scheduled for Arlington Heights in a month or so.

At the village board meeting Monday night, Trustee Eugene Schlickman questioned Village Manager L. A. Hanson on the cost of securing additional information, other than the standard data gathered during a special census.

The standard questions asked are age, sex, race and relation to head of household.

Schlickman said that if the cost was reasonable, he would like the enumerators also to find out length of residency of villagers, where the residents generally do their shopping. and the number of vacant apartments in the village.

THE COST of adding these questions to the data sheets will then decide if the answers to the additional questions are worth the additional expense.

The census is expected to add perhaps 3,000 to the official population of the village, which would mean additional income from motor fuel taxes of about $15,000 a year.

Cost of the special tabulation will be an estimated $4,565, of which $1,600 already has been paid to the U.S. Bureau of the Census. The remainder of the cost will be for the actual expense of taking the census. (A

Tuesday Deadline For Registration

Like everyone else in Illinois, Arlington Heights residents have only until Tuesday, March 13, to register so they will be eligible to vote in the April 10 primary election.

On March 13, all precinct polling places will be open from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. for registration.

SINCE JULY 15, 1961, previous voter registration lists in Illinois have been invalid, and all persons required to re-register in order to be eligible to vote.

If a citizen has re-registered since July 15, but changed his address or name, he must notify the election board in order to vote.

Through Monday, March 12, citizens may register at the County Building in Chicago in the county clerk's office. (AF

Backs Foreign Aid

Former Ike Aide Goes Easy on Pres. Kennedy

Sherman Adams, former Presidential Assistant in the Eisenhower administration, was mild in his criticism of the Kennedy administration, but vehement in promotion of foreign aid when he spoke last Thursday evening at Lake Park High School, Medinah.

Adams called foreign trade "one of the most serious issues of foreign policy."

He alluded to the present Democratic government when he said: "We must be very careful over the proprietorship the government is building over private business. Once they (assume this proprietorship) it's very hard to turn the clock back."

Adams, former President Eisenhower's assistant in the White House for six years, addressed about 700 people in the auditorium of the high school. The program was arranged by the Itasca Lions Club. Proceeds were earmarked for charitable programs for the mentally retarded and the blind.

IN NO OTHER country would we have a meeting like this, to help a cause, Adams noted. "Only the American people have developed such a material conscientiousness."

The Lions secured James C. Worthy to introduce Adams. Worthy was founder and first president of the Citizens League of Illinois, organized to fight vote frauds and stimulate voter interest. He knew Adams when he was an assistant secretary of commerce while Adams was presidential assistant.

Adams extolled foreign aid programs like the Mutual Security Administration begun under President Eisenhower. The MSA still is operating as part of the Agency for International Developments. "Without these programs," he said, "there is nothing to show that those countries might not have fallen behind the Iron Curtain."

Adams referred to President Eisenhower's opinion that under-developed nations have a right to develop their economies.

BUT, HE SAID, "these people must stop looking to old Uncle for help and lift themselves up by the bootstraps or we're in danger."

He was referring to the economic drain on this country, especially in view of the fact that we are importing more than we are exporting and the threat to our economy posed by the European Common Market. He said America spends $5 billion more in Europe each year than European nations spend here.

Communist influence in the countries we hope to win to the side of Democracy is diluting the effectiveness of foreign aid, according to Adams.

"Communist delegations wean away the allegiance of these people, a situation we must not ignore," he said.

SPEAKING OF another implication in the foreign aid program, he said: "If a nation's economy is based on industrial production and it can't find markets, it is difficult for the government to remain stable."

Adams spoke in flurries of rhetoric interspersed with humorous observations and homey references to New England. He spoke of "my mountains and your plains" and delighted the audience with his enthusiasm at seeing the sun set in the west behind "this vast plain" and finding a "castle" (Lake Park High School) "in the midst of a desert."

"We are really up against a buzz saw," said Adams about the European Common Market.

He foresaw a debilitating effect upon employment and production of American industry because of possible cutbacks in their foreign markets.

IF THE government reduces tariffs — and one bill before Congress now proposes reductions up to 50 per cent, he said — then the government should offer relief to businessmen. Tariff reductions would allow more foreign goods to be sold in America. We seek lower tariff barriers to sale of American production in Europe too.

"Nothing submitted to Congress this year is more important to us economically than international trade policy," said Adams.

The former presidential assistant spoke briefly of his tenure in the White House. He offered his audience two "precepts" for dealing with people: "Always leave time enough in a telephone conversation to say goodbye;" and "Never say 'state your business.'"

In another aside he said, "The greatest mission in the world today is a peace in which we can take some security," which would promote conditions under which "we can live in mental equilibrium."

HE CONCLUDED his address with an anecdote about Confucius. The Chinese philosopher was discoursing with a mother whose son and several other close relatives had been killed by the Titans.

He asked her why she continued to live in that locality. Her answer was that the government is not oppressive.

Confucius' moral was "An oppressive government is worse than the wrath of Titans."

Ask Ingress, Egress for Euclid St.

Upon favorable recommendation of the plan commission, the Arlington Heights Village Board will make whatever efforts possible to insure that when Euclid Street is extended west through the race track property, it will have an entrance and egress from Route 53.

Trustee Richard Glantz told the village board Monday night he has learned there is opposition to a Euclid-Route 53 interchange from some quarters in Rolling Meadows. The argument is that Kirchoff Road will provide an entrance and exit from Route 53 for Arlington Heights residents.

Glantz said the village board should ask for a definite recommendation from its plan commission, and if the plan commission decides such an interchange would be in the best interests of the villagers, the board should make its opinion known to the county, which will be doing the construction. (A

High Schools

Hire Director For Summer

In recognition of the growing enrollment and importance of the summer school program in Arlington-Prospect High School District 214, the school board for the first time has named a special summer school director.

Selected to head the summer school program in 1962 was Millard Yount, mathematics instructor at Prospect High. Yount has been at Prospect for two years.

Prior to coming to District 214 he served for 22 years as high school teacher and principal in Chrisman, Ill.

MILLARD YOUNT

ENROLLMENT IN the Arlington-Prospect high school program has grown from 946 students in 1959, to 1,079 in 1960 and 1,340 last year. Registration is expected to swell even higher this year, according to school spokesmen.

In past years the district been held at the Arlington high summer school program has school building under the direction of the assistant principal.

This summer the program is to be expanded to both Arlington and Prospect buildings, with plans to expand the program to the new Forest View High School in the future.

TO PROVIDE coordination of the summer school offerings in the several schools, the school administration urged appointment of a single director responsible for the entire program.

"An extra dividend of the appointment of a summer school director will be the opportunity to promote the summer school by developing special courses for acceleration and enrichment," Harold Slichenmyer, superintendent, said. (ACM

Hot Republican Contest

'Endorsement' Now Big Word In District Congress Race

by BRUCE LADD

The word "endorsement" has become the rallying cry in the 13th District race for Congress.

Since the Palatine Township Republican Organization broke the ice Feb. 27 by giving the nod to Donald Rumsfeld of Glenview, the other candidates have been hard at work trying to line up offsetting support.

And members of the district's regular GOP organizations seem to be prospering in their new limelight roles.

Most recent endorsement came Monday night from the Women's Republican Club of New Trier Township. The club voted 2-1 in favor of Rumsfeld, a 29-year-old investment banker.

The Northfield Township Regular Republican Organization and the Evanston Young Republican Club are expected to meet tonight, Thursday, for the purpose of endorsing candidates.

Then, next Thursday, March 15, the candidates will appear before the combined GOP strength in Wheeling Township.

THE CANDIDATE Night is being sponsored jointly by the township's Regular Republican Club, Women's Republican Club, Young Republican Club and the Republican Workshops.

It is apparent, however, that only one club endorsement will result in Wheeling Township, that coming from the Young Republicans on or about March 19.

Earlier this month the New Trier Township Regular Republican Organization fought to a "no endorsement" stand in what is considered a moral victory for Rumsfeld, and the Hanover Township GOP organization voted to endorse State Rep. Marion E. Burks of Evanston.

A DEBATE between Rumsfeld and Burks was announced this week by Jesse Lehman, GOP committeeman in Schaumburg Township. It is scheduled for Friday, March 16.

"Our organization has deferred any vote on a congressional endorsement until after the debate," Lehman explained. "Our executive board will meet two days after the debate (March 18) for this purpose."

Monday's endorsement of Rumsfeld by the New Trier Women's club, reputed to be one of the largest clubs of its kind in the country, was reportedly an exciting battle.

THE CLUB'S advisory board came in with a recommendation for Burks, but Rumsfeld supporters mustered the two-thirds vote necessary to get him nominated from the floor. Rumsfeld was accorded 137 votes to 72 which were split between Burks and no endorsement.

The New Trier club also endorsed David E. Brown of Wilmette for the GOP State Central Comittee post.

The congressional contest in the 13th District was thrown wide open last December when U. S. Rep. Marguerite Stitt Church of Evanston announced she would not seek re-election.

CANDIDATES besides Rumsfeld and Burks are Edward L. Gordy of Evanston and Raymond A. Morley of Northbrook. Lone Democratic candidate is John A. Kennedy of Winnetka.

Republican winner of the April 10 Primary Election will be pitted against Kennedy in the November General Election. Historically, the 13th District has been a "safe" Republican area.

The 13th District encompasses Chicago's 50th Ward and the suburban townships of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Schaumburg, Palatine, Hanover, Barrington, Northfield, New Trier, Niles and Evanston. (B-8

It's Literate Life on Farm

Most Wisconsin farms have a television set, two radios, a daily newspaper, a weekly paper and at least three farm magazines, two University of Wisconsin researchers said Wednesday.

Lloyd Bostian and John Ross said that most farm people use these mass media every day and the average farmer spends three hours and 32 minutes reading or listening each day. His wife average four hours and 39 minutes, they said.

$78,000 Research Grant Made to Suburb Hospital

A research grant of $78,000 has been awarded to the head of the Lutheran General Hospital department of microbiology and hospital epidemiology.

DR. SHAFFER

The grant for a four-year project titled "Genetics of Entamoeba Histolytica" is from the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, Bethesda, Md.

The research project will be carried on in a new 4,000 square-foot research and laboratory area nearing completion at the Park Ridge hospital.

THE AWARD was given to James G. Shaffer, Sc.D., with Vichazelhu Iralu, Ph.D., associate director of microbiology at the hospital, named as co-principal investigator.

The new grant brings the total awards given to Dr. Shaffer to nearly $250,000 for research projects at Lutheran General since the hospital opened in 1960.

Dr. Shaffer received his doctorate in 1940 from Johns Hopkins University. Following duty in World War II as an army major, he began his teaching career as Assistant Professor of Preventive Medicine at Vanderbilt University School of of Medicine.

HE WAS Associate Professor of Bacteriology and Virology at the University of Louisville School of Medicine before he joined the faculty of the Chicago Medical School, in 1952. He was professor and chairman of the school's department of Microbiology and Public Health before his appointment at Lutheran General Hospital, in April 1960.

Dr. Iralu was awarded a Ph. D. degree by the University of North Carolina in 1959. Earlier he received his B.S. degree, in 1947, from Calcutta University, Calcutta, India, and he did graduate work at the University of Toronto. He was assistant at the Chicago Medical School before assuming his present position at Lutheran General Hospital late in 1960.

NORTHWEST SUBURBAN YMCA launched a "first" for YMCAs when it began broadcasting last Thursday directly from the 'Y' lobby over the local FM radio station. Helping Charles McClellan, executive secretary of the YMCA, at right, to take over the 15-minute program was Dave Terrill of station WNWC in Arlington Heights. The YMCA will broadcast every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 4:30 p.m. from various sections of the building. The programs will give up-to-date news of 'Y' activities and special events and will have interviews with staff and members, all interspersed with music. (B9

Jehovah's Witnesses Invited to Assembly

D. F. Conrad, presiding minister of the Palatine congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses announced last night that the congregation has been invited to attend a 3-day training assembly in Zion March 23-25.

Conrad also indicated that along with the Palatine congregation, 17 other nearby congregations in northern Chicago and suburban areas will attend. He stated that 1400 ministers and their families will participate in the convention.

"These assemblies," he said, "are sponsored by the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York and consist mainly of Bible lectures and demonstrations designed to aid the witnesses in their house-to-house ministry which is conducted in many lands."

IN EXPLAINING the worldwide activities of Jehovah's Witnesses, Conrad said, "Our Bible teaching work is presently being carried on in vore 185 lands. During 1961 the number of witness ministers engaged in spreading Bible knowledge globally increased to more than 965,000. These spent more than 132,000,000 hours talking to their neighbors about God's kingdom. Of course, we in the Palatine area had a share in contributing to these millions of hours."

"It has been said," he continued, "that Jehovah's Witnesses are the fastest growing religious group in the world today. This is largely due to the intensive Bible study and ministerial training programs conducted, such as this one that we in the Palatine area are planning to attend in Zion."

Organization Growing

Rumsfeld Campaign Is Picking Up Strength

Donald Rumsfeld, candidate for the Republican nomination to Congress from the 13th District, this week continued to gain strength in the northwest suburban area.

A working organization for Wheeling Township, headed by Thomas W. Novotny of Arlington Heights, has been formed to gather support for Rumsfeld.

Novotny named Mrs. Henry Korff, 309 S. Burton, Arlington Heights, chairman of a telephone campaign to be conducted beginning April 1. Ladies willing to give two hours or more in this effort are urged to call Mrs. Korff at CL 3-3972, Novotny said.

C. O. Schlaver, Mount Prospect village president, has accepted appointment as chairman for the Mount Prospect area, both in Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships.

AREA CHAIRMAN for the Wheeling Township portion will be Franklin Friday, 7 N. Pine, Mount Prospect. In the Elk Grove township area, the chairman will be William P. Scott, 316 Beverly Lane, Mount Prospect.

Schlaver has announced an open meeting for Wednesday, March 14 at 8 p.m., in the Mount Prospect VFW Hall. Interested citizens are invited to take the opportunity to meet Rumsfeld and discuss with him his qualifications and his views on current issues.

Rumsfeld will also speak at the Candidate Night, sponsored by the Wheeling Township Republican organizations on March 15, at 8 p.m. in the Arlington Heights VFW Hall.

TWO COFFEES held in Wheeling on Friday, March 2, were reported to have produced considerable support for Rumsfeld in that area. One was held by Elmer Granso, 944 Pebble. The second, in the home of Charles Mihalek, 409 S. Meadowbrook, brought out a number of precinct captains and Wheeling village officials.

Township residents serving in an advisory capacity in Rumsfeld's campaign include Mrs. Frank Kolerus, Mount Prospect; and Mrs. Walter Brown, John Auld, Robert Bukowski, and Dennis Malcolmson, Arlington Heights.

Also listed is Albert Peters, Wheeling township supervisor.

NOVOTNY observed that 1960 voting statistics for the 10 townships plus Chicago's 50th ward, which now comprise the 13th District, showed a plurality for Gov. Kerner of 3,600 votes.

"It is apparent that the concept of the 13th District as 'safe' Republican territory is now obsolete," he said. "Republicans must see to it in April that they have the strongest possible candidate for Congress in November."

Rumsfeld, 29, spent three years in Washington as administrative assistant to U.S. Rep. David Dennison, R-Ohio, and to U.S. Rep. Robert Griffin, R-Michigan. He also managed Dennison's 1960 election campaign.

BORN AND raised in the 13th District, he is presently a resident of Glenview with his wife and two daughters.

Anyone wishing to volunteer his assistance in Rumsfeld's campaign is invited to call George Coker at CL 9-1399, or Novotny at CL 5-3494.

In addition to the telephone campaign, activities will include door-to-door canvasses, distribution of literature, and informal coffees. (B-8

Pick GOP Winners: Kucharski

Edmund J. Kucharski, candidate for Republican nomination for county treasurer, Tuesday evening urged voters to pick on April 10 Republican candidates who can win in November.

"The people of this county are sick of one-party rule. They're ready for a change, but they won't change if we Republicans can't offer them anything better than political oratory," he stated.

"If the Republican Party is to be successful next fall, you must learn now who is best fitted to represent it. It will be too late after April 10," Kucharski declared.

"DON'T LET campaign slogans be your only guide for measuring candidates' abilities. Learn where they stand on the issues, their past performance in office," he said.

Kucharski, speaking at a dinner in the Villa Venice, Wheeling, in honor of State Rep. John W. Carroll of Park Ridge, noted that studying the candidates' records will bear fruit on April 10.

"On Primary Day, you will select men who will be assets, not liabilities to their Republican running mates," he stated. (B8

Apartments Open to Public This Friday

A completely furnished model apartment in the new Holiday Park Apartments in Elk Grove Township will be open to the public starting Friday, March 9.

"Apartment seekers in the O'Hare Field area are discovering that the new Holiday Park Apartments offer real suburban living," said Kenneth L. Johnson, builder.

Holiday Park Apartments are located on Elmhurst Road at Algonquin Road, approximately 1 mile south of Mount Prospect.

THE APARTMENT development features a swimming pool surrounded by a landscaped parkway, patios and constant background music to complete the outdoor setting, Johnson reported.

The colonial style buildings consist of apartments of 3½ and 4½ rooms; each equipped with air conditioning and soundproof walls.

Kitchens are equipped with built-in oven-ranges, and 13 cubic ft. refrigerators.

ENTRANCE to the apartments is on Elmhurst Road. Plans are being made to have bus service available from in front of the apartments to take passengers to the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad depot, Mount Prospect, Des Plaines, Centex Park and Elk Grove Village.

'Tropic of Cancer' Ruling

Judge Cautions: Censorship Has No 'Fixed Boundaries'

CHIEF JUSTICE SAMUEL B. Epstein of the Cook County Superior Court last week ruled that Henry Miller's novel "Tropic of Cancer" is not obscene. He has enjoined police in Mount Prospect and other suburban communities from interfering with its sale.

In support of his judgment, Justice Epstein wrote:

"To quote Judge Brennan's majority opinion (in a case before the Supreme Court): 'All ideas having even the slightest redeeming social importance — unorthodox ideas, controversial ideas, even ideas hateful to the prevailing climate of opinion — have the full protection of the guaranties (in the First Amendment).' . . .

"(Recent) decisions of the Supreme Court point unmistakably to the determination of the court to restrict obscenity to hard-core pornography. . . . In summary, the now accepted legal test of obscenity is whether (a) to the average person, (b) applying contemporary community standards, (c) the dominant theme of the material, (d) taken as a whole, (e) appeals to the prurient interest. The presence of a single objectionable passage, the influence of the book on youth, the abnormal, or the erratic, or the advocacy of unpopular theses no longer are accepted as a legal test of obscenity. . . .

"The argument most frequently advanced against the publication of objectionable literary material, is that it might have harmful effect upon the young. Justice Frankfurter . . . effectively answered this argument . . .: 'The incidence of this enactment is to reduce the adult population . . . to reading what is fit for children.' Furthermore, there is no reliable evidence that the reading of books of the character herein involved, is a factor in causing juvenile delinquency. . . .

" 'The average person' contemplated (by the Supreme Court) refers to the average, normal adult readers. Such readers are not a captive audience. Reading 'Tropic of Cancer' is their voluntary act. They have the power to be their own censors. Because someone may find the book unpalatable is no justification for depriving others of their free choice to read the book. . . .

"The plaintiffs (the publisher of the book, and others) have introduced the oral testimony of a professor of modern literature, a literary editor of a Chicago newspaper, and a mass of opinion of literary critics, authors and reviewers who characterized 'Tropic of Cancer' as of substantial literary value. . . . The defense (opposing the book) submitted the testimony of a minister, a psychiatrist, a social scientist, the head of a crime prevention agency and a columnist for a Chicago newspaper, all eminent in their respective fields of endeavor, who condemned the book as obscene. None of them, however, laid claim to being literary experts and rendered no opinion on the literary value of the book. . . .

"From all the evidence, the Court concludes that 'Tropic of Cancer' is a literary work of substantial merit and, consequently, of social importance. . . . Undoubtedly (it) contains an abundance of lewd, vile, vulgar and revolting language, as well as episodes. . . . However, the test established (by the Supreme Court) requires that the book be considered as a whole and not dissected into separate parts — good and bad. . . . The book depicts the souls of men and women that are by turns bewildered, sordid, ugly and beautiful, hateful and loving. In the end, one feels more than anything else, pity and sorrow for the confusion, misery and degradation of humanity. . . .

"Censorship is a very dangerous instrumentality, even in the hands of a court. Recent history has proven the evil of an attempt at controlling the utterances and thoughts of our population. Censorship has no fixed boundaries. It may become an oppressive weapon in a free society.

"Taste in literature is a matter of education. Those who object to the book are free to condemn and even to urge others to reject it. . . . In the words of Justice Douglas . . .: 'I have the same confidence in the ability of our people to reject noxious literature as I have in their capacity to sort the true from the false in theology, economics, politics or any other field.' . . . Let the parents control the reading matter of their children; let the tastes of the readers determine what they may or may not read; let not the government or the courts dictate the reading matter of a free people. The constitutional right of freedom of speech and press should be jealously guarded by the courts. As a corollary to the freedom of speech and press, there is also the freedom to read. The right to free utterance becomes a useless privilege when the freedom to read is restricted or denied." (B8

Economist Allays Fears, Says

Businessmen's Worry Over U.S. Spending 'Distorted'

A Chicago economist termed the perpetual worrying of businessmen about federal government deficit spending "exaggerated and distorted."

He said that the United States has not borrowed excessive amounts of money, and that compared with private deficit spending, federal deficits "are a drop in the bucket."

The economist is John K. Langum, president of Business Economics, Inc., an economic consulting firm.

Langum spoke Feb. 28 before 100 businessmen at a panel discussion sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry. It was held at the Peoples Gas Auditorium at 121 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago.

Appearing with Langum on the panel were Robert P. Mayo, vice president of Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co., and Ernest A. Dauer, economist for Household Finance Corporation.

LANGUM ADMITTED that he was dismayed that as federal expenditures increase, adequate controls for spending do not exist.

He said development of such controls should be a prime goal for the present and future. The controls would seek to keep a sound balance between private and public spending.

HE COMMENTED that the services and goods provided by government are needed and wanted by the people. What is considered "welfare spending" does have the support of most people, Langum said, despite much of the grumbling to the contrary.

He said that a balanced budget is a good possibility for the 1962-63 fiscal cycle.

He said estimates of the continued health of the economy by the Kennedy administration are "a bit high but still in the ball park." New tax legislation could insure a balanced budget, the economist predicted.

Robert P. Mayo spoke briefly. He said that in general U. S. Treasury and Federal Reserve officials have done "a reasonably good job of facing up to the issues."

HE SAID that the government has managed to avoid "the inflationary psychosis" which would encourage American businessmen to invest huge sums with foreign currencies rather than their own.

Ernest A. Dauer told the Chicago businessmen that "the consumer is cautious but much more optomistic than he has been for some time."

"The consumer is conscious that the country is not in a boom period," Dauer said.

According to Dauer, a good barometer of the economy is the private purchase of automobiles. Automobile manufacturers estimate 1962 sales will hit seven million units. Dauer said sales according to his projections will be closer to 6.5 million units or somewhat less than the most optimistic views.

DAUER TOOK issue with Langum concerning Langum's calling deficit spending "exaggerated and distorted."

Dauer said, "I don't want government expenditures so high. All government levels are progressively taking away from the consuumer and giving more power to government hands.

"The local and state expenditures have gone up consistently year after year. And at the federal level, we've been noting more and more government expenditures. I think we're getting a dangerously high amount of our economy controlled and dictated by the government."

LANGUM countered by saying that all the talk of worry without any real problem does lead many people to say, "My, we have a terrible problem!"

"Bunk," Langum said about deficit spending and the need to worry.

The worry about the stability of the American dollar here and abroad is cauused by "comments of people who should know better."

Deficit spending is needed, Langum said, to get the country on its feet during recessions.

Again, however, Langum commented that the need for more systematic controls of government spending are needed.

MAYO, commenting on Langum's last statements, said that he does fear deficit spending because it is used consistently as a tool for control during recessions. Until there are better controls, the country must worry, he said.

Talk of surpluses balancing out deficits of other years is like saying one rabbit is equal in force or size to one horse, Mayo said. (B8

Blame Latent 'Spring Fever' for Lack of Sociability

In recent days a surprising number of people, obviously without head colds, have commented upon the undeniable smell of spring in the air. This being the case we are happy this week to blame the continuing scarcity of social news on latent spring fever instead of the too-long winter.

Though not purely social, it is news that Miss Barbara Kendall and the cast on her leg parted company Saturday after going steady for two months since an ice-skating accident. It was such a joyous occasion that Mom baked a cake and the rest of the family at 733 S. Dunton burst into song. Saturday was also Barbara's birthday. She was 6.

Susan Keller, 512 W. South, weekended with friends in Bloomington, Ind. where she attended the Indiana-Purdue basketball game. A future Indiana University co-ed, Miss Keller Saturday passed her rooting-for-the-home-team test and did so well that Indiana scored an upset, 88-71.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nikoden recently returned home to 111 N. Forrest after a 10-day, frost-free stay on Grand Bahama Island, in Nassau and Miami.

FORMER Arlington Heighters Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Blose, now of Kansas City, Kan., renewed old friendships Saturday night at a dinner party given in their honor by former neighbors and longtime friends, the Floyd Terbells, 402 W. Kirchoff. Sunday the Blose family returned to Kansas, ending a 4-day stay here.

Tommy Schwartz, 1021 N. Dunton, celebrated his fourth birthday a week ago Monday and so did six of his neighboring friends. They all went to Chicago and had happy hysterics at the Bozo noontime circus which appears daily on WGN-TV. After their television debut, the boys-about-town lunched at the Des Plaines Oasis, then headed on home replete with excitement and food. Tommy's mother and Mrs. Robert Carstens were the playboys' dates for the gala occasion.

A WEEKEND guest in the Frank Precilio home, 739 S. Dunton, was Brother Robert, dean of LaSalle College in Philadelphia who was in Chicago to attend a conference of educators. The Precilios' daughter, Sara Jane, also weekended at 739 S. Dunton, home from her studies at Mount Mary College in Milwaukee.

A birthday celebration Sunday in the John Latta home, 805 N. Chestnut, honored the Lattas' granddaughter, Debra Friesendorf of Dundee, and included their other daughter and family, the Richard Snyders of Oshkosh. Debra was 4 years old Tuesday.

A handmade christening gown, now in its third generation of family use, was worn Saturday by Thomas Jr., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wagner of Levittown, Pa., and grandson of Fred Emig of 1019 N. Highland, original wearer of the heirloom gown. Baby Thomas' christening by Fr. Roth of St. James Catholic Church of Arlington Heights climaxed the Wagner's 2-week visit with the Emigs and the senior Wagners of Mount Prospect.

The christening was commemorated and farewells to the Wagners were said at a buffet supper for 30 Saturday evening in the home of the baby's paternal grandparents. Adding their blessings and goodbyes to those of Thomas' grandparents were his godparents, Ronald LaBonte of Chicago and Mrs. William Wagner of Arlington Heights. Thomas, his parents and his sisters, Cathy and Marie, returned to the East Sunday evening.

VICKY SLATER celebrated her 14th birthday last Thursday with a friend, Jean Murphy, who was an overnight guest in the Slater home, 406 W. Fremont.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Smith, 913 N. Beverly, were honor guests at a midday dinner party last Thursday in the Arlington Heights home of Mrs. Smith's sister, Mrs. Grace Spees. The occasion marked the 62nd wedding anniversary of the honor couple whose recent ill health was best served by the small celebration. Greetings by mail and phone from many long-time friends added to the Smiths' joy.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ross, 1136 N. Dunton, quietly celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Friday, the date until this year unknown to their neighbors and most local friends. About a week before the anniversary date one knowing friend alerted several more who kept the news going, and Friday brought the Rosses a flood of "fan" mail, floral pieces and other greetings.

Even the mail carrier added to the gaiety of the day. Instead of leaving the day's delivery in the mail box as usual, he rang the doorbell so that he could personally deliver to the "bride" a neatly bundled-up stack of over 50 cards and add his own best wishes as he did so.

THE SENIOR William Kopplins, 515 W. Euclid, returned from a 2-month stay in Arizona just in time for the coldest March 1 in midwest history. Cheerfully however, they report that minimum and maximum temperatures of 53 and 84 probably warmed them enough to carry them through the rest of the winter here, provided spring actually is coming.

They visited in Youngtown with Mrs. Kopplin's sister and her brother-in-law, the George Pfingstens, and are very enthusiastic about the active and growing new community. Despite occasional 15-minute showers, the weather was ideal for their entire stay, and even the rain brought its reward. It has turned the desert areas verdant, and the Kopplins say the colors of blooming plants have created a lovely scene.

A family celebration Sunday in the George Gabrielsen home, 705 S. Chestnut, honored Mrs. Gabrielsen's father, E. J. Martin of Chicago. The party also served to mark Mr. Martin's retirement Friday.

Paul Kale, 1204 N. Dunton, is recuperating at home from recent surgery in Northwest Community Hospital, and has recovered sufficiently for occasional short excursions outdoors.

MR. AND MRS. Robert Pemberton, 314 S. Windsor, left Wednesday, for their new home in Grand Rapids, where Mr. Pemberton was transferred. While the Pembertons lived in Arlington Heights for only seven months, they enjoyed their stay here and left reluctantly. Their neighbors, the Norman Hawkeys, gave a farewell dinner for them Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Schreiber, 123 S. Brighton, drove to Waverly, Iowa Saturday to attend the Iowa Conference Wrestling Meet, held at Wartburg College, and proudly watched their son, Dave, a sophomore at Luther College, win first place in the final meet. The Schreibers spent the rest of the weekend with their son in Decorah.

Mrs. Walter Strobel, 1319 Mayfair, was hostess at a luncheon and bridge Wednesday, and will entertain again for friends Thursday at a luncheon and bridge.

Concluding their tour of South America, the Pratts went on to Panama for a short visit and then to Mexico City for a 4-day rest before returning home.

WILLIAM B. Chamber, 520 S. Pine, flew to Alamosa, Colo. last weekend to visit his oldest son, Jim, a junior at Adams State College.

While Mr. Chamber was in Colorado, Mrs. Chamber and Mrs. Henry Harms of Winnetka went to St. Louis to spend several days visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Carson of LaDue and to renew acquaintances with friends and neighbors from her former hometown.

The Morgans are from Niles and Mr. Morgan is with Bearse Mfg. Company of Chicago.

One Arlington Acres family not bothered too much by the cold and snow is that of Richard W. Sievert, 409 S. Prindle, who have just returned from a vacation at Fort Lauderdale, where sunshine and summer temperatures were the order of the day for the three weeks they were there.

MR. AND MRS. Sievert, with Ricky and Pam, enjoyed meeting the Yankee baseball team and Mrs. Sievert and Mrs. Roger Maris had occasion to become well acquainted. Ricky came home with a baseball autographed by the entire Yankee baseball team.

Another recipient of get-well wishes in the same hospital is Mrs. Ken Scharf, 528 S. Prindle, who is recovering from surgery.

SUSAN MARSHALL, 432 S. Forrest, surprised her parents by coming home from Northwestern last Saturday to spend the weekend. The visit was not all for pleasure, however. Mr. and Mrs. John Lynch, 433 S. Forrest, are entertaining her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Menetrey of Watertown, Conn. The Menetreys plan to stay about three weeks and will get re-acquainted with their grandsons, Mark and Frank, whom they haven't seen since last summer.

Danielle Straub's seventh birthday was Feb. 15, but because of illness her party was postponed until Sunday. Friends who helped her celebrate were Karen Post, Nancy Byrnes, Cynthia White and Debbie McCartney, and her sisters, Cindy and Nathalie. Joyce Gareiss had to send regrets because she was ill.

Danielle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Straub, 521 S. Phelps.

FLORIDA was the winter vacation spot chosen by Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hagen, 2023 E. Park, who have just returned home after spending 15 days in Miami.

GEORGE HARRIS

I'm certain that anything I might say at this time about Lt. Col. John Glenn's orbital flight will certainly be anticlimatic, but I just can't resist it, so here goes.

Just to be part of such a wonderful country with such wonderful people is certainly a privilege. An orbital flight that was done in front of the whole world and not with claims and secrecy, but an open, an above board performance. What courage these men possess, what dedication — it is almost beyond the comprehension of the layman — but it makes all of us proud that we are AMERICANS. With men such as these, our wonderful country will never falter, and we will never have to give in to any oppression. Just writing about it certainly gives me a warm glow.

So for my part, to all the astronauts in front and behind the scenes, "God Bless You."

Cadillac

It will still be admired in 1970!

A Cadillac at curbside has a way with passers-by.

And a Cadillac anywhere has the equally rare gift of keeping its winning charms as the years and the miles ride by.

In fact, Cadillacs of almost a decade's vintage still command open respect and admiration wherever they appear.

The reasons for this remarkable circumstance are as sound as they are numerous.

First, there is the way Cadillacs are styled. The Cadillac look is the look of leadership—and the car remains young and vital in appearance far beyond any normal expectations.

Second, there is the way Cadillacs are engineered. The car's performance is so far ahead of its contemporaries, it continues to deliver a full measure of driving pleasure.

Third, there is the way Cadillacs are built. Craftsmanship is so painstaking that the car stays sound and safe and dependable over an unusual span of time.

And fourth, there is the fact that a Cadillac, regardless of age or previous service, is still a Cadillac. And a Cadillac, by definition, is a magnificent motor car.

The significance should be obvious. For value when you buy—and for value when you sell—nothing can take the place of the "car of cars".

FOR SIXTY YEARS THE STANDARD OF THE WORLD

AN IMPORTANT PART of a military policeman's job on any military installation is maintaining close coordination with his civilian counterparts, the local police. Here officers J. Schriever and J. Plaisted of the Arlington Heights Police Department talk with MP Sgt. Russell Williams, who has charge of security at the 45th Artillery Brigade (Air Defense), at the Nike base. (B8

In Arlington Heights

Nike Base Security Guarded by 16 MP's

The day of Sgt. Russell Williams begins before sunrise. By breakfast time he already has checked the billets of his military police squad and made sure his shift for the day is dressed immaculately.

Sgt. Williams and his 15-man military police detachment are responsible for the security of the Norad Control Center, known as the Missile Master, at the 45th Artillery Brigade installation in Arlington Heights - more commonly known in the area as the Nike base.

Before the normal work day has begun for the brigade, Sgt. Williams has checked the "blotter," or record of events of the last 24 hours. and determined from consultation with the intelligence officer whether or not there are any visitors expected that day at the Missile Master.

WORKING THREE shifts of three men to a shift, he and his deputies keep close watch over the visitors and employes, military and civilian. who enter or leave the fenced enclosure housing the huge radar center.

Sgt. Williams has been in the military police since 1950, and is a graduate of the Police Academy on Okinawa. He also wears the wings of the airborne graduate. Most of the men in his detachment were trained in the Military Police Academy at Ft. Gordon, Ga.

Having a school-trained MP detachment on an installation means several things to the troops stationed there. It means they escape some of the guard duties the installation may require, and they aren't asked to participate in such formal military occasions as military funerals.

IT MEANS their personal property is more secure, since a reported loss is immediately assigned to a trained investigator and very often recovered.

The military police also are responsible for enforcement of all orders of the post commander. They enforce uniform regulations, regulate traffic, and coordinate snow removal. They register and inspect for safety all privately owned vehicles which regularly enter the gates of the installation.

And, of course, they jealously guard the Missile Master, are armed, and carry amunition.

The lives which Sgt. Williams and his military policemen lead are not easy ones by ordinary standards, but they are essential to the security of the Nike base, and ultimately, of the country. (B8

Businessmen Form Unit for Rumsfeld

Sixty-eight leading business executives from throughout the 13th Congressional District this week united behind the campaign of Donald Rumsfeld for the Republican nomination for Congress with the formation of a Businessmen's for Rumsfeld Committee.

Formation of the committee was announced by A. C. Nielsen Jr. of Winnetka, general chairman of Rumsfeld's campaign.

Thomas G. Murdough, president of American Hospital Supply Corporation of Evanston, and Daniel C. Searle, vice president of G. D. Searle Co., Skokie, have been named co-chairmen of the committee.

"If Republicans expect to win the 13th District Congressional seat in November, they had better nominate a man who is alert to what is going on around him," Murdough said.

"The Republican Party can't afford to take chances on anyone who can be a target for Democratic charges of incompetence in the fall campaign."

Searle stated: "Donald Rumsfeld is a conservative Republican with a background of actual experience in Washington as a Congressional administrative assistant. He is a man who knows his way around Washington and one who has indicated that he has a keen awareness of the problems facing businessmen, labor and the people as a whole."

"We believe Rumsfeld is the one man who can insure that the people of the 13th District will be capably represented in Washington by election in the fall. Rumsfeld, born and reared in this district, knows the people whom he will represent," concluded Murdough. (B8

FROM SHERWOOD

Eighty-eight Sherwood neighbors had a "truly wonderful" evening Saturday when Sherwood held its annual dinner dance at Rolling Green Country Club. Mrs. Edward Sundstrom, Mr. and Mrs. John Hogan, Mrs. John Miller, Mrs. Peter Spindler and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Zeisler planned the cocktail party, buffet dinner and entertainment, which featured Don Reynolds.

Mrs. Nat T. Burfeind, 1130 N. Harvard, flew home from Missouri especially for the dance. She spent a week there with her mother, Mrs. J. M. Estes, of Columbia. Recent guests of the Burfeinds were her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. G. I. Jackson, and when they returned to Missouri they took Mrs. Burfeind with them.

Other Sherwood residents have been traveling, too. Mrs. Edward Sundstrom reports she's looking forward to welcoming home Mr. and Mrs. Carl Palmer, 1023 W. Burgoyne, and Mr. and Mrs. George Seyfert, 1017 Watling, due in this week. The two couples have been vacationing together in Golf Hills and New Orleans.

FROM RIDGE PARK

March blew in—not with lions, but with elephants for Pam Munson, who celebrated her seventh birthday with a trip to the Shriners' Circus in Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Munson, 931 N. Salem, Pam's parents, and the rest of the family went along. So did Mrs. Munson's sister and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tracy of Park Ridge, and Pam's cousin Matt, who was 4 last Thursday.

Also 7 is Gary Scalzitti, son of the Guy Scalzittis, 836 N. Fernandez, whose birthday was Feb. 28. Gary's planned party has been postponed because sister Mary has the measles. Mary was cheered up, however, by 21 get-well cards from Mrs. Kinney's kindergarten class.

Coffee-and-sewing provided a "welcome relief from boredom" for guests Tuesday at Mrs. Robert Buechner's. Bringing their mending were Mrs. William Hannum, Mrs. Jim Kunnen, Mrs. Bill Robertson and Mrs. Glen Rubenking. They all gathered at 1012 N. Fernandez.

It's been a busy week for Mrs. Rubenking. Baby Marcy celebrated her first birthday and big brother joined in the festivities, and on hand for the family birthday party were Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Kindred of Beason, Ill., the first time they've been here since Mother's Day. Marcy's aunt and uncle from Macomb, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nicholson, came for the weekend with their children, Debra, Kathy and Chipper.

RECENTLY the Rubenkings, who live at 948 N. Fernandez, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bach of Bensenville and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Barthel and their two daughters, Kathy and Judy.

Dessert bridge Thursday provided lots of fun for Mrs. Joseph Heinz, 906 N. Patton. Marolyn Fletcher, Margie Lineback, Helen Rathsam, Lil Lurtz, Lorraine Cummings, Dot Deedering and Doris Walker enjoyed an evening of cards. Two parties in two days kept the Heinz household hopping, for Wednesday she entertained eight former Lake Forest College classmates for dinner.

Not one, but two cakes for her first birthday delighted Carol Jeanne Bieber. Pink and white angel food cake was featured on Feb. 26 when her mother and her 10 brothers and sisters feted her. Daddy George Bieber, 801 N. Princeton, couldn't be on hand for the actual birthday, though. He's house - hunting in Bowling Green, Ky., where the Biebers will move at the end of the school term. Last weekend he came home to report progress—so the Bieber family baked another pink cake and celebrated all over again.

Two birthday parties, also, helped Kathy Lee, 1012 N. Ridge, turn 14. On Saturday she welcomed Judy Maierhofer, Mary Owren and Charlene Johnson for an afternoon party. For the family party, the William Lees entertained Mrs. Lee's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Prince of Wheeling and their four children, and Mrs. Lee's niece, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Engel of Des Plaines.

Feb. 18 was a special day for the Lees, as the baby, John Grant, was christened by Pastor Edgar Behrens at Faith Lutheran Church, with his brother, Billy, and sister, Eileen, as sponsors. On hand was his grandmother, Mrs. Anna Lee of Chicago. Also present were Mrs. Lee's three sisters and their husbands, Chester Pudlosky and Robert Bensons of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Prince of Wheeling; and Mr. and Mrs. Engel of Des Plaines.

Virginia and Jack Bartik, 643 N. Kaspar, joined nine couples from Chicago recently for dinner at the Holiday Club and an evening at "Bye Bye, Birdie."

WEATHER kept relatives from getting here for Ronald Saidikowski's 14th birthday on Feb. 26. The snow finally stopped, though, and Ronald and his family went out to dinner at Nielsen's. His parents are the Martin Saidikowskis, 828 N. Salem.

Thirty aunts, uncles and cousins from the Chicago area were on hand this weekend to celebrate with Bruce Topp, 810 N. Kennicott, and to wish him a happy birthday. Bruce was really 5 on Friday, but waited till the weekend for the big party. He was especially glad to see his grandmother, Mrs. Regina Topp of Riverside. Big brother, Mike, who's 7, joined the fun too. Bruce was just a wee bit disappointed, though, when he woke up on his birthday morning. He thought he'd be magically able to read just as soon as he turned 5.

Family dinner at the Garasha home, 890 N. Harvard, was a triple event—birthday - welcome - birthday - all were celebrated. Tim turned 18 Feb. 26 and father Len's birthday is March 9. They decided to conbine the parties and also welcome back Len's parents, Clarence and Viola Garasha of Chicago, who've just returned from Florida and Washington. They brought news of Len's sister, Mr. and Mrs. David David Foster, Glen Falls, N.Y.

America's Top Sex Symbol Comes to Suburbs

Jayne Mansfield At CMA Opening

by JIM DAVIES

Glamour with a capital SEX came to the suburbs last weekend when not-so-plain Jayne Mansfield and her shaggy-haired, ex-muscleman husband, Mickey Hargitay, helped open the new Consumers Mart of America (CMA) store across from the Arlington Park race track.

The platinum blond photographer's model, who sometimes appears in movies, drew as many people to the opening as she did mosquitoes to her well-publicized legs during her recent role as a castaway on a tropical island.

TAKING A CUE from Jayne's next movie, "Panic Button," the sightseers pushed and jabbed in efforts to get a closer look at the star of stage, screen and "Playboy."

Small children riding their fathers shoulders, teenage girls in bobby-sox, grizzled old - timers and their worried-out, worked-out wives elbowed each other with abandon as they surged in toward the booth where the curvaceous star and her husband were signing autographs.

Yes, Mickey signed a few, although there seemed to be general agreement with an anonymous comment that "haircuts sure must be expensive where he comes from."

EARLIER, before the featured attractions arrived, the front of the supermart looked like a photographers' convention hall, but the would-be camera-clickers were in for a disappointment. The celebrities were whisked in a back door, later to make their way through the store to a stand in front.

Her appearance at first was anticlimactic, since most of the crowd seemed to expect her to be in a Bunny costume. Miss Mansfield is more known for her figure than her acting, and the crowd was interested in making a first-hand, thorough appraisal.

Alas, while a tight-fitting skirt left the impression it was straining directly against what the mosquitoes bit, Jayne's famous form was decorously clothed from the waist up in a blouse and loose-fitting jacket, hiding much of her talent.

LET'S SEE what you look like," someone shouted from about the fifteenth row, and everyone knew what he meant except Miss Mansfield, who turned and smiled. So they looked at her face instead.

It was a beautiful face. Deeply-tanned, set off by red, full lips and the whole picture framed in platinum. And it was a friendly, captivating face which later turned patiently and often toward the amateur shutterbugs without a trace of impatience or annoyance.

Not everyone, of course, was impressed.

At the edge of the crowd, three women whose closest previous brush with glamour had probably been watching "Queen for a Day" on television, had a little cat chat.

ONE, HER finger in her mouth up to the first knuckle while she vigorously chewed away at the nail, turned to a bandana-hatted companion.

"I don't see what everybody's so excited about just because somebody like her comes here," she said, tugging at some hidden garment which evidently had shifted sideways.

"Everybody knows how you get to be a movie star," her companion agreed piously, with a worldly nod of her head.

ON THE other hand . . . .

"Man," one teenage boy said to his letter-sweatered buddy, "How'd you like to have that swing in your back yard?"

His buddy's answer was lost to posterity in the din of the crowd, but it is reasonable to assume it was an enthusiastic approval of the proposition.

"She's even better looking in person than she is in her pictures," someone else said, and one little gray - haired lady obviously was in complete agreement. Eyes bright as she fought her way back out through the crowds, she clutched tightly to her chest an autographed picture of one of America's top sex symbols.

WHEN WE finally got close enough, through the help of one of the harassed special security policemen, we marveled at Miss Mansfield's warmth and friendliness throughout the onslought of the autograph seekers.

"Oh, it's really kind of fun," she said. "I'm enjoying it as much as I hope everyone else is."

And there was no trace in her voice or smile of the phoniness almost expected of a publicized product of the Hollywood glamour factory.

A few weeks ago in a column, this writer gently chided women for aiding and abetting the demise of romance in modern life, and a feminine reply suggested I was hanging around the wrong type of female.

I would like to say, Ma'm, that recently I have been hanging around the right type of female. (Sigh.) (B8

From babes in arms to hausfraus, northwest suburbanites turned out en masse last weekend to catch a glimpse of the famous figures and pouty smile captured so fetchingly above by Dale Lahl, Paddock Publications photographer. They belong to Jayne Mansfield, who has parlayed her curves into fame and fortune and along the way become one of the several successors to Mae West as a personification of sex. Candids of spectators were taken by Don Vickery, staff photographer.

'Devil's Hand' Gets Out of Hand

MILWAUKEE, (UPI)—County Judge F. Ryan Duffy Jr. Tuesday found the manager of three Milwaukee theaters guilty of contributing to the delinquency of minors and ordered him to stop showing midnight horror movies.

"I feel that stopping these midnight horror shows will help prevent juvenile delinquency," said Duffy.

The court action was the outcome of a fight at a north side theater early Saturday which took 14 police officers to break up. The authorities said between 150 and 200 youths were involved.

THE THEATER, one of the three managed by Robert Brill, 50, was showing a midnight double feature, "Bloodlust" and "Devil's Hand." Duffy held Brill's case open for a year on the condition the horror movies be discontinued.

Arrested for the fight were eight youths, six of them under 16. Police said the youths under 16 in the theater were violating the city's curfew ordinance.

Duffy said juveniles attending horror movies in the past had been arrested for sex offenses and for fighting and drunkenness. (B8

Membership Card In Mail 17 Years

ANNA, ILL., (UPI)—After almost 17 years, Mrs. Laura Parkman has her membership certificate in the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Parkman was admitted to membership in the DAR, April 19, 1945, and her membership certificate, mailed from the national office in Washington, D.C., was dated June 1 of that year.

A tattered envelope containing the certificate arrived by mail at her home last week. Postal markings indicate it was re-mailed from Spanish Fork, Utah, Feb. 23, 1962.

AUTHORITIES at the Spanish Fork Post Office could give no official explanation for the letter mailed in 1945 from Washington, D.C., and which carried the Spanish Fork post mark.

"Our employees are instructed to report delayed mail but no report on this particular piece of mail was made to me," said J. Austin Cope, Spanish Fork postmaster.

The only explanation he could give was that the lost letter was found by someone and dropped into the post office mail chute at Spanish Fork.

Cope also gave one other explanation for the incident. "It's possible the letter was lost in a mail bag and could have been emptied from a bag containing other mail received at this office. In that case the uncancelled letter would have been processed here and sent on its way to the Illinois address," he said. (B8

To Share Expense

Board Okays Aid for Disconnecting Land

At village expense if necessary, steps were authorized by the Arlington Heights village board Monday night to help disconnect seveal outlying village areas from rural fire protection districts, thus saving residents of those areas some taxes.

The board emphasized that although it was authorizing expenditures to help out in this case, its action did not constitute formulation of a policy, nor set a precedent which would be followed in the future.

Several separate areas of the village, particularly to the north, are still in rural fire protection districts although, through annexation, they now are serviced by the village fire department.

THUS THEY pay not only village and other applicable taxes, but also pay fire protection district taxes for which they receive, in effect, no benefit.

For an Arlington Heights resident in the Palatine Rural Fire Protection District, for instance, the additional and unnecessary tax rate is 3.8 cents per $100 of assessed valuation; in the Prospect Heights Rural Fire District, the added tax rate is 11 cents per $100.

About 1,000 acres are involved.

Trustee Eugene Schlickman questioned the wisdom of spending village funds to get a particular segment of the village population out of a double-tax situation.

HE SAID the legal committee, of which he is chairman, previously felt that the burden of expense for disconnection from a rural fire district should be on the property owners involved.

Schlickman said the board should consider whether or not it wants to assume such expenses, thus shifting the burden to other village residents.

Trustee Richard Glantz strongly supported the village bearing the burden, saying other village residents will receive benefits from an annexed area through the increased tax base and in other ways.

His views were echoed by Trustees William Moore and Norval Stephens.

TRUSTEE SAMUEL Wit saw merit in Schlickman's question, and said he believed that this particular time in this particular case, it might be all right, but that this action should not be construed as precedent-setting.

Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel estimated the cost of disconnecting all the areas in question at between $250 and $300, depending on cost of publication of the legal papers. The other expenses would be for filing petitions in court, legal fees and court costs.

After authorizing whatever expense necessary (Hasbrook subdivision has offered to put up part of the money expended in its behalf), the board indicated that in the future it would be best if the village manager would attempt to get subdividers to bear the cost at the time of annexation to the village. Chorus to Perform At Church Tuesday

The Concordia Seminary Chorus of Springfield will present a three-part program of sacred music at St. Peter Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 13.

The program, directed by Prof. Fred L. Precht, will open with the buoyant and spirited "Sing Praises, Ye Faithful," by Bach. Featured in the Bach portion of the program will be "Jesus, Priceless Treasurer," "Thus, Then the Law of the Spirit," "Death, I Do Not Fear Thee," and "Hence with Earthly Treasure."

IN THE second part of the program, selections will be presented which emphasize the various phases of the festival half of the church year, including "O Come, O Come, Immanuel," "Lo, How a Rose," and the spirited French carol, "March of the Kings."

The triumphant note of Easter is portrayed in the dramatic "Christ Is Now Risen Again."

Familiar hymns will make up the final portion, concluding with the majestic "Great and Glorious" by Haydn. (A

Hint Tie-in Between Local And Chicago Store Holdups

Continuing the investigation into the recent daylight robbery of the Maison de Romayne, Arlington Heights police have determined the gunman may be the same one who has been robbing other women's apparel shops in the Chicago area.

The Maison de Romayne, at 43 S. Dunton St., was robbed a week ago last Tuesday by a lone gunman who escaped with some $325 in cash from the safe, and the saleswoman's purse.

MISS ADRENA Murray, of 1402 W. Grove St., Arlington Heights, was alone in the shop when the robber came in and asked to see some women's scarfs. He selected one and when they went to the rear of the store where the cash register is, the gunman pulled out a beige money bag and a pistol.

He directed Miss Murray to the back room where he took the money tray from the safe, then closed the door and left the shop.

POLICE SAID Miss Murray described the gunman as very cool and calm, of medium or short height, about 30-35 years of age, and wearing rimmed glasses.

The general description fits a man who robbed a women's apparel shop in Park Ridge last Friday, and matches the operation of a gunman who robbed a Libertyville women's shop.

Chicago police say the method of operation and general description match those of a gunman who has been operating throughout this area recently. (A

Mrs. Jerry Powell, luncheon chairman for the Newcomers Club of Arlington Heights urges newcomers to make a crazy hat and attend the Mad-Hatter's luncheon to be held at the Villa Venice March 14. March 17 approaching means that the membership potluck is almost here. Besides showing off a favorite dish to other newcomers, new members will be able to bowl, dance or enjoy conversation.

ALL NEWCOMERS of less than 1½ years in Arlington Heights may be members of this club. The membership chairman, Mrs. Charles Aldag, CL 9-3962 may be contacted for further information about the club's varied activities. (A

Hasbrook Happenings

Hazel Peck CLearbrook 9-0688

As we "March" along, time out for a sharp salute in the direction of 1510 Kennicott and Kathy Perrile, 1-year-old March 7. With a helping hand from mother and father, Barbara and Pat, she reigned as "queen for a day" at a birthday dinner party March 4. Attending were 15 relatives, including two sets of grandparents, from Chicago and Lincolnwood, and a pair of great grandparents.

Bea Sonderegger and her almost 2-year-old traveling companion son, David, returned Feb. 23 from a train trip to Linn Grove, Iowa, where they spent two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Morris Sr. and, if folks here think their snowshovels have been over-worked, check with Bea who's telling tales of a 29-inch snowfall in a two-day period. Marilyn Ward came home Monday after a weekend in Houston. Judy Rupp's been out-of-state also, the past week, as a guest of her parents in Minneapolis.

THE BATTLE of the measles goes on — latest germ-fighters have been Gary, Jeff and Ann Caplinger, 1736 Ridge, and Cindy Kremer, 1516 Kennicott.

Gerry Schotten's putting illness behind her and is now getting well at home after an operation.

Patty Thut was born on Feb. 29, which didn't happen to come around this year, so she chose March 3 for her sixth birthday ball. Guests at her party were brother Jeffrey, Cindy Cox, Mary Carol and Beth Rhoney, Billy and Renee Poulin, Lynn Bullard, Billy and Mark Grabowski and Leal Steingraber.

Kate Schaughnessy enjoyed herself for two at a baby shower March 1, in the home of Maureen Ludwig, 1528 Ridge. Guests honoring her and the coming baby included Jane Cushing, Terry Blassey, Jean Constantine, Marilyn Heiser, Nancy Elder, Iona Davis, Louise Beuder and Charlotte Dickerson.

Deepest sympathy is extended to Maureen whose father died and who has illness within her family.

Sympathy also goes to the family of Leo Smolke, one of the pioneer residents of Hasbrook, who died in his more recent home in the West.

IT'LL BE THE "Sutherlands of the Southland" from now on — Bob, Doris and their boys, Barry and John, hung up the key to 1516 N. Fernandez last weekend and traveled to their new residence in Memphis, Tenn.

The MacIntoshes are answering the doorbell at 1538 Ridge. Don, "Casey," and their four boys and one girl moved in March 31. Last residence was Clinton, N.Y.

Beth Barratt finally made it March 3. Neither measles, tonsillitis nor assorted illnesses could keep her from that fifth birthday party, though it had to be postponed several times. Her birthday is really Feb. 11. Boots lined up at the door belonged to Timmy and Bobby Griffin, Jimmy Ryan, Mat and Mark Johns, Teresa Melroy, Susan and Michael Slattery, Tommy Nolan, Sheri Swinehart, Kathy and Debbie Adams, Mark Arnoux and Scott Christenson. Stuart, her brother, was also a guest. Brave helpers included Janis Moore and several neighborhood mothers. (A

Campaign Off to Successful Start

The "Continuing Forward in Faith" campaign of Faith Lutheran Church in Arlington Heights is off to an extremely successful start, Paul N. Ellingsen, campaign chairman, reported this week.

Ellingsen said the indications are that the $150,000 goal will be exceeded. The first 36 subscriptions have totaled $35,980 over the past three years.

SUNDAY, MARCH 11, at both the 8 and 10:45 a.m. services the Rev. Edgar Behrens will dwell on the theme of the subscription campaign, and campaign workers will be commissioned.

Thus far more than half of the approximately 150 workers have been trained for the team effort. The campaign will end April 1, at which time the new subscriptions will be in effect.

'Estates' Without Fire, Police Help

As of March 1, the Scarsdale Estates area just outside the southeast boundaries of Arlington Heights has been without fire or police protection, except that provided by the county.

Protection of the area has been extended repeatedly by the Arlington Heights village board without cost to the area's residents, except in case of a fire, while negotiations were carried on with an eye toward possible annexation.

Stumbling block has been the fear of Scarsdale Estates residents that once it was in the village, the village would impose street and sidewalk improvements and village water and sewer on them, which residents say would change the character of the neighborhood.

Village trustees have indicated they do not intend to alter the character of a desirable residential area such as Scarsdale Estates, but are not in a position to put their sentiments into a binding contract. (A

Board OK's Offer for 'Deadend'

An offer of $1,500 for a deadend portion of Wing Street was accepted Monday night by the Arlington Heights Village Board.

The deadend juts east off Hickory Street for 135 feet and is unusable in the village manager's and village building commissioner's opinions for anything except parking.

The two adjacent property owners who made the offer, Eddie Levin, of 535 S. State Road, and Walter Krause, of 1 E. Campbell St., will convert the vacated street into parking stalls.

TRUSTEE Norval Stephens said the street doesn't go anywhere, won't ever connect with anything, and selling it to a private party is the only way the property can go back on the tax rolls.

Village Manager L. A. Hanson said that in consideration of these factors, and after talking with local real estate men, he considered the offer of $1,500 a fair price since the area is not suitable for construction and can be used only for parking.

ARLINGTON FURNITURE, 211 S. State Road, Arlington Heights, will hold a warehouse bedding sale next weekend. Making plans for the sale last week were (from left) Robert E. Myron, John T. Janszen, and Frank Wiedl. Details of the sale will be given in an advertisement in this paper next week.

Registration Deadline Near

Tuesday, March 13, is the last day set aside for general voter registration at precinct polling places, Eugene F. Schlickman, 712 N. Fernandez Ave., Arlington Heights, reminded all citizens this week.

The Republican Citizens League, which Schlickman represents in Wheeling Township, is seeking to boost 1961-1962 registration above 1960 registration and presidential votes.

DESPITE general registration days in September and October, 1961, many citizens have not yet availed themselves of the opportunity to qualify for voting, Schlickman observed.

"A 1959 Act of the Illinois General Assembly had cancelled all existing voting registrations in Cook County," Schlickman said. "The result of this legislative act was to bring the voting lists up to date and help insure honest elections."

Only citizens who have reregistered will be able to participate in the 1962 primary election in April and general election in November—the results of which will be most important, not only in terms of public office but party control, also.

"IT IS especially urgent for citizens in the western townships to register," said Schickman, "if they are to be as influential as their increased population warrants."

The Republican Citizens League, headed by George Hermann, prominent Chicago insurance executive, views maximum voter registration as an indispensable requisite for better government.

Anyone interested in further information may call Schlickman, CL 5-5596. (ACM

Houser Urges Voter Registration Here

Thomas J. Houser, 416 S. Waterman, Arlington Heights, Young Republican 13th District Governor, made an urgent appeal this week to all Wheeling Township resident to make certain they have re-registered.

Tuesday, March 13, is the final day for voters to take advantage of the convenience of local re-registration. Houser underlined the fact that all local precinct polling places will be open from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. to accommodate voters.

"Re-registration is an urgent, vital duty of every elegible voter in Wheeling Township," Houser explained.

"A VOTER failing to re-register is actually casting a vote against his own convictions.

"That voter's voice cannot be heard, since these neglecting to re-register, will not be allowed to voice their opinion via the ballot," Houser said.

He stressed that all citizens should make their convictions known during the April 10 primary. Individuals failing to register Tuesday will not be allowed to vote in the April 10 Primary Election.

PREVIOUS DATES for registration in polling places were Sept. 15 and Oct. 13. Re-registration for suburban townships averaged 82 per cent after the second registration date.

Re-registration in Cook County became necessary when the Illinois General Assembly ordered the destruction of old registration records in 1959, Houser pointed out.

The Illinois Federation of Young Republican Clubs has taken an active part in promoting 100 per cent registration throughout the state. (ACM

Currency Display At Prospect Bank

The fighting spirit of the American Revolution is graphically depicted on Continental Congress currency which will be displayed at the Prospect Plaza Bank beginning Monday, March 12, as part of an exhibit of United States moneys.

The exhibit, which includes paper money of the Revolution bearing such patriotic slogans as "Either Death or an Honorable Life," will be on loan from the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York. It is part of that bank's vast Museum of Moneys of the World consisting of approximately 75,000 specimens.

Both coins and paper currencies used in America from Colonial times to the present will be shown. Among the coins are historic Spanish doubloons and Spanish milled dollars — "Pieces of eight" — which were the principal "hard moneys" behind the paper notes of the early colonies.

BILLS ISSUED by the Continental Congress also were redeemable in Spanish milled dollars. Those in the display pointedly reflect the temper of Revolutionary times, with inscriptions like "After the Clouds Comes the Sun." However, the propaganda value of these currency slogans was dubious since they were printed in Latin, a language understood by few Colonial Americans.

In addition to Government currencies, the exhibit will include tokens circulated by merchants and redeemable in such goods as flour and lumber. There were some 9,000 varieties of tokens issued during the currency shortage of the Civil War.

Confederate paper money, bearing pictures of such famed Southern leaders as Jefferson Davis and General "Stonewall" Jackson, also will be shown, together with a wide variety of bank notes used before the Civil War. (ACM

Slate Talk-It-Overs

Church to Experiment In 'Group Dynamics'

An unusual experiment in "group dynamics" will be conducted by Church of the Good Shepherd, Elk Grove Village, during the next three weeks. Known as the "Talk-It-Overs," the venture will be part of a pilot project for the United Church of Christ on the theme, "The Church, a Learning and Witnessing Community."

The "Talk-It-Overs" will be informal groups brought together each week to "talk over" ideas and questions raised in a group of three sermons based on the denominational emphasis. A printed outline and excerpts from each sermon, along with discussion questions will be distributed at the worship services.

THE SERMON topics are:

March 11—"Who Are These Church People, Anyway?"

March 18—"Is the Good Old Book Fit for a Vigorous New Age?"

March 25—"What Business Is It of Ours?"

The groups will not be organized in any official way through the church but will be gathered together by interested persons at a time and place of their choosing. Each group, however, will be asked to make a written summary of its discussions at the end of the three-week period.

THE PROJECT committee has suggested neighbors, social groups, "kaffee klatschers," bridge clubbers, car poolers and the like as possible sources for the talk-it-over groups. Although the program is aimed primarily at members of the church, the discussions will be non-denominational in nature.

"The talk-it-overs are based on the fact that people frequently do talk about religion when they get together on non-church occasions," said the Rev. Roy R. Winkelmann, minister of Church of the Good Shepherd.

"We have a two-fold purpose in mind," he added. "The first is to show that religion can be seriously and naturally discussed within the atmosphere of ordinary conversation. The second is to provide an interpretation of what adults, and in this case, suburban adults, are thinking about the role of the church in our society."

The pastor called attention to a wire-service report from Chappaqua, N. Y., about a group of 60 commuters, all members of First Congregational Church there, who have reserved a special car on the New York Central for a Monday morning "seminar on wheels." Instead of playing bridge or reading newspapers, they will discuss the conflict between religion, ethics and their daily work.

"Laymen are searching for answers," Winkelman said. "They ought not be confined in that searching to ecclesiastical surroundings. If the message of Sunday morning is to be related to the work of Monday morning, then religious inquiry has to be made to feel at home in the market place."

CHURCH OF THE Good Shepherd is one of 30 congregations across the nation selected by the national committee of the United Church of Christ to be a pilot congregation. A special committee, made up of four couples, has been meeting for depth studies of the theme. They are James and Betty Grube, Frank and Sue Hines, Robert and Lavergn Knuth, and Vernon and Borghild Stenoien.

Each pilot congregation is to work out its own program for making the Christian church a learning and witnessing community. Findings of the pilot churches will be submitted to the national committee for guidance in making a denomination-wide study in more than 6,000 churches.

The Elk Grove congregation will complete its study on April 30.

Mental Health Clinic Opening Is Postponed

Opening date for the Northwest Cooperative Mental Health Clinic, which had previously been announced as March 5, has been posponed at least two weeks because of construction delays in the remodeling of the building to be used in the Westgate Shopping Center, it was disclosed this week.

Overcoming these construction delays will be at no additional cost to the association, which is sponsoring the clinic, but the postponement of the opening is "deemed most unfortunate and is greatly regretted," Mrs. Carol Allison, president of the association, said.

IN THE MEANTIME, organization work for the clinic's opening continues by committee members of the association.

Furnishings are being assembled, final budgets and fee schedules have been presented, announcements and pamphlets explaining the function of the clinic are being written, and interviews for a social worker, the last member still to be obtained for the opening staff, are being scheduled, Mrs. Allison noted.

It was announced last week that George Malley, presently chief psychologist at the Scott County Mental Health Center in Davenport, Ia., has been secured as clinical psychologist for the northwest suburban clinic, and will join the clinic staff on April 1.

Malley will be available, through the association, for civic speaking engagements and study group leadership in the seven communities supporting the clinic. However, his main work will be in the diagnostic testing of patients seeking treatment, as well as therapy and administrative duties under the supervision of the medical director, Dr. Anthony Pavkovic. Dr. Pavkovic, a psychiatrist, will serve as part - time medical director of the clinic when it officially opens.

Malley holds a Bachelor of Science degree in pshcology from Grinnell College, Grinnell, Ia., a Master's degree from the University of Oklahoma, and has done graduate work on a Ph D. at the University of Chicago.

HIS PREVIOUS experience includes work as a psychologist for the Illinois State Training School for Girls, the Chicago Board of Health, the Chicago Department of Public Welfare, the Oklahoma City Board of Health, the Chicago Department of Public Welfare, the Oklahoma City Board of Education, the Oklahoma State Penitentiary, and the Oklahoma Central State Hospital.

While working at the Scott County Mental Health Center in Davenport, he also served as a consulting psychologist for the Scott County Schools and did private testing for Davenport psychiatrists.

Mrs. Allison also announced that a time is being sought for a special meeting of the association's board of directors and the association's medical advisory committee. This committee, it was explained, serves as an advisory group to the association and acts as a liaison between the association and the medical profession.

THE MEETING is to apprise the medical group of the progress of the clinic in selection of staff members, in the remodeling of the clinic building, and the plans for the opening.

Referrals to the clinic, which will serve seven northwest communities and surrounding areas, are expected to come primarily from church and school counselors, police juvenile departments, and the area's doctors and lawyers.

It was pointed out, however, that private individuals may initiate treatment, if they wish to, at the clinic. Fees are to be based on a sliding scale of available income.

The seven communities to be served are Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village, Hoffman-Schaumburg, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, and Wheeling - Buffalo Grove, as well as the areas immediately surrounding them. (B8

Con Says Barkeep Ruined Livelihood

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI) — A convict has filed suit here for $15,000 damages because he was served liquor just before he wrote a bum check that sent him to prison.

John L. Redpath, an inmate at Menard Penitentiary, charges in the suit filed last Thursday that employes of the Maple Gardens Tavern should have seen that he was drunk already when he walked into the establishment Oct. 13, 1959, and got served.

The upshot of the whole affair, Redpath charged, was that he passed a $35 bogus check, got caught and was sent to prison for 1-3 years for confidence game.

Now, the dram shop suit charges, Redpath is incapacitated and can't earn a livelihood. (B8

Chairman Is Appointed

Mrs. Carl Hessler of Mount Prospect has accepted the appointment of volunteer service chairman of the Northwest Suburban Chapter of the American Cancer Society with headquarters at 121 South Emerson, Mount Prospect.

The service program is the society's expression of concern for the cancer patient and his family, and Mrs. Hessler will diect some 400 volunteers in the cancer dressing program, loan closet and transportation corps.

Mrs. Hessler, of 103 South Edward in the suburb, reminds residents of the area that the Cancer Society has all types of sickroom equipment available for use without charge as long as the patient needs it.

THE LOAN closet includes everything from hospital beds, wheel chairs, walkers to most any type of reusable item. Dressings, bed jackets, etc. are also furnished, in any quantity a patient needs, for as long as they need them without any charge.

In fact, Mrs. Hessler pointed out that last year some 350 volunteers made 29,544 dressings and 24,036 were distributed to 163 patients. The loan closet served 120 patients with beds, 44 patients with wheel chairs and 102 patients with 271 smaller articles in the chapter's area which includes the 14 communities from Barrington to Park Ridge and Niles to Schaumburg.

MRS. HESSLER

Another important phase of the service program is the transportation corps, a service rendered as a convenience to the family and the patient. Volunteers transport patients to and from treatment centers, and last year Mrs. Hessler pointed out that 41 volunteers were engaged in this activity, making 170 one-way trips for 8 patients.

MRS. HESSLER has been an active ACS volunteer for the past four years and has recently been elected to the board. She said, "There is nothing one can do that is more rewarding than to help someon in need and working for the Cancer Society, I feel I am doing something important for my community."

Anyone wishing to volunteer his or her services in this program may call the Cancer office in Mount Prospect, CL 3-8148, or Mrs. Hessler at CL 5-4960. The office is open weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Moran, a registered district member-at-large for the Skokie Valley District, stated that booth exhibitions and various Scoutcraft skills, hobbies and crafts will be demonstrated on a si.. acre field at O'Hare by Scouts from Arlington Heights, Barrington, Barrington Hills, Buffalo Grove, Deer Park, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Feehanville, Forest River, Hatlen Heights, Hawthorne Woods, Hoffman Estates, Kildeer, Lake Barrington, Lake Zurich, Lexington Fields, Lincolnwood, Morton Grove, Mount Prospect, Niles, North Barrington, Palatine, Prospect Heights, Prospect Meadows, Park Ridge, Rolling Meadows, Roselle, Rosemont, Schaumburg, Schiller Park, Skokie, Timber Lakes, Tower Lake, Twinbrook, Weathersfield and Wheeling.

Can Spring Be Too Far Away?

MOUNT VERNON, ILL., (UPI)—There was snow in the air here Monday, but police had another harbinger of spring to go with first robin reports and budding trees and bushes.

Mrs. Elnora Wilbanks reported that someone stole her new push-type lawnmower while she was attending church services Sunday.

It was the city's first reported lawnmower theft of 1962.

Plan Commission Is Urged by County Head

Cook County Board President John J. Duffy said this week that he hopes to have an ordinance drawn up for the creation of a county plan commission by the next meeting of the county board.

The board, which heard Duffy first mention a county plan commission Monday, will meet again on April 2.

"Zoning matters would be referred to the plan commission first, which in turn would make recommendations to the zoning board of appeals and county board," Duffy noted.

HE SAID such a body was needed to assure the "absolute," orderly development of the unincorporated areas of the county." Such a plan group would assuage the fears of suburban municipalities over what was built near their boundaries, Duffy felt.

(The communities of Glenview, Park Ridge and Park Forest are seeking a declaratory judgment in Cook County Superior Court to uphold the jurisdiction of municipalities within 1½ miles of their corporate limits after a ruling by State's Attorney Daniel P. Ward that a recent law strips them of this right if the county in which they are located has a zoning ordinance, as Cook County does.)

Should the board approve such a plan commission ordinance, Duffy said he would appoint an executive director and staff, and prominent citizens to serve as planners.

WHAT PROMPTED Duffy's remarks was a zoning request from the Elgin Storage & Transfer Co., of Cicero, for rezoning of 35 acres near U.S. 20 and the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern Ry. in Hanover Township outside of Elgin for a motor freight terminal. In addition, the firm asked that an adjoining 41 acres be rezoned from R-3 single family residence to M-1 restricted manufacturing district. Atty. William Brady, representing the petitioners, said that the farmer from whom they were purchasing the property insisted that they buy the whole 76-acre tract, and for this reason were asking rezoning of the additional 41 acres.

Duffy said putting a truck terminal at this location represented "poor planning." He added it would be harmful to the future development of the area which was primarily zoned residential.

"I cannot in good conscience vote its approval," he declared. "It would raise havoc with the area."

ATTY. BRADY said that the nearby communities of Elgin, Bartlett and Streamwood did not object to the proposal, and that the city of Elgin welcomed the terminal because of the need for industrial development.

The Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals had recommended that the board pass the rezoning of 35 acres from R-3 single family classification to M-4 for the motor freight terminal, but proposed that the rezoning of the 41 acres be denied.

tempt had been made in 1959

DUFFY SAID that an attempt to rezone the same property for a "less obnoxious use." He said the request was for an M-1 restricted manufacturing district, and that the county board had turned down this petition.

The county board voted against the zoning board's recommendation in the first instance, with Commissioner William N. Erickson, R-Evanston, voting for the proposal. Commissioner Fred Fulle, R-Des Plaines, passed. The board was unanimous, however, in voting to concur with the zoning board's recommendation to deny the second petition. (B8

Suburb Teens Face Car Theft Charges

Seven Palatine High School students, tracked down last week by Arlington Heights police, were released in custody of their parents after appearing in Family Court in Chicago Monday on charges of stealing autos and auto accessories.

Arlington Heights recovered many of the stolen items, ranging from transistor radios to hub caps to auto batteries.

SIX OF THE youths were implicated by the first youth. All are in the 14-16 age bracket. Their names are not being made public because of their age and because this was their first offense.

One youth told police the group had stolen cars, auto accessories and articles from parked cars since mid-December in Cook, DuPage and Lake Counties.

The group was rounded up after an investigation of one of the youth's activities by Arlington Heights police. (A

President Plays It Safe in Edict

CHAMPAIGN, (UPI)—Despite the recent cold weather, officials of the University of Illinois here know spring weather is coming and along with it the "annual student water fights."

University President David D. Henry Tuesday issued a statement warning both students and parents.

Henry said that participation in "mob action" such as spring water fights of previous years will bring dismissal from the university.

IN PAST YEARS university students conduct the water fights in the spring. University and city police have been called in the past to quell the students. Several hundred students usually participate.

Henry's action came after water fights were condemned by the student senate committee on discipline. (B8

Master in Chancery To Address Lawyers

The Quinlan-Tyson case, concerning the question of whether realtors are improperly practicing law by completing legal documents involved in the sale of real estate will be the subject of a talk next week at a bar association dinner meeting.

James C. Leaton, master in chancery of the Circuit Court County, who heard and reported on the case, will discuss it in an address to the members of the Northwest Bar Association on Wednesday, March 14, at Gunnell's Restaurant, Foundry and Rand Road.

Leaton is a candidate for judge of Superior Court of Cook County in the April 10 election. The election will fill a vacancy created by the death of Judge Matthew Hartigan.

LEATON has been a master in chancery in circuit court since 1942 and is a member of the National Panel of the American Arbitration Association. He received an LL.B. degree from Webster College of Law (Chicago-Kent) and was admitted to the bar in 1921.

Since his admission to the bar, he has engaged in the general practice of law with the exception of the years 1928 to 1935, when he served as an assistant United States attorney for the northern district of Illinois.(B8

Carl Klehm To Address Civic Assn.

A garden show presented by Carl Klehm of Klehm Nurseries will be the highlight of the next regular meeting of the Arlington Acres Civic Association on Friday, March 9.

The meeting will be held at Lauterburg & Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Hwy., beginning at 8 p.m. Following the show there will be a short business meeting.

Refreshments have been planned by Mrs. William McClure, and there will be souvenirs for everyone, courtesy of Klehm Nurseries. (A

Prospect of A Price War Looms Here

(UPI)—The Standard Oil Division of American Oil Co. Tuesday announced price reductions to Chicago area dealers "to meet intensive competition on retail prices."

Regular gasoline will be cut to 13.8 cents per gallon and premium gasoline to 17.3, effective at midnight Tuesday, the company said.

"The quality fuels we offer Chicago motorists today are worth a higher price rather than a lower one. Yet there are those who apparently cannot resist the temptation to gain a temporary market advantage by reducing prices to attract trade," the announcement said.

Seek Charter for Savings and Loan

If things go according to schedule Arlington Heights will have a new savings and loan association by this fall.

A group of village residents and in some cases businessmen have applied for a state charter for Clearbrook Savings and Loan Association, to be located at 1711 W. Campbell St., in Westgate Shopping Center.

If requested, a public hearing will be held in Chicago April 5, prior to authorization by the state director of financial institutions.

John W. Bowen, of Bowen Hardware, one of the directors of the proposed association, said that Arlington Heights has grown by leaps and bounds in recent years and is continuing to grow, justifying the request for a second savings and loan association in the village.

THE ONLY present such institution is the First Federal Savings & Loan on E. Campbell Street, in downtown Arlington Heights.

Bowen said that after approval by the state, the financial backing will be accumulated and the group hopes to be open for business this fall.

Others on the board of directors of the new association would be Joseph P. Tinaglia Jr., Clare e T. McKaig, John J. O'Malley, William J. Wysocki, Albert W. Gylden, H. Bruce Rasumssen, and Ralph A. Case.

Two Men Injured In Auto Mishap

Two northwest suburban men were injured Monday night when their sports car left Old Northwest Highway in Palatine, and rolled over after striking a telephone pole guy wire.

In Northwest Community Hospital with serious chest injuries is Will-Hanns Wiedmann, 30, of 408 Mitchell, Arlington Heights. Wiedmann was a passenger in the Porsch-model roadster driven by Harry F. Semple Jr., 38, of Des Plaines.

Semple was reported in good condition with head, leg and hand lacerations.

THE POWERFUL, low-slung car was eastbound on Old Northwest Highway when it left the roadway and just west of the curve, traveling 107 feet to where it struck the wire.

The impact snapped off the telephone pole and propelled the transmission 24 feet from the car. The hood was lying about the same distance from the wreckage.

Police charged Semple with driving too fast for conditions and for not having 1962 license plates. High winds blew snow across the roads that night and there were numerous icy spots at those areas adjacent to vacant fields.

WIEDMANN was the subject of a feature article in Paddock Publications in May of last year. He and a partner opened a sports car repair shop in Arlington Heights and recently moved their operation to Palatine.

He left Germany to come here because, as he said, there is "more opportunity." (A&P

with McGivney opposing the move.

Schmidt, Everson's former foreman, said, "I don't know nothing about politics. There was no grudge between me and Oscar." He said he quit his position in protest against Everson's indifferenee to the maintenance of township equipment and over rental of the tractor owned by Everson's son.

HE ALSO said Everson complained to him that he was "too hard" on work crews. Schmidt, who lives about a block from the township hall, said the men were out on the road by 8 a.m. when he was foreman, as he said they should be. "Now I see where they sometimes don't leave until 10 a.m., and I'll see their trucks parked in front of a coffee shop for an hour, hour-and-a-half."

Everson blamed the complaints on politics. "Not all Democrats, but Jimmy." Asked if he meant James Stavros, Democratic Wheeling Township committeeman, he said, "Yes."

He also charged that McGivney was a Democrat, and that Schmidt was the cousin of "Herb Brandt, who ran against me" in the last election.

Dedicate Park to District

Memorial Park, deeded to the Village of Arlington Heights for park purposes in the distant past, will soon become the property of the park district — presumably complete with cannon.

The village board Monday night approved an ordinance dedicating the park at Fremont and Chestnut to the park district.

The move actually is a formality; the park district is in the process of putting its books in better order and getting legal title to all property it maintains. (A

Annexation

The Arlington Heights village board Monday night approved an ordinance annexing a six-acre parcel located south of Davis Street, east of Arthur. The parcel has been shown on village maps as within the village boundaries, but it recently was determined there had never been any annexation proceedings. (A

Dedication

The public relations committee of the Arlington Heights village board, headed by Trustee Norval Stephens, was authorized Monday night to make plans for suitable dedication of the new municipal building this fall, and to arrange for preservation of historic articles in connection with the old village hall.

Q. When seated at the bar in a cocktail lounge, are you supposed to tip the bar man?

A. While not exactly necessary, it still seems to be expected in some places — and especially when one's change is returned in a small tray.

Memorial Service For Airline Victim

A memorial service for David William Ross, 43, New Canaan, Conn., who was among 95 passengers and crew members killed in the crash of an American Airlines Boeing 707 airliner last Thursday in New York City, will be held at 2 p.m., today, Thursday, at Northminster Presbyterian Church, 2515 Central Park Ave., Evanston.

Mr. Ross is a former resident of Evanston and Park Ridge.

He was on his way to Los Angeles, Cal., on a business trip. Mr. Ross was advertising brand manager for the Colgate Palmolive Co.

Mrs. Ross and the children were in Chandler, Ariz., when the tragedy occurred. Mr. Ross had planned to meet them there after the Los Angeles trip.

Mrs. Ross and the children are staying with relatives in Wilmette. She is the daughter of A. C. Buehler of Barrington.

Thomas Houser Wins Endorsement of BGA

Thomas J. Houser of Arlington Heights, Republican candidate for Wheeling Township Committeeman, was endorsed this week by the non-partisan Better Government Association.

Announcement of Houser's endorsement was made Monday by George E. Mahin, executive director of the BGA.

HOUSER, 32, of 416 S. Waterman Ave., is seeking election in the April 10 Primary Election. His candidacy is supported by the 300-member Republican Citizens for Houser Committee, a group of Republican volunteers living in Wheeling Township.

Houser and William J. Moore, 6 S. Waterman Ave., Arlington Heights, also seeking the Wheeling Township committeeman post, were interviewed by the Better Government Association on the same day.

The BGA was founded in 1923 by Chicago citizens. It promotes voter education and observes the performance of public officeholders.

"OPERATION Watchdog" is the association's committee charged with scrutinizing government operation in the county. Under the leadership of Charles H. Percy, board chairman of Bell & Howell, Inc., the committee keeps an eye out for wrongdoing in public office.

Current chairman of the Better Government Association's board of directors is Roy C. Ingersoll, retired chairman of the Borg-Warner Corp.

Mothers Are Planning Annual Fete

The annual potluck supper of the St. Patrick's Academy Mothers' Club will take place Tuesday evening, March 13, at 6:30 p.m. at the Academy in Des Plaines.

Mrs. Edward Mandelka, president, this week invited all members and alumnae and their husbands to attend this event in honor of the past presidents of the Mothers' Club.

The program for the evening will include skits put on by the priests who are writers for the "Sincerely Youth" column in The New World. They will take the part of a parent, priest or teen-ager in each skit which will concern bettering the relationship of parents and their teen-agers.

Prospect Students Vie in Essay Fete

Prospect High School students are writing essays — lots of them —but they all have the same title: "America the Beautiful — How Long Without Clean Water?"

Students in the high school's English classes are writing the themes as a part of a nation-wide VFW Auxiliary Essay contest. Participation in the event is either compulsory or voluntary at the discretion of the individual teacher, according to Miss Jane Mahin, English Department chairman.

The contest, now in its 27th year, is sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars in cooperation with educators and press.

THE PROSPECT contest is sponsored by the VFW Auxiliary 1337 of Mount Prospect. A first prize of a $50 savings bond, with a second prize of a $25 bond, will be given to the winners.

Local winning themes are entered in further judging, with the final national top award set at $1,000 and a gold medal.

The essays are to be no longer than 1,000 words and must be submitted by March 15. Students must sign a declaration of authorship. Teachers, librarians and parents may assist the student provided the ideas expressed in the essay are those of the student and not the instructor.

Suitable Exit Holds Up New Industrial Plant Location

If a suitable exit can be worked out, Arlington Heights probably will get a new industrial plant in its extreme eastern tip near Davis Street at the rear of the Zepp-Shuester beverage distributing company property.

Individual members of the village board Monday night indicated they viewed favorably the request of Ralph Clarbour, of 534 S. State Road, to construct an industrial building on the property, on which he has an option to buy pending approval of a building permit.

Clarbour owns a steel fabricating plant in Chicago and desires to relocate his operation in Arlington Heights to reduce his annual real estate tax, provide better shipping facilities, and because he lives here.

HIS COMPANY fabricated the steel framing in the Arlington High School gymnasium, local grade schools now under construction and in local commercial buildings.

The hitch in the plans is access and egress to the property. Clarbour has an easement for vehicular traffic along the Zepp-Shuester property north to Davis Street, but the roadway to the west — Rockwell Street—is private property to Arthur Street.

Clarbour receives steel beams in 60-foot lengths, fabricates them and could anticipate shipping them out in 85- to 100-foot lengths, which would be too long for truck-trailers to make the Davis Street turn and enter Northwest Highway via the underpass near the former village sewer treatment plant.

THE IDEAL solution would be to improve Rockwell Street to the west, which would allow Clarbour's trucks to turn onto Arthur Street and go south to Central Road.

This property, however, is owned by Sal Dimucci, a builder and developer, and Dimucci has not been willing to allow Clarbour access to Arthur Street over Dimucci's private roadway, which also is partly owned by Illinois Bell and Public Service.

Clarbour said Dimucci wants to construct a building for Clarbour on adjacent property to the east, owned by Dimucci (and within the Mount Prospect village limits) and would then allow Clarbour access to Arthur Street via his private extension of Rockwell.

CLARBOUR said he would rather be in Arlington Heights than Mount Prospect.

The only other problem is that Clarbour's easement for access and egress to his property from Davis Street does not include an easement for underground utilities, and Zepp-Shuester has been unwilling to grant him one.

Because of this, the village would have to grant him permission for a septic tank and well until village sewer and water facilities became available. While this is not ideal, most of the board members recognized that it was the only solution to this problem under the circumstances.

CLARBOUR SAID that if he is unable to ship out 85- to 100-foot sections, it will put him at a disadvantage competitively.

TRUSTEE William Moore said the decision appeared not so much one to be made by the board, but one to be made by Clarbour, since he knows in advance he may not be able to obtain proper egress for his products.

The board made clear it would not allow semi-trailers hauling the products to travel through residential sections of the village near the plant.

THE BOARD finally deferred action with the approval of Clarbour so further negotiations can be made with reference to both egress and utility easements.

If the details can be worked out, Clarbour will construct a two-story building of stainless steel siding and corrugated fiberglas siding, and stacked bond concrete block.

Steel stock would be received via a railroad siding, stored outdoors, and moved into the building where it would be cut to size, welded or fabricated to order, and then shipped to a construction site. (A

When travellers from earth manage to effect the first moon landing, an unheralded milestone will have been reached: man will have gone full cycle from caveman to caveman.

It seems that the extreme temperature changes on the moon, plus the great danger of being clobbered by meteorites which bombard the lunar body incessantly, will make it mandatory for an astronaut to search out a cave for survival.

No electrical equipment shall be installed or altered except upon a permit first issued by the Building Commissioner; provided, however, that no permit shall be issued for installing or altering by contract electrical equipment unless the person applying for such permit is registered as an electrical contractor as required by ordinance and except that no permit shall be required for minor repairs which do not require changes in the existing electrical circuitry.

SECTION 8. The Building Commissioner shall inspect all electrical equipment installed or altered, and shall require that it conform to the standards and specifications applicable thereto and adopted as foresaid.

The Building Commissioner is hereby empowered to reinspect any electrical equipment, and when such equipment is found to be unsafe to life or property, shall notify the person owning, using or operating the same to place the same in a safe and secure condition and in compliance with the standards and specifications described herein, within such time as the Building Commissioner shall consider just and reasonable. Upon refusal or willful failure to comply with the requirements of such notification, in addition to the penalties otherwise provided herein, the Building Commissioner may recommend the cutting off and stopping of such current until such electrical equipment has been placed in a safe and secure condition and in compliance with the standards and specifications referred to herein. No inspection fee shall be charged for such reinspection, but in case it becomes necessary to replace such electrical equipment on account of defects disclosed by such reinspection, a permit therefor shall be obtained and an inspection fee paid as provided by the President and Board of Trustees.

SECTION 9. The Building Commissioner shall have the power to enter buildings or premises at any reasonable hour in the discharge of his duties. It shall be unlawful for any person to interfere with the Building Commissioner in the performance of his duties. Whenever, in the opinion of the Building Commissioner, it shall be necessary to call upon the police department for aid and assistance in carrying out or enforcing any of the provisions of this Code governing the inspection of electrical equipment, he shall have the authority to do so, and it shall be the duty of any member of the police department, when called upon by the Building Commissioner to act according to the instructions of and to perform such duties as may be required by the Building Commissioner in order to enforce or put into effect the provisions of this Code relating to the inspection of electrical equipment.

Any person installing concealed electric wires or equipment in any building in the Village shall notify the Building Commissioner in writing of such intended installation, at least twenty-four hours before the work is to be covered, and no such work shall be covered until inspection thereof has been made as herein required. In all cases where such notice has not been given or such work has been covered without inspection thereof as herein provided, the Building Commissioner is authorized to take down or remove such portions of the building or structure as shall be necessary for the inspection of such electric wires or equipment, as herein required, and the cost of such taking down and replacing such work so removed by such official shall be borne by the person who has failed to give notice of the installation thereof, or by the person who has covered such work after such notice and before inspection thereof as herein provided, as the case may be.

SECTION 10. In case the Building Commissioner finds a defect in any electrical apparatus or equipment, subject to inspection in the Village, he shall report the same to the persons for whom the test is being made, giving a description of the character of the defect. If the defect is of a dangerous character, necessitating immediate repair, the Building Commissioner shall forthwith condemn the apparatus or equipment for further use, or until the same is removed, repaired or renewed.

If the defect is of a character such that the apparatus or equipment may be safely operated for a period of some days pending repairs, the Building Commissioner shall so report, and name the number of days during which the same may be operated. A duplicate of all such reports shall be promptly filed in the office of the Village Clerk.

SECTION 12. The Building Commissioner shall have the right to condemn wires which are defective and dangerous to life or property, and shall require the owner of such wires to remove or replace the same with new wires.

(c) Only receptacles designed to accommodate grounded plugs shall be used.

(d) The name of the electrical contractor performing the work shall be displayed on fuse panel boxes or circuit breakers.

(e) Minimum service to a single family residence is 100 amperes and 220 volts.

(f) All stairwells shall be adequately lighted.
All enclosed stairwells shall have a light fixture operated from the top of the stairs.

(g) Any closet with a depth greater than thirty-six (36) inches or any storage or utility room with a floor area greater than twenty-five (25) square feet shall have a light fixture.

(h) Underground cable shall be placed not less than sixteen (16) inches below finished grade.
Underground cable may be of plastic material designed for underground installation.

(i) Any addition or alteration to the electrical system shall require a permit. The electrical permit fee for new building construction shall be included in the cost of building permit for said construction until or unless said building permit fee is broken into separate categories.

(j) Each kitchen shall contain at least one 20 ampere appliance circuit.

(l) Waterproof fittings will be used on service drops.

SECTION 14. The fee for issuance of permits shall be as follows:

5. Units over 600 watts—$3.00 and 0.10 per kilowatt.
6. Reinspection due to negligence of owner or contractor—$4.00.

SECTION 15. Any person, corporation or company violating any provision of this Code where no other penalty is provided shall be subject to a fine of not less than $2.00 nor more than $200.00 for each violation and each day of such violation shall constitute a separate offense.

SECTION 16. If any part, section, sentence or clause of this ordinance shall be adjudged void, the same shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions and this ordinance shall be deemed separable.

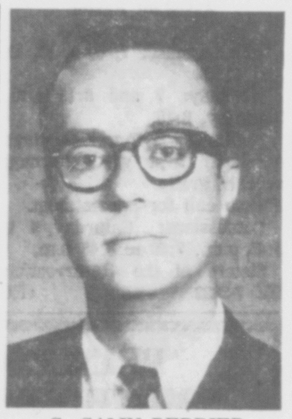
Fellowship to Teacher Here

A Prospect High School history teacher, G. Galin Berrier, has been awarded a John Hay Fellowship for the 1962-63 school year, Dr. Charles R. Keller, director, announced this week.

Berrier was one of 88 nationally and 11 in the Chicago area to receive the year's leave of absence to study in the humanities at one of six universities: California, Chicago, Columbia, Harvard, Northwestern, and Yale.

Each fellow receives a stipend equivalent to his salary in addition to full tuition, health fee, and transportation costs for himself and his family.



G. GALIN BERRIER

BERRIER, 26, received his B. S. and M. A. degrees from the University of Iowa and taught at Monmouth High School before coming to Prospect in 1960.

Married and the father of one child, the instructor resides at 1 S. Dryden, Arlington Heights.

Berrier is the fourth High School District 214 instructor to win a John Hay Fellowship. Others were Donald Fyfe, school year 1959-60; Virginia Harrod, summer, 1960; and James Ulrich, school year 1960-61.

IN announcing the awards, Dr. Keller said: "The John Hay Fellows Program through its year fellowships and summer institutes in the humanities is making a decided impact on American education.

"The experiences gained by the Fellows enable them to be among the leaders in the educational revolution in curriculum, in approaches to learning, and in the aims of education - which is taking place in the United States." (B8

MOUNT PROSPECT

March 11-17 is Girl Scout Week and Mount Prospect Scouts are observing 50 years of Girl Scouting in the United States. Sunday, March 11, has been designated as "Golden Day of Rededication," and all Brownie, Intermediate and Senior Troops, together with their leaders, parents and friends, are celebrating with a program at Lincoln School Gym beginning at 2 p.m.

SOUTH ARLINGTON

Intermediate Troops 585, 131 and 102 combined Feb. 24 for a trip to the Field Museum and Art Institute in Chicago. The Museum made special arrangements to help the girls who were interested in Bird Badge, by showing a color film and coding the various display cases where the girls could find information.

Troop 102 was especially interested in seeing the pottery exhibits, both at the Museum and the Art Institute. Brownie Troop 850 had a valentine party in the home of Mrs. Louis Richards. Intermediate Troops 514 and 189 had a joint meeting, at which Sue Larson, Senior Scout, presided. She invited the Scouts to attend the District-Wide Senior Conference to be held March 31. Sue answered the girls' questions and then taught several new songs which will be sung at this meeting.

In observing Thinking Day, Feb. 22, eighth grade Troop 189 read a letter from an American teacher who is on a Fulbright scholarship at Nara, Japan. She is asked quite often for U.S. stamps, so the girls are sending commemorative stamps to her. The ladies at Magnus Farm were pleased to receive valentine pin-cushions from these same Scouts, who became interested in the Farm after a Christmas visit.

CALLING ALL SCOUTS

A special film on Girl Scout Camps will be shown Saturday, March 17, at Pioneer Park Field House in South Arlington.

NORTHEAST ARLINGTON

Brownie Troop 154 had a valentine tea for their mothers in their club room at St. James School. The girls made their own table decorations, baked their own cookies and did the serving. Troop 504, Intermediates, visited their adopted grandmothers at St. Peter's Lutheran Home. Three of the grandmothers were celebrating birthdays and the occasion was celebrated with a party.

PROSPECT HEIGHTS

Girl Scouts of Prospect Heights are busy preparing for their annual Girl Scout Week, which starts March 11. On that day Scout members of the Community Church will attend either the 9:30 or 11 o'clock church service, depending upon which session of Sunday School they attend, and cookies and juice will be served to the girls between the two services.

Girls who are members of St. Alphonsus Catholic Church will attend the 10 a.m. Mass, where colors will be presented and flowers will be placed before the Blessed Virgin.

Store windows in the town will be decorated for Girl Scout Week by Mrs. Jouse's Troop 565. The sale of Girl Scout Cookies will follow later in the month, which will make March a very active month for these busy girls.

Troop 563 members are working for badges and meet with the different mothers to learn about hospitality, sewing, folk dancing and music.

Scouts of 563 made a lot of children happy this past Christmas by making hand made puppets from stockings, decorating them and delivering them to the Children's Ward of the Illinois State Hospital, for which they received a letter of thanks.

SOUTH MOUNT PROSPECT

Girl Scout Mariner Troop U.S.S. Enterprise 65, led by Mrs. Harold Drew and Mrs. Regis Balkey, traveled to Camp MacLean near Burlington, Wis., for a weekend of Winter sports Feb. 24-25. There were 88 Senior Girl Scouts that weeknd at the camp, which is owned by the Austin Branch of the YMCA.

Facilities include log cabins, each of which accommodates 12 persons. Each troop presented a skit the first evening and sports events included tobogganing, skiing and flying saucer coasting.

Troop 543 sixth graders, led by Mrs. E. Shaw, are working on the Good Grooming Badge. Feb. 27, they visited the Park Ridge Inn Beauty Shop, which is owned by Rock Marchetta, father of troop member, Donna Marchetta. Using Donna as his model, Mr. Marchetta showed the girls how to shampoo and style their hair.

Brownie Troop 219, led by Mrs. William Schroeder and composed of second graders, heard Mrs. Gertrude Shuttner speak on European Girl Scouts and earned their World Association pins. Each child brought an object from a foreign country.

New Brownie Troop 411, composed of second graders and led by Mrs. Robert Kauth and Mrs. James O'Leary, enjoyed its first outing, a snow party at Lion's Park. Cocoa, cookies and marshmallows were consumed before a roaring fire in the warming house.

Brownie Troop 534 second graders, aided by leaders, Mrs. Grant Disbrow and Mrs. Edward Shaler, made centerpieces for the March 1 PTA meetings at Lions, Sunset and Westbrook Schools.

A new Brownie Troop, 876 has been organized with Mrs. Earl March as leader and Mrs. Eleanor Rose as co-leader. Invested as charter members, as their mothers looked on, were 11 second graders. Mrs. James Sanders is troop committee chairman, Mrs. Kenneth Woodworth is refreshment chairman, Mrs. Henry Nerwin is transportation chairman and Mrs. Donald Trimmer is cookie chairman.

Rolling Meadows

The cafeteria of Carl Sandburg School was the scene of "The Brownie Story" Feb. 27.

After the play presentation the following girls of newly-organized Troop 885 promised to become helpful Brownies and received their pins: Patricia Carlstrom, Sharon Casperson, Toni Clemmons, Diane Erickson, Cynthia Gunderson, Linda Jorgensen, Diane Knudsen, Diane McNabney, Maureen Mackin, Susan Messinger, Wendy Nielsen, Bonnie Pionke, Linda Schar, Yvonne Stafford and Nancy Winn.

Following the ceremony, busy Brownies served refreshments to their parents and guests. Mrs. Frank Knudsen announced that the Jaycee-ettes of Rolling Meadows have elected to sponsor Troop 885 for the ensuing term. Troop leaders are Mrs. H. D. Jorgensen and Mrs. Ralph McNabney.

An investiture ceremony was held Feb. 27 for Nancy Birjowski, Vickie Braun and Debbie Meares of Troop 407. Nancy Schar and Joan Schmidt received their 1-year pins, and the following girls received their pins for two years: Patty Carmichael, Barbara Conway, Juanita Hahn, Patricia Johnson, Mary Ellen Mackin, Gail Neilson, Teresa Showman and Jo Anne Werling.

A Brownie play was presented by Patty Carmichael, Patricia Johnson, Nancy Schar, Joan Schmidt, Teresa Showman and Jo Anne Werling. The group sang Girl Scout songs for the parents present, and refreshments of lemonade, cookies and homemade fudge were served. Leader of this troop is Mrs. June Carmichael.

NORTH PALATINE

A weekend of winter fun was enjoyed by 15 girls of Mariner Ship 334 and their leader, Mrs. Don Sargol. Eighty girls from Northwest Cook Council headed for Camp MacLean in Burlington, Wis., where tobogganning was the most popular sport. Some of the girls had the opportunity to participate in Mass at the Franciscan Monastery.

Judy Hoffman, Pet Mickus, Gail Rielley and Lynda Sargol provided the evening entertainment and Sue Larson led the campfire songfest. All departed Sunday after lunch with fond memories.

Brownie Troop 501 enjoyed touring the Village Hall and old fire station with Gil Smith and Mrs. Boston as their guides. Feb. 14 a valentine party with games and fun was in store for them at the home of their leader.

Feb. 6 Girl Scouts of Troop 199 invited Brownie Troop 869 to their meeting. They taught their guests a few songs and the younger girls sang a Brownie song. Games were played and a square dance was the highlight of the affair. Theme for the decorations was in keeping with Valentine Day with hot chocolate and cup cakes being served.

Troop 199 is in charge of plans for the North Neighborhood's annual Father and Daughter Square Dance to be held March 11 in Winston Park School Gym from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. The mother's committee is assisting the girls with their plans. Marilyn Upland and Sheryl Molway are co-chairmen of the event. The scouts will take turns being greeters and serving refreshments.

SOUTH PALATINE

March 3, the 23 members of Troop 820 met for an afternoon of ice skating at the Palatine Rink. This was one of several special events planned by the troop to commemorate the Girl Scouts 50th anniversary.

These scouts also visited the Hawthorn Mellody Farm in Libertyville. The trip was planned in conjunction with the Homemaker Badge.

A new member in Troop 820 is Cathy Parker, who recently moved to Palatine from Venezuela, and the girls are looking forward to learning about her Scout Troop in South America.

An interested group of 11 girls is taking riding lessons together and will complete the training for the Horsewoman Badge before the Court of Awards. Co-leaders for Troop 820 are Mrs. Warren Gieffers and Mrs. Walter Lethem.

HOFFMAN ESTATES

Scout troops in the Lakeview School area have co-ordinated their activities and displays for Girl Scout Week so that each display representing the willbe day there will be a different display representing anniversary themes in the school.

Second grade Brownies of Troop 856 have been learning about China, Japan and France for International Friendship. They recently had a Chinese supper in the home of their leader, Mrs. Harold Zimberoff, and tried their hand at eating rice with chopsticks. (B9

Q. When sending a reply to a wedding invitation, should it be addressed to the bride-elect or to her parents?

A. Since the wedding invitation is usually issued in the name of the bride's parents, your reply should be addressed to them.

Apartment Construction Problems Face Des Plaines

Apartment construction problems akin to many which have risen in Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights — and especially Wheeling and Elk Grove — are besieging their neighbor, the City of Des Plaines.

In Des Plaines, multiple dwellings have become a critical issue — and apparently one of the most controversial and salient issues every to confront the city.

Questions of rezonings, building variations and land area requirements have cropped up en masse, and court suits are becoming common place.

Plaguing the community are questions of respective jurisdictions of the city council and zoning board — and county rezonings contiguous to the city.

AT THE SAME time the city boasts of its building development, and predicts and evidently seeks future building activity that will soar above the present — expansion and more expansion. It is perhaps the best example in the Northwest Suburbs of the adage, "Growth for growth's sake." Also, it is posing the biggest question mark as to the veracity of this adage.

Questions of multiple dwelling construction have dominated the front page of recent editions of one of its local newspapers. Citizens are complaining, the paper states, that the establishment of apartments in one part of city leads to more "in surrounding areas just as surely as ripples follow a stone cast in the water."

They have asked municipal officials "to throw a lasso on what they say is beginning to look like a galloping apartment house building trend." More than 100 residents appeared before the Des Plaines Municipal Development Committee Feb. 27 to complain about a proposed 24-acre apartment project at Elmhurst and Dempster Roads.

They predicted that unchecked apartment house growth would bring area water, traffic, sewage and school problems, and asked that a line be drawn to limit apartment developments, it was reported.

ATTORNEY FOR the petitioner seeking a rezoning of the 24 acres to permit apartments, stated that 99 out of 100 city planners would support his case. He pointed out that the county had rezoned the unincorporated area nearby for multi-family use, and that there has been extensive commercial development in the area.

Also being sought by the developer is s ome commercial rezoning of the area in which he wants to build apartments, all of which is now zoned for single family use. Citizens are worried about what type of businesses would be established there, it is reported.

And in another area on Algonquin Road, another developer is also seeking a rezoning to permit multi-family residences and is using much the same arguments. As in the first case, this developer originally began building single family homes. But now he claims he couldn't sell more of the same type of houses in the same area because of an "unexpected" apartment development in the county area immediately adjacent to that area.

THIS CLAIM unintentionally seems to have lent weight to the arguments of citizens that apartments lower the value of nearby single family residences.

The development committee recommended to the council that the apartments on Algonquin be allowed as a "buffer" between existing single family homes and the apartments already across the way in the county. It was not reported how an extenuation of more apartments would serve as a buffer between existing apartments.

One alderman suggested a proper buffer would be a tree-lined, landscaped parkway between the county apartments and the existing single-family subdivision. He said such a screen had worked to separate a single family area from a trailer park across a street.

The rezoning of the Algonquin tract was evidently approved by a majority vote of the council — but it was discovered that a two-thirds majority is legally necessary for a rezoning when a written protest has been filed against it.

About a year ago, Des Plaines drastically increased its land area requirements to a 2,800-square-foot minimum per apartment unit, the highest such requirement in this area. Comparatively, Wheeling recently increased its land area requirements to 2,100, 2,400, and 2,700 square feet for one-two- and three-bedroom apartments respectively.

BUT RECENTLY Des Plaines was shaken with a blatant attempt to circumvent the 2,800 square foot requirement.

A builder erected a group of apartments all on one side of a tract. Dividing the whole tract by the number of apartment units, he had met the requirements.

But then he asked for a variation of the land area requirement to allow construction of more apartments on the part of the tract he had left vacant — and has taken his case to court.

It has since been recommended to city officials that they change the zoning requirement to read that for each apartment building, 2,800 square feet of land be provided on its site for each apartment unit in the building. In other words, a building including six apartments would need a lot size of 16,800 square feet.

SOME AREA villages have already taken precautions against such an event as the above by requiring separate lots for each apartment building with a separate owner, and by forbidding the sale of individual units of an apartment building or connected row houses to separate owners.

Finally, Des Plaines is having a go-around between the council and zoning board — with Ald. Robert Bell, chairman of the council's Municipal Development Committee, recommending that final rulings on building variation cases be vested with the council and not the zoning board.

Also, Bell suggested that separate hearings on variations and rezonings be held by the board to prevent developers from making a variation a condition of a rezoning.

THE ISSUE arose after the board granted a rezoning and variation lowering the land area requirement.

The council denied the rezoning — an area in which it can overrule the zoning board — and another suit against the city resulted. It has been reported the council was probably actually against the variation, and to prevent it, denied the rezoning.

On Bell's recommendation, the zoning board said it is amenable to holding separate hearings on rezonings and variations in the future, and of extending important variation hearings to give the council time to study the proposal and prepare adequate protests if it desires.

However, the zoning board is against giving up its final jurisdiction over building variations.

Some area villages, such as Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove, assign all matters of zoning changes to their plan commissions, and variations of their building code to a separate board of appeals. Sometimes a member or more of the plan commission also sits on the board of appeals, mainly to represent the thinking behind village planning in considerations of building variations.

NEW STATE legislation encourages such a separation, and it is generally endorsed by professional community planners. Wheeling has contemplated such a change in jurisdictions.

Reasoning is that the body that is most involved in and responsible for community planning is most versed and best able to judge the appropriateness of zoning changes.

Nearly every community in the Northwest Suburbs now has an official master development plan, and Wheeling is in the process of preparing one. State law places the responsibility of such a plan squarely with a plan commission, appointed by the governing body of the community. Any change in zoning is change in the official plan.

"It is virtually impossible to transplant all the thinking that goes into planning" from a plan commission to another executive body, Wheeling's planner has informed village officials.

DES PLAINES citizens are complaining that the city is already saturated with multiple dwellings.

Of the city's 5,834 acres, it is reported 62.8 per cent contains single family residences, and about 17 per cent, industry. There are 243 acres zoned for multi-family residences, 295 for commercial use, 285 for schools, 140 for forest preserves, 115 for parks, 120 for research companies, and 306 are unsubdivided. Streets now occupy 960 acres. Highest percentage of multiple dwellings were constructed in 1960.

Present population figure is placed at 39,576, about 4,761 higher than in 1960. According to the Department of Public Works, 210 acres were annexed during 1961. (B8

Q. My boy friend sometimes baby-sits with his married sister's two-year-old child. He has asked me to keep him company, but my mother says this would not be proper. What do you say?

A. I say the same as your mother — a two-year-old child is not the best of chaperons!

Q. One of my husband's business associates was our guest at dinner recently, and on the following day he sent me some flowers. My husband says I should have written him a thank-you note. What do you say?

A. I agree with your husband.

Q. Is a hostess supposed to wait until all her guests have finished eating before beginning to remove the plates from the table?

A. Usually, yes. But if one of the guests is exceedingly slow, then it would be all right for her to begin removing the plates of the other guests.

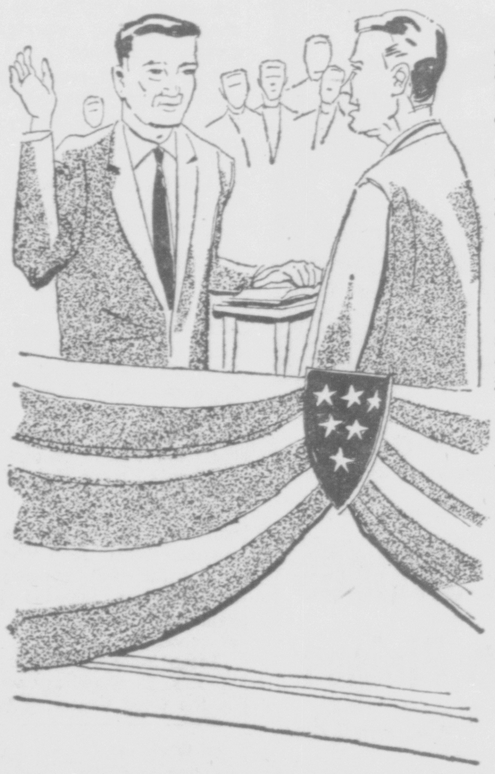
Christian Ideal
"Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers." Romans 13:1



THIS is the advice that St. Paul gave the Christians of his day about the rule of the Romans. In other words, the government may be wrong, and perhaps it should be changed, but it should not be changed by violence.

From newspaper reports it would appear that today's theory of changing governments is by revolution, violence and bloodshed.

The attitude of average citizens is the determining factor in any form of government. The Christian ideal that only a president, prime minister or dictator who is a servant of God and the people is worthy of rule has almost completely collapsed.

The Christian ideal of how to change a government for the better must begin with the individual. It must begin in our own church; it must extend to every church of the land.

Attend the church of your choice this Sunday.

Q. Just what is considered the proper length of time between the announcement of an engagement and the wedding itself?

A. There is no "proper" length of time. Usually, however, the maximum is about six months, and if a couple anticipates a greater length of time, the announcement can either be postponed or, if it is in the newspaper, it can be ended with the statement, "No date has as yet been set for the wedding."

Students Mold 'Dream' Homes

by MELDA LYNN

Old-fashioned initiative plus dreams of a superbly luxurious world have combined to stimulate the minds and hands of pupils in 7 eighth grade art classes of Lincoln School, Mount Prospect. If the homes of their dreams are to become real parts of our communities, America is bound to be far removed from the welfare state.

Art teacher Miss Judy Hensel assigned a six-week architectural project to her pupils. They were to completely plan and build the home of their dreams. Most of the work was to be done at home with only a minimal amount of parental assistance and outlay of cash allowed.

The results of their dreams show that just about every youngster expects to be among the highest income group of the nation. Their houses; bi-level, tri-level, ranch, round, oblong, U-shaped and every other shape possible to imagine were built, complete in every detail, even to the number of cars in the family estate garages.

One home had its own private putting green. Most had outdoor swimming pools, some indoor pools; some had sunken living rooms and one had a complete plastic roof.

Miss Hensel discussed the various phases of the project during classtime in order to let the pupils develop an understanding of architecture, one of the seven creative arts.

They began by dreaming about the kind of homes they wanted to live in when they became homeowners. They learned the different types of floor plans, materials which could be used in various climates, which types of furnishings should be used in a particular style of home and the proper landscaping which would be in keeping with the architectural styles.

Said Miss Hensel, "Each home that came in was a wonderful surprise. It was just like Christmas, I never saw so many lovely surprises in my life!"

THE ARCHITECTURAL study began for members of the eighth grade art students at Lincoln School with a discussion of types of floor plans. Miss Judy Hensel, art teacher, explained the various types of architecture and how certain styles could be adapated to climatic conditions.

ROGER SCHULT, 808 S. I-Oka, below, drew plans for his home which he proposed to build in California. The plan each pupil drew included dimensions of rooms, landscaping details and other "essentials" such as swimming pools and patios.

PUPILS SCROUNGED in their homes for materials they thought could be used, in some way, to build their homes. Each pupil was to spend not more than $1 to purchase materials to supplement what they could find available at home or school. The trio, left, seems in deep thought, trying to decide how they can use some of the items they found in the art room. They include, left to right, Kim Swarski, 703 W. Milburn; Tom Johnson, 408 S. Wille and Christine Elman, 401 S. Pine.

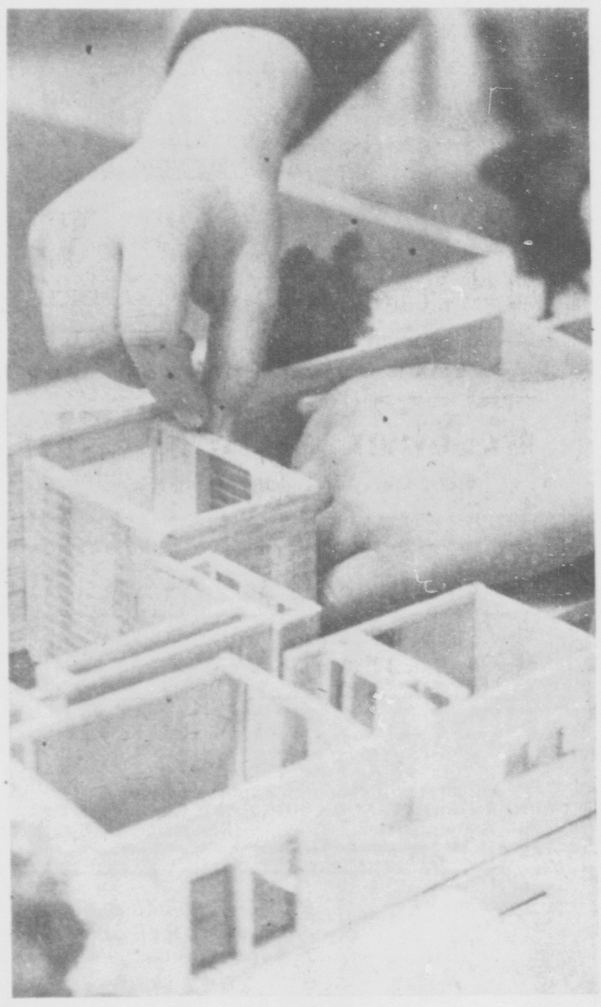
BOB POPE, 710 S. See-Gwun and Jim Sanich, left, peered into a home made by one of their classmates which featured a complete plastic roof. Part of the project included a study of how roofs, such as flat, curved or sloping should be taken into consideration in deciding in what kind of a climate a home would be built. A flat roof would not be desirable in a location which would have heavy snowfalls, pupils learned.

THE PROJECT included a session on landscaping. Trees were made of colored sponges, paper mache or lichen. Larry Banister, 821 Dresser Drive and Christine Blomberg, 807 E. Emerson, explained some of the reasons why certain trees were placed in the layout and what kind of landscaping was proper for not only the type of architecture of the homes they discussed, but the kinds to be used in certain climates.



THE DEFT HANDS of Debbie Swanberg, 503 See-Gwun, glued together walls for the inside of her home made of balsa wood, which is used to build airplanes. She is shown glueing a piece of plastic as the enclosure for a bathtub. Houses were complete in every detail. Some included furniture made of toothpicks, minute cardboard telephones and even framed pictures for the walls to show proper use of room space.

MUCH OF the fun of the project was bringing in the finished homes which could be put on display for parents, teachers and schoolmates, Tom Johnson and Roger Schult, left, helped put the finished houses on display tables in the entrance hall of Lincoln School where they are on inspection.

PART OF THE overall display included drawings of the house plans the pupils made. Kathie Murphy, 623 S. Edward and Kim Swarski, pinned the house plans on a display board which was placed as a background for the display of homes.

PARENTS WERE as thrilled with the results of the project as the teachers and pupils. Mrs. Robert W. Norcross, above left, and Mrs. Raymond A. Lawrence stopped by the school to see the handiwork of their children. The display has been of such interest that it is being held over for the next two weeks.

Flower, Garden Show Will Open March 24

Local nursery owners will be among some 2,000 Allied Florists Association members from 21 states who will contribute to displays at the fourth annual Chicago World Flower and Garden Show which opens Saturday, March 24, at McCormick Place. The show will run through April 1.

Charles Klehm and Son Nursery and Hallenbach's Country Garden, both of Arlington Heights; R. C. Knupper Nursery and Garden Center, Palatine, and C. Haussermann Co., Orchids, Elmhurst, will be among local merchants presenting lisplays.

Responsible for the over all show design and several display gardens are Harold O. Klopp and Associates, landscape architects of Palatine.

THE KLEHM and Haussermann nurseries will combine their efforts in a display garden, entitled "Music and Orchids," which will provide a backdrop for choral groups featured in the show.

The hillside fronting the garden will be massed with hundreds of Orchid plants, backed by a foil personally selected by Klehm on a recent Florida trip.

The Hallenback display, "A Country Garden," will have lines of lawn edged by gravel paths bordering massed beds of Salvia, Marigolds, Begonias, Caleus and Caladiums. A rustic bridge will lead over a clear pond to woodland of pine, birch and Shadblow.

ANOTHER FEATURE of the display will be an oil painting of the garden by Mrs. Sue Schultz of Rolling Meadows.

The theme of the Knupper display is "Individuality Through Landscaping." It will include a pair of lansdcape treatments for a front foundation planting.

A pair of house facades will form the background of the garden. The approach of the first garden will be primarily evergreens, including Globe Yew, Pfitzer Juniper, Andorra Juniper and Mission Spire Juniper, accented by Crimson Pygmy Barberry, Cockspur Thorn and Honey Locust.

The second section has a straight lines using deciduous material of Cockspur Thorn, Dwarf Burning Bush and Sargent's Crab with evergreen accents of Mugho Pine, Japanese Spurge and Bigleaf Winter Creeper.

A SEPARATE Klehm display will be called, "Garden Pleasures." It will depict a woodland of spring beauty contrasted by a contemporary brick patio and pool. Framing the patio will be spring bulbs of several varieties and colors accented by tree Peonies and standard Ayolias.

Sweeping grass paths will lead through a woodland of Pine, Oaks, Maple, Crab and Dogwood underplanted with Rhododendron, Azalias, flowering Quince and many varieties of ground covers, and spring bulbs in a rainbow of color. (B-8

Part Two of a Series

National Church Council in Aid to Overseas Countries

(In 1950, the National Council of Churches was formed by 29 Protestant and Orthodox church bodies — representing the common spirit and purpose of its members. Today, 33 denominations (with nearly 40 million churchgoers) are members of the Council. The following article on the NCC's international activities follows one last week describing domestic operations.)

They taught 60 million Asians and Africans to read . . . converted a former "kamikaze" pilot in Japan into a teacher of modern agriculture.

In Korea, they built artificial legs for amputees.

Their revolving loan funds gave thousands of Arab families new dignity and self-reliance.

At Hong Kong craft centers they trained young girls for factory work.

Fifty countries have felt the warmth, strength and comfort of their gifts . . . totalling $225 million in food, clothing and medicines!

This is the National Council of Churches at work overseas.

Formed in 1950, the NCC is the cooperative federation of 33 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations and under their united mandate, the Council maintains more than 70 year-round programs at home and overseas.

THROUGH ITS Christian Rural Overseas Program alone, people of Iowa have contributed a total of $2,400,000 in cash and commodities for hungry people abroad.

Referred to as "CROP" this program has been called upon by President Kennedy to handle the first citizen gift—200 tons of wheat—offered by a California rancher to the President's Food-for-Peach program.

Cash and corn are rounded up by CROP volunteers in 18 states . . . with more counties joining in all the time to ship overseas donations of wheat, rice, beans and other non-perishable staples.

THROUGH Church World Service — the NCC's overseas relief and rehabilitation agency—thousands of lives have been saved . . earthquake victims in Chile . . . tuberculosis patients in Korea . . . undernourished school children in Jamaica and Jordon . . . starving farmers in Pakistan and Greece whose sub-marginal land no longer supported them.

But the accent is not wholly on feeding and clothing the needy.

Church World Service — and various other programs of the National Council of Churches . . . are anxious to make workers in other lands healthy and skillful enough to improve their own living standards.

SHIPMENTS of seed for pastures, experimental planting and garden projects, incubators for a village poultry project, tractors and tools for land development, technical information and teachers are provided to these lands.

An international student exchange program operated by the NCC has proven invaluable in preparing natives of other countries to return to their own people prepared to help them live better. Poverty, malnutrition and infant mortality are the common enemies . . . and with their worldly goods, member churches of the NCC aim to defeat them.

But "not by bread alone does man live."

IT IS THE hope of these mission-minded churches to spread the Gospel of Christ to every human being. As in domestic operations, overseas work involves efforts to uplift men spiritually as well as economically.

At least 79 foreign mission boards and related agencies cooperating in the NCC, are hard at work abroad . . . facing the variety of problems met by Christian missions in 60 different lands. Africa, Latin America, the Far East, the Near East and Southern Asia all profit by these coordinated labors.

NCC member churches offer training and guidance not only to their own missionaries bound for overseas work—but for foreign candidates at American mission schools. They provide youth guidance, literature and teaching supplies to these young people, and remain in close contact with them when they've gone into the mission field.

NCC AUDIO-VISUAL aids for Gospel teaching have been adopted by member churches . . . who know a Brazilian boy or girl learns more readily through animated cartoons and musical sound tracks, just as American youngsters do.

Believing the 600,000 Americans living abroad have a tremendous potential for Christian influence among their new-found neighbors, the National Council of Churches helps them raise funds to build churches and secure ministers to serve these churchgoers.

NCC representatives are always available to give guidance to such Americans . . . considered unofficial Christian ambassadors overseas.

THROUGH THEIR Council, member churches cooperate in the recruiting of prospective missionaries . . . and also help maintain the Missionary Research Library of the Union Theological Seminary in New York . . . . largest Protestant repository for missionary literature. Mission research is another active branch of the work.

Thus the Gospel of Christ is spread abroad as zealously as the seeds of economic improvement. In the words of a church member, "If the hungry man does not attain to faith, then the guilt falls on those who refused him bread."

Scouts Cooperate With Good Will

The Northwest Suburban Council, Boy Scouts of America, is cooperating with Good Will Industries of Chicago on a huge "Good Turn" during the month of March, according to Robert Gillilan, 110 Lake Shore Terrace, Tower Lake, Barrington, chairman of the council committee on activities.

On Saturday, March 17, more than 10,000 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers will distribute more than 50,000 Good Will Clothing Bags direct to homes in the communities of Arlington Heights, Barrington, Barrington Hills, Buffalo Grove, Deer Park, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Feehanville, Forest River, Hatlen Heights, Hawthorne Woods, Hoffman Estates, Kildeer, Lake Barrington, Lake Zurich.

ALSO LEXINGTON Fields, Lincolnwood, Morton Grove, Mount Prospect, Niles, North Barrington, Palatine, Prospect Heights, Park Ridge, Rolling Meadows, Roselle, Rosemont, Schaumburg, Schiller Park, Skokie, Timber Lakes, Tower Lake, Twinbrook, Weathersfield, and Wheeling.

On the following Saturday, March 24, these same Scouts will pick up the filled bags of clothing and take them to a collection point in each community, where the Good Will Industries will arrange to pick them up and take them to their building in Chicago.

There is a great need for clothing, particularly at this time of year, states Hugo Harshbarger, special gifts director of Good Will, who is working with the local Scout Officials in arranging this gigantic undertaking.

EVERY FAMILY in the northwest suburbs is urged to begin assembling clothing now, and to watch for the Cub Scout, Boy Scout or Explorer to call on March 17.

For 52 years, the Boy Scouts of America has had as their motto, "Do A Good Turn Daily" and certainly this area-wide "Good Turn" will symbolize the character building, citizenship training phase of the Scouting Movement.

The Golden Years

Offer Alternatives For Couples' Money

By THOMAS COLLINS

What a couple can do with its money if the husband and wife retire at age 65 with a little:

SPEND IT. The couple has, say, $8,000. They also have a retirement income of at least $200 a month. They can figure that the first five years of retirement, or up to age 70, will be the best. So the two will enjoy themselves. They split the $8,000 into five equal parts and use $1,600 each year (or $133 a month) to live it up, with trips, winters in the sunshine, etc.

TAKE IT WITH YOU. The couple can go to a reputable funeral home and make all arrangements in advance. There's no rule saying they can't have a gold-plated caskets if they choose. The heirs would weep, but think what excitement there would be in 1,000 years when somebody excavated them.

PUT IT IN THE BANK. Interest on savings accounts in normal commercial banks now runs up to 4 per cent, usually paid semi-annually or quarterly. The couple can put their money here with peace of mind and usually can draw it out simply by walking up to the counter.

PUT IT IN A SAVINGS & LOAN. The couple usually gets a little more interest here—up to 4½ per cent, payable quarterly or semi-annually. Rules differ from city to city, as the interest rate does, but usually the couple can draw the money out whenever they want it. There's peace of mind here, too, if the couple selects an "insured" Savings & Loan.

BUY AN ANNUITY. The retired couple can go to a life insurance company and buy various types of annuities for cash. The annuity guarantees payments of so much per month for life, the amount depending on the ages of the couple and the sum of money put into it. A common type of annuity is one that returns no money upon death, thus enabling higher monthly payments.

BUY MUTUAL FUNDS. This gets into what is known as "investments" as contrasted with "savings." The couple buys mutual funds from investment houses, brokers and, in some cases, banks. A mutual fund is usually a collection of stocks or bonds, or both. A share in a mutual fund is a share in a package of these stocks and bonds that may cover 100 or more industries. The managers of the fund are constantly buying and selling in an effort to enhance the value of the shares or to increase the income from them.

BUY COMMON STOCKS. The couple here casts its fortune with the ups and downs of the country's economy. An investment of $10,000 may grow to $20,000, or may shrink to $2,000. In general, there are three kinds of common stocks—growth, income and safe. The retired couple would want income and safety.

BUY PREFERRED STOCKS. They're a bit safer than common stocks, with a return of 3 to 4 per cent, but with little protection against inflation. The retired couple with substantial money could do worse—in fact, this is where wealthy retired people often have much of their money.

That's the Law

Origin of Zoning Law Comparatively Recent

(This is another in a series of articles provided as a public service by the Illinois State Bar Association for Paddock Publications.)

The law with respect to zoning, unlike many other fields of the law, is of rather recent origin. The first zoning statute in Illinois was enacted only forty years ago. Notwithstanding this fact, most municipalities, and many counties, now have zoning ordinances.

These ordinances restrict the use to which real estate may be put, such as, residential, agricultural, commercial, light industrial, heavy industrial and so forth. They also generally restrict the type and heighth of buildings that may be erected and the space that they may occupy.

In municipalities that wish to adopt zoning regulations a zoning commission is appointed. This commission prepares a proposed zoning ordinance and, after giving public notice, holds a hearing at which those in the community who are interested may appear and be heard.

FOLLOWING this hearing the commission makes a report to the city council or village board, which then considers the adoption of the ordinance.

The ordinance that is adopted may not deprive a property owner of the use of such property for any purpose to which it is being lawfully put at the time the ordinance is adopted.

The ordinance must designate an officer who will be responsible for enforcing it. Decisions of this officer are subject to appeal to a board of appeals, which is appointed by the city council or village board. Decisions of the board of appeals may, in turn, be appealed to the circuit court.

A municipality may exercise its zoning powers in contiguous territory not more than one and a half miles from the city limits if the territory is not in another municipality or the county has not adopted a county zoning plan.

THE ORDINANCE customarily provides for penalties for violation of its provisions. In addition, the city or village or any property owner or tenant in the same area may bring suit to enjoin violations of the ordinance.

In instances in which enforcement of the ordinance would involve practical difficulties or particular hardship the city council or village board, in some cases, the board of appeals in others, may grant a "variation"; that is, waive the application of the ordinance in the particular case.

Before doing so, however, there must be a public hearing at which the party seeking the variation produces evidence that the property cannot yield a reasonable return if the ordinance is applied to it, that the plight of the owner is due to unique circumstances and that, if the variation is granted, the essential character of the neighborhood will not be altered.

IF THE OWNER of property does obtain a variation it is personal to him and if he subsequently transfers the property to someone else the permission for variation ceases.

The zoning ordinance adopted by a municipality may be amended by the city council or village board. Before such an amendment is adopted, however, there must be a hearing before a commission or committee appointed by the city council or village board — usually the board of appeals—which makes a recommendation to the council or board.

If the owners of 20 per cent or more of the property directly affected by a proposed zoning change file a written protest, the change can only be adopted by a 2/3 vote.

SINCE MARCH 31, 1960, municipalities having zoning regulations must now annually publish an official zoning map showing all existing zoning uses, divisions, restrictions, regulations and classifications. Copies may be obtained for $5.00 from the city.

The law with respect to county zoning is substantially the same as the law with respect to municipal zoning, with the county board exercising the functions exercised by the city council or village board in municipalities.

(This column is written to inform and not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without consulting his attorney. Even a slight difference in the facts may change the result under the law.)

Art Institute Is in Unenviable Position

By LU ILE ERNST

For many years the Chicago Art Institute has been in an unenviable position. As a product of the Chicago area, it would seem the Institute should reflect midwestern art in all its facets, good and bad. As a highly regarded institution of the fine arts, it seems also that only the best of art should be shown to the public.

For many years, it seems to me, this institution has fluctuated between these two ideals, receiving for their trouble, brickbats and sneers from the public, press, and artists. One simply can't please everyone.

In this world it is difficult to please anyone and so, of course, the sensible thing to do is to please oneself, even if you are wrong.

THIS IS about what the director of the Art Institute decided, apparently. In their recent show, only the best works of well known artists were exhibited. Art Experts, critics, and most artists, felt the choice of exhibitors was excellent. They feel it is not necessary for the Art Institute to discover new talent, Chicago talent, that is, nor to reflect this particular area.

I suppose this is proper and right. We should be that cosmopolitan. In any case, the Art Institute seems to have made a decision which may well be an excellent one.

What of our local artists? They seem to be flourishing. On March 16, the Arts Festival will open at McCormick Place. In addition to the artisians, painters and sculptors who will exhibit over 5000 pieces of their work, the theatre in McCormick Place will be the center of a display of ballet and dances, jazz and folk music, dramatic and musical plays.

THIS IS A dream come true for most of us who have felt that the arts in the Chicago area have been treated as stepchiidren or worse, not treated at all.

The artists of each area of Chicago and suburbs had their work juried within their own area. The best works were chosen to be exhibited at McCormick Place.

This exhibit is highly competitive, of course, and no one should feet any embarrassment at being rejected. I can't say one should not feel unhappy, just not embarrassed. It is hard to be sensitive enough to want to paint and be insensitive at being rejected. If it helps any, most good artists have suffered the same fate, most great artists expected it.

WITHIN the Metropolitan area of Chicago are many art groups which not only fan the creative spirit of art for those who want to produce art but arouse and sustain the interest of those who want to enjoy it.

Such a group is the Des Plaines Art Guild. On Sunday, March 11, from 1 to 5 p.m., the Des Plaines Art Guild will present their annual Spring Arts Festival. The Festival will be held at West Park Fieldhouse, which is located at Wolf and Greenview, in Des Plaines.

Paintings in a variety of mediums will be exhibited as well as sketches, sculpture and ceramics. Refreshments will be served and admission is free. How pleasant can it be? (Bill

Concordia Choir Will Present Concert Here

The 43-voice choir of Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Mo., will present a concert March 17 at 7:30 p.m. at St. Paul Lutheran Church, 100 S. School St., Mount Prospect.

DR. HEYNE

This chorus, now in its 60th concert season, is composed of young men preparing for the Lutheran ministry. Organized in 1902, the Concordia Seminary Chorus has sung throughout the United States during the course of its concert seasons. The members of the chorus have been personally selected after auditions given by the chorus director, Dr. William Heyne.

When a member is chosen to join the Concordia Seminary Chorus, he is pledged to regular practice sessions conducted four times a week. These practices prepare the chorus to present proficiently its varied musical repertoire, including Baroque, classical, and modern compositions and arrangements.

The featured work on this year's program is Bach's Church Cantata No. 192, "Now Thank We All Our God." Also included in the program is the duet from Cantata 196, "The Lord Prosper You."

Selections from such other great composers as Hassler, Palestrina, Mozart, Handel, and the American composer Randall Thompson will make this program a well-rounded musical experience. (B-8

Paddock Printed Folder Is Winner

Paddock Publications, Inc., an Arlington Heights-based printing and publishing firm, this week received an award for a printed piece which was displayed in Chicago's "Proudest Printed Products" exhibit during Printing Week, 1962.

The award was made for a folder entitled, "More Profit from Your Vending Machine Thru Ice." The folder was produced for Reynolds Engineering Co. of Arlington Heights.

THE FOLDER was designed by Lee Carver, Paddock Publications' art director. It outlines features of the Reynolds' ice-making machine which adds ice to soft drinks dispensed by coin-operated vending machines.

The award was made by the Graphic Arts Council of Chicago. Production of the two-color folder was by the offset process. (A14

Late Planting of Crops Cuts Weeds

Late planting of crops will reduce weeds. Ninety per cent of the weeds germinate between April 15 and June 15. Waiting until late in this period to plant causes more of the weed seedlings to be destroyed by seedbed preparation.

The rule of thumb in planting, according to F. W. Slife, University of Illinois agronomist, is to prepare seedbeds early, delay planting and then kill germinating weeds by preparing seedbeds again.

ANNUAL CROP losses due to weeds add up to $11 billion in the United States. Weeds increase labor and equipment costs and lower the quality of farm products. They also invite insects, lower land values and impair human health.

"The major weed problem is weeds that come up with the crop," adds Slife. Harrowing and rotary hoeing while the crop is small and before the field becomes green with weeds will help to solve this problem.

Crop rotations prevent any one type of weed from building up, but the end result is usually more types of weeds. With good management, crop rotation is the best control, believes Slife.

ATRAZINE, WHEN used as a pre-emergence, is effective in controlling both broadleaf weeds and grasses in corn. Randox, also used as a pre-emergence, will kill some grasses. Amiben, for soybeans only, will kill both broadleaf weeds and grasses when used as a pre-emergence.

To be effective, spraying should be done early. Don't spray on windy days, and use non-volatile sprays and follow state laws on spraying. (FM

Pass Curfew For County

A curfew ordinance covering the unincorporated areas of Cook County was passed by the county board of commissioners Monday. The curfew, for youngsters under 17, goes into effect immediately.

The ordinance passed unanimously. When it had first been proposed by Cook County Sheriff Frank G. Sain, however, the question was raised if the sheriff's office could bear this added burden.

At that time, Commissioner Charles F. Chaplin, R-Northbrook, had commented: "I'm not convinced we should come in with some new law until we make sure we are enforcing the laws on the books. The sheriff has said he doesn't have the staff to enforce the gambling laws."

THE NEW CURFEW makes it unlawful for any boy or girl under 17, not accompanied by a parent, legal guardian or "other proper companion of the age of 21 years or more," to be in any public place between the hours of 11:30 p.m. and 6 a.m. on Friday and Saturday and from 10:30 p.m. on during the week.

A warning is issued with the first offense and parents are notified of the infraction. If a second violation occurs within the period of one year from the date of the first offense, parents can be fined anywhere from $5 to $100.

The county has some 400 square miles of unincorporated area with a population estimated in excess of half a million people. Sheriff Sain, when questioned if he could uphold the law, related that he had 120 men to patrol this area.

Commissioner Seymour Simon, the board's finance committee chairman who had presided over a public hearing on the curfew ordinance, had argued that "A curfew law is never enforced absolutely; it's enforced at the discretion of the officer." He said it gives parents additional authority because they have to comply with the law.

SHERIFF SAIN, in defense of his recommendation, stated that a curfew is "for the benefit of parents as well as children," adding, "many youngsters from municipalities that do have curfew regulations hop into their cars shortly before their curfew hour and go out into the unincorporated areas to spend additional hours at a time when they should be home in bed."

State's Attorney Daniel P. Ward, who drafted the document, commented that "the prime responsibility for seeing that this ordinance is complied with is placed upon the parents or guardians of teenagers. This is an attempt to compel parents to reassert their duty of primary supervision over children." (B8

WANT ADS are for EVERYBODY

People make jokes about guys like me. I'm one of those fathers who could hardly wait for his son to get his first electric train, so we could both play with it. Now thanks to my habit of reading the Want Ads, we have our train. I bought it just in time for Christmas from a fellow whose boy had outgrown it, and who ran a Want Ad to sell it. It's a dandy train, and I saved money by finding it through a Want Ad. I'm a firm believer in the saying "Want Ads Are For Everybody."

Vows Watchdog Role Over Taxpayer Money

Scott Tells Of Experience

By JOHN REDDY

William J. Scott, boyish looking Evanston resident, vowed last week that his legal and banking experience will enable him to be a "watchdog" over a billion dollars of Illinois taxpayers' money.

The 35-year-old banking executive, in an interview with editors of Paddock Publications, Inc., said the function of state treasurer "not only is to be watchdog but a spotlight for the people of the state," detecting and reporting irregularities in other offices.

ONE OF THREE GOP candidates for nomination as treasurer in the April 10 Primary Election, Scott considers himself a political independent. He is bucking powerful GOP forces, but has gained the support of numerous downstate county central committeemen.

"Although it is a handicap at this stage, it is an asset as treasurer and a great advantage to be your own guide politically," Scott stressed. "It is a great mistake if this office is dominated by the other offices it is set up to watch."

Scott made issue of the fact that his banking experience would enable him to make better investment of state funds, thus providing additional money.

TO INSURE that the best investments could be made, Scott said he would open up bids to more competition. He alleged that there have been "leaks" on information and that "the word often has been given as to what a bid should be." This, he added, has been "rather consistent."

He explained, however, that all banks offer approximately the same interest.

He has resigned as vice president of the National Boulevard Bank of Chicago, a position to which he was appointed two years ago after 12 years' experience in the banking and legal fields, and has promised no state funds will be deposited with that financial institution.

Chairman of the Cook County Young Republican Organization in 1949 and the first vice president of the Illinois Young Republican Organization in 1949-50, Scott said he is "dedicated to the Republican Party."

"I'm not fooling anybody if I don't say the office is going to be staffed by Republicans," he declared. He stressed, however, "that I'm not interested in selling the treasurer's office to get elected.

"I'VE PLEDGED to fill the full four-year term and I'm not interested in any political machine for Bill Scott."

He explained that he considers there are two ways for running for office—"the Daley-machine way or up through the ranks . . . I believe in the dignity of the individual. If we are going to revitalize our party, it's got to come up through the individual political units."

While Rep. Walter Reum, Oak Park, has the support of the Cook County GOP Central Committee, in the race for treasurer, and the support of Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier, Scott has the backing of McHenry, Lake and DuPage County central committees.

One of the advantages Scott believes is working in his favor as he campaigns against his opponents for the GOP treasurer's nomination, Reum and Maurice W. Coburn, is the fact that he is the only one with banking experience.

THIS, HE says, will offer some savings to the state in that it saves the cost of a banker who would have to be called in as an advisor if a lawyer wins the office. He feels also that his banking experience will make available to him competent counsel on financial problems that may arise.

Scott said further that the treasurer should be in a position to bring about economies in other state offices. "I know that every state office can economize and cut . . . we must get back to financial stability."

He said he did not have any specific example of where such economy measures could be achieved but cited what he feels is an abundance of needless patronage positions protected by the state Democratic organization.

WHILE HE indicated disdain for the increase in number of jobs created in building an "arrogant machine," Scott said he does not think the financial situation is the result of building a political machine.

"But the treasurer will be able to find out where there is padding." He cited the Chicago political machine as being an example of one over-loaded with patronage jobs.

Scott said he would keep the treasurer's office out of any issue arising in connection with efforts to establish branch banking in Illinois. General support for branch banking in the past has been centered in Chicago financial institutions.

Although Scott said the treasurer "has the responsibility to come out with constructive ideas or criticism, he shouldn't attempt to make the office one for lobbying.

"Leadership has to come from the legislature with the program being outlined by an economy-minded governor."

TAKING A STAND against a state income tax, Scott recognizes a need for a revision of the revenue article. He noted, however, that a "realistic" approach to the growing state financial problem would be to "cut spending and try and figure out where increased revenue can be had.

He said he had no opinion on a corporate tax, reasserting his belief that "the treasurer should be an administrator and leave the policy matters to the legislature."

"I don't believe any office should dominate another part of the government," he opined, declaring that "one of the problems today is that leadership has come from outside the legislature too often."

Scott said had "no opinion" on numerous state issues, but dismissed the absence of any by re-asserting his belief that the treasurer's office is one geared to administration rather than policy.

The soft-speaking political new-comer said he doesn't think state safe deposit boxes should be inspected by the treasurer's office. This function, he suggested, should more properly be with the office of attorney general, regardless whether a Democrat or Republican. This would mean the shifting of some 75 jobs from the treasurer's jurisdiction to that of the Illinois attorney general's office.

WILLIAM J. SCOTT

SCOTT IS A member of the regular Republican organization in Evanston, where he lives at 925 Hinman Ave., with his wife and 2-year-old daughter, Elizabeth Anne.

In 1959, while serving as assistant U.S. attorney for the Northern District of Illinois, he was in charge of a federal cleanup action on the crime syndicate's gaming and vice activities in Calumet City. He feels this investigative experience will be an asset in providing the office with experience for serving as "watchdog."

He served in the U. S. Navy Air Corps during World War II and is a graduate of the Kent College of Law. (B8

Orchestra Auditions Slated for April 27

Soloist auditions for the Northwest Symphony orchestra will be held at 8 p.m., Friday, April 27, at Maine Township High School East, Mrs. Leota Schwenke, auditions committee chairman, announced this week.

Instrumentalists and vocalists interested in being heard, may call Mrs. Schwenke, VA 4-7727. Soloists must furnish their own accompanists, she said.

"The symphony board wishes to give our locally talented people the opportunity to perform with the orchestra," Mrs. Schwenke said. "Our community is constantly growing, and our only means of finding these talents is for them to come forward at audition time."

Members of the committee are Dr. William Heller, Des Plaines, and Robert Johnson of Park Ridge.

THE ORCHESTRA'S next concert will be at 8 p.m., Sunday, April 15, at the high school. Featured will be Mary Sauer, who will play Tschaikowsky's piano concerto in B-flat major.

The orchestra, under the direction of Perry Crafton, is sponsored by the Service League of Lutheran General Hospital.

During the last concert, Feb. 4, the orchestra played selections from Bach, Beethoven and Tschaikowsky. Featured soloist was mezzo-soprano Carol Oyster, a Maine Township graduate. (Bill

Educators Emphasize Role of the Schools

Principals Meet, Discuss Problems

by DAN PRIBILSKI

If the United States is not all its champions claim it to be, part of the fault can be found in our educational system.

Last week, 7,500 delegates of secondary schools attended the 46th Annual Convention of the National Association of Secondary School Principals in St. Louis.

Speakers in the convention discussed the defects of television as a teaching aid, the need for better teacher training, the need for more motivation of students, trends in automated education, and the question of more money for education.

Reports of the convention were provided to Paddock Publications by United Press International wire services.

SOME OF the things educators said were:

—"Large group education (such as television) is cheap education."

—Teaching of English "is a disgrace to the American education system."

—If schools are to advance goals for strengthening democracy, "we must stop fooling students and the public about what an education is."

—Push - button educational methods developed with automation "have given thrust to a national drift towards conformity."

THE MASS media and automation prompted B. Frank Brown, principal of Melbourne High School, Melbourne, Fla., to ask: "What is one to say to the individualistic child in the fully automated school of the future who says to his classmate, 'The only way to get any attention around here is to bend your IBM card'?"

Then he called television "the massiest media in the history of mass media."

Brown's views were seconded by those of Galen Saylor, chairman of the Dept. of Secondary Education at the University of Nebraska.

He criticized the over-use of television instruction in the high school classroom.

SAYLOR said when television is scheduled regularly as a substitute for a classroom teacher, it is "a travesty on quality education." He said television should be used only to provide instruction not otherwise available or as "a tool to be used by a skillful teacher."

The nub of Saylor's comments and others who spoke at the convention was that the recruiting of better teachers and more of them is needed.

But quality teachers do not grow on trees.

A critic of English instruction, James R. Squire, executive secretary of the National Council of Teachers of English, said improvement of teacher training is necessary.

He said too many teachers have been inadequately trained in college to cope with modern classes. Of English majors, he said, only 40 per cent of today's graduates from college are really prepared to teach English.

THE ULTIMATE question upon which the educators gave considerable attention was "what is education?"

It is not "the three R's or homework, or unlimited facts, or a Phi Beta Kappa key, or a high school diploma, or a degree from an ivy league college," Warren G. Hill said. He is a commissioner of education at Augusta, Me.

It is, he said, "a state of mind—a sense of responsibility, a commitment, a never-ending progression toward the realization of a dream."

Hill spoke of democracy and how it should be intertwined with education.

GOALS—"the dreams" — of this country are wrapped up with the value commitments students themselves have developed "with the school acting as the most powerful catalyst," Hill said.

Henry W. Wriston, president of the American Assembly at Columbia University, said in concurring with Hill, "I object to the continuous absorption of curricular time and energy in practical training at the expense of stress upon citizenship and personal integrity."

The important thing to democracy and the kind of education upon which it feeds is involvement—the educators say there can be no passive spoon-feeding.

B. Frank Brown said, "Schools should provide intensive training in dynamic small cluster-type situations where students ricochet problems back and forth. In this atmosphere, the individual learns to think and wrestle intellectually with dynamic problems."

Wriston seemed to agree with both Hill and Brown. Not enough students going to college was blamed, in part, because there was no involvement—no intellectual curiosity stirred at lower levels of education.

WHILE the educators at the convention stressed students should not go to college merely for prestige or a diploma as a "passport to a job," they did agree more people should go to college.

However, the educators warned against setting up our educational patterns with the definiteness and preciseness of the communist patterns in the Soviet Union.

Many people viewing Russia and comparing our educational system, Wriston said, think the answer is to just spend more money on education in this country.

AMERICAN education does need more money, Wriston conceded, "I would be glad to see all schools better supported by individuals, corporations, by cities, and within certain limits by the federal government."

But money is not the antidote for a social problem like discrimination in the South, or North, Wriston commented.

Discrimination will only end with a "manifestation of courage and dedication to the principle that every individual, whatever his orgin, his environment, his race, his creed, shall have the best we can give him."

WRISTON concluded his talk before the convention, "If education gets to be the exciting program of fulfillment of the potentiality of each individual, money in adequate supply will be forthcoming. The program must come first; support comes second."

Earl J. MaGrath, executive officer of the Institute of Higher Education Teachers College, Columbia University, said that in America's quest for more college trained people, small colleges should not be overlooked.

MAGRATH SAID that one of the advantages of smaller colleges is that they offer in general a closer contact between the faculty and students than at large universitites.

He said that small colleges which do try to compete with large universities in areas such as research endanger their own economic well-being and hurt the quality of their educational program. (A-14

District 25 Board

Two Petitions Filed In School Election

As of midweek, the only two persons who had filed petitions as candidates for the two posts on the Arlington Heights Elementary District 25 School Board were the two men endorsed by the nominating committee caucus.

The two official candidates are Victor Myer, presently serving out an unexpired term by appointment, and Harold E. Sortor.

No record is kept of persons picking up nominating petitions, which must bear the signature of 50 eligible voters to get a candidate's name on the ballot, but it is known that at least two other persons have petitions.

THERE HAVE been no public indications, however, that these petitions will be made use of in District 25.

Petitions must be filed between Feb. 28 and March 24, in order to qualify a candidate for the April 10 election.

Myer, 47, is a partner in the law firm of Olson, Mecklenburger, Van Holst, Pendleton & Newman. He lives at 819 S. Bristol, Arlington Heights, and has three young children.

SORTOR, 37, is tax and financial analysis manager for the Borg Electronics Corporation of Cicero. He lives at 1405 N. Harvard St., Arlington Heights, and has one child.

These two men were picked for endorsement by the nominating committee from a field of 11. (A

Authorize 26 More Elementary Teachers

The board of education of District 25, Arlington Heights elementary schools, has approved the school system personnel organization for the 1962-63 school year, which calls for an additional 26 teachers and one new principal to serve the 500 additional students expected to be enrolled by this September.

Nine of the new teachers will serve in kindergarten through fifth grades, accounting for the majority of the staff needed for the Olive and Patton schools which are to be ready for occupancy in the fall.

The remaining four teachers needed will be drawn from the other elementary schools where transfer of students to the new schools will provide lighter teaching loads.

IN ADDITION to teachers, the building service staff will be increased by six, full-time clerical by two, and three and one-half part time clerical positions will be provided.

Nine new class sections will be organized in the elementary (K-5) schools and 11 new classes in the junior high school.

An instrumental and vocal music teacher will be hired for K-5 schools, and the art consultant who presently is working half-time in K-5 schools and half-time in junior high schools will devote entire time to the lower grades. In addition, another nurse will be needed.

The increased staff and additional students will be housed in the 15-room addition being built at Miner Junior High School and in the two K-5 schools under construction.

AN ADDITION to the educational program is represented by the two physical education instructors who will be hired for the 1962-63 school year. Currently, classroom teachers in elementary schools carry the full responsibility for the physical education program.

The additional administrator needed will act as principal of the new 7-room K-5 schools.

The two additional clerical employes will work in the personnel department and in the payroll department. Of the new part-time clerical people, one will work for the new school principal, one for the educational consultants, one for the nurses' office, and a half-time position will be added to the Miner Junior High School office.

In addition to the personnel organization, the school board also has approved the school calendar for the 1962-63 school year.

SCHOOL for grades three through eight will open Sept. 4, and for grades K-2 on Sept. 6.

Thanksgiving vacation will be Nov. 22 through Nov. 25; Christmas vacation Dec. 22 through Jan. 1; and Spring vacation April 6 through April 15.

School will close June 12, 1963. (A

Feature Arlington On TV Last Week

Arlington Heights was featured last week on a portion of the Lee Phillip television show on Channel 2, Chicago. The Friday presentation depicted the village, past and present.

A certificate of commendation was given Village President John G. Woods, who accepted on behalf of the community.

The show featured pictures of the village and its founder, a

The show featured pictures of replica of an early issue of the Cook County Herald which was contrasted with a picture of a recent front page of the modern Arlington Heights Herald, and film clips of a CBS documentary, "The Other Americans."

LAST FALL, the documentary had caused Wayne Brennan, currently president of the Chamber of Commerce, to promote a program of aid and friendship to one of the destitute Peruvian villages shown in the film — Pampa de Comas.

Woods explained that the village has "adopted" the Peruvian city as a sister suburb, and told of how Arlington Heights residents had donated more than one hundred dollars to provide a community Christmas tree and Christmas treats for the Pampa de Comas children.

Commission To Consider Zoning Plea

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission will consider a zoning request for 9.5 acres of land north of Palatine Road and just west of State Road, part of which would be used for service and storage of trucks of Laseke Disposal Co.

The village board Monday night referred the zoning request to the plan commission for a pre-annexation hearing.

THE LAND is divided into two parcels, a small one on the corner and the larger one near but not adjacent to it. The request asks M-1 industrial zoning for the larger tract, and B-3 commercial for the small, corner property.

Attorney Fred Weber is representing the petitioners. (A

Wayne Brennan Elected Head Of Friendship Organization

Wayne Brennan was elected chairman this week of the Arlington Heights Inter-American Friendship organization, which was formed to help the people of Arlington Heights' adopted city in Peru, Pampa de Comas.

Brennan was initiator and prime mover in the project, and represents the Chamber of Commerce, of which he is president.

Elected vice chairman was Eugene Barnes; recording secretary, Faye Cornell, representing the Newcomers Club; corresponding secretary, Dottie Biancardi, representing the Junior Woman's Club; treasurer, Jim Bailey, representing Our Saviour Lutheran Church.

At its meeting Monday night, the group also set yearly donation rates for member organizations and individuals of $12 per organization, and $6 for an individual member not representing an organization.

THE GROUP intentionally dropped the term "dues" and replaced it with "donation" so that organizations which may want to participate, but are barred by their bylaws from paying dues to another organization, may still take part.

The organization also named four standing committee chairmen: Jean Lindeman, Junior Woman's Club, finance; Gil Martin, public relations; Charles Jones, assisted by Mrs. Virginia Arnold of the PTA Council, education; William Murdock, St. James Catholic Family Movement, communications.

Currently, Brennan said, the organization will concentrate particularly on the communications aspect of the program.

Special goals of the communications committee will be to arrange for:

1. Exchange of letters, photos, etc.

2. Securing and furnishing special documentary films on education, industry and other facets of American life.

3. ESTABLISHING a one-frequency radio outlet in Pampa de Comas, operated by the Mary Knoll Fathers, who broadcast religious lessons and lessons in reading, writing, arithmetic, civics, sanitation, agriculture, etc.

4. Producing special monthly newsletters here (in Spanish) and in Pampa de Comas (in English) to keep each community abreast of the news and developments in the other community.

Brennan said the group now has a "representative" in South America and is anxiously awaiting his return, scheduled for the 15th of this month.

R. P. Baptiste, of 305 S. Dunton, manager of international operations for Diversey Corporation, volunteered to try and set up a committee of civic and business leaders in Lima to administer the program in Pampa de Comas. Baptiste is in South America on company business.

In another development, two students at South Junior High School, Fred Kasl, of 542 S. Pine, and Bob Weazel, of 511 S. Beverly, reported they had met with success in a project undertaken at the South Junior High.

THE ENTIRE school organized teams and collected used but repairable toys for babies and other children up to the sixth grade level, and South students are now in the process of painting and repairing them.

This report was enthusiastically received, and at the group's suggestion, Mrs. Arnold, president of the PTA Council, will investigate the possibility of conducting a similar project at every school in the village except one.

Brennan suggested it would be a good idea for the remaining school to make up 600 school kits for the children in Pampa de Comas as its project. These would include notebooks, pencils and a ruler, as an example.

Members of the group agreed that these youth-to-youth projects would serve as a good way to introduce the program into the homes of not only the Pampa de Comas residents, but into the homes of Arlington Heights residents as well. (A

Fire Chief, Aide Attend Conference on New Methods

Arlington Heights Fire Chief Harvey Carothers and Firemen John Bensen attended a four-day conference in Memphis, Tenn., last week, to participate in discussions of the latest methods of fire prevention and fire fighting.

On the conference program were such subjects as fighting gasoline bulk tank fires, supermarket fire prevention and control, and problems relating to fire department organization and management.

AMONG OTHER subjects, the conference participants, numbering about 3,500 from the United States, Canada and several foreign countries, discussed planning for safety in industrial plants, and how fires can occur in coin-operated laundry and dry cleaning establishments.

Chief Carothers and Bensen also witnessed a number of outdoor demonstrations of fire fighting methods and life saving techniques, including an actual demonstration of an underwater rescue of a person from a submerged automobile.

The conference is sponsored annually by the fire prevention department of the Western Actuarial Bureau, Chicago, a research and service organization for fire insurance rating bureaus, and the Memphis Fire Department.

IT IS ATTENDED by key fire department officers, educators from colleges and universities, fire and industrial plant protection engineers, and public officials, all of whom participate by invitation only.

The conference, now in its 34th year, has been a national clearing house for improvements in fire fighting methods, in firemen's training, and in fire prevention measures. It is designed to provide for an exchange of ideas and experiences for betterment of fire department service. (A

Truman Kirkpatrick, research chemist, will be the guest speaker Friday night at the second in a series of three discussion programs sponsored by the Northwest Suburban Area Turn Toward Peace group. He will talk on Civil Defense.

The meeting will be held in the Fellowship Hall at the Prospect Heights Community Church at the intersection of Illinois 83 and Willow Road. The program is open to the public and will commence promptly at 8:08 p.m.

KIRKPATRICK is the former chairman of the Chicago area committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy. He has lectured on the effects of nuclear war, disarmament and arms control, world government and the economic factors of world tensions.

The third and final program will be held April 13. At that time there will be a panel discussion by several key persons representing the various participating organizations.

Vocational Parley Spotlights Needs

Problems of changing curricula, employment patterns, and the holding power of vocational education were probed by speakers, panels, exhibits and group discussions at the 33rd annual convention of the Illinois Vocational Association last week.

John W. Griffin of the Industrial Arts Department of Arlington High School participated in the program as chairman of a sectional meeting on electronics.

"Griffin was selected for the program because of the prestige and achievements of this phase of vocational education in the local school system," said Mary Holmes of Champaign High School, president of the I.V.A.

MORE THAN 1,000 Illinois high school teachers of vocational and technical subjects attended the convention in Peoria. The main objective of the convention was the sharing of ideas and charting of courses of improved instruction to train youngsters for the rapidly-changing occupational technology of the future.

According to the I.V.A., a recent study showed vocationally-trained youngsters are not unemployed in Illinois immediately upon graduation from high school as are one of every four other graduates. (ACM

Work of Political Parties Outline

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party . . . and the League of Women Voters of Illinois offers a guide to the citizen for better understanding of how political parties work in its new book, "Primaries and Parties — The Illinois Story."

Published by the League of Women Voters of Illinois, the book is distributed through the Citizen Information Service of Chicago at 67 East Madison St., Chicago. Material for the publication was compiled and edited by Mrs. Arthur Caplin, Miss Elizabeth Bredin, and Mrs. Stanley Paul, all members of the League of Women Voters of Highland Park.

Mrs. Robert C. Pebworth, president of the Illinois League, in commenting on the book said: "Doubts have been cast on whether representative government can or will work. It will if people know, and understand, and use, representative government. Only when citizens feel a responsibility to search out good candidates, and know the processes by which candidates are selected, will our kind of government survive.

"THUS FAR, we have a two-party system. 'Primaries and Parties' is written to help Illinois citizens know how it can and should work."

The 28-page book contains sections on our two-party system, the parties at work, how to establish a party in Illinois, how parties secure candidates, political party organization, cumulative voting, and a brief, but interesting history of the American political parties.

The cover of the book carries cartoons of an elephant and a donkey reproduced from Harper's Weekly of February 14, 1874 and November 20, 1880, created by Thomas Nash. The booklet describes the basic unit of political party activity as the precinct.

"It is here that elections are won or lost, despite the increased use of mass communication media in campaigns."

PARTY STRUCTURE is determined by state law. In Illinois, statutes prescribe ways in which political parties nominate candidates and provide for a system of party committees to manage party affairs. It is through knowledge of these committees and their work that the citizen can exert influence.

Party organization and the role of the various committees is clarified through the text and diagrams. That unique phenomenon of Illinois politics, cumulative voting, is explained and pro and con arguments offered as to its usefulness.

'Primaries and Parties' concludes with clear charts of election returns by party in Illinois since 1900 for state offices and for Congress. Short and concise, but overflowing with information about political parties in Illinois, the book already has found wide use in political party workshops, schools, libraries, and civic groups.

Copies may be obtained from Mrs. Marc Law Jr., CL 3-5916, publications chairman of the League of Women Voters of Arlington Heights. (ACM

Reavis Captures Mat Title; Waukegan 2nd

JOHN FITZGERALD, successful coach of the state champion Reavis Rams, watches one of the championship bouts last Saturday with two of his talented wrestlers. Dave Jackson (right) captured the 112-pound championship with an impressive 3-1 victory over Ovie Williams of LaGrange.

GEORGE McCREERY became the second wrestler in Palatine High history to win a state championship last weekend as he disposed of four of Illinois' best 154-pounders. McCreery is pictured during his final bout in which he eventually decisioned Naperville's Rod Landorf, 4-2.

by BOB FRISK

The Reavis Rams did it again — and in a more convincing fashion.

Coach John Fitzgerald's powerful Southwest Suburban Conference wrestlers swept to their second straight state championship last weekend with an impressive display of strength at Arlington High School.

Piling up a record-setting 63 points and boasting six medal winners, Reavis rolled to its second straight state mat title with a comfortable 27-point margin over runnerup Waukegan.

THE 63 POINTS represent a new state record for a single team, snapping the old standard of 58 set by East Leyden in 1960. The 27-point spread marks the biggest runaway in the history of the tourney.

Reavis won the 1961 championship with 51 points, 17 better than runner-up Skokie of Niles.

Fitzgerald's mat powerhouse, a pre-meet favorite, lived up to expectations when it sent all seven qualifiers into the semi-finals. Six of those boys stayed around to earn place medals and two claimed individual championships.

BERNIE Mehaljevic, state runnerup at 95 pounds as a junior, came back for a first place medal Saturday, and Dave Jackson, 112-pound championship.

Although Jackson was able to repeat as an individual titlist, the other defending champ in action didn't fare as well. Heavyweight Bob Pickens of Evanston High School was blanked by Waukegan's Bob Billberg in the heavyweight finale.

Four thousand fans, the largest crowd ever to watch a wrestling meet in Illinois, witnessed Saturday's finals with impressive crowds also attending the two Friday sessions and Saturday afternoon festivities.

AMONG THE local schools Palatine's Pirates collected 16 points and tied Granite City for eighth place in the standings. In addition, the Pirates of Coach John Ellis boasted one of the individual champions with junior George McCreery at 154 pounds.

Willowbrook picked up ten points thanks to Ed Leppert's impressive second place finish at 95 pounds, and Arlington claimed three with Hal Selleck's pin and decision at 180. Prospect landed one marker with Wayne Zaehler's one victory at 120.

Palatine's Mike Gluck picked up one decision at 95 pounds before bowing out. The Pirates' Jim Nordin reached the semi-finals at 10 before falling, then dropped his initial bout in the wrestle back to East Aurora's Jim Orstead.

PROSPECT'S Zaehler was bumped by Reavis' Tom Giambarberee in his first bout at 120, 2-0, but managed a 3-2 win over Edwardsville's Bob Nelson in the wrestle-back before bowing out of competition.

Palatine's Seth Norton was ousted by Parker's Dick Brown, 6-4 in overtime, in the first round, and Prospect's Doug Vaughan also bowed out in the initial action, falling to Waukegan's Steve Bay, 9-5. Neither boy was able to wrestle back for consolation honors because both Brown and Bay lost their next matches.

JIM SMITH of Palatine lost his opener to Lee Olson of Morton West, 5-1, and was ousted by Glenbrook's Irv Roller, 7-4 in overtime, in the wrestle-back.

Arlington's Selleck, unbeaten heading into the meet, pinned Jacksonville's Larry Hacker in 2:30 of his first bout but was edged, 6-4, by United's Richard Paasch in the second round. Hal came back for a 3-1 victory over Thornton's Glenn Weaver before a 6-5 loss to Morton West's Lee Mungai retired him to the sidelines.

IN THE initial championship bout Saturday evening Reavis' Mehaljevic avenged a sectional defeat with a 4-3 victory over Willowbrook's Leppert, counting on a reversal in the final five seconds and adding riding time for the tight win over the previously unbeaten Warrior.

Tilden Tech's Clarence Smith toppled Cahokia's Marvin Jackson for third place honors at 95 pounds, 3-1.

At 103 pounds Savanna's David Seward, an impressive grappler throughout the meet, dumped Oswego's Dave Everhard with relative ease, 5-1. Deerfield's sophomore Ted Parker blanked East Aurora's Jim Orstead, 4-0, for third place.

REAVIS' Jackson, dumped by LaGrange's Ovie Williams in the sectional finale at 112, bounced back for a 3-1 victory over the Lions' standout Saturday. Joliet's Al McCullen blanked Moline's Mike Doerr, 5-0 for the consolation championship.

New Trier's talented Don Behm, state runner-up at 112, last winter, copped all honors at 120 last weekend, concluding his impressive journey to Arlington High School with a pin in 4:10 of his title bout with Reavis' Giambarberee.

Naperville's Bill Hoyt edged Evergreen Park's Bob Griffith for third place honors at 120. Griffith was the 95-pound champ in the 1960 meet.

IN A BATTLE of two sectional runners-up who went all the way through to the final bout, Evanston's Fred Anneggers stopped Moline's Frank Ontiveros, 6-1, for the 127-pound crown. Proviso East's Mack Brown dumped Sterling's Doug Zemke for third place.

Downers Grove's Al Mejdrich, fourth in the state at 133 as a junior, blanked Granite City's highly regarded Buddy Felchin, 2-0, for the 133-pound title, and Savanna's Jerry Ferris toppled Phillips' Ted McGary, 2-0, for third.

East Leyden's Larry Foster, the Palatine Sectional champ at 138, went all the way through in the state firing and finished with an impressive 4-1 win over Reavis' Vic Marcucci. Moline's Warren Fetter whipped Waukegan's Leon Lee, 5-3, for third place.

RICH EAST'S unbeaten Marty Lyman kept his perfect record intact as he rolled to honors at 145, stopping Morton West's Lee Olson, 6-4, in the championship bout. Reavis' Bill TerHaar had little trouble with Glenbrook's Irv Roller in the consolation tussle, wrapping up a 5-1 decision.

Palatine's McCreery, only a junior, was the class of the 154-pound field and he avenged his only loss of the season by beating Naperville's Rod Landorf, 4-2, in the finale. Landorf had pinned the Pirate standout earlier this season.

McCreery opened his title bid with a 7-3 win over Carl Sandburg's Max Wilcosen and dumped Highland Park's Bob Hofmeier, 7-2, in the second round. George reached the final test with a 6-2 win over Reavis' Tim Virtis in the Saturday afternoon semi-finals.

All the scoring in the bout against Landorf was accomplished in the opening period. Hofmeier edged Niles East's

Barrington Hosts District Gym Meet

KICKIN' IT AROUND

by BOB FRISK

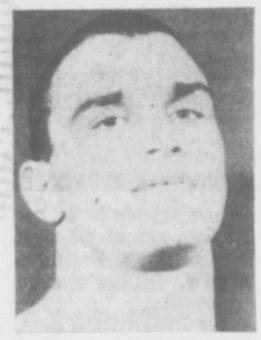
IT WAS A BIG WEEKEND for a so-called "minor" sport.

Accustomed to laboring in the shadow of basketball's big crowds, the wrestlers had their day at Arlington High School.

Four thousand excited fans packed the Arlington gymnasium Saturday evening for the finals of the Illinois State High School wrestling meet. Thousands more witnessed the earlier sessions on Friday afternoon and evening and Saturday afternoon.

Eighty-four schools and 192 wrestlers were involved in the two days of mat eliminations. Ten years ago only 60 schools were entered in the entire state tournament series.

High school wrestling has arrived.



HAL SELLECK

Wrestling - conscious Reavis High School of Oak Lawn swept to team honors, but that came as a surprise to no one. Through the efforts of John Fitzgerald, Reavis has rocketed to statewide prominence for its brilliant performances in wrestling.

One hundred and eighty-seven boys turned out for wrestling at Reavis this past season. The school enrollment is 1350. Seven bus-loads of students from Reavis journeyed to the state finals.

Graduation will strip Fitzgerald of five of his six medal winners, only 138-pounder Vic Marcucci returning for another season, but we wouldn't bet against a Reavis repeat in 1963.

Of the eight local wrestlers who qualified for the state competition six will be back next season, including state champion George McCreery of Palatine High School. The only qualifiers who will graduate are 133-pounder Doug Vaughan of Prospect and 145-pounder Jim Smith of Palatine.

Back for another crack at state honors will be Hal Selleck of Arlington High, Wayne Zaehler of Prospect, and Jim Nordin, Mike Gluck, and Seth Norton in addition to McCreery from Palatine. The North Suburban league Pirates have a wealth of material returning for another season, and they could be in the running for a state crown come this time a year from now.

Selleck, heading into the state tourney with 20 straight victories, opened with an impressive pin of Larry Hacker of Jacksonville but was bumped from title consideration by Richard Paasch of United. Hal came back for another victory before bowing out of tourney competition.

Selleck has the class for a state title at 180, and we should be hearing a lot from this talented performer before he graduates.

Prospect's Zaehler gave Reavis' Tom Giambarberee a stiff battle in the first round Friday before bowing, 2-0, and the Reavis standout went on for a second place at 120 pounds. In the wrestleback Zaehler topped Edwardsville's Bob Nelson before falling to Naperville's Bill Hoyt, 6-3. With this added year of experience Wayne should enjoy a big season next winter.

It was unfortunate that Prospect's Vaughan, a standout all season, had to bump into Waukegan's Steve Bay in the opening bout Friday, but Doug has reason to be proud of an excellent season in which he won 22 bouts in 24 tries and lost only to Bay and state champion Al Mejdrich of Downers Grove.

WHO WAS THE MOST IMPRESSIVE wrestler in the 1962 state tournament?

It's difficult to evaluate the relative merits of each of the 12 individual champions, but we certainly were impressed with Waukegan's Mike Kelly as the lanky 180-pounder waltzed to an easy state title.

Kelly, a senior, opened with a 10-0 victory, backed that with a pin of Moline's highly regarded Mike Romanowski, decisioned Proviso East's Fred Custardo for the third time, and toyed with United's Dick Paasch in the one-sided championship bout.

Kelly was in a class by himself at 180 and that was obvious by his easy road to the title. Custardo, an All-State quarterback, probably was the second best boy at 180, but he had the misfortune of being placed in the same bracket with Kelly and thereby meeting the Waukegan standout in the semi-finals.

Third in the state as a junior, Kelly lost only one bout this season, a 3-2 decision to Evanston's John Pope early in the mat campaign. Mike whipped Pope, 8-0, for the sectional title.

Bob Billberg, the other half of Waukegan's powerful one-two punch, showed the four thousand fans in attendance why he had chalked up three previous wins over Evanston's Bob Pickens in the heavyweight class when he easily disposed of the big Wildkit, 3-0, for the state title.

Where was Billberg last year, fans asked, as they watched the Waukegan giant overpower his heavyweight opponents en route to the crown? Bob lost to Pickens in the sectional semi-finals last winter, 4-3, and failed to make the trip to the state finals.

This marked the second straight year that the Waukegan Sectional produced the two finalists at heavyweight. Pickens won the state crown as a junior with a one-point victory over North Chicago's Fred Cosby, both products of the Waukegan meet. This year it was Billberg and Pickens, who claimed heavyweight honors with a 1-2 finish.

Waukegan opponents will be glad to know that Kelly and Billberg both are seniors.

IT WAS A BIG WEEKEND for the wrestlers.

And congratulations are in order to Tournament Manager Wally Grace of Arlington High School, Assistant Manager Howard Lester of Prospect, and all the personnel who helped make the 1962 mat spectacular such a success.

Keep that wrestling tourney in the suburbs and it'll be a boom financially every year!

In Prospect Fieldhouse

Maine Quintets to Battle Tonight in Regional Play

Maine East and Maine West will square off tonight (Thursday) in the Prospect High School fieldhouse with a berth in the regional basketball finals at stake.

The two natural rivals survived opening tournament action Tuesday evening to join host Prospect and Arlington in the hardwood semi-finals.

Prospect and Arlington were slated to clash last night (Wednesday) with the winner moving into the title tussle Friday.

THE COLLISION between the twoMaine schools will get under way at 7:30 p.m. with Friday's championship encounter slated for 8 p.m. in the Prospect High fieldhouse.

A scrappy Maryville Academy quintet gave Maine West some trouble at the outset of Tuesday's initial contest, but the Warriors took control midway in the second period and proceeded to score at will against the outmanned but determined Terriers.

Dan Nagle's 15-foot jumper in the eraly stages of the second period pulled Maryville within two (19-17), but Al Waters keyed a Maine West explosion and the Warriors were on top by ten at the intermission.

WITH 3:23 REMAINING in the thid period Maine had increased its advantage to 20 points thanks to an alert defense and some deadly shooting.

Coach Gaston Freeman's club piled up 12 straight points in one stretch while Maryville struggled along unable to score.

Waters, the 6-foot-4 junior who popped in 28 points for the evening and was easily the smoothest player on the floor, was the Warriors' key mna as they steadily increased the bulge. With Maine on top 78-42 Freeman inserted his subs in the fourth period, but Maryville still was unable to come to life.

Waters topped both clubs with his 28 points, four shy of the Prospect Fieldhouse record. Rick Warnicke recovered from a shaky start to collect 12 markers and Bill Dautel and 6-foot-5 Drew Karkow rimmed 11 each.

JOHNNY ABRAHAM was high for Maryville with 17 points, including a seven-of-seven effort from the free throw line but unimpressive 5-of-27 showing from the field.

Maine West shot .459 during the contest with 39 baskets in 85 shots. Maryville connected on Just 15 shots in 63 shots for a lowly .238 percentage.

In Tuesday's second game Maine East's Blue Demons and Notre Dame of Niles staged the most exciting game of the tournament's first round with the Park Ridge quintet pulling away in the final period for a deceiving 13-point, 65-52 decision.

A 20-FOOT jumper by Bruce Dickman at the buzzer capped a brilliant Notre Dame rally in the third period with the Dons fighting back from a seven-point halftime deficit to knot the count heading into the decisive quarter.

Sectional At Arlington

The winners of regional basketball tournaments at Prospect, Libertyville, Evanston, and Niles West will hook up in the Arlington Sectional tourney on Wednesday through Friday, March 14-16.

The first game set for Wednesday, March 14, will match the Evanston victor against the Niles West survivor.

Prospect's champ will meet the Libertyville titlist next Thursday with the winners colliding in the finale on Friday.

All games will begin at 8 p.m. in the Arlington gymnasium.

The rangy Dons, featuring a front-line averaging 6-foot-4, couldn't get started in the first half and fell behind by 12 in the opening minutes of the third period before they started their move.

Johnny McNally and Jay Coakley keyed the uprising and the Dons gradually closed in on the West Suburban Conference Blue Demons. With 3:21 remaining Coakley rifled in one of his favorite fadeaway jumpers from the side to pull the Dons within five.

FOLLOWING a free throw by 6-foot-5 Steve Smith of Maine East, the Notre Dame crew went back to work, McNally slipping in two nifty layups to cut the Demons' lead to two (41-39).

Maine East attempted a stall fo one last shot in the period, but Johnny Hanson was fouled with 37 seconds remaining. When Hanson missed the toss, Notre Dame came down the floor, Dickman fired at the buzzer, and the ball sliced through, tying the count at 41-all.

It was all Maine East in the final eight minutes with big Smith, Hanson, and sophomore Jeff Jonswald the main offensive contributors. Hanson, a standout during the first round contest, chipped in ten clutch points in the fourth segment.

Hanson and Smith paced the Blue Demons with 21 and 20 points respectively, and Coakley popped in 24 with the most impressive out-shooting during the evening.

Maine fired at a .479 clip from the floor while Notre Dame claimed a .444 percentage.

13 Schools In Headliner

Two down and two to go.

That's the situation in the series of Illinois State High School Association winter sports championships.

Champions were crowned in both wrestling and swimming last weekend, and the state-wide basketball eliminations are under way right now.

The gymnasts move to center stage this weekend at three district sites in the Chicago Suburban area to bid for the coveted berths in the state finals on March 16-17 at Willowbrook High School in Villa Park.

DISTRICT MEETS will be held Saturday at Barrington, Elmhurst (York), and Hillside (Proviso West) with the winners of the first ten places in each event qualifying for the state finals. This is the first year that district meets have been held preliminary to the state festivities.

Among the local schools, Arlington, Prospect, and Palatine are hooked up in the 13-team Barrington District with Willowbrook at York.

Each school may enter up to five contestants in the side horse, horizontal bar, parallel bars, and still rings. However, any contestants entered in addition to the three whose scores count, must be all-around entries.

NOT MORE than three may be entered in the all-around. Only three entries from each school in each event may count toward team score. Three contestants may be entered in the tumbling and trampoline events. A team is limited to a total of thirteen (13) contestants.

York High School of Elmhurst is the defending state champions although a wide-open affair is forecast for the forthcoming spectacular.

COMPETITION in the Barrington District will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday with preliminaries in the long horse, side horse and tumbling. Preliminaries in the high bar, parallel bars, still rings, and trampoline events will be staged at 7 p.m.

No finals will be held in the district meets with winners of the first ten places advancing directly to the state.

Joining the three local schools at Barrington will be powerful New Trier, host Barrington, Maine West, Elgin, Glenbrook, Maine East, East Rockford, Rock Island (Sr.), Round Lake, and Waukegan.

ARLINGTON and Prospect coaches Gay Hughes and Rick Farris announced their alignments this week with both schools boasting formidable squads. New Trier is expected to afford the most opposition for the local units in the battle for team honors Saturday.

Hughes will work with Bill Berg, Bill Kelley, and Jerry Russell in the all-around with Kelley, Burkhard Geissler, Russell, and Berg on the side horse. The all-around trio and Bob Edie will work the high bar.

Joining the three all-around performers on the parallel bars will be Dave Wollerman and Ran Lindeman with Len Witter on rings.

Clay Chrisman, Bob Cordaro, and Pete Engle will operate in tumbling with Paul Garrity, Chrisman, and Cordaro on the

Stewart Marshall, 6-4, for third place at 154 pounds.

IN THE NEXT two weight classes Niles West's Bob Herkert and Waukegan's Mike Kelly captured individual honors.

Herkert had one tough bout, a 5-4 victory over La Grange's Steve Hanau, en route to the title fracas, and Bob whipped Savanna's Dick Ernst, 7-2, for the championship. Hanau came back for a 2-1 victory over Reavis' Bob Pehanich in the consolation bracket.

Kelly easily was the class of the field at 180 with only one rough bout, a 4-1 victory over Proviso East's Fred Custardo in the semi-finals. Mike disposed of United's Dick Paasch, 8-0, in the most one-sided championship bout of the evening.

Custardo blanked Morton's Lee Mungai, 6-0, in the third place battle.

At heavyweight Waukegan's Billberg picked up his fourth straight victory over Evanston's Pickens, this time to a 3-0 count. York's Eric Avery, the Palatine Sectional runner-up, pinned West Leyden's Duffy Knott, the Palatine Sectional champion, for third place laurels.

Mac Says

by G. A. McELROY

CONGRATULATIONS TO GEORGE McCREERY and coach John Ellis of the Palatine wrestling team on the state individual championship won by McCreery in the 154-pound division Saturday. Other Pirates -came through well as Jim Nordin (103) reached the semi-finals and Mike Gluck (95) lost a referee's decision in the quarterfinals. It was McCreery's third trip to the state and he has another chance next year as do Nordin and Gluck. Palatine finished eighth in the state and the boys say their goal is to go all the way next year.

When asked about Palatine's chances next year, coach John Ellis commented that they were the best since he has coached the Pirates but that locally the competition was going o be very tough as Maine East, Prospect and Arlington all had young teams of underclassmen just as did Palatine this year.

When Reavis repeated as state champ the school set a state record with a 63-point total. The Rams far outdistanced runner-up Waukegan, the team figured as the top competition and the one they tied in a dual meet a month ago. Reavis advanced all seven qualifiers to the semi-finals and took two championships and two seconds.

Palatine's clean sweep of nine home games in basketball this season ties the record of the team of 1940-41 which also was undefeated at home and had a 22-2 regular season record followed by four tournament wins and a loss for 26-3. The present Pirates have a 20-3 record going into tournament play. Palatine's longest home winning streak is 20 games from 1940-42 and the present string is 10 including the final win of the home season over Woodstock last February. If Coach Kolze can come up with fair replacements to team up with 6' 7" Kozlicki, the lone returning regular, Palatine could make things interesting and extend the winning string next season.

The Pirates looked like anything but champs Friday as they edged Barrington to win the undisputed title before 2,000 fans in the home setting. It is difficult for a team to stay "up" three weeks in a row and Palatine had primed no end to win the successive games with Libertyville and Zion-Benton. There was due to be a letdown and it was better to have it while winning than to have it occur in the regional tournament.

It was not only the first championship in basketball since 1943 for Palatine but the first time since that year that the Pirates had beaten Barrington twice in one season. If Palatine is in the regional final Friday it will likely be against Libertyville. The Wildcats have lost only to Palatine since the Christmas holidays and include in their victims North Chicago, a team with but two losses this season. With two wins over Libertyville, the Pirates are going to find it mighty tough to beat a strong team three times in one season and will have to be sharp tomorrow night.

20 YEARS AGO

Palatine won the Wauconda district tournament by beating Wauconda 44-29, St. Mary's of Des Plaines 33-27, and Northbrook 42-27, but they lost to Libertyville 36-20 in the regional with less than a 10% shooting average. Bob Howes scored 40 points for Palatine in the 3 regional games. It was Palatine's third district tournament championship, others being in 1939 and 1941 . . . Arlington finished third in the Northwest Conference with a 7-5 record. Niles was the undefeated winner.

Arlington's Close Selected On Conference All-Star Unit

by BOB FRISK

Arlington High School's Chuck Close, a 6-foot-1 junior who has been a varsity regular for two seasons, was one of 11 boys named to the West Suburban Conference All-Star basketball team released yesterday (Wednesday) by the league coaches.

Two juniors and nine seniors, representing a breakdown of four forwards, three centers, and four guards, were selected on the 1961-62 honor squad with three repeaters from last winter's aggregation.

Hinsdale's Bob Haarlow, York's Bob Rudolph, and Maine East's Steve Smith earned all-star honors for the second straight year.

YORK HIGH School's Dukes claimed three positions on the West Suburban outfit with Glenbard West, Hinsdale, and La Grange landing two each. Arlington and Maine East round out the teams with single representatives.

After collecting 154 points in league play as a sophomore, Arlington's Close drilled 185 this season to rank as one of the top scorers in the West Suburban. Possessor of a deadly jump shot, Chuck also has developed into a strong defensive performer and rebounder.

In Arlington's 14 league encounters Chuck topped 20 on four occasions with a 25-point explosion against York marking his career high heading into the regional firing this week.

IN ARLINGTON'S impressive victory over state-ranked Stephen Decatur in the Pontiac Holiday tournament Close bagged 10 shots in 11 tries and finished with 21 points.

With another year ahead Chuck could become the highest scorer in Arlington High School varsity basketball history. The current record of 783 career points is held by George Bork.

Joining Close at the backcourt positions on the all-star squad are York's Jimmy Dawson, Hinsdale's Ken Boston, and La Grange's Ron Hextell.

All-Stars

Chuck Close (Arlington)	6-1
Brian Farney (Glenbard West)	6-2
Tom Hancock (Glenbard West)	6-2
Bob Haarlow (Hinsdale)	6-2
Ken Boston (Hinsdale)	5-9
Fred Chana (LaGrange)	6-6
Ron Hextell (LaGrange)	5-10
Steve Smith (Maine East)	6-5
Bob Rudolph (York)	6-4
Don Anderman (York)	6-0
Jim Dawson (York)	5-11

DAWSON, a 5-foot-11 junior, is the other third-year performer on the 1961-62 team. In his first season as a varsity regular Jim hit double figures in 10 of the 14 West Suburban games to rank as one of the most consistent performers in the loop.

Dawson hit 23 on two occasions, against Glenbard West and Maine East, and finished with 188 points in the WSC for a 13.4 per game average.

Hinsdale's Boston, a 5-foot-9 senior, is the engineer of the Red Devils' effective attack and a capable scorer. Ken collected 170 points in the 14 conference games with highs of 19 against York and Arlington. The 160-pound speedster also was an all-league performer in football.

LA GRANGE'S Hextell, an excellent floorman and scorer, was one of the Lions's most valuable performers in their charge to the West Suburban title. Ron saw brief varsity action as a junior, collecting 65 points in the loop, but responded with 162 this season and a high of 23 against Arlington.

CHUCK CLOSE ARLINGTON

LA GRANGE

Manning the center positions on the all-star squad are Maine's Smith, La Grange's Fred Chana, and York's Bob Rudolph, an extremely talented trio of pivotmen.

Smith, an All-State end in football, has been a varsity regular at Maine East for three seasons and in West Suburban Conference games over that three-year period the 6-foot-5, 225-pound senior collected 541 points. He canned 240 this season for third in the scoring derby and had a high of 27 in the season finale against Glenbard West.

CHANA FINISHED as the top scorer in the West Suburban Conference for 1961-62 with 280 points and a 20.0 ppg. The lanky 6-foot-6 senior jumped into the scoring lead during the second week of the season with a 30-point effort against Glenbard West and never trailed thereafter, hitting 20 or better on six occasions.

York's Rudolph, a repeater from the 1960-61 squad, isn't a spectacular performer, but he certainly ranked as one of the most valuable performers in the West Suburban during the past campaign. An accurate shooter, the 6-foot-4, 170-pounder recorded 236 markers in the 14 games after bagging 233 as a junior. Rudolph is the type of player you can count on in the clutch, and the bespectacled senior enjoyed his best night offensively against Downers Grove when he tallied 28.

Hinsdale's Haarlow, Glenbard West's Brian Farney and Tom Hancock, and York's Don Anderman hold down the forward positions on the all-stars.

HAARLOW, A varsity regular for three years and the league's top candiate for All-State honors, didn't win the scoring title but for all-around excellence, this 6-foot-2, 175-pound senior was in a class by himself.

An excellent team man and leader, Bob did chip in 249 points in the 14 West Suburban games and in his varsity career the talented Red Devil registered 670 markers in league play for one of the top marks in the history of the strong schoolboy conference.

Haarlow had the top game in the West Suburban this season with a 36-point barrage against Glenbard West when he netted 14 baskets and eight free throws.

GLENBARD WEST unleashed a talented twosome in 6-foot-2 Farney and 6-foot-2 Hancock with the sharpshooting seniors combining for 373 points in the league. Farney popped in 195 markers with a high of 23 against Hinsdale, and Hancock added 178 with his best effort a 25-point evening at La Grange.

Anderman, the 6-foot-0 York senior, is a clever driver and deadly outside shot. Don collected 198 points in the league after a 123-point season as a junior. Anderman topped 20 in three appearances with a high of 22 against Hinsdale.

Arlington's Gymnasts in 12-2 Season

Maine East's varsity gymnasts became the 12th victim of the Arlington High School powerhouse last Saturday as the Cardinals concluded their 1961-62 dual meet season.

Coach Gay Hughes' aggregation, preparing now for the big district competition Saturday at Barrington, surrendered 31 points in two events but still managed to post a decisive 75-56 victory over the host Blue Demons.

With the victory Arlington terminated its dual meet campaign with 12 triumphs in 14 outings, falling only to Evanston (71-61) and Proviso East (74½-57½).

MAINE EAST posted 16-6 and 15-8 advantages on the side horse and horizontal bar but couldn't keep pace with the Cards in the four other events. Arlington swept the top three positions on the trampoline.

Bob Cordaro picked up a pair of firsts for the Cardinals, gaining top honors on the tramp and sharing the No. 1 slot in tumbling with teammate Pete Engle.

Jerry Russell captured a first on the still rings and came back for seconds on the parallel bars and horizontal bar and fourth on the side horse for 20 individual points.

RAY LINDEMAN headed the field on the parallel bars with a 156 count thanks to a routine that earned identical 78 scores from the judges.

In addition to Russell's two seconds, other runner-up slots were registered by Bill Kelley on the still rings and Clay Chrisman on the trampoline.

Chana Captures Scoring Crown; Haarlow Second

Fred Chana, rangy 6-foot-6 senior center, reigns as the scoring champion in the West Suburban Conference for the 1961-62 season.

The talented pivotman of La Grange's league champions popped in 280 points in 14 games for a 20.0 per game average and 31-point bulge over runnerup Bob Haarlow of Hinsdale.

Chana is the second straight La Grange player to win the scoring crown. Guard Dick Ruggles won the title last season with 261 points.

CHANA'S 280 points rank as the fifth best single season total in the West Suburban's history. Only players to top that mark have been Ted Caiazza of La Grange on two occasions, Ron Hain of Hinsdale, Don Anderson of York, and Wally Kirk of York.

ARLINGTON'S top scorer was junior guard Chuck Close who rifled in 185 points on 76 baskets and 33 free throws. Next in line but well down the list was forward Don Kolstad with 121 on 39 baskets and 43 free throws.

Arlington had four players with 100 or more points in West Suburban competition. Following Close and Kolstad were Vince Furlong with 107 and Gary Brodnan with 105.

Prospect JVs Rout Niles West

Prospect's junior varsity basketball team closed its season Friday with an easy 52-38 victory over Niles West. The win gave the Interim league champion Knights a final record of 15 wins and one defeat.

Coach Ted Wissen's squad relied on some strong second half play to down the scrappy Indians. Niles took a 24-21 first half lead on the strength of Ron Landes' 14-point performance.

Prospect's Ron Koepke then turned in his spurs in fine fashion in the third quarter. The husky center hit nine points in boost his team on top to stay. Koepke got able assists from Dave Gobeille and Dick Smith. The quarter ended with Prospect leading 40-30.

The red-hot Landes got only three points in the third, then went scoreless in the fourth as the Knights iced the cake by Prospect Guard John Davis got six of the 12 with three baskets.

Koepke and Landes were high point men for the game with 17 apiece. Gobeille contributed 14 to the Prospect effort.

Prospect Sophs Post Impressive 15-1 Cage Record

Prospect's frosh-soph basketball team wrapped up an impressive season Saturday morning with a 50-49 victory over Niles West.

The powerful Knights of Coach Bob Hoese, beaten only once in 16 games this season, claimed the advantage at the end of each of the first three periods against Niles and held on as the hosts flurried in the final seven minutes of play.

The victory was Prospect's 11th straight of the 1961-62 season with the only setback incurred in the opening game of the St. Charles holiday tournament.

WITH DAN Sherman popping in five points Prospect moved out to an 11-10 first period lead Saturday and Ron Moehling was the key man in a second period attack that gave the Knights a 27-25 halftime advantage. Moehling tossed in 12 points in that second period in an impressive display of marksmanship.

Niles stayed even with the Knights in the third period, then rallied in the concluding stanza before Prospect could put the game away and rack up another victory.

Moehling took Prospect scoring honors with 16 points and Bob Gewecke and Sherman chipped in with 11 each. Tom McClellan and Grant Gentry added four each and Russell Barger and Bob Pomplum collected two.

Prospect High Moves Into Tourney Semi's

Setting the stage for a dramatic meeting with neighboring Arlington High School, Prospect's Knights racked up an impressive 63-49 victory over Glenbrook Monday evening in the second game of the Prospect Regional basketball tournament.

Coach Dick Kinneman's Foundry Road club, shaky at times during the concluding weeks of the Interim League campaign, turned in a solid performance Monday as it belted the Northbrook entry for the third time this season.

Taking the lead for good in the opening seconds of the second period, the fired-up Knights completely outplayed the Spartans in the final three stanzas as they rolled to their 15th conquest of the 1961-62 season.

PROSPECT'S hardwood outfit, standing 15-7 for the season, was slated to meet Arlington last night (Wednesday) in the semi-finals of the regional competition with the winner moving into Friday's championship encounter.

The Knights started off slow last Monday but once they got started, they were hard to stop. Kinneman's crew fired at an impressive .533 clip during the contest with senior guard Tommy Thomas rifling in 23 points with a nine-of-16 mark from the field and five-of-six effort at the free throw line.

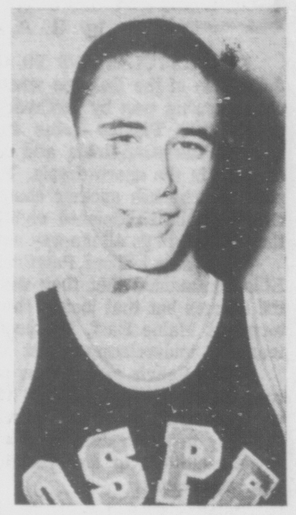
Glenbrook had trouble finding the range throughout the regional contest, and Denny Pietrzak, the Spartans' highly regarded pivotman, was something less than spectacular Monday, collecting just 13 points in a lackluster performance.

A 35-FOOT shot by Tim Shannon at the buzzer gave Glenbrook a 13-12 lead heading into the second period, but Mike Francek's layup on the lead end of a nifty steal put Prospect back on top and the Knights never trailed again.

Bob Hope and Dave White were Prospect's key men in that opening stanza as they combined for the Knights' first nine points.

Hope, the 6-foot-4 junior pivotman, cashed in with a free throw, short jumper, and sweeping hook, and White, a talented soph who engineers the Prospect attack, fired in jumpers from 10 and 20 feet.

WITH FIVE different boys chipping in points Prospect outscored the Spartans by eight in the second quarter and held a 30-23 lead at the intermission. Thomas warmed up after a slow start with six points, including a pair of baskets via his favorite jump shot.



DAVE WHITE

Action slowed down in the third period, Prospect increasing its advantage by two points, and the Knights exploded in the final eight minutes of play with 22 markers as Glenbrook's full-court press failed to effectively halt the locals' surge.

Glenbrook never was in contention in the final segment although pulling within eight points on two occasions. The Knights were red-hot, and it was simply a matter of time before Kinneman's outfit wrapped up another victory, its eighth in the last nine games.

White put the finishing touches on the impressive victory with a pair of free throws in the closing seconds.

THOMAS TOPPED both clubs in scoring with his 23 points and Francek and White chipped in with 14 and 12 respectively with Mike turning in his usually effective performance on the boards. Hope added eight for the Prospect five.

Pietrzak was high for Glenbrook with 13 points, nine in the second half. No other Spartan could hit double figures as Glenbrook concluded its 1961-62 season.

Knights' Frosh Stop Niles West In Final Games

Prospect's frosh basketball squads both ended the 1961-62 hardwood campaign on a winning note.

Coach Ken Arneson's "A" squad leveled Niles West, 51-45, and Lou Schairer's "Bs" posted a 61-48 victory.

With the impressive victory Arneson's "As" avenged a previous four-point setback to the Niles West outfit and the Prospect entry finished the season with a creditable 9-5 standard. Schairer's "Bs" stand 11-1 with the only loss a one-pointer to Maine West.

AN EXPLOSIVE third period keyed Prospect's "As" to their six-point victory over Niles West. The two clubs were deadlocked at the intermission, but the Knights hit Niles with a 19-7 bulge in the third stanza and held on for the victory.

Prospect exhibited some balanced scoring in the decision with Steve Johnsen high with 14 points. Keith Bergen added nine and Jim LaRocco, Ed Schneider, and Craig Thomas collected eight each.

Score by quarters:

Prospect	12	12	19	8—51

AFTER A SLOW start Prospect's "Bs" started to roll in the third period and they posted a 61-48 triumph, marking their second victory of the season over Niles West.

Wayne Kuklinski was the chief point producer for Schairer's club with six baskets and a free throw for 13 markers. John Jay also hit double figures with 11 and George Schneider and Bill Reising tossed in nine and eight respectively.

Arlington's Cards Win Tourney Opener

Everyone got into the act Monday evening in Arlington's regional opener.

Lanky Phil O'Connell scored the first points of his varsity career and finished in double figures.

Bob Laughlin hit his season high with eight markers.

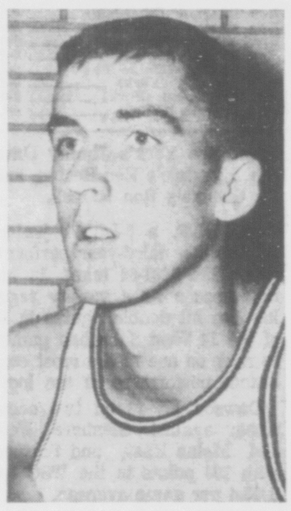
Ray Miller drilled two baskets in three shots, including a crowd-pleasing, desperation toss in the final second of the first half.

All in all, it was quite a night as Arlington's varsity basketball Cardinals clobbered the hapless Deerfield Warriors, 90-43, piling up the school's biggest point total since an 80-68 shellacking of Glenbrook in the 1960 regional.

TEN PLAYERS saw action for Arlington as Coach Norm Patberg cleared the bench and ten players scored. Four boys hit double figures with junior guard Gary Brodnan, playing approximately half the game, canning 18 points on six baskets in seven shots and six free throws.

With the victory in the opening game of the Prospect Regional tournament Arlington earned a berth in the semi-finals. Patberg's Cards were slated to meet the host Prospect Knights last night (Wednesday) with the winner moving into Friday's championship tussle.

After a brief Deerfield flurry in the opening minutes of play Arlington finally gained the lead and from then on it was simply a matter of how high the score would go. Deerfield held a 5-2 lead but when the dust had cleared, Arlington was on top 17-6 and coasting home with its 15th victory of the 1961-62 season.



PHIL O'CONNELL

PATBERG substituted freely in the regional lidlifter with his starting five playing less than half the game. As a team, Arlington fired at a .413 clip with 26 shots finding the mark in 63 attempts. The starting five hit 15 baskets in 30 shots.

Sixty-two fouls were called with 85 free throws attempted in the tournament encounter and Deerfield can thank its accuracy at the charity stripe for helping avert even more humiliation. The Warriors hit 23 free throws in 31 attempts but only attempted 28 shots from the floor, netting 10, in the 32 minutes of action.

Carrying a 25-11 lead heading into the second period, Patberg inserted the reserves but the Cardinals continued to pull away. It was 42-18 midway in the stanza and Miller's desperation shot at the buzzer gave Arlington a 51-24 cushion at the intermission.

THE FIRST string came back at the outset of the third period and proceeded to outscore the Warriors by 18 points, increasing the Cards' advantage to 74-29 with eight minutes remaining.

Chuck Close banged in eight points in that third period and then the regulars retired to the sidelines and watched the reserves finish out the one-sided encounter.

Arlington missed 11 free throws in the final period or might have set a school scoring record for a single game. The 1956-57 quintet rolled up 99 points in crushing Riverside-Brookfield.

BRODNAN TOOK game honors with 18 points and Close was right behind with 15. O'Connell, a 6-foot-5 junior who scored his first varsity point with 4:15 remaining in the second stanza, collected 13 and Vince Furlong and Rusty Blix chipped in with 11 each.

Announce Priority For Ticket Sales At AHS Sectional

The priority system will be in effect for the Arlington High School Sectional basketball tournament and will be used for the sale of tickets.

Tickets will be $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for students, an increase for the adults because of a trend to increase prices of the tourney ducats in the suburban area.

Athletic Director Wally Grace stressed that the increase was necessitated to make the Arlington receipts comparable to other tourney sites and added that prices may be standardized by the Illinois High School Association.

The change in price only affects the adult tickets.

Unless otherwise notified, tickets will go on sale the day prior to the day of the game.

Following is the priority system:

Priority 1 —
a. Student season ticket holders, Orchesis, cheerleaders, Cardettes, pep band and winter sports athletes. Limit one ticket each. Student card to be punched.
b. Building staff. (Limited to staff member and immediate family.)
Priority 2 —
Other students in class order: Senior, Junior, Sophomore, Freshman. Limit one ticket each. Student card to be punched.

Priority 4 —

General Sale —
Any tickets remaining unsold at the close of the schedule for group 4 will be on sale to the general public until the time for their return to tournament headquarters.
Forty-eight Hour Basis or More:
Group 1—Opening of office to end of luncheon first day of sale.
Group 2—End of lunch on first day of sale to 9:00 a.m. of second day of sale.
Group 3—9:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. of second day of sale.

Jack Hutchinson Passes Vopicka For Loop Honors

Staging a remarkable late-season surge, capped by a brilliant 42-point performance against Willowbrook High School, Wheaton's Jack Hutchinson claimed the Interim League's scoring championship for the 1961-62 season.

Settled in third for a good part of the season, Hutchinson, a 6-foot-6 senior, passed Morton West's Jim Vopicka on the final night of loop play.

Trailing Vopicka by 30 points prior to last Friday's competition, Hutchinson vaulted to the top on the strength of a 42-point effort against Willowbrook while Vopicka was cashing in just eight against Glenbard East.

HUTCHINSON finished with 319 points on 130 baskets and 59 free throws and Vopicka dialed 315. Ranking third was Prospect sharpshooter Tommy Thomas with 279 markers on 113 baskets and 53 free throws.

After being checked with one basket against Proviso West, Hutchinson started his surge. In the next five league games Jack popped in 31, 33, 20, 28, and 42—a 30.8 per game average.

Glenbrook's Denny Pietrzak tossed in 261 points for fourth place and Willowbrook's Bill Bornemann, despite sitting out one game with an injury, collected 251 for fifth.

Prospect had four players with 100 or more points in Interim league play. Following Thomas were Jim Hogarty with 151, Mike Francek with 120, and Ken Groh with 100.

Kahn Electric Gains Sweep; Increases Lead in Classic

S. M. Kahn Electrical Contractors of Chicago increased their lead to three points in the Paddock Classic Traveling League Saturday with a four-point sweep over Jeffery Lanes of Wheeling while second place Nelson Realty of Mount Prospect was taking three of four points from Martinetti's Restaurant of Crystal Lake.

Martinetti's hung onto third place, one-half point ahead of Wheeling Furniture, representing Hi-Way Recreation, Palatine, who split four points with Beverly Lanes of Arlington Heights.

Pro Sport Center of Mount Prospect and Moyle Construction, representing Country Lanes, Lake Zurich, remained a tie for fifth place, splitting four points in their match.

MEANWHILE, Beverly Lanes, in picking up two points, are now only one-half point behind Jeffery Lanes, who were blanked by the league leaders, in the battle to stay out of last place. The two teams still have a make-up match which should decide the issue.

Tony Sasso of Des Plaines paced Kahn with a 217-222-196—635 series. The Des Plaines five, representing River-Rand Bowl, was never headed as Mike Wagner of Des Plaines (625), and Don Christensen of Arlington Heights (613) chipped in. Wagner's 268 game was high for the night's action, and his personal high in the league this year. Christensen had games of 225 and 200.

Chuck Gibson of Bensenville paced the losers with a 588 series, including a 221 game. Teammates George Stone of Deerfield and Bill Harris of Wheeling had identical 556 series.

NELSON REALTY, representing Bowlway of Elgin, topped the 1000-pin mark in the first two games with Martinetti's, representing Ten Pin, Barrington, but sagged in the third match, the only point they lost.

Casper DeWitz of Barrington paced Nelson with a 223-201-223—647 series. He got help from Warren Olson of Arlington Heights who had a 602 series, including games of 209 and 200, and LeRoy Papineau of Algonquin, and Tom Kouros of Barrington Woods. Papineau had a 236 game while Kouros rolled games of 200 and 202.

The string of 200-plus games enabled Nelson to take high team game (1031) and high team series (2988) honors for the night.

MARTINETTI'S was topped by John Majewski, of Algonquin whose 605 series included a 246 game. Ed Dudek of Barrington had a 220 game while Bill Moss, Crystal Lake, with a 244 game, and Chris Pulos (208) helped out.

Beverly Lanes won only one game in its match with Wheeling Furniture but picked up a split with a three-pin edge in total pins.

John Seidel of Palatine paced Beverly with a 583 series, including a 203 game. Teammate Dick Nickol of Palatine had a 223 game. Ron Fogarett, another Palatine resident, topped Wheeling with a 207-201-207—615 series. Ted Zimmerman of Des Plaines and Herb Engstrom of Elgin chipped in with games of 225 and 207 respectively.

MOYLE Construction was lucky to walk away with a split in its match with Pro Sport Center, bowling on its home lanes at Gunnell's in Mount Prospect. Moyle won the second game by only one pin, 958-957, lost the third and total pins.

George Radke of Mundelein led Moyle with a 225-198-230—653 series, high individual effort for the night. He was aided by George Sargent of Great Lakes who had a 215 game, and Frank Graff of Palatine (217).

How Strong Are Famous Globetrotters?

There's no doubt that the Harlem Globetrotters, who play at Arlington High School on Monday evening, March 19, are the finest showmen in basketball, and all sports for that matter, but just how great are they playing-wise?

That question has been asked many times, and answered well through the years. Abe Saperstein's teams more than held their own with the best professional clubs in the business when there was a solid array of pay-for-play quintets available for competition. The Trotters won many an invitational tournament and also a big world championship meet at Chicago Stadium in 1940.

In recent years, pro competition has dwindled for the clever Negro aggregation. Clubs in pro leagues aren't allowed to play outside of their circuits. Great traveling quintets have been reduced to a very few, and the Globetrotters have demonstrated complete mastery over them.

BUT THERE remains one yardstick to measure the ability of the Saperstein club. Every year since 1950, with the exception of 1959 and 1960 when the event was suspended because of the Pan-American and Olympic Games, the top college senior players have been brought together at the conclusion of the season and pitted against the Globetrotters in a World Series of Basketball.

The collegians formed great teams, coached by the best, and provided some tough competition, but nevertheless the Trotters won every one of the ten series played. The last one in April of 1961, played in 20 cities in as many days and viewed by 172,770 paying customers, went to the Trotters by a 14 games to 6 margin. The trip was made by chartered airliner.

Based on their showings over the spirited and talented campus aces, the Globetrotters must be rated as superb. In showmanship and serious play, they're outstanding.

Sponsoring the event is the Methodist Men's Club of the First Methodist Church of Arlington Heights. Tickets are $2.25 for adults and $1.25 for students and may be purchased from members of the Methodist Men's Club.

Additional information on the Globetrotters' appearance in Arlington will appear on these sports pages.

Warriors' Gymnasts Head Interim Meet

Willowbrook's powerful varsity gymnasts had too much strength for the rest of the field last Saturday in the Interim League's first gymnastics meet.

Coach Vic Lesch's Warriors collected 147 points in running away from the ten other schools in the meet staged at the Villa Park school.

Furnishing the most competition for Willowbrook were Proviso West's Panthers, but the Hillside entry was a distant second with 82½ points. Coach Rick Farris' Prospect Knights scored in every event, but had to settle for third with 66½ markers.

SO COMPLETE was Willowbrook's dominance of the meet that the Warriors picked up five individual firsts. Leach's league champions scored more than 20 points in four events and topped 15 in every category of the gym spectacular.

Prospect was consistent in its scoring, but couldn't come up with that big event. Farris' outfit boasted one individual champion with Gary VanderVoort on the parallel bars. Gary racked up scores of 89-90 for an impressive victory.

The individual champs for Willowbrook were Scholz on the side horse, Stein in tumbling, Al Brelig on the high bars, D. Brelig on the still rings, and Dolan on the trampoline.

ALSO SCORING for the Villa Park Warriors were Gebhardt with a second and Minser with a tie for seventh on the side horse; Shirkey with a second and Moore with a fifth in tumbling; Scorza with a fourth on the high bars; D. Brelig and Ballard with a tie for second and Minser with a tie for fifth on the parallel bars; Burgener with a tie for second and Minser with a tie for fifth on the still rings; and Moore with a fifth on the tramp.

Dick Minser claimed a third, Al Brelig a sixth, and Karl Burgener a ninth in the all-around.

Thomas Steal Gives Prospect 47-46 Win

by TOM McSHANE

Guard Tommy Thomas stole a pass and canned a layup with 48 seconds on the clock Friday to give the Prospect Knights a 47-46 win over the Niles West Indians in their final Interim association game of the year.

The win brought Prospect a third place finish in the conference and boosted its season record to 14-7 going into this week's state tournament competition.

Thomas' victory-cli n c hing basket was fitting. The lanky senior, playing in his final regular season game, rimmed 20 points during the evening to finish third in the conference scoring race with 278 points and a 17.4 average.

For awhile though, it seemed that even Thomas would be unable to pull this one out.

AFTER OPENING the game with a rush and taking a 10-2 lead in the first four minutes, the Knights blew cold. They watched Rick Artwick and Jerry Berman boost Niles back in the game with a big second quarter that ended in a 25-all halftime tie.

Prospect, which made only 20 of 63 field goal attempts in the game, was way off during this stretch. Artwick, with six points, and Berman, with five, took advantage of the situation to even things up.

Pospect came to life again in the third quarter to outscore the hosts 12-10 and regain the lead. Senior Forward Mike Francek led the attack with two 20-footers and a tip-in, while Thomas contributed two of his long jump shots. But Artwick, with two more baskets and a brace of free throws kept the Indians close up.

The fourth quarter was seesaw. Artwick got five more for his side. Thomas spelled the difference for the Knights.

THOMAS MADE his steal under the Niles basket with the score tied 45-all. The lay-up was simple, and the Knights fell back to protect their lead. Seconds later Artwick was fouled and he made one shot to make it 47-46. Prospect then started downcourt with the ball.

With the seconds ticking off, Artwick fouled Knight Guard Dave White, and retired to the sidelines with five personals. White missed his shot and the ball went over to Niles with about 20 seconds left.

THE INDIANS decided to try for the final all-or-nothing shot. They held the ball to the last second. As the clock hands moved straight-up, Guard Bob Brown lofted a jump shot that missed. Berman grabbed the rebound as the buzzer sounded. He made the follow-up shot, but it didn't count. Prospect had its 12th win against four defeats in the conference.

Thomas and Artwick tied for scoring honors with 20 apiece. Berman and Francek both had 11. Forward Jim Hogarty added 10 for Prospect.

Eddleman To Speak At Banquet

Dike Eddleman, one of the greatest athletes ever to compete in Illinois, will be the guest speaker at the Arlington High School winter sports banquet on Thursday evening, March 22.

Eddleman was an 11-letterman at the University of Illinois where he starred in football, basketball, and track and was an Olympic high jumper.

New Trier Swimmers Win State

New Trier, Evanston, and Hinsdale — the three teams expected to battle it out for team honors — lived up to expectations in the Illinons State High School swimming championships last Saturday.

New Trier's powerful Indians edged Evanston by three and one-half points for their 13th state title and Hinsdale of the West Suburban Conference was third, eight points off the championship pace.

The only local entry in the state meet, Arlington High junior Doug Rice, failed to score in the stiff competition after qualifying in two events.

EVANSTON'S Pete Hammer cracked the 100-yard backstroke record in one of the day's most thrilling finishes. P mer and George Goff of roviso East were both clocked in 54.9 seconds, but officials ruled Hammer touched the finish mark first.

Both swimmers were given credit for breaking the old record of 55.1 seconds set by New Trier's Roger Goettsche l a s t year.

The Evanston team of John Newman, Stuart Soule, Tom Schwartin, and Ed Fahrbach recorded a new mark in the 200-yard freestyle relay, taking eight-tenths of a second off the 1:32.7 recorded by Rockford East in 1961. Evanston had tied that mark in Friday evening's preliminaries.

JACK KIEFER of state champion New Trier was one of the individual standouts in the meet with firsts in the 200-yard individual medley and 100-yard butterfly.

Tom Hutcheson and Brent Bersbach of New Trier finished 1-2 in diving competition, and Tom Pringle triumphed in the 50 and 100-yard freestyle events for Evanston.

Although Arlington didn't score in the state meet, there was a local angle involved in that Rockford East's Gil LaCroix placed in two events, taking an impressive third in the 200-yard individual medley.

LaCroix formerly lived in Arlington and spent his freshman year at AHS before transferring to East Rockford. Gil was named the "Most Valuable Boy Swimmer" in 1957 in the Arlington Park District program.

Interim League

Prospect Wins Soph Gymnastics Crown

Prospect needed a solid performance on the trampoline for the team championship last Saturday in the Interim League's frosh-soph gymnastics meet.

And Coach Don Arseneau's Knights came up with the so-called impossible when they swept the top three positions thanks to Pat Kivland, John Strobel, and Bruce Frasch.

The talented P r o s p e c t crew, boasting an impressive 11-2 mark in dual meet competition during the season, collected 98 points for their day's work at Willowbrook High School to edge the host school by seven markers.

GLENBARD EAST'S R a m s finished third in the 10-team field with 89 points, but the remainder of the squads were well behind the pacesetting trio.

Tumbling and tram p o l i n e proved to be the strongest events for the league champions from Prospect with 26 and 28 counts. The Knights scored in every event but the still rings in rolling up their 98 points.

In addition to Kivland's work on the tramp, one other Knight picked up first place honors in the first annual league meet. Brian Williams gained a 165 total in topping the tumbling alignment.

CLAIMING seconds for Arseneau's Knights were Ken Stubenrauch on the side horse, Bill Hoos on the parallel bars, and Strobel on the trampoline.

Larry Lynn picked up a tenth on the side horse for Prospect, and the Knights claimed three of the ten positions in tumbling thanks to Williams' first, Kivland's third, and Al Smith's fourth.

Scoring on the high bar were Wally Pagel with a fourth and Scott Paris with a seventh, and backing Hoos' second on the parallel bars was Kivland with a sixth.

In the all-around event Williams finished seventh with Smith eighth and Kivland ninth.

WILLOWBROOK had three firsts during the meet with Keiler on the parallel bars, McDowell on the still rings, and Martin on the side horse.

Also scoring for the Warriors were Schwabel with a sixth and Flanigan with an eighth on the side horse; Mills with a sixth and Rupelt with an eighth in tumbling; Schmitt with a fifth and Keiler with a tie for ninth on the high bar; Weskow with a fourth and Schmitt with a ninth on the parallel bars; Keiler with a tie for seventh and Froeming with a ninth on the still rings; and Minser with a fifth on the trampoline.

In the all-around event Keiler finished third with Schmitt fifth.

Hinsdale Rolls Over Arlington

by BOB FRISK

Maybe Arlington was due for "one of those games."

With the regional tournament just around the corner and fourth place sewed up in the West Suburban Conference the varsity Cardinals obviously didn't regard last Friday's journey to Hinsdale with much enthusiasm.

You just don't tackle Hinsdale on its own floor unless you're mentally ready for the task at hand, and Arlington found that out the hard way in a lackluster West Suburban finale.

THE HOST Red Devils, collecting just two more baskets than the Cards but 17 more free throws, encountered no difficulty in humbling Arlington, 55-34, in what must rank as one of the dullest games on the league card during the 1961-62 season.

The Hinsdale five held the lead for 30 of the 32 minutes of playing time and limited the Cardinals to their lowest output since a 72-36 debacle with league champion La Grange back in mid-December.

With the setback Arlington finished with an 8-6 standard and undisputed hold on fourth place in the West Suburban. Glenbard West, the Card's No. 1 challenger for that position, was leveled at Maine East last Friday and finished with a 7-7 record.

ARLINGTON held a brief 2-0 lead in the first period thanks to Vince Furlong's 10-footer, but Hinsdale tied in on Kenny Boston's 20-foot jumper, went ahead on Bill Koch's easy layup, and was never headed thereafter.

Hinsdale gradually pu ll ed away from the floundering Cardinals who experienced their coldest shooting night of the season. In addition, Arlington was a "one shot club" with little if any effective work on the offensive boards.

Arlington's reserves took over in the fourth period, and both clubs were guilty of some erratic passing and floor work as the West Suburban Conference campaign terminated for another year.

BOB HAARLOW, certainly the key to any success Hinsdale has experienced this season, collected 20 points to pace both clubs, and Boston, the 5-foot-9 guard, added 13, seven on free throws.

Arlington didn't have any player in double figures and Furlong was high with nine points, all in the first half. Gary Brodnan added eight.

Whereas Hinsdale was tagged with only 10 personal fouls, Arlington checked in with 22. During the evening Hinsdale hit on 25 of 38 free throw attempts while Arlington netted eight of 11.

Enough said for that game!

Joan Lindahl Paces Morton to Top Spot

Morton Pontiac of Arlington Heights roared into first place in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling league Saturday with three straight wins over slumping Steve's Restaurant of Wheeling.

Steve's has dropped five of its last six encounters, and now shares second place with Ridge Motors from Sims Bowl in Des Plaines. Ridge took two of three games from Northfield Bowl of Northfield who are now firmly entrenched in last place.

IN OTHER action, River-Rand Bowl of Des Plaines took three games from Moyle Construction to move into a third place tie with the Country Lanes five from Lake Zurich.

Arlington High Frosh-Sophs Top Hinsdale, 48-39

Arlington's sophomore basketball team claimed a share of sixth place in the West Suburban Conference with an impressive 48-39 victory over Hinsdale last Friday evening.

Coach Ken Schaller's Cardinals, trailing by one point at halftime, dominated play in the final two periods as they terminated their league play for the 1961-62 season.

With the victory, Arlington concluded loop firing with a 4-10 record and tie for sixth place with Maine East. Hinsdale, beaten twice by the young Cards, finished one game on top in fifth place with a 5-9 record.

Arlington's frosh-sophs will be idle now until Tuesday, March 13, when they hook up against Joliet in the Wheaton sophomore tournament.

FOUR BOYS did all the scoring as Arlington moved past Hinsdale with Joe Mueller turning in another solid performance and contributing 16 markers. Mueller collected 10 points in the final half.

The young Cardinals didn't gain a free throw in the first half as they presented a balanced attack. Mueller, Paul Splittorff, Dick Anderson, and Greg Buczynski each collected three baskets for six points.

Mueller keyed the third period explosion that gave the Cards the lead, and Arlington outscored the host Imps by five markers in the final seven minutes of play.

Mueller topped Arlington with 16 points and Splittorff and Anderson chipped in with 12 and 11 respectively, but Hinsdale's Campbell captured game honors with 10 baskets and 20 points on some impressive marksmanship.

The box score:

Arlington's Soph Cagers In Tourney

Arlington's frosh-soph basketball Cardinals will tackle a highly regarded Joliet quintet in the opening game of the Wheaton sophomore tournament next Tuesday evening, March 13, at 7 o'clock.

Coach Ken Schaller's Cards, an impressive victor over Hinsdale in the West Suburban finale last Friday, will hook up with seven other schools in the soph tourney.

Joining the local five will be Joliet, Wheaton, Lake Park, Lockport, Glenbard East, Downers Grove, and West Chicago.

IN THE other game Tuesday evening Wheaton will battle Lake Park. In the two evening contests Wednesday Lockport will test Glenbard East and Downers Grove will tackle West Chicago.

The first semi-final game will be staged Thursday with the second at 8:15 p.m. The championship tilt is scheduled for Friday, March 16, at 7:30 p.m.

Arlington will bring an 8-10 record into the tournament, but six of those losses have been by five or less points. The Cards lost by two points to co-league champion York.

SCHALLER WILL probably open with Dick Anderson and Paul Splittorff at the forwards, Greg Buczynski at center, and Joe Mueller and either Jim Jakubiec or Ray Merkel at guards.

Mueller has recovered effectively from a mid-season slump and tossed in 20 and 16 points in the final two league encounters. For the season Mueller has accounted for 189 markers in 18 games for a 10.5 average.

Admission to the Wheaton tourney will be 25 cents for students with identification and 50 cents for adults.

Wheaton is located on Roosevelt Road and Main Street in Wheaton.

Junior Women Work for Communities

PET PROJECT of Wood Dale Junior Women's Club is the local library, where members over a 2-year period including above clubwomen, Mrs. Joseph Greeley, Mrs. John Murray, Mrs. Robert Terese and Mrs. Carl Chaverin, have donated 300 hours of volunteer service. The local club is among several others in both Cook and DuPage counties competing in the current Community Improvement Program, a nationwide contest sponsored by the Sears Roebuck Foundation and the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Vie for Top Contest Honor

by TOM EDWARDS

Strong competition in the biennial Community Improvement Contest among the nation's women's clubs will be registered from the northwest suburban area again this year.

At least 11 groups are entering the contest sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs. (Deadline for entries was March 1.) All eight Junior Woman's Clubs in the Seventh District are reported to be entering their projects of the last two years, along with the Junior Woman's Clubs in Wood Dale and Itasca in the 11th District.

Wheeling's juniors brought home honors to this area in the 1960 contest, placing first in the state and sixth in the nation. They appear to be in strong contention again this year.

OTHER AREA communities entering are Arlington Heights, Schaumburg, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove, Mount Prospect and Des Plaines.

Central theme of the Wheeling club's entry are the activities of the Wheeling Community Council, in which their members have been the chief participants. The council was founded by the junior women about two years ago, and was an important factor in their success in the nationwide contest in 1960.

Development of a "sense of community," cooperative community endeavors, is one of the chief criteria in the judging, according to the contest announcement.

WITHIN THE framework of the Community Council, the Wheeling juniors have undertaken "Community Improvement" as a continuing project, and have formed a permanent club Community Improvement Committee.

As a result of a survey taken by the committee, the Wheeling Board of Trustees has approved a $107,000 sidewalk construction program slated to begin this spring.

But beautification of the community is the primary goal of the committee. It conducted through the council an appearance improvement contest among auto service stations last fall, and recommendations have been made to the village board to control billboards, nuisance weeds and to make greater use of the village symbol and planter boxes.

A MAJOR tree planting program for Wheeling has been undertaken by the committee, which has been joined in its efforts by the Jaycees, with the endorsement and cooperation of the Community Council. Also, the woman's club committee is in the process of choosing a village flower, and the joint committee hopes to institute a village tree.

Other projects listed by the Wheeling Juniors in which they have worked in cooperation with other groups are the institution of public bus service to Chicago, participation in the School Board Caucus Committee and in school bond issue referendums, conduction of a public forum for candidates running in last April's village election, establishment of a Northwest Suburban Mental Health Clinic, a survey of the feasibility of a United Fund, and distribution of Christmas baskets to needy families.

Independent projects cited are work on the organization of a Salvation Army Home Service Unit, sponsorship of a dance class for junior high pupils, support to the public library, and hosting two foreign visitors at the request of the U. S. State Department.

WOOD DALE Junior Woman's Club, only two years old, has prepared an entry showing extensive work on two community-wide projects, support of the public library and keeping an up-to-date calendar of community events.

Besides publishing a community calendar for general distribution, the club sends a weekly listing of upcoming events to the local DuPage County Register, and mails a monthly newsletter to all village homes announcing and describing future events. In addition, a bulletin board announcing all scheduled Wood Dale events for the year is constantly maintained at the entrance of the library, and another similar bulletin board at the railroad depot.

To the library, the club has donated $748, about 75 books and over 300 volunteer hours of work.

Arlington Heights junior women are submitting as their main project their help to two families so that their 13 children are able to attend school regularly.

TWO YEARS OF WORK and weeks of report writing and editing went into the preparation of the entry of the Wheeling Junior Women's Club in the biennial Community Improvement Contest among the nation's women's clubs. The Wheeling juniors placed first in the state and sixth in the nation in 1960. Above Mrs. Rae Swanson (left) and Mrs. Barbara Farr compose the club's scrapbook.

INITIATING A Community Council in cooperation with the Jaycees is their second leading project. Also, the Arlington juniors are reporting on their participation in the village's adoption and aid to a Peruvian village to help improve international relations, work toward establishing a Northwest Suburban Mental Health Clinic, and their sponsorship of a story hour for pre-school children.

The Arlington Women's Club (a separate organization from the juniors) is submitting a report on their participation and cooperation in establishing a Community Council.

Number one project of the Rolling Meadows Junior Woman's Club is continued support of the Clearbrook School for Retarded Children, furnishing volunteer help and raising funds for the school which they helped to establish.

OTHER PROJECTS of the Rolling Meadows group are various aids to the community library, sponsorship of a Brownie Troop, participation in park district activities, work in the Northwest Cooperative Mental Health Association, assisting the annual carnival event of the fire department, and helping to organize the Juvenile Association recently started by the police department.

Elk Grove's juniors have divided their entry into three sections, Community, Social and Cultural projects. An imposing list of community projects includes aid to the Clearbriok School, raising funds for the Northwest Suburban Mental Health Clinic and Chicago educational television, sponsorship of a visit of a mobile TB X-ray unit, donations to the community pool and parks, participation in the annual village Peony Pageant, and public relations work to achieve cooperation between civic organizations.

Establishment and support of a public library for the village leads the projects of the Elk Grove women in the other two categories. Also, they have formed an Art League, conducted a community art show, and cooperated with the Community Council in establishing a Youth Club.

The 1-year-old Schaumburg Junior Woman's Club does not yet have a major project, but have already cooperated with other organizations on four community endeavors. They are the organization of the Northwest Mental Health Clinic, help in sponsoring a visit of a TB X-ray unit, participation in a Girl Scout fund drive, and beautifying a village name sign with plantings.

MOUNT PROSPECT juniors started a Senior Citizens Club, solicited about 500 letters asking that the railroad station be rejuvenated (which was accomplished), and provides a partial scholarship to one high school graduate each year.

Civil Defense is the primary project of the Itasca junior women. They were instrumental in establishing a local unit recently, and have eight club members presently taking an 11-week Red Cross emergency training program.

Also, the Itasca women have had the iris approved as the village flower, and a variety of iris has been developed and named Itasca. Residents of the village will note that their 1962 vehicle stamps bear the picture of this flower.

The Des Plaines Junior Women have two main projects they are entering in the contest, Civil Defense and selling U. S. Savings Stamps in the schools.

COOPERATING in the sponsorship of the contest is the Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

Purpose of the contest is to serve as a means "of creating the 'sense of community' that is so sorely lacking in towns, cities and suburbs throughout the land."

Entering clubs were advised to "write a clear, accurate and dynamic account of what your community has undertaken and accomplished," and to give credit to all groups and individuals who contributed to the success of the project.

The scrapbook is to be limited to five pounds, and unless the projects are a cooperative community endeavor, it is advised that the entrants cite only their three main projects.

IN RELATION to the projects entered, it is asked that their total contribution to the community be described, and if they created a "heightened spirit of civic unity and a deepened feeling of community solidarity."

First place place state award is $300, and first place national award is $10,000. National winners will all receive an additional $1,000 if they show in 1964 that their 1962 projects have been successfully continued and others begun. The clubs will be visited by an evaluator.

'Living on Velvet'

Oh for a Dog's Life In Suburbs Today!

Suburb Conformity Also Affects Pets

by BETTY AINSLIE

What has happened to the old-fashioned family dog? Has he also become a victim of suburban living? Has he lost his individuality along with his dog house and butcher bones?

You never see a group of dogs out for a stroll and frolic of their own. His acquaintances are as carefully selected as his food. He's bathed, barbered and bacterized. He's given shots for allergies—has consultations with the vet—pampered and pacified.

He conforms to being chained to a doggy stake, or is confined to a fenced in yard. He wears an overcoat and even galoshes. He belongs to the Kennel Club and he's exhibited at shows. He's either a problem or a prize to his owners and he's forgotten the knack of knocking over garbage pails, or romping through fields with the sheer nose-to-the-ground joy of being a dog.

HIS DIET IS supervised. Table scraps upset him and bones cause trouble along the digestive track. He's fed from cans, sacks or boxes, and his weight is as carefully watched as a movie star's.

He's immunized and deodorized, kept in the house and driven in the car. Papers trace his ancestors farther back than the family bible traces our own. He's pedigreed and he costs money, lots of money, so he's valuable property to be fussed over and worried about.

He sports a fancy collar with a new license tag every year; and to keep that tag company he wears a compulsory rabies shot tag. What has happened to dogs like the mixed-up stray who once followed me home from school and decided to remain as our family mascot? Is he long gone in the suburbs?

THE FARM dog like the country mouse finds he has all sorts of relatives living it up in town; and that town cousin is a highly sophisticated and nervous version of his country kinsman.

We have a pampered pooch. He has allergies in summer and fungus infections all year. He occupies the middle of the kitchen floor and he hasn't the faintest idea what to do with a bone. He's big and he barks which makes him think he's a watch dog, but he loves everyone and he's a problem, as all his lots are gobbled up by houses and his lone spots of freedom are few. He's a hunting dog who can't find a spot of food on the floor unless it is pointed out to him. He's a charter member of the vet visiting club and he's constantly expensive; but he has only to gaze at me out of his always bloodshot brown eyes to make my heart melt.

Mac is a fool and a clown. Romps like a pup through the house and has several broken lamps to his credit. He needs baths, sprays, clipping jobs and special foods; but he's our own pedigreed, lovable problem.

OUR SPRINGER is old enough to remember puppy days of freedom when our house stood out lonesomely on the block. He can recollect a couple of Spring seasons when he brought baby rabbits from the fields and laid them tenderly at our feet, unhurt with their fur not even mussed.

So I guess dogs are here to stay even in the suburbs. I suppose we can't have dogs wandering over the neighbor's landscaping so laws are made which chain him to the yard. He can sit at the end of his doggy stake and envy the neighborhood cats free and on the prowl.

Maybe dogs are bored and like humans with nothing much to do develop all sorts of strange maladies; but where there are humans there will be dogs and they've become as much a part of the rush and bustle of suburban living as their owners and react about the same way.

MAN'S BEST friend will always love and adore these strange fellows called masters. Although he may dream of green fields, plenty of trees and being once again a hunter after game, he'll follow willingly his beloved humans even to go rocketing to the moon if necessary.

He's smart; he knows that "a dog's life" means he's really living on velvet in the suburbs today.

Gourmet Gossip

Dill, that zippy, tangy flavor, means more to the gourmet than pickles. Dill weed gives such tasty and unusual flavor to green salads, you'll want to eliminate garlic, oregano, or other herbs you are ordinarily so fond of.

Dill pickles lend a tangy touch, too, to many main dishes. Try chopping a bit of the pickle and adding it, with about a teaspoon of the juice, to your sauces. A cream sauce with dill pickle makes a grand accompaniment to veal steaks or cutlets. The more you try dill the more you'll like it.

Quite Contrary by Mary

How a Mother 'Suffers'

MY FAMILY HAS NO IDEA HOW I SUFFER for them. If, under this bleached mop, there are any grey hairs, I know how they got there. They put them there, that's what.

There were all those times when the girls were taking dancing and piano lessons. The pain of getting them to practice was nothing compared with the bitter agony of going through the inevitable recitals. I didn't mind making all those costumes. I didn't mind the new dresses or the hair ribbons. It was the performance itself that made me twitch.

MARY

Take a dance recital. There I would sit with my feet and legs jerking out from under me in a vain effort to get them through their stint without a booboo. My hands would get clammy, my eyes watered and the strain made my head ache. During their piano bit, I would find my fingers going right along with theirs. When they hit a clinker, which they almost always did, I died a thousand deaths for them.

Now that most of them are too big for that sort of thing, I thought that life would be more tranquil and the old nerves could simmer down a little. Not so. Father was asked to bowl in a big thing. With some pretty stellar bowlers. Now Father isn't the worst bowler in the world. On the other hand Don Carter needn't shiver in his boots either. He's a sort of hot and cold bowler. When he's good, he's very very good. When he's bad, even I can outbowl him. And that's not saying much of anything.

I didn't realize that he was nervous about it until he suggested that we go and bowl a few lines on Saturday afternoon. The thing was held on Sunday. Everyone, but everyone, knows that Saturday afternoons is nap time for Daddy. It was one of his cold times. And so the tension mounted. The time was drawing nigh. He paced some. He wished he had said no. By this time, so did I.

While the event was taking place, I watched. I didn't want to. On the other hand, I couldn't keep my eyes off. Well, the little dear came through in simply marvelous fashion. I was so proud of him you would think I had invented him. I think I'll spend the day in bed. These things tell on a woman of my advanced years.

Bulletin Board Is Salvation for Mom

Do you find that the budding young Picasso in your family is taking up more and more room on the kitchen wall with his latest masterpieces? Why not let him have his very own bulletin board?

It can be made simply from a rectangle of beaverboard, cork, or similar material which will take thumb tacks easily. If the child is too young to be handling tacks, try a piece of heavy cardboard covered with contact or polished surfaced shelf paper. Hang it by a ribbon with a fancy bow. On this smooth surface he can paste up his drawings with ordinary sticky tape, or you can affix two-way tape to the picture for him so that he can place it on the board himself. The board can be easily washed off, too.

FOR CHILDREN of all ages a bulletin board can be a source of family fun and education as well. Cartoons, game ideas, snapshots and notices "from management" about after-school chores can be placed there for the children to find. Humorous "awards" can be put up also to acknowledge a difficult job well done.

Quite apart from creating family fun, a bulletin board is a useful tool for teaching by example three important keys to getting along with other people: Learn to communicate, or share experiences; be willing to accept instructions from a recognized authority; acknowledge special effort with a special "Thank you."

Dairy Diet

The average American family spends about 15 per cent of its food money for milk, cream, cheese and ice cream.

Just Around the Corner

Grades for Art?

Dear Peg:

I wish that there were some way, in local art exhibitions, for all of the very good art which seems to be ignored to be given some recognition. Perhaps a sort of grading system could be employed, not necessarily in view of the patrons attending the show. A grade and brief explanation could be jotted on a card and taped to the back of the painting—though the artist may not agree, at least he would be assured that his work was actually given attention.

It would be quite helpful to the artist to know whether his work had some very weak points or whether there were simply too many portraits in the exhibit and the majority had to be eliminated. If a small jury feels qualified enough to award first, second and third prize ribbons, I would think they would also feel some responsibility toward the non-prize winners and be willing to give them a few words of constructive criticism.

Aside from giving any criticism to the non-winners, I as a viewer would have a great deal more confidence in the judging if only an explanation were given for the prize winners.

One of the many good exhibitions held each year in the Chicago area is the North Shore Artists show. My good friend, Esther Perkins, was invited to enter a picture. On Sunday, Esther, Mother (who is visiting for a few days) and I went to see the exhibition and bring home her painting. Her canvas, "The Toast," is a picture of a girl holding a glass, done in brilliant, vivid colors that give the scene an atmosphere of gay excitement.

We saw the water colors first. In this section too another flaw of local shows was painfully evident. Irving Shapiro's painting, "Queen," was obviously the most professionally done picture in the group. It didn't seem fair to allow him to be judged along with the many much less professional artists (a slight exaggeration perhaps—but who would let Picasso enter the county fair competition except to see Picasso's pictures?).

Among the oils, George Straub's painting of an elderly woman spinning was outstanding. The detail was reminiscent of the old masters. A similar style was evident in Louis Bonhajo's canvas entitled, "Grandma." A lovely, wistful painting called "Oil Sketch of Greta," by Mrs. F. C. Holtz appealed to all of us.

Brilliant work was evident in the jewel-like canvases of T. Anthony Franz's, "Flowers," and Ethlyn Panzironi's, "Gladiolus."

It's always pleasant to see shows of this type, but it would be far more rewarding to learn the [illegible] of the "whys" that arise in the minds of both viewers and artists.

My love,
[illegible]ity

'Pinky' Invites You to Join Her Egyptian Caravan March 27

Suburban women who are tired of playing handmaiden to their kings, princes and princesses, and tired of Chicago's winter wonderland are being given an opportunity to make reservations for March 27 to join "Pinkie" and her caravan for an Egyptian holiday. "Pinkie" is the little pink-pinafored character readers have seen in Paddock Publications and is the symbol of all the hard-working women volunteers at Northwest Community Hospital.

Her caravan is heading for an exotic trip to the land of Egypt to attend the annual luncheon fashion show at Elmhurst Country Club. The show, sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to Northwest Community Hospital, is a social highlight of the spring season and this year will feature fashions from Mount Prospect's Doris Kirkeby Shop in a completely Egyptian theme.

Interest in the ancient civilization of Egypt is particularly high in Chicago this year as King Tut's famous tomb is being moved in March to the Windy City's Museum of Natural History.

Models for the show will be area women who will emerge from an Egyptian canopy tent looking like Queen Nefertari about to gather handmaidens and slither off to a waiting barge.

HAIRSTYLES for the models will be sculpted to rival Cleopatra's by Burt Meyer of the Charm Center in Des Plaines, who has promised not only mysterious XVIIIth Dynasty styles in hair arranging, but also a slinky and sloe-eyed makeup job, a la Egyptian frieze art.

Bracelets worn high on the upper arms and earrings will also be incorporated into a vivid picture to make guests feel that they are sitting on a Nile Delta estate with a banquet set before them and thickets of papyrus waving in the distance.

Two poodles will momentarily lose their classification as French when they appear in the show. One will be dyed a delicate sphinx pink and the other will be in pyramid purple, and their ears will be trimmed and shaped to simulate Cleopatra's straight shoulder sweep.

PINKY IS even going to learn how to pack a suitcase for the trip and she'll let everyone else learn, too, while Pat Rudolph of United Airlines shows how to neatly and efficiently fold, tuck and pack without smashing or wrinkling. Pinkie promises other surprises, too, for the show, and urges everyone to attend and help her complete her goal of a $50,000 pledge to the hospital.

A successful luncheon with a full house of 850 women will put the hospital volunteers over their pledge. Although the hospital is only one year old, auxiliary members have been working five years to help bring about the dream of the hospital. Hard-working members of the group not only don their pink pinafores regularly to help at the hospital, but they get out and raise money to help with the many financial needs of the hospital.

The group has already paid off $25,000 of its pledge to help build and equip one of the finest emergency rooms in existence. The second half of the pledge will go to furnish and equip the hospital's gift and coffee shop, known as "The Pink Lady."

THE LARGEST amount of money the auxiliary raises is through its annual spring fashion show-luncheon. Last year more than 750 women attended and to accommodate the increasingly larger crowds who are interested in the show, the group this year obtained Elmhurst Country Club.

Table reservations are being made this year for those who desire and they have only to call Mrs. Mildred Ottinger, CL 3-8047, or Mrs. Lee Kenyon, CL 3-4474, for tickets. (S ROMEO AND JULIET, white poodles from the House of Dog Charm in Des Plaines, model some of the clothing they will be wearing when they serve as models in "An Egyptian Holiday" March 27, the annual fashion show presented by the auxiliary of Northwest Community Hospital. The dogs will be dyed in the show colors, sphinx pink and pyramid purple. (S

Patricia O'Gorman Carries Heirloom Hanky at Wedding

An heirloom handkerchief, carried for several generations by brides in the groom's family, was the "something old" carried by Miss Patricia O'Gorman, daughter of the Kenneth O'Gormans, 534 S. Chestnut, Arlington Heights, when she became the bride of Bernard Fick, son of the Emil Ficks of Des Plaines. The handkerchief was a gift to the groom's grandmother from his great-grandmother and had also been carried by his sister, Mrs. William Kerschke of Roselle, at her wedding.

Our Lady of the Wayside Church, Arlington Heights, was the scene of the O'Gorman-Fick nuptials, which took place at 2 p.m. Feb. 3. Rev. James P. O'Donnell officiated at the double ring service amid a setting of white altar flowers. The aisle, down which Miss O'Gorman approached with her father, was marked with white pew ribbons.

For her marriage, the bride chose a white satin gown fashioned with long sleeves, sabrina neckline with lace and seed pearls and an applique lace design on the skirt front. Two cabbage roses marked the back of the hipline and the skirt ended in a long train. A crown of small white roses held her fingertip veil and in addition to the hanky, she carried a cascade of white Sweetheart roses with a few red roses in the center.

MISS KATHY O'Gorman was her sister's maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Roberta Teeman of Park Ridge, Miss Jane Sarkisan of St. Louis, college roommate of the bride, and the groom's sister, Mrs. Kerschke.

Their gowns were red satin sheaths with three-quarter sleeves, boat necklines that ended in a back V and with overskirts of the same material. Red pill box hats and veils, red satin shoes and crescents of red and white Elegance carnations completed their ensemble.

Also in the wedding party was a flower girl, Colleen O'Gorman, the 6-year-old sister of the bride. Colleen, too, was in red satin and her gown was styled after the older attendants' gowns. Her flowers were a small copy of the red and white carnations.

The groom's Sigma Chi fraternity brother, Dave Brown of Battle Creek, was best man and ushers were Calvin Meyers of Ponca City, Okla., uncle of the groom, Tim O'Gorman, brother of the bride, and Doug Ball of Park Ridge.

A BUFFET supper and reception was held in the Des Plaines Elks Club immediately following the service. Mrs. O'Gorman greeted the 250 guests in a beige sheath dress with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses. Mrs. Fick chose a turquoise blue chiffon over taffeta with matching accessories and a corsage of camellias.

The couple skipped a honeymoon trip and left immediately for Ann Arbor, Mich., where the groom is a senior at the University of Michigan. They are now residing in an apartment at 2232 Cram Place.

The bride was graduated from Arlington High School, studied at Southern Illinois for a year and until her marriage was employed by the Bruning Co., Mount Prospect. (S

Acne Can Lead To Emotional Strain: Meds

Acne is a semi-chronic inflammatory disease of the oil glands and hair follicles of the skin, occurring most often between the ages of 12 and 25.

Because the condition may lead to emotional strain as well as leave physical scars, parents would do well to seek the advice of their family physician immediately when the pimples and blackheads of acne occur, advises the Illinois State Medical Society.

Unfortunately, parents are prone to think of this skin condition as essential to the process of "growing up" and lean to the erroneous belief that the child will outgrow it. Acne is a part of "growing up" in the sense that the glands of the body working normally to maintain the child's growth now increase in activity consistent with advancing maturity.

WHEN ACNE occurs, it is because of a combination of several factors, the chief of which is the skin's difficulty in regulating its glands of lubrication.

Accumulation of oil and dead cells forms balckheads and pimples in the pores or openings of ducts leading from the oil and sweat glands. This often leads to some infection. If they are neglected, they may scar the skin permanently, leaving pockmarks.

Because of the pimples, the condition mars one's complexion and children affected often feel that they are shunned by their companions. Thus a feeling of inferiority is apt to develop, which could result in a permanent mental problem.

PROMPT, effective management can make a big difference, because the cause and cure of the disease are known. Because it is not contagious social isolation should not occur.

When a person with acne fails to visit a physician before the condition is well established on face and chest, correction may take months and be too late to avoid scarring. While cleanliness is a factor in the care of the skin, acne does not mean that the person with it has unclean habits.

Treatment consists of extra effort in cleansing the affected parts of the body to help in removing the excess oil. Attention is also directed to improving the general health and living conditions. In severe cases, ultraviolet and x-rays are used, a procedure that must be done by a competent physician. Vigorous squeezing or the use of a stiff brush must not be resorted to. Every effort must be made to avoid damage to the skin.

DIET IS also important in the treatment of acne. Nuts and chocolate should be avoided. A diet, well balanced in all essentials should be followed. Plenty of sunshine and outdoor exercise is essential in the care of the disease.

Acne is no longer a major medical problem and the wise parent will help his child over this so-called tragedy of youth, one which is responsible for many emotional maladjustments.

Allow the physician to decide if the condition is glandular or nutritional—then follow his advice. (S

Here's HAUGH to Plan a Party

Plan a Johnny Appleseed Party

By DOLORES HAUGH

John Chapman, better known to all the legend-loving people of the world as "Johnny Appleseed" died in Allen County, Ind. March 11, 1847. As the story goes he walked across the country with apples in a sack slung over his back and he carried a cane.

He ate the apples and after he had eaten them he poked a hole in the earth and planted the core thus spreading apple trees to mark forever his path through this life. What a tribute and what a purposeful life it was. So in his memory and with thanks you can plan a Johnny Appleseed party. This is a theme that is adaptable to any age group but here we will treat it as a birthday and will insert ideas for other age groups, too.

INVITATIONS

What else but a shining bright apple cut from red shelf paper with a felt leaf. On the reverse side which will be white cardboard type the following verse:

Over hills and in the valleys,
By the roadsides 'long the way,
Came a bent but agile stranger,
That stopped close by one day.
He ate his apple slowly and then
Though 'twas a chore
With his twisted cane he made a hole
And planted there the core.
This was JOHNNY APPLESEED who lived
And passed this way
To leave a lovely apple tree to
Bear fruit for all someday.
So now we are to celebrate
His deeds with fine intent
And to Old Johnny's memory
Host name birthday (or our party) will be spent.

State time, place and ask that the children or guests bring their gift package decorated with bright apples.

DECORATIONS AND PREPARATIONS

Of course if you can find an old branch and sink it in sand in a pail this will be the main attraction of the Johnny Appleseed party. Tie on prizes wrapped in newspaper to make them round and then covered with red crepe paper, enough prizes for each guest. Intermingle them with real apples and paper leaves and you will be well on your way not only for decorations but for a place to eat, as well as a new idea for prize distribution.

The idea of sitting under the appletree in the middle of March for a picnic is fun, too, and if you plan a box menu it might include sandwiches, apple juice for the beverage, apple shaped cookies, and of course, a real apple. If the hostess or host's mother or father is willing they may even dress up as old Johnny and sit down to relate some of the things that happened to him in his journey across the United States.

This can come from your imagination, your own traveling experiences or may be tuned to what you saw at a circus in one town, a zoo in another, a story you overheard in Texas. But this would be the high point of the party.

GAMES

Games and/or dances could circle around apples, if you will excuse the pun with The Big Apple, or any variation according to the "twist" you want to give it for the age group invited. Hide the appleseeds, which may be just paper seeds tucked in various places around the room. And who said you could only bob for apples on Halloween?

So raid the supermarket for a bushel of apples and this column for a bushel of ideas and plant a few of your own. You'll grow an apple tree size party if you try.

Sorority Activities

PANHELLENIC

Sorority alumnae members in the Northwest Suburban area are meeting for the Panhellenic Association's luncheon today at 1 p.m. in the Des Plaines Elks Club.

Following luncheon and a short business meeting presided over by Mrs. Elmer G. Hanson, president, Panhellenic members will be entertained by a demonstration of hat making by Mrs. Einer Larson, millinery instructor from Barrington.

Any alumna of an N.P.C. sorority is invited to attend the Northwest Suburban Panhellenic Association meetings, and may get information about the group's activities by calling Mrs. Richard C. Cooper, CL 5-1465, secretary.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA

Emotions, goals, personality traits, the "real you"—a person's handwriting tells all these things according to Mrs. Marie Bjertnes who will present a "T" party at the meeting next Tuesday, March 13, of the Northwest Suburban Alumnae Club of Alpha Gamma Delta. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at the Schaumburg home of Mrs. R. O. Atcher, Meacham Road.

Mrs. Bjertnes, 1800 Park Place, Wheeling, will help members understand what their own handwriting shows through a chalk-talk on the letter "T." Graphoanalysis has been her hobby for many years. Two years ago she took a course in handwriting analysis and since then has entertained at many gatherings with her talk, "Your Handwriting is You."

After her talk she will do personal analyses for those interested in learning more.

THE MEETING is planned as a guest night and a strictly social evening. Co-hostesses include Mrs. J. N. Clauser, and Mrs. Allan Griffith of Hoffman Estates; Miss Guyla Coffey and Mrs. Donald Holtzee of Palatine and Mrs. C. C. Robinson of Mount Prospect.

ALPHA OMICRON PI

Mrs. Robert Lindrooth, national finance chairman of Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority, will speak on current activities of the sorority at a meeting of the Northwest Suburban Alumnae Chapter when members meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday, March 14.

The meeting will be held in the Arlington Heights home of Mrs. Donald Underwood, 511 S. Ridge. Co-hostesses will be Mrs. Sam Cullison and Mrs. Robert Chaney, also of Arlington Heights.

This is the ninth annual benefit which the Chicago Area Alumnae Council of Delta Delta Delta has sponsored for the Institute. As a result of these efforts, $12,000 has been given to the Institute for use in research and equipment.

Tickets to the March 18 benefit performance of "Over 21" are available through Mrs. George R. Busse, CL 5-3932.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA JUNIORS

The benefit will be a combined card party and spring hat show to be held March 31 at the Northwestern University Chapter House. Those interested in attending the meeting may contact Mrs. Howard Schick of Arlington Heights.

J. Gregg. Assisting Mrs. Gregg will be Mrs. R. W. Daeschner and Mrs. A. K. Frank.

Trays, Carts 'Speed' Table Setting at Community Fare

Table setting and service at community suppers go faster when workers try to cut out unnecessary steps and motions.

Here are some work-saving suggestions from Mildred Bonnell, University of Illinois home economist:

Place all the equipment to be used in setting tables on a cart. Then roll supplies from table to table. This plan eliminates many trips back and forth to the kitchen to get supplies.

KEEP SILVER in a series of bread tins that are easy to carry instead of in drawers that are heavy to pull out. Having a separate tin for each utensil, such as one for forks, one for knives and one for teaspoons, will make it unnecessary to straighten jumbled drawers.

Use a funnel for filling salt and pepper shakers. A coffee pot or pitcher with a spout speeds sugar-bowl filling.

Use trays for handling glasses, cups and dishes.

Use both hands when possible. For example, put salad plates on a tray with both hands simultaneously. You can do the job twice as fast as if you set down one plate at a time with just one hand.

Area Talent to Exhibit Works at Arts Festival

Three area artists are among those selected to exhibit their works at the Chicago Arts Festival at McCormick Place on the lakefront during the weekend of March 16, 17 and 18.

They are Jill Lillard, 1516 Patton Drive and George Sottung, 1722 W. Oakton, both of Arlington Heights; also Mrs. Lois S. Roe, 257 Elmwood, Palatine.

All have been approved by the Festival's Committee of Standards and will compete for prizes from $50 to $1,000. Almost $3,000 in prize money will be awarded, one of the largest total sums ever offered in a midwest art competition.

THE ARTS festival opening this spring will present a comprehensive show in the visual, plastic and performing arts. In addition to the 500 or more painters, sculptors and artisans who will show over 5,000 pieces of their work, the Festival Theatre within McCormick Place will be used for folk and jazz concerts, dramatic and musical plays, ballet and other dance.

Five groups of artists will display their work in the 80,000 square foot area that has been set aside for the show. They include professional, non-professional, student, senior citizen, and children artists. A majority will be professional artists, however.

JORDAN Miller, president of Midwest Newsclip, Inc., 343 S. Dearborn, Chicago, is the creator of the Festival. "It will be the first of its kind," Miller said, "to provide a showcase for artists of the Midwest and has the support of many civic and art organizations."

Opening ceremonies will take place at noon Friday, March 16, and the following two days the festival will run from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. (S

Gag Cartoons to Spark Next Jr. Meet at YMCA

"Cartooning Is A Funny Business" will be the subject of a program to be presented by Arthur Henrikson, a cartoonist and humorist, at the March 14 meeting of the Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club.

Mr. Henrikson's "gag" cartoons have appeared in over 140 publications, including the Saturday Evening Post. His ability to make people laugh with a few strokes of a crayon and his lively sense of humor promise a very entertaining evening.

A representative from the speakers bureau of the North Suburban Chicago Regional College Survey has been invited to speak at this meeting on the feasibility of a community two-year college in our area.

THE HUSBANDS of all members will be invited to attend this meeting, which will give them an opportunity to become better acquainted with the activities and philanthropies of the club.

Mrs. Kenneth Odmark, club president, reports that members will vote on the report of the philanthropy committee presented at the February meeting. This committee, after a year of work and research, has presented a list of suggested philanthropies to receive monetary donations from the club.

The Juniors meet the second Wednesday of each month at 8:30 p.m. at the Northwest Suburban YMCA. The club is a member of the seventh district of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

Anyone interested in joining the club is invited to call Mrs. Robert Nitch, second vice-president, at CL 3-3083 for further information. (S

PLAID SILK SHEATH of rainbow colors with matching stole was one of the "hits" of "Capriccio Italian" when modeled by Mrs. Sam Mesha.

Gerald Pollard and Bride Residing in Arlington Heights

In a white peau de soie street length wedding gown designed and made by the bride herself, Nancy Beth Cook of Barrington came down the aisle of South Church, Mount Prospect, to become the Jan. 27 bride of Gerald Dean Pollard of Arlington Heights.

The bodice of the gown was cut on simple lines with a jewel neckline and long sleeves. The skirt had a flared front and back panel, but the sides were draped with shirred horizontal panels to make a bouffant picture. The bride chose a peau de soie pillbox hat to hold her five-tiered shoulder length veil in place, and her bouquet was of calla lilies edged with green leaves.

THE BRIDE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Cook, chose a 6 p.m. candlelight setting for the double ring rites. The Rev. E. I. Stevens united the couple before an altar decked with three bouquets of carnations and candelabra. Mrs. Edward Hulslander was organist, and candlelighters were Donald Steinmetz of Arlington Heights and Gerald Mulso of Mount Prospect.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Pollard of 403 N. Dwyer, Arlington Heights. He has brought his bride to Arlington Heights to live in an apartment at 507 W. Miner St.

THE BRIDAL party wore rich red and delicate pink for the color scheme of their attire. The bride and her mother designed and made the dresses for the attendants. They were red satin, in street length style with scoop neckline, long sleeves, and a cummerbund accenting the sheath lines of the skirt. Two red roses complemented the back waistline, and red satin shoes and a matching pillbox hat added to the picture. For contrast the attendants carried pink carnation sprays.

Mrs. Ronald Price of DeKalb was matron of honor, and the two bridesmaids were Karen Ury of Arlington Heights and Michele Davis of Mount Prospect.

ESCORTING the bridal attendants were Jack Hoffman of Arlington Heights as best man, and Tom Kay and Ronald Karge, both of Mount Prospect, as ushers.

A buffet dinner and dancing followed the church rites and took place in Gunnell's in Mount Prospect. The bride's mother was gowned in perrywinkle blue satin and lace and the bridegroom's mother in an olive and beige multicolored sheath as they greeted the 150 wedding and reception guests. Mrs. Cook had a pink cymbidium corsage, and Mrs. Pollard's was of olive green cymbidium orchids to match her accessories.

The bridal pair, both Arlington High School graduates, honeymooned in the southwest before returning to Arlington Heights to live. While in Arizona they visited the bridegroom's brother, Joel Pollard, in Yuma.

The bridegroom is employed by Carpentry by Valen in Mount Prospect and is also a Sergeant in the U.S. Marine Corps Reserves. (Jenart (S

Karen Thies Weds Jeweler In Palatine Church Rites

Irish green and white formed the color scheme of a recent wedding in St. Theresa Church, Palatine. The bride was the former Karen Thies, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Thies, 1913 Meacham, Palatine. Since her wedding of Jan. 27 she is now Mrs. John D. Donovan, and the newlyweds are residing in Bloomington, Ill.

The bride, a Palatine High School graduate and now a junior at Illinois State Normal University, is continuing her education, while the bridegroom is employed by Eaton's Jewelry in Bloomington.

HE IS A graduate of Bradley University's School of Horology in Peoria. His home town is Clinton, Ill., where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Donovan, still reside.

The wedding took place at 1 o'clock in an altar setting of white carnations. Father Sullivan united the couple in double rites, as Mrs. Mullen played the organ.

THE BRIDAL attendants came down the aisle wearing Irish green peau de soie dresses with matching brocade jackets. They had shoes dyed to match and wore matching headbands with short veils. Each carried a bouquet of white carnations and ivy.

Miss Lynette Edwards of Rolling Meadows was maid of honor, while Diane Hattendorf and Betty Linneweh, both of Palatine, and Charlotte Donovan, the bridegroom's sister, were bridesmaids.

The bride, entering the sanctuary on the arm of her father, wore a white satin gown appliqued with lace flowers and a seed pearl and crystal crown to hold her fingertip veil in place. He gown was fashioned on simple lines with scalloped neckline, long sleeves and chapel train. She carried a bouquet of white roses, orchids, stephanotis and ivy.

ATTENDING the bridegroom as best man was Gene Justin of Normal, Ill. Ushers were Robert Thies, the bride's brother; Tom Banks of Clinton and Terry Runge of Chicago.

Greeting the 200 reception guests in Palatine Fireman's Hall, the bride's mother wore a toast colored brocade sheath dress and Mrs. Donovan wore rosy beige lace. Each had a corsage of pink roses. The reception began at 5:30 with buffet supper followed by dancing to Tom Yeager's band.

The couple honeymooned for a week in Kenosha, Wis., before returning to Bloomington.

Use Area Rugs for Smart Room Decorating Accents

The growing trend in floor coverings today is wall-to-wall carpet in some rooms, area or accent rugs in others. Nothing is so versatile as the small-to-medium-size rugs, to set a color note here, to define a room area there, to achieve a special effect somewhere else.

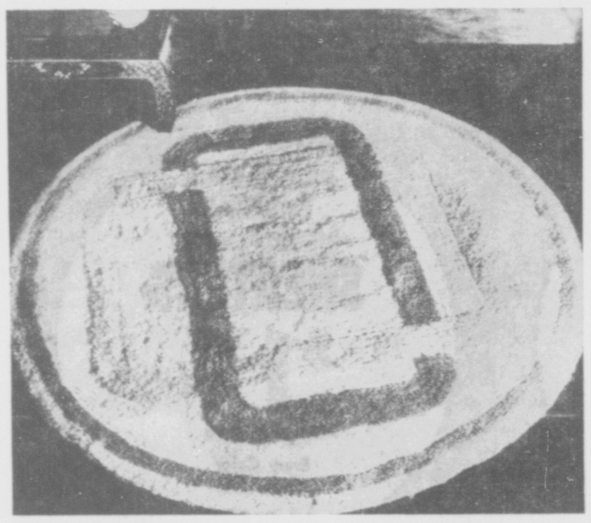
The Better Home Furnishings Council of Greater Chicago points out that both types of floor coverings have their advantages. Wall-to-wall carpeting can give a finished, unified look to a room, and is hard to equal for a sense of luxury underfoot.

AREA AND accent rugs, on the other hand, are especially useful when there is an attractive flooring material — hardwood or beautiful tile, for example — that the homemaker does not wish entirely covered, when the family expects to move and wants to take the rugs along and when the floor covering is especially subject to hard wear and will need frequent cleaning.

An area rug may be turned, to equalize wear, and can be taken up entirely for cleaning, usually more thoroughly than when the carpet must be cleaned on the floor.

Some spots for which area rugs are especially appropriate are foyers and hallways, dining areas, family rooms and bedrooms. They often are used in living rooms too, with each furniture grouping having its own rug. Many of these rugs may be washed, so they make sense under a dining table where food spills might be a problem.

WHILE SOME have all-over designs, many more have patterns especially created for a given size and shape. They come in virtually every shape, from the customary rectangle to circles, half-moons, free forms, and shapes adapted to motifs, such as animal patterns for children's rooms.



AREA RUGS ARE wonderful decorating accents as well as floor coverings. This round rug, a Japanese-inspired pattern named "Jahade," comes in three sizes, 4, 6 and 8 feet across, and in such tempting color combinations as beige and natural; moss green and yellow green; tones of yellow; copper and browns; grays and tans and tones of blue. Area rug illustrated is by Wunda Weve Carpets. (S

Color is of particular importance, and many of the rugs depend heavily on color for their total decorative effect. One new line offers as many as seven color combinations for each pattern. Homemakers who have difficulty deciding on a color scheme for a particular room could hardly do better than to build their color schemes around the tones found in one of these rugs. They have been styled by color experts.

Area rugs come in all sizes up to 8 by 12 feet, though most are somewhat smaller than room-size. Better ones have non-skid backing to prevent the hazard of tripping and sliding.

THE BRIDE chose a white brocade sheath dress for her wedding and complemented it with a pillbox hat to hold a short veil in place. Her bouquet was a single white orchid surrounded with carnations and ivy, all attached to a white Bible. For "something old" she wore her grandmother's locket.

Ronald Christiansen served his brother as best man, and Mrs. Kathy Steigel was matron of honor. Ushering the guests were Lee Raymond and Alan Mooney.

For the wedding and reception the bride's mother wore a beige brocade sheath dress with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose a light blue silk shantung dress with beige accessories, and each mother had a white orchid corsage. (S

Farm Property and Trust Data Offered

Farm property owners who want to consider using a trust in transferring their property will find a new University of Illinois College of Agriculture publication of interest, Cook County Farm Adviser Bob Hood announced this week.

The new publication is Circular 842, "Farm Property and Trusts," by N. G. P. Krausz, professor of agricultural law. In this brief leaflet Krausz explains what a trust is, how a trust is related to a will, what interests the beneficiaries have and how a revocable and an irrevocable trust differ. He also lists these 11 situations in which a farmer should consider using a trust:

When he wants to be relieved of the burden of management.

When it is desirable to place title to several tracts in the hands of one person to facilitate management, sale or distribution at death and to avoid partition by heirs.

WHEN AN HEIR has little or no management ability or no knowledge of farming.

When the heirs are minors.

When the estate is subject to inheritance and estate taxes and there is a desire to reduce the tax burden.

When gifts of personal property are to be made to children or grandchildren.

When a person owns farmland in another state and wants to provide for its management and inheritance.

When it is desired to avoid probate proceedings on part or all of the estate.

WHEN THERE might be a conflict between a life tenant and the person who takes the remaining interest after the death of the life tenant if a life estate were used.

When heirs live a considerable distance from the farm, making it difficult to give any personal attention to management.

When a second marriage is contemplated and a present transfer to children of the first marriage is desired.

ANY TRUST, whether simple or complicated, should be drafted by an attorney, Krausz points out. A trust can be a very useful estate planning tool as well as a means of providing flexibility in carrying out special wishes of a landowner.

Copies of the new publication may be obtained from the farm aviser's office at 201 N. Dunton St. in Arlington Heights.

by CARL F. MEES, Coordinator of Extension

IN RECENT MONTHS we have been reading a great deal about the common market and the booming economy in some of the countries. Of course, our interest chiefly is what effect will the European common market have upon our export trade? And then where does the American farmer fit into the administrative drive for freer trade with members of the common market. Nobody has the answer to this problem, but a United States trade team is negotiating with European trade ministers in an effort to smooth out complications and widen the farmers role in the booming common market.

Last year, the common market countries purchased $1,100,000,000 of farm products according to John P. Duncan, Jr., Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

If neighboring countries join with the six now in the common market, our annual exports to this block could exceed $2,000,000,000 worth of agricultural products. We can readily see that trading with common market countries is of great concern to our farmers. It helps to relieve our markets at home, which in some cases are burdened with our abundance of production.

We must not forget that in the future the common market may adopt some of the technology we have been using and they themselves may become more self sufficient. It will mean that some of the countries may have to make adjustments. For example, Germany has a guaranteed price of wheat which is around $2.90 per bushel. In some of the other countries the guaranteed price is lower. There are numerous other examples. The common market countries must shape their agricultural policies so that they are acceptable to the six countries involved. If this is done, it is entirely possible within a few years, these countries may be nearly self sufficient in agricultural products.

A wide range of our export products could be seriously affected. Some of which probably would include wheat, feed grains, rice, tobacco, animal products, fats and oils and certain fruits. On the other hand, some products probably will find bigger export volumes. These may include soybeans, cotton and other oil seeds. It will be an interesting development to follow. It could have a serious effect, or it may bolster our agricultural economy. It is difficult to know which at this early date. (Fm

Firm Maps 'Bird' Plan

The Lake-Cook Farm Supply company is mapping plans this month to "save the bluebirds" in the Northwest Suburban area.

Their formula: homemade birdhouses at a low cost—$1.50 to be exact.

Spokesmen for the company told Paddock Publications that large purchases of bird seed and the great interest of customers in birds spurred the employees of the firm to become conservationists and bird-lovers.

THEY STATE that the bluebird population has become desperately low because of the lack of natural cover this winter. Old wooden fence posts are of a bygone era, dead trees and fence rows have been cleaned out for the most part, and many bluebird houses are needed.

Spokesmen suggest that the houses be mounted in early March, for the bluebird is an early comer.

The houses should be located near an open area such as at the edge of a field, orchard, etc.

It is further suggested that the houses be mounted five to 10 feet off the ground, because the bluebirds like to feed on grubs and insects on the ground. The holes should be faced to the east or south.

HOUSES CAN be mounted on posts or trees; a metal post discourages predators.

Persons who are interested in helping to promote the "save the bluebirds" project are urged to contact either Vernon Heinz at CL 3-0570 or Delbert Bullamore at LA 9-3601.

Interested persons may also stop at the Lake-Cook Farm Supply store at 510 E. Northwest highway in Arlington Heights. (FM

Illinois Farmers Can Now Register in Feed Program

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI) — Illinois farmers can now register to participate in the 1962 Federal Feed Grain program, the state Agriculture, Stabilization and Conservation office has announced.

Farmers have until March 30 to register. The county ASC offices are handling the registration.

The feed grain program, which was started in 1961 is an effort by the Kennedy Administration to cut mounting feed grain stock piles.

Under the program, the Federal Government has a stronger control over the production of the feed grains, such as corn, grain sorghum, rye, barley and oats.

EACH FARMER will receive payment for the acreage that he puts into the program. Partial payments are made at the time he registers for participation.

The ACS office said by participating in the program the farmer will also be eligible for the price support of the grains. The supports are the same as 1961.

The price support for corn will be $1.20 a bushel, up 14 cents from the 1960 price. Grain sorghum will be $1.93 per 100 pounds, up 41 cents from 1960.

The barley support price is 93 cents a bushel, up 16 cents; oats, 62 cents a bushel, up 12 cents; rye, $1.02 per bushel, up 12 cents.

The office said that in order to get the price supports, the farmer must agree to reduce his corn and grain sorghum acreage by at least 20 per cent. However, the farmer may also reduce his acreage an additional 20 per cent.

All of the counties in the state have two average support rates for payment of the acreage placed in the program. The rates were set up by the county ASC committees.

One rate, which is called the "lower rate," is based on 50 per cent of the county normal yield per acre times the county support rate. This rate is applied when the farmer chooses to divert the minimum which is 20 per cent.

IF THE farmer chooses to divert an additional 20 per cent, the rate per acre will be based on 60 per cent of the normal county yield times the support rate.

Here is an exampie:

If a farmer with a 140-acre grain base and living in a county with a $14.50 an acre "lower rate" elects to divert only the minimum 20 per cent, he would get $406. This is computed by taking 20 per cent of 140 acres, which is 28 acres times the $14.50 rate.

If the farmer elects to divert the maximum, the "high rate" for the additional 20 per cent is $17.40 per acre. The farmer would get $487.20 for the second 28 acres. His total payment would be $893.20.

The diverted acreage must be devoted to approved conservation uses. The acreage cannot be grazed or a crop harvested from it. (Fm

62,000 Farmers Gross $10,000 Back in '59

Nearly 62 thousand Illinois farms had gross sales of $10,000 in 1959. These farms, representing 40 per cent of the total number of Illinois farms, produced an estimated 80 per cent of the total value of farm products for the year.

Although the realized income of Illinois farmers as a whole increased in 1960, there was great variation in incomes among the major types of farming in northern and southern Illinois.

University of Illinois agricultural economist Larry Simerl says the variations between 1959 and 1960 farm incomes were due to changes in farm prices and costs, weather and farming adjustments within each system of farming.

FARM FAMILY earnings on northern Illinois grain farms increased substantially in 1960 over 1959. Favorable weather last year led to higher yields and was a major factor behind the income recovery.

On southern Illinois grain farms, incomes showed only a small increase in 1960 over 1959. Simerl says this small increase compared with returns on northern Illinois grain farms was due to regionalized dry weather.

Earnings of hog farmers in northern and southern Illinois showed sharp increases in 1960 over 1959. The market price of hogs and the level of crop yields had a major influence on earnings from hog farms. Increases in the value of livestock inventories on hog farms also accounted for part of the increase.

FARM AND family earnings on northern Illinois beef farms more than doubled from 1959 to 1960. Several factors accounted for this increase: Crop yields were higher in 1960 than in 1959. Hog prices were higher and the cost of cattle was lower than in the previous year.

Southern Illinois is not sufficiently active in beef farming to be included.

In 1960 farm earnings soared in all major types of farms in northern and southern Illinois except on the southern grain farms. There was a smaller range in farm earnings among types of farms in 1960 for each of the northern and southern areas than in recent years.

Now's Time to Apply Soil Insecticides

Act now and you can still beat the March 15 deadline for winter application of soil insecticides on your 1962 corn acreage.

Recommended for the first time last year by the University of Illinois, this new concept in soil insect control gives Northern Illinois growers the opportunity to get this key job out of the way before the rush of corn planting season. Considerable acreage was treated with this method in 1961 with outstanding results.

YOU CAN broadcast a recommended soil insecticide such as aldrin either as granules or in an insecticide-fertilizer combination. Another reason for encouraging the practice is because broadcast applications are considered by researchers to be one of the most effective methods of controlling soil insects throughout the growing season.

Winter treatment on snow covered or frozen ground also enables farmers to double up on work with an insecticide-fertilizer combination, thereby reducing soil compaction by saving an extra trip over the field.

Applications should be made on plowed ground or on corn land where stalks have been shredded, according to University researchers. They also suggest avoiding treatment on soybean stubble and sod. Discing should be carried out as early in the spring as possible. Thawing and freezing action of the soil works the insecticide into the ground to insect-killing levels, and low temperatures prevent insecticide volatilization.

THE UNIVERSITY bases its recommendations on highly satisfactory results which were obtained after five years of extensive tests with the practice. Reports from the field show yield gains averaging seven to 10 bushels per acre, and in some cases as high as 20 bushels per acre from winter-time use of soil insecticides. Specialists point out that returns usually run $5 to $10 per acre, and sometimes higher, depending upon the degree of insect infestation. As one Illinois agricultural specialist said, "Just about all the farmers with whom I had an opportunity to talk about this were highly satisfied."

Although application of soil insecticides at planting time has met with rapid acceptance, nearly half of the farmers in the corn belt have not yet adopted the practice. Now, with the new recommendation for winter treatment which extends the application season, the adoption of this procedure probably will be accelerated, according to some authorities.

Winter-time treatment is being recommended in much of the corn belt for the first time, including Iowa, southern Minnesota and northern Missouri.

SOME GROWERS who have succeeded with planting time applications may decide to wait a season while the new practice is proven out by early adopters who are quick to take hold of new techniques. Either way, entomologists point out, resourceful growers rely on insecticides to give them effective season-long insect control.

Complete information on northern Illinois recommendations is available from your county farm advisor or Extension entomologist who has the latest up-to-date information on winter-time application of soil insecticides. (FM

Tree Country

Over 1,000 different kinds of trees are found in U. S. forests, which cover nearly one-third of the continent.

Cornbin Dangerous As Swirling River

It is just as dangerous for children to play in bins of shelled corn as it is for them to wade in a swirling, swift-moving river, according to a safety warning given by Dr. N. J. Wardle, associate professor of agricultural engineering at Iowa State University.

"A corn bin presents the same undertow and dangerous pockets that cause so many drownings," Dr. Wardle says. "When corn is being removed from the bin a suction develops which can mean certain suffocation for youngsters and is also capable of burying a man.

"AFTER A portion of the grain has been removed, a pocket sometimes forms in the bottom of the bin and, although the top layers look solid, a misstep can trigger a slide that will pull its victim to the bottom and pile tons of corn on top of him."

If you must get in a full grain bin, tie a rope around your waist and be sure to have someone on it strong enough to pull you out. (Fm

Week's Best Food Buys

Consumers planning meals around fish products are in for a price shock this first week of Lent. Costs are considerably higher on shorter supplies, especially for preferred frozen and fresh kinds. This proves once again weather is the king price setter.

Markets report that winter ravages have been as severe on fish products as with fresh produce, long in the throes of weather dislocations. Florida, at last basking in warmer breezes, now fears excessive rains. Red meats, to a lesser extent, are free of weather factors but retail pricing is largely "market made."

The University of Illinois consumer service, for the marketing period ending March 10, notes that tuna fish and eggs are the better buys for meatless meals. Pork and lamb offer the consensus red meat values.

THE U OF I LIST of consensus value items shows: meats—pork loin roasts, chops, bacon, smoked picnics, beef chuck roasts; poultry—large eggs, fryers; Produce—tomatoes, cucumbers, radishes, potatoes, carrots, citrus fruit.

In more specific terms, survey sources indicate that most canned, frozen and fresh fish items are in shorter supply and more costly. Halibut prices are well ahead of year-ago. Sardines are scarce, Maine supplies more than double last year's retail prices.

Flake and chunk tuna and some salmon are better supplied and more reasonable. Shrimp supplies are scarce, high priced and of questionable quality.

Tomatoes and cucumbers appear as a relative value. Despite a trend to higher costs, they are available on Chicago markets somewhat below costs prevailing elsewhere.

IN RED meats, pork lines take a primary value position as the only major line to show any significant retail price changes from week-ago.

Rib portion cuts quote as low as 29 cents, loin portions 39 cents, center cut chops from 69 cents, fresh boston butts 49-59 cents, pork steaks 55-59 cents. Bacon is cheaper, showing 49 cents feature tags but more general prices from 59 cents.

Smoked butts quote a steady 59-69 cents. Picnics quote a weaker 39-49 cents while other hams are pricing upward.

Evenly spaced hog receipts at live market, that totaled 20 per cent greater numbers for the week, offset an active eastern shipping demand that took half of the Chicago supply, and quotes were up only ¼ cent.

Wholesale pork registered a 1¾ cents decline on loins, weaker on bacon and smoked picnics and higher on advance Easter ham bookings.

RETAIL beef and lamb quoted steady with features on a dealer's choice basis. Cold weather hampered some cattle movement to market, off 23 cents for the week and the lowest since early 1960, the base quotes being steady to ½ cent higher.

Wholesale beef showed 1 cent higher quotes on rounds, but other kinds were down a uniform ½ cent. Lamb receipts also increased at live markets, shading quotes ½ cent, while wholesale fell a corresponding ½ cent to keep costs well in line with late fall levels four months ago.

Poultry and eggs showed little change of note, either in prices or supplies. Large grade A eggs continue last week's 49-53 cents range, as do fryers at 39-43 cents (with some occasional features below this price.) Few bargains are noted in grade A turkeys. Stewing hens are steady and moving well.

Jewel Says 'Quality, Service, Low Prices, Not Stamps, for Us'

G. L. Clements, president and F. . Lunding, chairman, Jewel Tea Co., Inc. today announced that "Jewel Food Stores will not jump on the stamp gimmick bandwagon to woo customers to its stores." Clements said "we can't do this and at the same time protect the customer's freedom of choice and her pocketbook."

"The 'stamp grocer' must pay his stamp company two per cent of every sale he makes. Jewel's long experience in the food business tells it that such a substantial increase in the cost of doing business must eventually be passed on to customers in one form or another. It just has to show up — a penny here, a penny there, or poorer service or lower quality."

Clements and Lunding pointed out that "during the last five years, with trading stamps available in the Chicagoland area, Jewel stores have served an ever increasing number of customers. He says this continued success is attributable to concentrating on our (Jewel's) responsibility of protecting the quality of food the customer buys, the services she needs and the low prices she pays for food at Jewel."

Grapefruit, Crab Combine For Savory Lenten Lunch

Florida was fortunate this season. Despite the damage to citrus fruit in other parts of the country, Florida has produced a bountiful crop of plump, sweet juicy grapefruit.

In fact, the crop is slightly larger than a year ago, assuring a plentiful supply for those who love the tart-sweet fruit not only as a breakfast eye-opener, but combined in salads such as this Lenten special featuring crab meat.

BOTH GRAPEFRUIT and crab meat are low in calories and high in nutritive values. Fresh grapefruit is an excellent source of valuable daily-needed vitamin C.

Crab, whether you buy it fresh, frozen or canned, is a fine source of protein and minerals.

Most important, these two food items taste good together! The fresh fruit sections are mixed with flaked crab meat, diced celery plus capers, and blended with mayonnaise seasoned with curry powder and salt.

The result? A salad that looks and tastes elegant, but won't in the least hurt your food budget.

GRAPEFRUIT AND CRAB SALAD

2 Florida grapefruit
2 cans (6½ ounces each) crab meat, flaked
1 cup diced celery
2 teaspoons capers
¼ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
½ teaspoon curry powder
¼ teaspoon salt

Chill grapefruit. To section, cut slice from top, then cut off peel in strips from top to bottom, cutting deep enough to remove white membrane. Then cut slice from bottom. Or cut off peel round and round, spiral fashion.

GO OVER FRUIT again removing any remaining white membrane. Cut along side of each dividing membrane from outside to middle of core; remove section by section. Cut each section in half, (reserve several whole sections for garnish.)

Combine grapefruit sections, crab meat, celery and capers. Blen together mayonnaise, curry powder and salt. Fold into grapefruit mixture. Turn onto salad greens on serving platter.

Garnish with reserved sections. Yield: 4 servings.

Note: Two cans (6½ or 7 ounces) tuna may be substituted for crab meat.

Pink Party Dessert

This very handsome cake was designed especially for a party, yet it's easy fixing, for it is made with a white cake mix decorated with a luscious pink jelly glaze and pineapple rings.

To make it even more elegant and richly flavored, the cake layers are split and then put together with a custardy crushed pineapple and sour cream filling.

PINK PINEAPPLE CAKE

1 package white cake mix
2 eggs, separated
½ cup sugar
2½ tablespoons cornstarch
Dash of salt
2 cups undrained canned crushed pineapple
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
½ cup dairy sour cream
6 tablespoons red currant jelly
5 slices canned pineapple, drained
Pink frosting

Mix and bake cake according to package directions for 8 or 9-inch layers. Use egg whites only in cake. Cool completely. Meanwhite combine sugar, cornstarch, salt, pineapple and egg yolks.

Cook and stir over boiling water until clear and thickened. Stir in lemon juice and peel. Cover. When cold, blend in sour cream.

To Assemble Cake: Slice each layer into two thin layers with a sharp, serrated knife. Put four layers together with filling in-between. Over low heat, melt jelly with two tablespoons pineapple syrup.

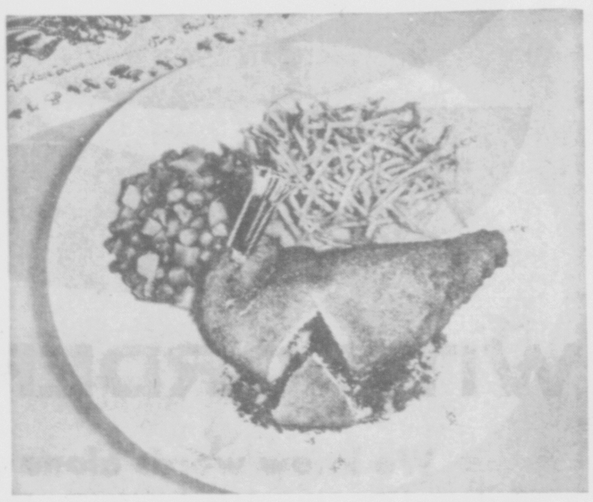
Brush a thin film over top of cake. Set pineapple slices on top. Carefully spoon rest of jelly over fruit and cake top in smooth even layer.

Reheat if jelly sets again. Frost sides of cake with pink cream cheese or fluffy frosting from a mix. Chill until well set before serving.

Frosting: Soften one (3-ounce) package cream cheese with two tablespoons pineapple syrup. Add 2½ cups sifted powdered sugar one half cup at a time, blending after each addition.

Add grated orange or lemon peel and a few drops of red vegetable coloring to tint a delicate pink.

Chicken Kiev New Epicurean Delight



Lauded as an epicurean delicacy and served with great pomp in gourmet restaurants, Chicken Kiev has the reputation of being costly and difficult in the making.

The tender, golden brown breast meat oozing seasoned butter is enough to make anyone who enjoys the unusual think this is true. Actually it is quite easy to make and the ingredients are not expensive.

FOUR CHICKEN breasts will serve eight. The breasts are boned; not hard to do if you have a small, sharp, boning knife.

Perhaps your butcher will bone them for you, but give him plenty of notice of your needs. The breasts are halved—making two servings of one.

Seasoning and freezing the butter can be done days ahead. Each portion can be separately wrapped when it is put in the freezer, saving you time for portioning when you are preparing the chicken.

ALL OF THE breast portions should be finished before you start to deep-fat fry them, lest the first ones are finished before the last are started.

Since it takes but 10 minutes to fry them and they must be served immediately, they can be one of your most choice entertainment delights without disrupting your other party plans.

Just be sure the things you are serving with your Chicken Kiev are ready in advance—to accompany your epicurean delight to the table, hot and full of flavor.

CHICKEN KIEV

4 whole broiler-fryer breasts, boned
2 teaspoons Ac'cent
Salt and pepper
½ cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons chopped chives
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 eggs, beaten
¼ cup water
2 cups fine dry bread crumbs

Halve breasts, remove skin. Cut through thickest part of each half-breast to form a pocket. Sprinkle with Ac'cent, salt and pepper. Blend together butter, chives and lemon juice; chill.

Place one tablespoon hardened chive butter in each breast pocket. Combine eggs and water. Dip stuffed chicken breasts in egg mixture, then roll in bread crumbs; repeat.

Deep fry in hot fat (350°F.) 10 minutes. Serve immediately. Yield: 8 servings.

Why Jewel doesn't rely on stamps to earn your business

This week another food chain announced it, too, would use trading stamps. Why doesn't Jewel jump on the "stamp gimmick" bandwagon?

Simply and honestly, to protect your freedom of choice and your pocketbook.

The "stamp grocer" must pay his stamp company 2% on every sale he makes. We know from our own long experience that such a substantial increase in the cost of doing business must eventually be passed on to customers in one form or another. It just has to show up—a penny here, a penny there, or poorer service or lower quality.

During the last five years, with trading stamps available in the Chicagoland area, Jewel people have served an ever increasing number of satisfied customers. Why? Because we have concentrated on our responsibility to protect the quality of food you buy, the services you need and the low prices you pay for food.

We will continue to make every effort to guard your food budget and the quality of the foods you serve your family. We invite you to shop at Jewel for better service, fine quality and low prices.

Sweet and Hot Cross Buns For Lent Meals

"One a penny, two a penny, hot cross buns" is sung with equal enthusiasm by English and American children during this season, a song that pays homage to one of the oldest Lenten foods.

English cooks first made delectable Hot Cross Buns as a tribute to Good Friday, and the early English who immigrated to America continued the pleasant custom.

As a matter of fact, the tradition of eating sweet buns at this time of year goes back to the pagan era, when they made their appearance in honor of the Goddess of Spring.

WHEN THE Christians adopted the custom, they added a cross of frosting in a spirit of missionary zeal. Today, Hot Cross Buns are so popular they not only appear on Good Friday, but throughout the whole Lenten period as well.

Our modern adaptation retains the distinctive character of the ancient favorite, but calls for the addition of unsulphured molasses to the dough.

The unsulphured molasses lends its mellow flavor to the buns, and it has another virtue: In the baking, the unsulphured molasses is evidenced by its pleasant aroma.

THE SAME BASIC unsulphured molasses flavored dough that makes such delicious Hot Cross Buns can be used for Molasses Taffy Cinnamon Rolls, too, with the addition of cinnamon and raisins.

For the modern cook, the preparation time of making Hot Cross Buns and their kindred hot breads has been cut to a minimum. When our ancestors baked such buns, the cook began with making her own yeast.

For instance—one old cookbook gives directions for yeast that begins with "the emptins of the beer keg." Today's cook simply uses the active dry yeast in packaged form and relies on it to make the dough rise properly and speedily.

THE BASIC unsulphured-molasses flavored dough provides buns too good to limit to the Lenten season only. You can proceed with the directions for Hot Cross Buns and simply eliminate the cross.

Or add the cinnamon and raisins and prepare Molasses Taffy Cinnamon Rolls. Both are delicious, both will be welcome enthusiastically all the year round.

MOLASSES YEAST BREADS
(Basic Recipe)

- 2/3 cup milk
- 1¼ teaspoons salt
- 6 tablespoons shortening
- ½ cup unsulphured molasses
- 2 packages active dry yeast
- 2/3 cup lukewarm water
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 3 eggs, beaten
- 6 cups sifted, all-purpose flour, divided

Scald milk; pour into large mixing bowl. Add salt and shortening, stir until shortening is melted. Add unsulphured molasses; stir to blend. Sprinkle yeast in lukewarm water.

Add sugar; let stand five minutes. Stir; add to molasses-milk mixture. Add beaten eggs; mix well. Stir in three cups of the flour; beat until smooth. Stir in 2 to 2½ cups remaining flour to make a smooth dough.

TURN OUT remaining flour on board; knead gently until smooth and elastic. Place in oiled bowl; turn once to bring greased side up.

Cover and let rise in a warm place (80° to 85°F.) until double in bulk (about 1½ hours). Divide dough in half, using one half for Hot Cross Buns and remaining half for Molasses Taffy Cinnamon Rolls; or use all of the basic recipe for either selection.

Hot Cross Buns:

Form one half of basic recipe into two rolls, 9 inches long. Cut into 1-inch slices; from into balls. Place in two greased 8-inch round pans, 2 inches deep. Let rise until double in bulk (about 1½ hours).

Bake in a moderate oven (375°F.) 25 minutes. Mix together ½ cup confectioners' sugar and 2 to 3 teaspoons water. While buns are warm, make crosses on each with the confectioners' sugar glaze.

Yield: 1½ dozen buns.

MOLASSES TAFFY CINNAMON ROLLS

- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
- 2/3 cup cugar, divided
- 2 tablespoons unsulphured molasses
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ cup raisins

Melt two tablespoons of the butter in an 8x8x2-inch pan. Mix in 1/3 cup of the sugar and unsulphured molasses; set aside. Roll out remaining half of the basic dough into a rectangle 11x16 inches.

Melt remaining one tablespoon butter; brush top of dough. Mix together remaining 1/3 cup sugar, cinnamon and raisins; sprinkle over dough. Roll as for jelly roll; cut into 1¼ inch slices.

Place cut side down in prepared pan. Let rise until double in bulk (about 1½ hours). Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 25 minutes. Invert on cookie rack.

Yield: Nine molasses rolls.

Jiffy Spaghetti Sauce For Italian 'Know-How'

Macaroni shells, topped with a new spaghetti sauce mix, complete with tomato and browned ham cubes, are tossed together for a superb meal-on-a-platter treat.

The sauce is a dry mix that comes in bright yellow and red foil envelopes. All you need to do is add 1½ cups water to the contents of the envelope and simmer it for about ten minutes.

There will be approximately 1½ cups of appetizing spaghetti sauce, well seasoned with the chef's "know-how" touch.

MEAL-ON-A-PLATTER

- 1 (8 oz.) pkg. macaroni shells
- 1 pkg. Chef Boy-Ar-Dee complete spaghetti sauce mix
- 1 slice, fully cooked ham, 1" thick
- 2 tablespoons shortening

Cook the macaroni shells according to package directions. Cook the spaghetti sauce according to package directions. Cut the ham into small bite-size cubes.

Exotic Rice Pilaf

Home entertainment takes on new excitement when you serve such interesting dishes as this delicious pilaf. It has exotic touches of the Far East.

As is typical with foods originating in India, it combines taste surprising raisins with the well seasoned rice. You'll find this excellent to serve with grilled meats, baked chicken or a rack of lamb.

PILAF EXTRAORDINAIRE

- ¼ pound butter or margarine
- 2 cups long grain rice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon saffron
- Freshly ground pepper
- 3 (10½ or 11-ounce) cans chicken consomme
- 2 medium-sized onions
- 1 cup dark or golden raisins

Melt half the butter in heavy skillet or Dutch oven. Add rice and cook over moderately low heat, turning occasionally until golden brown. Add seasonings and chicken consomme.

COVER AND BAKE in moderately slow oven (325 degrees F.) 1½ hours. When done each grain of rice should be separate and fluffy. Meanwhile, peel and slice onions paper thin.

Cook in remaining butter over very low heat until soft and yellow. Stir raisins into rice and let stand 5 minutes before serving. Mound raisin rice on serving platter and garnish with onion rings. Makes 6 servings.

Thaw from Wintry Winds

Take off your mittens and get set to thaw with a cup of Quick Chocolate Winter Warm-Up and Snowball Cookies! Young or old, the gang will love this combination after wintry sports.

Quick Chocolate Warm-Up beverage is ready in an instant. To make it, use the same quick chocolate-flavored mix that's a favorite for flavoring milk, but make it with hot milk instead of cold.

It's that easy. Simple, too, are the "snowballs," delicious little cookies that are crunchy with semi-sweet chocolate morsels.

QUICK CHOCOLATE WARM-UP

Put one 1-pound can (around 4 cups) quick chocolate-flavored mix in 5-quart punch bowl. Gradually add 2 cups hot milk, stirring until blended.

Stir in additional 3½ quarts (14 cups) hot milk. If desired, top with whipped cream or marshmallow cream. Yield: 16 servings.

BLACK AND WHITE SNOWBALLS

- ¾ cup butter
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup chopped nuts
- 1 6-ounce package (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels
- Quick chocolate-flavored mix or confectioners' sugar

Cream together butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in egg and vanilla. Sift in flour and salt; mix well. Add nuts and semi-sweet chocolate morsels.

Shape into 1-inch balls. Place on ungreased baking sheets. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 15 to 20 minutes. Roll while warm in quick chocolate-flavored mix or in sifted confectioners' sugar.

Yield: Approximately 5 dozen. (SH

Lasagna, Tortoni Highlights of Italian Menu

Streamlined Fare For Wise Dieters

by LOIS SELIER

A stream lined lasagna designed for dieters has been shared with us this week by Mrs. Elmer E. Zilen of Arlington Heights.

This popular Italian dish has not only been streamlined for weight watchers but for busy homemakers as well, for this recipe is relatively easy to prepare.

Only six strips of lasagna pasta are used, while the tomato-meat sauce and cheese account for the remaining ingredients. Cottage cheese, which is low in calories, and Swiss cheese are called for in this Americanized lasagna, which is baked for a half hour.

Hearty and nourishing, this savory dish is simple enough to make for the family, yet is delicious enough to serve to guests.

"WITH LASAGNA we like a tart fruit salad," commented Mrs. Zilen. This good cook arranges an assortment of grapefruit sections, orange slices, unpeeled apple slices and thin strips of onion on a bed of salad greens.

A tangy Celery Seed Dressing is drizzled over all. Pineapple chunks or red grapes may also be added to this fruit plate.

And for dessert, Mrs. Zilen suggests Coffee Tortoni, an authentic Italian dessert which is just the right sweet to complete this meal.

THIS SMOOTH, frozen dessert, which is often served in Italian restaurants, can be home-kitchen made and in quantity batches to keep handy in the freezer.

Rich and yet light, Mrs. Zilen's recipe calls for instant coffee as flavoring, along with vanilla and almond extracts and finely-slivered toasted almonds.

Frozen in paper baking cups, tortoni is always eaten from the little cups in which it is made. These should be served on a paper doily on individual plates.

TO ACCOMPANY the tortoni, Mrs. Zilen serves an old-fashioned and always appealing sponge cake. The recipe for this high and light-textured cake belonged to Mrs. Zilen's mother, and has long been a family favorite.

This cake is so good in itself that the Zilens prefer to eat it plain. However, it may be frosted, if desired.

STREAMLINED FOR THE modern housewife is the up-to-date recipe for lasagna belonging to Mrs. Elmer E. Zilen of Arlington Heights. This recipe cuts corners on calories as well as time in preparation and is delicious dinner fare. Helping her mother toss a tangy fruit salad to accompany this hearty dish is the Zilens' daughter, Elizabeth.

Cooking is just one of many interests of this capable homemaker. A member of the Arlington Heights Woman's Club and the PTA, Mrs. Zilen is also program chairman for the Women's Association of the First Presbyterian church.

The Zilens live at 438 Banbury in Arlington Heights. They have two children: John, 15, who is a high school freshman, and Elizabeth, 9, a fourth grader.

Apricot, Nut Pie Enriched With Vitamin A, Food Iron

It's high time, it's pie time—Apricot Nut Pie time! This apricot and nut dessert literally sparkles with flavor and tang. The bright apricot filling is studded with chopped pecans and bits of fruit.

Though already tops in flavor, almond and orange flavorings add further zip.

STREAMLINED LASAGNA

1 tablespoon salad oil
1/3 cup minced onion
1 pound ground beef
1 clove garlic (optional)
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon oregano
3 tablespoons snipped parsley
1 No. 2 can tomatoes (2½ cups)
1 8-ounce can Spanish-style tomato sauce
6 strips lasagna noodles
½ pound Swiss cheese
1½ cups cottage cheese
2 tablespoons snipped parsley

Make meat sauce ahead of time. Saute ground beef and onion together in oil. Add garlic, salt, pepper, oregano, three tablespoons parsley, tomatoes and tomato sauce. Cook these ingredients together for 15 minutes.

Cook lasagna as directed on box. Drain. Cover with cold water to keep from sticking. Forty-five minutes before serving, heat the oven to 350 degrees.

In a 9xl3 baking dish, arrange 1/3 of the meat sauce, three pieces of lasagna, drained and placed lengthwise, half of Swiss cheese (reserving one slice for garnish) and half of cottage cheese. Repeat one more time, ending with remaining sauce and garnishing with the one slice of Swiss cheese.

Bake for 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Just before serving, sprinkle with two tablespoons parsley. Serves 8.

CELERY SEED DRESSING

½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon celery seed
1 teaspoon grated onion
5 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup salad oil

Mix dry ingredients together. Add lemon juice, vinegar and onion. Pour oil in slowly, beating constantly. Store in refrigerator.

COFFEE TORTONI

1 egg white
1 tablespoon instant coffee
2 tablespoons sugar
½ pint whipping cream
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon almond extract
¼ cup toasted finely-slivered almonds

Combine egg white with instant coffee and beat until stiff but not dry. Gradually add two tablespoons sugar and beat until stiff and satiny.

In another bowl, beat cream and gradually add ¼ cup sugar. Blend in vanilla and almond extract.

Fold almonds into whipped cream mixture. Fold into egg white mixture. Spoon into paper baking cups (which may be set in muffin tins to hold shape) and set in freezer section of refrigerator for several hours. Yield: 8 portions.

MOM'S SPONGE CAKE

5 large or 6 small eggs
5 or 6 tablespoons water
1 cup sugar
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
Dash of salt
1 teaspoon cream of tartar

Separate yolks and whites. To the yolks, add one tablespoon water for each yolk. Beat until well blended, but do not overbeat. Gradually add sugar and beat until a thick cream.

Sift flour and fold in gently to yolk mixture. Add vanilla. Beat egg whites until frothy. Add salt and cream of tartar and beat until very stiff. Fold into yolk mixture.

Turn into an ungreased 10-inch tube pan. Bake for one hour at 350 degrees. Turn pan upside-down to cool. (SH

Apricot Nut Pie can be prepared with either dried or canned apricots. If you use dried apricots, the chunks of fruit will be quite prominent.

CANNED APRICOTS will lend the filling a more preserve-like quality. Either way, Apricot Nut Pie will appeal to everyone's dessert taste.

There's no question of the nutritive value of Apricot Nut Pie. In addition to the high Vitamin A and iron content of the apricot filling, the pastry is enriched with niacin, thiamine, riboflavin and food iron.

The use of enriched flour in pastry and all your baked foods will contribute these essential nutrients to improve and safeguard health.

Apricot Nut Pie is a double-crust pie which gives you a chance to try your hand at some fancy pastry cut-outs. Fancy fluted edges take just a bit of imagination also. See what different designs you can create with various kitchen utensils such as the handle of a measuring spoon or a melon scoop.

APRICOT NUT PIE

2 cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
2/3 cup shortening
4 to 6 tablespoons cold water
Apricot Nut Filling

Sift together flour and salt. Cut or rub in shortening until mixture is crumbly. Sprinkle with water, mixing lightly until dough begins to stick together.

Turn out on floured board or pastry cloth and press dough together. Cover or wrap in waxed paper while preparing Apricot Nut Filling. Divide dough in half. Roll one half to circle ⅛-inch thick and fit into 9-inch pie pan.

Roll remaining half of dough for top crust. Pour Apricot Nut Filling into bottom crust. Arrange top crust over filling. Trim and flute edge. Prick or slash pastry top to allow steam to escape.

Bake in hot oven (425°F.) for 20 to 25 minutes.

APRICOT NUT FILLING

3 cups drained stewed apricots*
½ cup orange juice
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon almond extract
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons water
½ cup chopped pecans

Combine apricots, orange juice, orange rind, sugar and almond extract in saucepan. Heat to boiling. Blend cornstarch and water. Stir into apricot mixture and cook about 5 minutes or until thickened, stirring constantly.

Cool. Add pecans. *If canned apricots are used, reduce sugar to 2/3 cup. Makes one 9-inch pie.

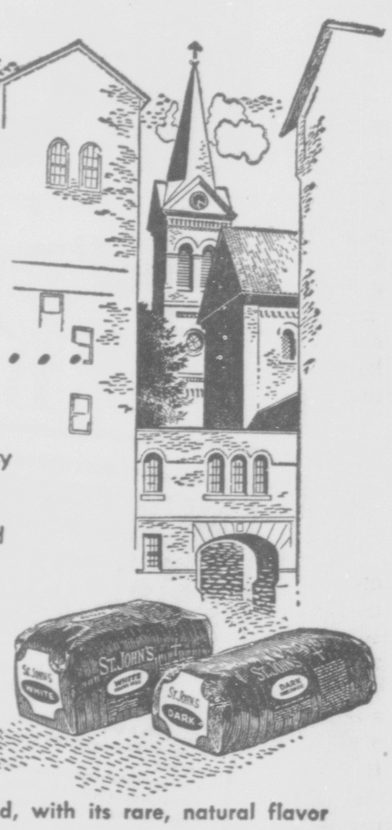
the Loaf that became a Legend . . .



WAY BACK IN 1856, St. John's Abbey and University were founded. From the start, the monks baked a wonderful grain-rich bread from an age-old monastic recipe. The thick, brown, hearty loaves became a tradition . . . . a special trade-mark to the thousands of St. John's men who enjoyed it. Graduates write for it, come back for it.

NOW, this old-abbey bread, with its rare, natural flavor and quality, is being baked for you. You'll find it fresh at most good food stores, in the original ROUGH-GRAIN DARK loaf, and in WHITE. Ask for it, try it, you'll agree:

It's what bread was meant to be!

The Way We See It

Answers Are Needed On School Dropouts

The school dropout dilemma is emerging as a major economic, sociological and political problem. Recent economic surveys have correlated the connection between school dropouts and a growing pool of the unemployed; behaviorists point to its consequences in accelerated delinquency statistics; politicians from the federal plateau to grassroots grazing land have expressed the need for action to reverse this trend.

Among contributory causes is the obvious: economic deprivation which forces a youth to quit school and work before he is adequately trained for skilled jobs or prepared for such responsibility.

There are also more subtle influences at work. Our high schools are traditionally designed for college preparation. Within this framework and because of it, parents are unwilling to admit that their sons or daughters are better equipped and would be happier in a blue collar or secretarial position.

Often, students also are unwilling to concede to their contemporaries that they are not going on to college. It seems to attach the stigma of some lack of abilities.

Education — from high school preparation for college to actual attendance at an institution of higher learning — has become a status symbol.

This is particularly true in the suburbs, where achievement is equated with earning power. While high school dropouts appear to be a minor concern to suburban areas, it is possible that those students who normally would not go on to college if they were not pressured into it, do contribute to the college dropout statistics.

Arlington-Prospect High School District 214, which serves a portion of the northwest suburban area, has an average of close to 60 per cent of its graduating classes going on to college, well above the national average of 35 per cent.

But what of the 40 per cent who remain behind? If social goals within their age group and with parents are college-oriented, how many of this group is actually taking advantage of the vocational training which is offered? A recent survey published in this newspaper showed that only 25 students out of 6100 enrolled in the district were taking "diversified occupation" courses. This is hardly representative of those students who will not go on to college or who will attend college for only a semester or two.

And those who are exposed to college, no matter for how short a time, seldom will feel inclined to work with their hands, even if this type of endeavor pays well and is personally satisfying to them.

So we persist in turning out deskbound auto mechanics and bricklayers, while these professions in turn suffer in excellence because they go by default to less talented or more disinterested practitioners.

Mass production has destroyed some of the dignity of work and led to boredom and apathy among workers who only contribute a small part to the whole. But a secondary influence has been the belief in this country that if you aren't an executive commanding a five-figure salary, you are a failure. How can a "failure" be expected to take gratification from his work or do any more than log the required eight hours for a thankless task?

At the While House Regional Conference held in Chicago last November, a speaker noted that the added emphasis on science and language in our schools is being reflected in an increase in school dropouts. Another speaker commented that the paradox in the problem is seen in the fact that on the one hand there are great masses of people who cannot hold jobs because they are unskilled, and on the other side of the coin shortages in critical, technological fields of employment.

Dr. James B. Conant, former president of Harvard University, succinctly summarizes the prevailing attitude in his latest book, "Slums & Suburbs":

"It is a very unfortunate fact that false prestige, implying higher social status for those who have 'attended' college, constitutes a threat to improvements long overdue in educating our youth. That education beyond the high school is a longer education is not reason to regard it as a better education.

"Snobbery that equates length of education with its value has placed in some areas, especially wealthy suburban communities, a stigma upon high school vocational education. This snobbery can well be held responsible for the misery and frustration of many suburban children whose academic talents do not qualify them for advanced academic work.

"Moreover, such a view runs completely counter to our frontier-derived heritage of equality of status for all forms of honest labor . . . Qualities of leadership, perseverance, honesty and common sense are not found solely on college campuses."

Three Men in a Tub!

Contentedly adrift on a sea of apathy, many communities are finding themselves confronted with the menace of water pollution. As President Kennedy said, "Pollution of our country's rivers and streams has — as a result of our rapid population and industrial growth — reached alarming proprotions."

Water pollution can do as much damage as a severe flood. It can endanger the health of thousands of citizens. It can force property values down, insurance rates up. It can decimate wildlife, shut down industries. It can turn a once-prosperous community into an economically depressed area.

The population explosion and the mass migration to suburban areas has put a greater burden on existing dis- that control pollution. The National posal and water treatment facilities Water Institute warns that many of these facilities are antiquated. Others are just plain inadequate.

Add to these factors, public indifference. We tend to file and forget any problem that does not immediately affect us. As a result, vital bond issues to finance needed improvements of water facilities are defeated by the apathetic attitude of voters. Last year, of the thousands of communities faced with inadequate facilities, only 600 town- placed bond issues before the voters. Twenty-five per cent of these proposals were defeated.

Much of the blame can be laid to lack of leadership, vision and planning by civic leaders. Yet, in the final analysis it is we — the people — who must speak up. At the National Conference on Water Pollution, clean-up of our natural waterways was called a challenge to the nation. Are we going to meet that challenge?

Let's Try Sweet Talk

by BOB CUMMINS

News Editor, Bensenville Register and Addison Register

The Associated Press reports that Massachusetts motorists are being "sweet-talked" to safety.

The press association says that two pleasant young motorcycle policemen assigned to Boston's Southeast Expressway never resort to the time-worn demand: "Where do you think you're going, to a fire?"

Their approach is more like this: "Good morning, I hesitated to stop you, but I thought I should for your own safety and that of others. You're traveling a little too fast. Won't you please reduce your speed and observe other safety rules?

"I know you will, now that you realize the danger in fast driving. Have a happy trip—and good luck."

THIS HAS worked. Accidents are down 90 per cent. Shouldn't it be tried elsewhere?

For example, Charles Carpentier speaks to Richard J. Daley: "I hesitate to bring this up, Mr. Mayor, but some of my people in Chicago are unhappy. They say that some of your people didn't count their votes.

"Won't you please ask the election judges to count Republican votes next time?

"I know you will, now that you realize how much it hurts our Republicans in Chicago to feel that they aren't wanted. Thanks—and good luck!"

OR, A Mississippi policeman speaking to a Freedom Rider: "Good morning, I hesitated to interrupt your breakfast, but I thought I should in order to maintain the integrity of your race and mine. Won't you please enjoy a platter of grits and gravy over at the colored lunch counter?

"I know you will, now that you realize the danger in asserting your legal and moral rights. Have a happy trip—and good luck!"

Casey Stengel to Umpire Jocko Conlan: "Good afternoon, Mr. Conlan. I came from the dugout primarily to apologize to you, because I am in a sense your host at this ball game, for the disgraceful behavior of the fans, especially those in Section 15 who are demanding that you be lynched.

"I HESITATE to mention this, but since the catcher had to dive to his right and dig that last pitch out of the dirt, I thought you might have called it a ball instead of a strike.

"But enough of this carping. I AM becoming a silly old chatterbox, aren't I? You WILL keep your eye on the ball and 'get with it,' won't you? I know you will now that you realize how much it means to me and the fans."

President Kennedy to Nikita Khrushchev:

"Good morning, Mr. Chairman. I hesitated to call you, but I thought I should for your own safety and that of others.

"YOUR NUCLEAR bombs are a little too poisonous. Won't you please stop exploding them so babies won't be born with two heads? And please observe other safety rules.

"I know you will, now that you realize the danger of two-headed babies. Have a happy 21st Party Congress, and good luck!"

Our Moral Malady

by DICK HOFFMANN

Associate Editor

Ayn Rand, high priestess of the cult of the far Right, recently attributed the ills of our times to an altruistic philosophy.

The authoress of "The Fountainhead" and "Atlas Shrugged" said on the CBS television program, "The Great Challenge," that we must abandon such nonsense and return to a philosophy of self-interest in which everyone looks out for himself and forgets about his fellow man.

Poor John Smith. Without his Pocahontas, his head would have probably wound up adorning some wickiup. With the Rand philosophy of self-interest, Jack the Ripper would have had himself a rippin' good time. Society would have had to leave the poor fellow alone; rugged individualists need elbow room for their creative work.

HOFFMANN

IT IS doubtful if the pioneers, having adopted this philosophy, would have made it West, since they would have proved easy pickin's in their solitary strolls into the wilderness; that is, unless the Indians could have been convinced to give up their altruistic philosophy of fighting together.

But if they had made it West, I suppose we would have had the situation where the James Brothers, Billy the Kid and Quantril's raiders would have had states instead of streets named after them. Real pillars of self-interest, those boys.

Then there might have been the later development of the Standard Oil Companies of America instead of the United States of America.

ONE EVEN wonders if such a storied individualist as Frank Lloyd Wright (about whom Miss Rand was writing in "The Fountainhead") could have fully developed his talents without the instruction and encouragement of Louis Sullivan.

Miss Rand, from what I heard, seems to have confused liberty with license, although I overstate the case. But she is rather extreme, having voiced irritation over the jailing of electrical executives for price-fixing ("They shouldn't be treated like criminals").

Professor Russell Kirk, a cerebral conservative, responded to Miss Rand's "what's in it for me" dialectics by saying that this was precisely what is wrong with our society. He suggested that the cohesive which binds individual units of society together is charity, or more exactly, love. When this element is missing, the units forfeit their functions to the monolithic indifference of a centralized state.

FOR EACH man to become an island onto himself, as Miss Rand apparently proposes, would leave us adrift in a sea of anarchy, and would be an invitation to a tyrannical state to impose order on chaos.

Our freedoms are no longer insulated from arbitrary encroachment, Kirk observes, because we no longer show concern for each other on an individual basis and set out to achieve a solution to problems at the face-to-face level.

This is a moral malady we suffer from, Professor Kirk feels. In order to arrest its growth, we must bridge these islands of indifference.

FOR WHAT Miss Rand devoutly wishes, we already have. We have become too involved in serving ourselves.

It is the preoccupation with the possession of material things. It is the emphasis on bank accounts, bust measurements, car designs, coach lights; we have become so mesmerized with the symbols of opulence that we don't care any longer.

We are focused on the trivial, and history is striding by.

Has Suburbia Lost Some of Its Lure?

A study of Los Angeles building figures suggests that Southern Californians are getting sick of suburbia, reports an article in The National Observor.

During the past four years in Los Angeles, the construction of apartments, many of them in 20 to 27-story skyscrapers, has exceeded the number of single homes built. This is a startling change for Southern California, an area noted for its bungalow and ranch-house way of life. Ten years ago roughly 19 per cent of dwelling construction was apartments. Today it comes to 64 per cent.

ONE REASON is the increasing cost of land close to the heart of the city. But another may be suburbia-sickness. Many who moved out a few years ago are moving back into the city. Some found the next-to-nature life dull. Others found that their privacy and anonymity were being sacrificed to tract-house neighborliness. Some grew tired of gardening and house upkeep, of high mortgage payments compared to economic apartment rent, and of the long daily drive to work.

A prominent architect is concerned about the trend: "This city is already gasping for its breath. People who live in crowded apartments become confined and introverted."

Help for Confused Citizen

By MARTIN E. MARTY

We know how seriously to take Communism on the Far Left. We do not know how seriously as yet to take the American Far Right. We have not yet heard enough from the American Center. Two new booklets are commended by and to large religious elements of the American public, to people who are trying to make their way between confusions of Left and Right. Father John F. Cronin, S. S., and the National Catholic Welfare Conference (Paulist Press, 50 cents) have prepared "Communism: Threat to Freedom." The Committee on World Literacy and Christian Literature of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. has revised its "A Christian's Handbook on Communism" ($1.00).

MARTY

They are excellent study guides and say much the same thing. The former is concerned particularly with domestic attitudes; the latter, with the world-wide picture. Each seeks the center, away from the fanaticisms that disrupted our national unity in the recent past.

IN JANUARY in California, I spoke to 500 Protestant ministers. The last day I was there some expressed discontent that I had not taken the "Radical Right" seriously enough. Acknowledging that Southern California had a special problem with its Societies and Crusaders and all the rest, I could commiserate with them, but suggested that even there one should not exaggerate the threat or prolong its potency.

That evening two Southern California ministers were appearing on a panel critical of the Far Right and had their houses bombed. Maybe we haven't heard the worst noises yet! Still, it would be good to think that those who kick the dust up in the air and then complain that they cannot see might have passed the worst. It is time for sanity. These two booklets contribute to a saneness we lacked in 1961.

The Communists, of course, would not like these pamphlets. They will be equally unsatisfying to the professional anti-Communist Crusaders. Why? Because they take Communism so seriously that they point to its real, not its imagined dangers. They recognize the varieties of faces Communism wears. They take as seriously the international and military threats as they do the domestic versions —something the Far Right seldom does. They try to face up to the internal vacuums and diseases on which Communism feeds; the Radical Right helped create the vacuums and quicken the diseases. They realize how difficult our times and their issues are; the Far Right oversimplifies in its fanaticisms.

WHAT CAN THE believer in a free society and particularly the Christian do in the face of Communism?

That question in a particularly complex phase of the Cold War drove many well-meaning people into the 2000 Rightist fronts in the past couple of years. These Catholic and Protestant booklets have better suggestions about "what to do."

If you are in pursuit of your librarian, your school-board, your teacher, your Protestant minister, your Catholic priest as being some sort of member of the Communist conspiracy, these short books will not satisfy.

If you want to learn something of the causes, goals, and methods of Communism; about the resources of strength in a free society; about the parts informed people can play—try these in your study groups.

THE FENCE POST

Letters to the Editor

Seeks More Information

I was most happy to read the letter written by Mr. Donald L. Swanson, Regional Post Office Director, in your March 1 issue of the Wheeling Herald.

I agree wholeheartedly with Mr. Swanson that "Politics cannot and must not enter into the hiring or firing of any postal employee."

I am sure the postal employee's have enough to worry about in performing their assigned tasks without worrying about the outcome of every election for fear they may lose their job if the "other party" wins.

I HAVE one item to bring up, however. In making his point a little more "crystal clear" I wonder if Mr. Swanson would delve a little further into the matter and explain the variances in his letter and the article which brought forth his letter. There are a few un-answered questions in my mind and, I am sure, in the minds of others.

Mr. Swanson has stated that he conferred with Mr. Edward Swan (Wheeling Postmaster) and was told that Jeffery Rudge had never met Mr. Swan. Did Mr. Swanson also confer with Jeffery Rudge or Mr. Francis Rudge? I am certain there must be two sides to this story. If Mr. Rudge had been misquoted in the article no doubt he would explain this to Mr. Swanson.

I also wonder if Mr. Swanson contacted Mr. Stavros. According to the article Mr. Stavros said "that post office employes have to be hired through Civil Service examinations and that he had nothing to say about it." Mr. Swanson (in his letter) said that this statement was completely correct. Did Mr. Swanson confer with Mr. Stavros and determine that this part of the article was true and the other statements attributed to Mr. Stavros were not true.

WHETHER OR not Mr. Stavros made these statements (in the article) should certainly be cleared up. Mr. Stavros was quoted as saying "the only (person) I clear is the postmaster. These are Democratic appointments." Yet Mr. Swanson has said "no political clearance is ever required for either temporary or career appointment to any job in the post office." It would certainly seem there is disagreement between these two views. That is unless the position of postmaster is not classified as a job in the post office.

No doubt Mr. Swanson is making, or has made, a thorough investigation into this matter. Perhaps there is no need for me to bring this question of whether or not Mr. Swanson has checked with all parties involved and his letter was written as a result. However, if he has done so I believe it would give Mr. Swanson's letter more merit by so stating. By not stating all of the facts it would appear that Mr. Swanson is referring to only certain items that will bear out his own feelings and is telling only "one side" of the story.

I feel it only fair to the post office employes and the other parties involved to have all questions answered completely. Perhaps Mr. Swanson will do this with another letter next week.

Urges Support For Rep. Burks

First, may I identify myself as a past president of the Illinois State Bar Association and a member of the Lawyers' Committee of the 13th District for the Election of Marion E. Burks to Congress.

About 25 lawyers of this committee met with Mr. Burks on Saturday, Feb. 17, for more than three hours. Many of them were experienced trial lawyers. We all examined and cross-examined Mr. Burks the entire afternoon, putting to him searching questions concerning his connections with the casualty company. He answered all questions fully and frankly, with the result that all of us believed he was not involved in any irregularities and had no knowledge of them. In my opinion, his duties were legal, not administrative, and he earned his salary by securing admission of a new and relatively small company in thirty-five states. I understand our Insurance Commissioner, Mr. Gerber, has told our committee and the press that Mr. Burks was not involved.

MR. GERBER also has been quoted by the press as saying there are sufficient assets to pay all claims.

If these two statements are correct, and in my own opinion the evidence justifies that conclusion, the continued publicity given Mr. Burks' connection with the casualty company can have only one purpose — to create a smoke-screen to minimize his outstanding qualifications as an able legislator, a fearless and vigorous fighter for the right, and the ablest and most experienced man to represent the 13th District in Congress.

It is high time that supporters and friends of Mr. Burks stop spending their time talking about the casualty company and begin to impress upon the public his dedicated public service wherein, in 6 years in the General Assembly, he has earned the respect of members of his own and the opposition party. Those who still rely upon the casualty company smoke-screen probably would not support him anyway. When some of these are questioned closely it develops that because of his position on controversial bills in the General Assembly, or his failure to act in some matter wholly unconnected with his duties as a legislator, or other purely pesonal reasons, some such persons oppose him, giving the casualty company as an excuse.

I sincerely trust you will give Mr. Burks your wholehearted support. He is the man who can be elected in November.

The views herein expressed are mine alone.

Editorial Wins Reader Support

Having just read the letter concerning your alleged "irresponsible journalism" I feel compelled to come to your defense.

In my opinion, your editorial "The Closed Corporation" was the most objective and constructive writing I have yet seen on the Foxworthy matter. It seemed to me that you got right to the crux of the situation, and I, for one, found it very helpful. Many people seem to be almost completely one-sided in their approach to this problem in that they believe their side to be all right and the other side to be all wrong. One of the most harmful aspects to come out of this matter, it seems to me, is the tendency for these differences of opinion to make many people quite bitter and almost hateful toward those who do not agree with their views. This is most unfortunate for all of us. It can do us great harm.

THE WRITER of the letter accusing you of irresponsible journalism is an example of what I mean. He is so sure of his position and feels so strongly concerning it, that he feels it necessary to attack anyone not sharing his viewpoint. And attack you he did, however instead of attacking your opinions and arguments he attacks you and the paper on a personal basis. Some of his remarks are somewhat slanderous in nature and certainly could not be proved since they are not based on facts.

I would like you to know that you have my vote of confidence. I think you and your paper do a good honest job and I wish you both the best of luck.

Speaker Sets Record Straight

Please allow me to extend my thanks for the coverage in the Herald given my talk before the Arlington Heights Rotary Club on Feb. 1. At the same time, the article in the Herald for Feb. 8 attributed to me certain statements which I did not make. In the interests of accuracy and to avoid misunderstandings may I, therefore, point out that:

I am not an instructor at Roosevelt University, but a member of its administrative staff;

I did not condemn Nehru for seizing Goa—rather, it is my firm opinion that all India supported and approved the prime minister's action;

I did not accuse Nehru of inaction regarding the caste system—I believe the government of India is doing its best to solve this ancient and complex program;

I did not say the Kennedy family would have to redeem the U. N. bonds—I said the Kennedy administration would be forced to find a way of redeeming the bonds upon their maturation.

Thank you very much for allowing me to set the record straight.

Community Creates Its Own Publicity, Good and Bad

In recent months, a theme has crept into the Wheeling scene, that I personally feel is shallow and destructive. Each time something not complimentary to our village appears in the paper, there is a storm of moans. "This bad publicity is no good for Wheeling" is chanted.

When will be start thinking more positively? The publicity we create is of our own making. If from each bad we would build a little good, soon the Wheeling story would need no apology.

BUT TO BE fair to the publishers of our papers, let's think back just a little. As I remember back to the recent past and the present, I recall much good publicity.

Have you forgotten the thorough coverage the paper gave us on the hiring of a master planner and is continuing to give us? The Master Plan is a great step forward for Wheeling.

Have you, already, forgotten the coverage our visitor from Niagara, Mrs. Theresa Ogunbiyi, received and have you forgotten she was sent to us by our State Department because of the superb job the Wheeling Junior Woman's Club is doing?

Have you forgotten the front page coverage WIN, a project of the Community Council to encourage industrial growth, has received and I am sure will continue to deserve?

WHEN THE Jack London Junior High School had its grand opening for visitors, the story and pictures that covered that event certainly were for the village good.

Each club and activity has had its fair share of favorable publicity. Wheeling United, a new group to Wheeling, has been acknowledged for each of its forums. These forums, certainly, were informative and constructive for the village.

Remember the Wheeling Herald is a paper written for the people of Wheeling. The paper would be amiss in its responsibility to us, if it did not keep us informed on all that happens.

IT WOULD be a "Pollyanna" attitude to believe that Wheeling has no problems. It is the duty of all concerned; village officials, press and the public; to concern themselves with our problems as well as our assets. To grow we must look at ourselves and criticize ourselves. Would you prefer that the village officials close their eyes and pretend all is well, when it is not.

Lincoln is credited with having said "I am for the greatest good for the greatest number." Maybe, this should be the creed for Wheeling. We must create good; it is not free for the wishers. Sometimes we must stir up a little unfortunate dust, before we are able to clean out the apathy.

Inadequate Data At Zone Hearing

I went to the Tuesday, Feb. 27, zoning board hearing to annex a 400-unit Town House area plus an already-annexed 400 home area to Wood Dale. How do they figure 800 families can tap on to Wood Dale's inadequate sewer? I was given an evasive answer.

School and park areas total about 14 acres—dual purpose land use with an inadequate 5 acres assigned to school building. I heard evasive discussion on the size of the sewer main and extension to Wood Dale hook-on. Water shed and rain flow were discussed briefly.

Out of 14 people present, only two were not machine controlled. This area affects those apathetic people of Dalewood Avenue and the west side of Addison Road.

Modern Etiquette

Q. We have moved into a new neighborhood and are going to have a house-warming. Should we invite neighbors we haven't met yet?

A. No; invite just your friends. Wait for your neighbors to call upon you before extending them any social invitations. And incidentally, yours should be called "an open house," and not a "housewarming," since the latter usually calls for gifts and is given by friends of the house-owners.

Q. A couple of my girl friends, who recently became engaged, gave their fiances engagement gifts. Is this now the customary thing?

A. This is neither a new custom, nor is it necessary. It's up to the bride, although it isn't too frequently done.

Q. When a small paper cup of sauce is served on the dinner plate, what is the proper way to use it?

A. Turn the cup over and use your fork to empty it. Then put the empty cup on the plate, to one side, out of the way.

Q. How does one write a formal acceptance to a wedding invitation?

A. Address it to the parents of the girl in whose name the invitation was issued: "Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Rogers accept with pleasure Mr. and Mrs. John P. Anderson's kind invitation to the wedding and reception of their daughter, on such-and-such date."

Village Hall Is No Theatre

The controversy between the village board and the supporters of Chief Foxworthy seems to be developing into a slam-bang three ring circus. Frankly, I prefer to be entertained by professional comedians. The village hall is no place for a three-act farce.

I hope the board of trustees has the courage and the strength to ignore the off-stage clowning of over zealous citizens. There are certainly more serious problems that need their undivided attention. Surely no one cares to see Palatine again become the laughing stock of the metropolitan area. This town has had enough wrangling to last a hundred years.

I HOPE THAT all concerned will stop to consider the impression they are creating. If the board had the legal right to remove Capt. Foxworthy from his post and if the board conducted itself in a legal manner there is no reason to interfere. Mr. Foxworthy can disagree with the policies of the present administration without any doubt being cast on his honesty or integrity. If the board felt it would receive better cooperation from another man it would be remiss in not making a change. This happens in thousands of public offices without name calling or muckraking. Why all the fuss here?

We all have the privilege of passing judgment at the polls. It would be better to save the political bean bags for pre-election campaign speeches. Then we expect this sort of huffing and puffing.

I DID NOT vote for the United Citizens Party candidates at the last election but; I feel it only fair to admit that they have done a creditable job of bringing some semblance of sane and sensible government to this much-maligned village.

I would hate to see all their good work buried under chaos.

The Way We See It

Answers Are Needed On School Dropouts

The school dropout dilemma is emerging as a major economic, sociological and political problem. Recent economic surveys have correlated the connection between school dropouts and a growing pool of the unemployed; behaviorists point to its consequences in accelerated delinquency statistics; politicians from the federal plateau to grassroots grazing land have expressed the need for action to reverse this trend.

Among contributory causes is the obvious: economic deprivation which forces a youth to quit school and work before he is adequately trained for skilled jobs or prepared for such responsibility.

There are also more subtle influences at work. Our high schools are traditionally designed for college preparation. Within this framework and because of it, parents are unwilling to admit that their sons or daughters are better equipped and would be happier in a blue collar or secretarial position.

Often, students also are unwilling to concede to their contemporaries that they are not going on to college. It seems to attach the stigma of some lack of abilities.

Education — from high school preparation for college to actual attendance at an institution of higher learning — has become a status symbol.

This is particularly true in the suburbs, where achievement is equated with earning power. While high school dropouts appear to be a minor concern to suburban areas, it is possible that those students who normally would not go on to college if they were not pressured into it, do contribute to the college dropout statistics.

Arlington-Prospect High School District 214, which serves a portion of the northwest suburban area, has an average of close to 60 per cent of its graduating classes going on to college, well above the national average of 35 per cent.

But what of the 40 per cent who remain behind? If social goals within their age group and with parents are college-oriented, how many of this group is actually taking advantage of the vocational training which is offered? A recent survey published in this newspaper showed that only 25 students out of 6100 enrolled in the district were taking "diversified occupation" courses. This is hardly representative of those students who will not go on to college or who will attend college for only a semester or two.

And those who are exposed to college, no matter for how short a time, seldom will feel inclined to work with their hands, even if this type of endeavor pays well and is personally satisfying to them.

So we persist in turning out deskbound auto mechanics and bricklayers, while these professions in turn suffer in excellence because they go by default to less talented or more disinterested practitioners.

Mass production has destroyed some of the dignity of work and led to boredom and apathy among workers who only contribute a small part to the whole. But a secondary influence has been the belief in this country that if you aren't an executive commanding a five-figure salary, you are a failure. How can a "failure" be expected to take gratification from his work or do any more than log the required eight hours for a thankless task?

At the While House Regional Conference held in Chicago last November, a speaker noted that the added emphasis on science and language in our schools is being reflected in an increase in school dropouts. Another speaker commented that the paradox in the problem is seen in the fact that on the one hand there are great masses of people who cannot hold jobs because they are unskilled, and on the other side of the coin shortages in critical, technological fields of employment.

Dr. James B. Conant, former president of Harvard University, succinctly summarizes the prevailing attitude in his latest book, "Slums & Suburbs":

"It is a very unfortunate fact that false prestige, implying higher social status for those who have 'attended' college, constitutes a threat to improvements long overdue in educating our youth. That education beyond the high school is a longer education is not reason to regard it as a better education.

"Snobbery that equates length of education with its value has placed in some areas, especially wealthy suburban communities, a stigma upon high school vocational education. This snobbery can well be held responsible for the misery and frustration of many suburban children whose academic talents do not qualify them for advanced academic work.

"Moreover, such a view runs completely counter to our frontier-derived heritage of equality of status for all forms of honest labor . . . Qualities of leadership, perseverance, honesty and common sense are not found solely on college campuses."

Three Men in a Tub!

Contentedly adrift on a sea of apathy, many communities are finding themselves confronted with the menace of water pollution. As President Kennedy said, "Pollution of our country's rivers and streams has — as a result of our rapid population and industrial growth — reached alarming proprotions."

Water pollution can do as much damage as a severe flood. It can endanger the health of thousands of citizens. It can force property values down, insurance rates up. It can decimate wildlife, shut down industries. It can turn a once-prosperous community into an economically depressed area.

The population explosion and the mass migration to suburban areas has put a greater burden on existing dis- that control pollution. The National posal and water treatment facilities Water Institute warns that many of these facilities are antiquated. Others are just plain inadequate.

Add to these factors, public indifference. We tend to file and forget any problem that does not immediately affect us. As a result, vital bond issues to finance needed improvements of water facilities are defeated by the apathetic attitude of voters. Last year, of the thousands of communities faced with inadequate facilities, only 600 towns placed bond issues before the voters. Twenty-five per cent of these proposals were defeated.

Much of the blame can be laid to lack of leadership, vision and planning by civic leaders. Yet, in the final analysis it is we — the people — who must speak up. At the National Conference on Water Pollution, clean-up of our natural waterways was called a challenge to the nation. Are we going to meet that challenge?

Let's Try Sweet Talk

by BOB CUMMINS

News Editor, Bensenville Register and Addison Register

The Associated Press reports that Massachusetts motorists are being "sweet-talked" to safety.

The press association says that two pleasant young motorcycle policemen assigned to Boston's Southeast Expressway never resort to the time-worn demand: "Where do you think you're going, to a fire?"

Their approach is more like this: "Good morning, I hesitated to stop you, but I thought I should for your own safety and that of others. You're traveling a little too fast. Won't you please reduce your speed and observe other safety rules?

"I know you will, now that you realize the danger in fast driving. Have a happy trip—and good luck."

THIS HAS worked. Accidents are down 90 per cent. Shouldn't it be tried elsewhere?

For example, Charles Carpentier speaks to Richard J. Daley: "I hesitate to bring this up, Mr. Mayor, but some of my people in Chicago are unhappy. They say that some of your people didn't count their votes.

"Won't you please ask the election judges to count Republican votes next time?

"I know you will, now that you realize how much it hurts our Republicans in Chicago to feel that they aren't wanted. Thanks—and good luck!"

OR, A Mississippi policeman speaking to a Freedom Rider: "Good morning, I hesitated to interrupt your breakfast, but I thought I should in order to maintain the integrity of your race and mine. Won't you please enjoy a platter of grits and gravy over at the colored lunch counter?

"I know you will, now that you realize the danger in asserting your legal and moral rights. Have a happy trip—and good luck!"

Casey Stengel to Umpire Jocko Conlan: "Good afternoon, Mr. Conlan. I came from the dugout primarily to apologize to you, because I am in a sense your host at this ball game, for the disgraceful behavior of the fans, especially those in Section 15 who are demanding that you be lynched.

"I HESITATE to mention this, but since the catcher had to dive to his right and dig that last pitch out of the dirt, I thought you might have called it a ball instead of a strike.

"But enough of this carping. I AM becoming a silly old chatterbox, aren't I? You WILL keep your eye on the ball and 'get with it,' won't you? I know you will now that you realize how much it means to me and the fans."

President Kennedy to Nikita Khrushchev:

"Good morning, Mr. Chairman. I hesitated to call you, but I thought I should for your own safety and that of others.

"YOUR NUCLEAR bombs are a little too poisonous. Won't you please stop exploding them so babies won't be born with two heads? And please observe other safety rules.

"I know you will, now that you realize the danger of two-headed babies. Have a happy 21st Party Congress, and good luck!"

Our Moral Malady

by DICK HOFFMANN

Associate Editor

Ayn Rand, high priestess of the cult of the far Right, recently attributed the ills of our times to an altruistic philosophy.

The authoress of "The Fountainhead" and "Atlas Shrugged" said on the CBS television program, "The Great Challenge," that we must abandon such nonsense and return to a philosophy of self-interest in which everyone looks out for himself and forgets about his fellow man.

Poor John Smith. Without his Pocahontas, his head would have probably wound up adorning some wickiup. With the Rand philosophy of self-interest, Jack the Ripper would have had himself a rippin' good time.

HOFFMANN

Society would have had to leave the poor fellow alone; rugged individualists need elbow room for their creative work.

IT IS doubtful if the pioneers, having adopted this philosophy, would have made it West, since they would have proved easy pickin's in their solitary strolls into the wilderness; that is, unless the Indians could have been convinced to give up their altruistic philosophy of fighting together.

But if they had made it West, I suppose we would have had the situation where the James Brothers, Billy the Kid and Quantril's raiders would have had states instead of streets named after them. Real pillars of self-interest, those boys.

Then there might have been the later development of the Standard Oil Companies of America instead of the United States of America.

ONE EVEN wonders if such a storied individualist as Frank Lloyd Wright (about whom Miss Rand was writing in "The Fountainhead") could have fully developed his talents without the instruction and encouragement of Louis Sullivan.

Miss Rand, from what I heard, seems to have confused liberty with license, although I overstate the case. But she is rather extreme, having voiced irritation over the jailing of electrical executives for price-fixing ("They shouldn't be treated like criminals").

Professor Russell Kirk, a cerebral conservative, responded to Miss Rand's "what's in it for me" dialectics by saying that this was precisely what is wrong with our society. He suggested that the cohesive which binds individual units of society together is charity, or more exactly, love. When this element is missing, the units forfeit their functions to the monolithic indifference of a centralized state.

FOR EACH man to become an island onto himself, as Miss Rand apparently proposes, would leave us adrift in a sea of anarchy, and would be an invitation to a tyrannical state to impose order on chaos.

Our freedoms are no longer insulated from arbitrary encroachment, Kirk observes, because we no longer show concern for each other on an individual basis and set out to achieve a solution to problems at the face-to-face level.

This is a moral malady we suffer from, Professor Kirk feels. In order to arrest its growth, we must bridge these islands of indifference.

FOR WHAT Miss Rand devoutly wishes, we already have. We have become too involved in serving ourselves.

It is the preoccupation with the possession of material things. It is the emphasis on bank accounts, bust measurements, car designs, coach lights; we have become so mesmerized with the symbols of opulence that we don't care any longer.

We are focused on the trivial, and history is striding by.

Has Suburbia Lost Some of Its Lure?

A study of Los Angeles building figures suggests that Southern Californians are getting sick of suburbia, reports an article in The National Observor.

During the past four years in Los Angeles, the construction of apartments, many of them in 20 to 27-story skyscrapers, has exceeded the number of single homes built. This is a startling change for Southern California, an area noted for its bungalow and ranch-house way of life. Ten years ago roughly 19 per cent of dwelling construction was apartments. Today it comes to 64 per cent.

ONE REASON is the increasing cost of land close to the heart of the city. But another may be suburbia-sickness. Many who moved out a few years ago are moving back into the city. Some found the next-to-nature life dull. Others found that their privacy and anonymity were being sacrificed to tract-house neighborliness. Some grew tired of gardening and house upkeep, of high mortgage payments compared to economic apartment rent, and of the long daily drive to work.

A prominent architect is concerned about the trend: "This city is already gasping for its breath. People who live in crowded apartments become confined and introverted."

By MARTIN E. MARTY

We know how seriously to take Communism on the Far Left. We do not know how seriously as yet to take the American Far Right. We have not yet heard enough from the American Center. Two new booklets are commended by and to large religious elements of the American public, to people who are trying to make their way between confusions of Left and Right. Father John F. Cronin, S. S., and the National Catholic Welfare Conference (Paulist Press, 50 cents) have prepared "Communism: Threat to Freedom." The Committee on World Literacy and Christian Literature of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. has revised its "A Christian's Handbook on Communism" ($1.00).

MARTY

They are excellent study guides and say much the same thing. The former is concerned particularly with domestic attitudes; the latter, with the world-wide picture. Each seeks the center, away from the fanaticisms that disrupted our national unity in the recent past.

IN JANUARY in California, I spoke to 500 Protestant ministers. The last day I was there some expressed discontent that I had not taken the "Radical Right" seriously enough. Acknowledging that Southern California had a special problem with its Societies and Crusaders and all the rest, I could commiserate with them, but suggested that even there one should not exaggerate the threat or prolong its potency.

That evening two Southern California ministers were appearing on a panel critical of the Far Right and had their houses bombed. Maybe we haven't heard the worst noises yet! Still, it would be good to think that those who kick the dust up in the air and then complain that they cannot see might have passed the worst. It is time for sanity. These two booklets contribute to a saneness we lacked in 1961.

The Communists, of course, would not like these pamphlets. They will be equally unsatisfying to the professional anti-Communist Crusaders. Why? Because they take Communism so seriously that they point to its real, not its imagined dangers. They recognize the varieties of faces Communism wears. They take as seriously the international and military threats as they do the domestic versions —something the Far Right seldom does. They try to face up to the internal vacuums and diseases on which Communism feeds; the Radical Right helped create the vacuums and quicken the diseases. They realize how difficult our times and their issues are; the Far Right oversimplifies in its fanaticisms.

WHAT CAN THE believer in a free society and particularly the Christian do in the face of Communism?

That question in a particularly complex phase of the Cold War drove many well-meaning people into the 2000 Rightist fronts in the past couple of years. These Catholic and Protestant booklets have better suggestions about "what to do."

If you are in pursuit of your librarian, your school-board, your teacher, your Protestant minister, your Catholic priest as being some sort of member of the Communist conspiracy, these short books will not satisfy.

If you want to learn something of the causes, goals, and methods of Communism; about the resources of strength in a free society; about the parts informed people can play—try these in your study groups.

Randhurst Center Celebrates Via 'Domestone' Laying Rites

The heat has been turned on at Randhurst Center, warming every corner of the huge shopping development, the largest building of its kind in the world.

Randhurst, with 1,200,000 sq. ft. of interior area and nearly a mile of outside wall, is the world's largest shopping center under a single roof. The $20 million project, in Mount Prospect, will open in August.

The center will be the only planned center in the nation with three complete and competing department stores. They will be Carson Pirie Scott and Co., The Fair and Wieboldt Stores, Inc. The firms are joint developers of Randhurst, which also will include 100 other shops and services as well as 50 professional office suites.

"WHEN THE boilers were fired, the heating system easily met every requirement," said George M. O'Neill, Randhurst general manager. "And with the heat on we were able to move ahead with other construction."

"Randhurst general construction is now more than 85 per cent complete and is running about five per cent ahead of schedule." O'Neill reported. "Presently the walls for many of the stores and shops are going up, plumbing and electrical facilities are being completed, plastering has begun and ceilings are being installed.

"Randhurst's heating system is immense as it would have to be to serve a structure so large. But heating is only half the task of the system. The thousands of feet of duct work and pipe that heat the center in winter will also cool it in the summer."

"THE SYSTEM will provide anything we want in the way of climate control," O'Neill said. "Randhurst will be as comfortable as a fireside in winter and as refreshing as a lake shore in the summer. Should the unstable spring and fall weather require it, we can mix the heating and cooling to meet whatever conditions exist. The Randhurst heating system has sufficient capacity to heat 2,000 homes."

The backbone of Randhurst's climate control system is a series of three hot water boilers and two steam boilers, all located in a single area on the center's lower level.

The two steam boilers are larger than an automobile, the three hot water boilers approach the size of a steam locomotive.

The boilers heat water to 200 degrees, then pump it under pressure to all areas of Randhurst.

Scattered throughout Randhurst are 32 heating or cooling coils, ranging from two feet on all sides to some that are five times larger. Fans in the coil units draw off the heat of the water and disperse it through a web of ducts to hundreds of outlets throughout the center.

THE SYSTEM works the same way in the summer, except that chilled water is used.

Individual control of the climate in the stores, shops and offices of Randhurst will be provided through additional heating and cooling coils to be installed for each tenant as their facilities are prepared for opening.

The rate of oil consumption for the Randhurst system has been a whopping 1,500 to 1,600 gallons per day when temperatures were near freezing. When readings dropped below zero, the rate jumped as high as 3,000 gallons a day.

Randhurst's oil is stored in two 30,000 gallon underground tanks. The supply is never permitted to drop below 10,000 gallons in each tank, insuring comfort and protection for Randhurst, no matter how abusive the weather outside.

To celebrate a milestone in the construction of Randhurst, a domestone laying ceremony was held Thursday at which time Randhurst officials, officials of the three major department stores, Mount Prospect Village representatives and members of the press placed documents and newspapers in a copper box which was secured to the dome.

Since there is no cornerstone at the center, the domestone laying ceremony was held.

A 'DOMESTONE' CEREMONY Thursday at Randhurst Center, Mount Prospect, was attend by officials of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., The Fair and Wieboldt Stores, Randhurst Corp., the Village of Mount Prospect and the press. (BB

Goodyear Regional Office In Elk Grove Village

The new regional and district offices and distribution center of The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. reveal a bright, new concept in industrial planning for the midwest.

The huge, one-story, modern structure at Elk Grove Village is part of a business community called Centex Industrial Development Center and will serve as a center of sales and service operations for the company's 10-state midwest region.

THE INDUSTRIAL village, first of its kind in the Chicago area, is a sprawling 1,000-acre tract of former farmland on which companies with highly divergent interests have constructed offices and warehouses. It affords centralized transportation facilities with ample room for expansion, and the network of paved streets gives it the atmosphere of a giant industrial shopping plaza.

Goodyear is one of the first companies to enter the industrial park, but spring building plans for other concerns are already numerous.

The Goodyear-Midwest operation serves a chain of 142 company service stores and 2,734 dealers located in every major city in the district and features car and home merchandise as well as tires, batteries and accessories. (BB

Accident Policy Is Valuable

No medical examination is necessary of any subscriber or a family household member if in apparent good health when making application for a Paddock Publications Emergency Protection Personal Accident Policy, a very necessary public service now available through this newspaper.

This outstanding protection program was adopted by Paddock Publications because of our deep concern over the alarming number of accidental deaths and injuries to folks throughout the nation.

EXPERIENCES show that accidents strike people in all walks of life, regardless of age, occupation, finances, time or plan, even here in our own community. The expenses of accidents are costly and few families are prepared to meet such expenses. While the policy cannot possibly be expected to pay all accident expenses, it definitely provides tremendous financial assistance.

This newspaper commends this outstanding service designed by Old Republic Life Insurance Company of Chicago. Application may be made at Paddock Publications office, 217 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights, or by using the handy application form appearing in the newspaper. (BB

Economist Forecasts Expanding Car Market

Expanding purchasing power, changing social trends, and the need for a second car in some 15 million homes are factors moving into reality a 7.5 million annual passenger car market in the United States, Arno H. Johnson, vice president and senior economist of J. Walter Thompson Company, New York, declared Monday. The 1961 production totaled approximately 5.9 million cars.

Addressing a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Metropolitan Ford Dealers Association at the Drake Hotel, Johnson said analysis of the changing economic picture indicates the car market expansion would get under way in the next decade if "vigorous education and selling efforts translate latent needs into insistent demand."

IN A BREAKDOWN of the estimated passenger car potential, Johnson listed the minimum annual replacement at 4.8 million cars. He estimated an additional 700,000 cars from non-owners, 600,000 from new family formations, and 1,500,000 from new two-car families. He regards the replacement market figure as "far too conservative."

Rapidly rising incomes of millions of families, he explained, influence them to take on the desires and habits of those who are now in the income groups above $5,000, which number nearly doubled from 14.4 million families in 1950 to 26.4 million in 1960.

"By 1972," Johnson observed, "our total production of goods and services in the United States should grow to over $835 billion in terms of June, 1961, prices compared with the $516 billion level in mid-1961."

ARNO JOHNSON

To support this growth, he pointed out, consumer sales must expand about $200 billion to a total of $536 billion from $336 billion in 1961, an increase of over 60 per cent. The $835 billion production by 1972, he said, should provide about $670 billion of personal income for consumers, an average of $10,150 per household for the 66 million households we are expected to have in 1972.

"Market analysis," Johnson said, "of the new and changed conditions of purchasing power and real need for automobiles indicates a potential market for over 7.5 million new cars annually for many years to come." (BB

Recently it has been reported that various cures have been found for Dutch Elm disease. Unfortunately, these reports are not based on fact. Several promising materials are being tested by experiment stations throughout the U. S.

The process of evaluation requires laboratory testing of the materials on the fungus which causes the disease. Materials which prevent growth of the fungus are tried on trees which have been inoculated with the fungus to see if the trees will absorb the material in sufficient quantities to stop the progress of the disease. No material has successfully passed this rigorous test.

LAY PERSONS in various parts of the country have claimed that trees treated with various chemicals have been cured. However, these persons have failed to show that the trees were actually infected with Dutch Elm disease before treatment.

Even with sufficient evidence that the tree was actually infected and survived after treatment, this fact could be attributed as positively to chance as to the treatment. Single cases of cure are not sufficient evidence on which to base recommendations. Until a sure cure is found, the best way to protect elm trees is with proper sanitation measures (prompt removal of dead or dying elms) and an intelligent preventative spray program. The recommended spray is DDT or the safer Methoxychlor, applied before the buds swell in spring. The small twigs must be thoroughly covered. Once the leaves come out the possibility of covering the small branches is reduced. Summer sprays are of little, if any, value and are not recommended.

Much publicity about Dutch elm disease and lack of proper information make the home owner easy prey for unscrupulous "tree experts" with quick cures, or for tree removal crews looking for a quick "buck."

DO NOT BUY any quick cures for Dutch elm disease. Do not cut down a living elm tree not shown by laboratory analysis to be infected with Dutch elm disease.

When in doubt, call on established, reliable nurserymen or your county farm adviser's office. (BB

After the dark, dreary days this winter, some fresh flowers in the home are a cheery sight. Many of the spring flowers can easily be forced indoors before they bloom naturally outside.

Forsythia, pussywillow, redbud, and cornelian cherry are some of the earliest blooming of spring shrubs. Since the flower buds are already formed, these branches can be cut and placed in water in the home. In a few days, the buds will swell and burst into bloom.

REMEMBER, if you cut all the buds off your shrubs, they will not bloom this year, so cut sparingly. Other spring flowering shrubs than the above can be forced in the home. Experiment with the shrubs in your yard and see which ones can be made to bloom by forcing.

If you have any tulip, crocus, hyacinth, or narcissus bulbs which didn't get planted last fall, they can be forced now if they have been pre-cooled by exposure to cold weather all winter. Plant the bulbs in pots; four to six bulbs in each pot. Use a soil mixture of about one-third sand and two-thirds garden loam. Water and drain the pots and set them in a cool (45-50°) dark place in the home where they can form roots and begin to grow. When the shoots come out, move the plants to a warmer, light place but not in direct sunlight. When the shoots turn green set the pots in the south window. Your local florist can supply you with pre-cooled bulbs, or, if you wish, plants already in bloom.

While you are at your florist, get your tickets for the World Flower Show, March 24-April 1, and pick up some assorted flower heads to dress up the green plants in your home. Insert the stems in "water picks" and wire them to the branches and leaves with plant ties. (BB

LessonsInEnglish

The noun SCARE is properly used in the sense of baseless general apprehension of war, or of a commercial panic. Thus: "A war scare spread over the nation," and, "The market was upset by the scare in big business." Good usage does not sanction the coloquialism, "The news gave me a scare."

Distinguish between COIFFEUR (person who dresses hair) and COIFFURE (the result of his labor).

"As though" and "as if" are given equal sanction by the highest authorities. Thus: "He acts as though (or, as if) he were angry."

'Showboat' Moves Into Full-Time Rehearsal

With the signing of Jim Hughes as director of acting for the forthcoming production of "Showboat," the Best Off Broadway Players, Inc. have been able to move into a full-time rehearsal schedule.

Jim Hughes, 1882 Sycamore, Des Plaines, is well known in this area for his years of experience with Des Plaines Theatre Guild, Chevy-Chase Players and Palatine Players. He is a graduate of Goodman Theatre. Hughes says, "With a cast of over 50 and the show coming up so quickly," he's happy to have such a cooperative cast and proud to have the first act blocked.

Carla Knickrehm, 24 W. 410 Lake St., Roselle, is the choreographer. Mrs. Knickrehm has had ballet training since 3½ years of age. She teaches in her own "Classique Ballet School" in Roselle.

THE orchestra and chorus for "Showboat is under the direction of Ray Chiorgno. He received his Master of Science in Music and Administration at Texas A. & I. in Kingville. Chiorgno is the Band Director at the Barrington Consolidated High School where "Showboat" will be presented on May 11, 12, and 13.

Sue Cook, 237 Kimberley Road, Barrington, has been cast as Magnolia, the female romatic lead. Mrs. Cook has been singing and studying voice since age 14. Her vast experience includes voice training and appearances in Bennington College, Northwestern University, Williams College Musical, and The Bach Choir of Evanston.

Gaylord Ravenal, played by Jack Staley 3608 Pheasant, Rolling Meadows, is the corresponding romatic lead to Magnolia.

PROFESSIONALLY he had his own radio program in San Diego, Cal., was featured singer with Saxy Dowell's Band and was singer and dancer with The Dorothy Hild Troupe at Edgewater Beach Hotel for 2½ years.

Captain Andy Hawks and Parthy Hawks are played by George Bull and Vera Karst, respectively. Bull joined the Players group with "Annie Get Your Gun" last fall. He lives at 1758 S. Brockway, Palatine and is a charter member of Town and Country Chorus.

Mrs. Karst, of 132 S. Ashland, Palatine also appeared in "Annie" as Sylvia Potter Porter. Mrs. Karst sang the alto leads in several American Legion Variety Musicals in Hill City, Kansas.

ALLEN SHIELDS, 524 Elm Ridge Road, Carpentersville, has been cast for the comic lead of Frank. Shields' varied background includes comic and romantic leads in High School and College.

Pat Lemker, 1175 S. Division St., Barrington will be playing the comic female lead of Ellie in "Showboat." This is her first lead part in a musical. She has sung alto in the High School chorus.

Rita Delory, 808 S. William St., Mount Prospect, and Don Heyden, 500 W. Hellen Road, Palatine have the corresponding roles of Julie and Steve. Mrs. Delory has had a wealth of soloing and choir experience plus several years of private voice training. Heyden is best remembered for his protrayal of Richard Sherman in "The Seven Year Itch" Palatine Players, Inc. production.

MARGE COLLINS, 418 N. Fairview Ave., Mount Prospect, plays the part of Queenie. Mrs. Collins is secretary of BOB Players and played the role of Nellie Forbush in "South Pacific." Marge is a dancer and did the choreography for "Annie" and "South Pacific".

Joe will be played by George Henkel, 316 W. Main, Barrington. Henkel is the vocal music director of the Barrington Consolidated High School and has made over 50 personal appearances singing for dedications, clubs and general singing engagements. He has sung with the St. Louis Municipal Opera Company in a variety of type parts.

Membership chairman Barbara Stevenson, 415 N. Forest, Mount Prospect says, "Membership to the BOB Theatre group is open to anyone from ages 16-62. Those interested in working backstage are cordially invited."

Rehearsals are held at St. Philip's Episcopal Church, 342 E. Wood St., Palatine. For further information call 381-0600, FL 8-0156, or CL 3-6828.

DEBBIE REYNOLDS stars with Steve Forrest, Andy Griffith, Juliet Prowse, and Thelma Ritter in "The Second Time Around," Technicolor comedy which opens Sunday at the Catlow Theatre, Barrington. (Bill

Readings, Skits on Bill For Village Theatre Meet

Village Theatre will hold its monthly meeting tonight (March 8) at 8:15 at Park School in Arlington Heights.

The educational workshop has planned a varied evening for members, guests and visitors. Scotty Schinke, who has become known for her readings, will do a monologue and a play cutting.

IN ADDITION to Mrs. Schinke's performance, Shirley Freeman will direct Lois Drum and Don Jennings in skits from a well-known play.

Heading the list of Most-Needed People in Village Theatre is Joan Grisell, head of the play-reading committee. Each year she and her group read their way through a mountainous stack of scripts.

The committee begins with about one hundred plays and by a thoughtful process of elimination reduces this number to the four which will be presented the following season.

SETS, FOR example, are a major consideration in a theatre group which does not have electronic moving devices. Therefore a one-set play has precedence over one which requires many sets, although a play is never rejected solely on this basis.

Above all, the play must suit the audience, and Village Theatre has tried to find plays the group feels will be most enjoyable to its patrons.

At tonight's meeting, the names of the plays which have been selected for next season will be announced, and a resume of each presented. (Bill

THIS SCENE from the upcoming Village Theatre presentation, "We Must Kill Toni," shows Miss Richards, portrayed by Hazel Peck, interviewing the much-harried Toni, played by Ann Hume. The play will be presented at Prospect High School theater March 16, 17 and 18. Ticket information is available at CL 9-3200. The monthly meeting of the theater group will be held tonight (Thursday) at Park School in Arlington Heights. (Bill

Grand Old Man

It struck me as incomprehensible that I should be allowed to lead such a happy life when so many people were wrestling with care and suffering.—Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

'Desperate Hours' Begins 3-Week Run

"The Desperate Hours," Des Plaines Theatre Guild's fourth production of the season, opens a three-weekend run with performances Friday and Saturday nights, March 9 and 10, at 8:30 p.m. in Rand Park Fieldhouse, 2025 Miner St. (U. S. 14), Des Plaines.

Herbert Gegenhuber, 142 S. Pine St., Palatine, and Mrs. Beverly Adams, 437 S. Elmhurst Road, Mount Prospect, are included in the cast of this exciting drama about a family held captive by three escaped convicts for several terrifying hours.

"The Desperate Hours" by Joseph Hayes, was a 1955 hit on Broadway starring Nancy Coleman and Karl Malden with Paul Newman. It has also been acclaimed as a novel, movie and television drama. Des Plaines Theatre Guild's production is directed by former New York City actor and director, Bill Silverman.

Performances of "The Desperate Hours" will also be given Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights, March 16, 17, and 18, and again March 23 and 24 at Rand Park. Tickets may be secured at Words and Music, 1507 Ellinwood, Des Plaines, or by calling Jane Clark, VA 4-8019.

HERBERT Gegenhuber of Palatine plays the role of State Policeman Jesse Bard in "The Desperate Hours." This is his first role in a Des Plaines Theatre Guild production, but he appeared with the Palatine Players in "Stalag 17" and "Arsenic and Old Lace."

Beverly Adams, a newcomer to Mount Prospect, played the role of the Admiral's daughter in the last Guild production, "Golden Fleecing." In "The Desperate Hours," Mrs. Adams portrays a role she is preparing to assume in real life, that of a young school teacher. (Bill

Round Table #1 . . . page 8

"What About Fallout Shelters in the Suburbs?" This question was the obvious choice for the first topic in our Round Table series, in the course of which we plan to get local, firsthand reports on subjects of vital concern to the 50,000,000 of us who live in the suburbs. We queried a panel of editors and publishers of suburban newspapers selected from various parts of the country and then asked reporter George Fielding Eliot to pull together the answers. In future issues we will hold similar Round Tables on other problems, such as air and water pollution, open spaces, and public health.

Spring Sewing . . . page 10

There's still plenty of time left before the spring holidays to send for the printed patterns—created by four famous designers for us alone—and sew yourself a new wardrobe. Estévez' coat-and-dress ensemble, Davidow's three-piece suit, Hulitar's sheath, and Gothé's dress with jacket will adapt beautifully to a variety of silks, cottons, and lightweight wools.

Everything's Coming Up Rosy . . . page 18

This year, says garden editor John Brimer, why not produce a perfectly pink garden, from the first spring flowers to frost. It's tricky, but there's great fun in watching the results.

Playwright Ben Hecht ("Twentieth Century," "The Front Page"), lives in suburban Nyack, New York, and has a beautiful daughter named Jenny, 18. Mr. Hecht recalls for us, this month, what it was like watching Jenny grow up and what he learned from her composure, wonder, and joy of living.

WHATEVER ELSE he plans to do this year to mark the occasion, it's a pretty safe bet that on St. Patrick's Day Warren Weber will not be giving out any free car washes to green automobiles. Mr. Weber, who owns a chain of automatic car washes in Manchester and Wethersfield, Connecticut, offered to wash, free, any all-green car between the hours of 8:00 a. m., and 5:30 p.m., last March 17. At closing time, that fateful day, the dazed Mr. Weber discovered his organization had washed 1,600 automobiles, or $3,000 worth of greenery.

GETTING AROUND

Mrs. Jeanne K. Barnett, of Alexandria, Virginia, writes to tell us about a government employee friend of hers who has found an ingenious way to avoid morning-traffic jams on the bridges leading from his Montgomery County, Maryland, home to his office in Langley, Virginia. He simply bought a canoe. Now each morning, while others fight the traffic, he parks his car near the Potomac River, paddles across in his boat, and strolls leisurely through the woods to his nearby office.

Here's a great idea that should comfort any Dade County and Broward County, Florida, mothers who may have to spend some time in Miami's Mercy Hospital. Although the rules against children visiting in their parents' rooms are still strictly enforced, the hospital has rigged up a closed-circuit television system whereby a child takes a seat in the reception room and a tv camera in the ceiling picks up his image and beams it to a set by his mother's bedside. He and Mom then visit on the telephone, while Mom watches him on the screen. The youngster, in turn, sees himself on a monitor, so it's great fun all around.

Whenever he misses home, all he has to do is whip out his letter and read it for a few days. It all started some time ago when two of Airman Blakely's pen pals decided to start a letter to him on a roll of wallpaper. Everyone who came into the house was invited to add to the letter, which finally turned into a long chronicle of recent events in the lives of Airman Blakely's family, neighbors, and contemporaries. The pen pals then rolled up the wallpaper, put it in a cylinder (after filling the empty space with a candy and nut dividend), and sent it off to the lucky serviceman stationed way around on the other side of the world.

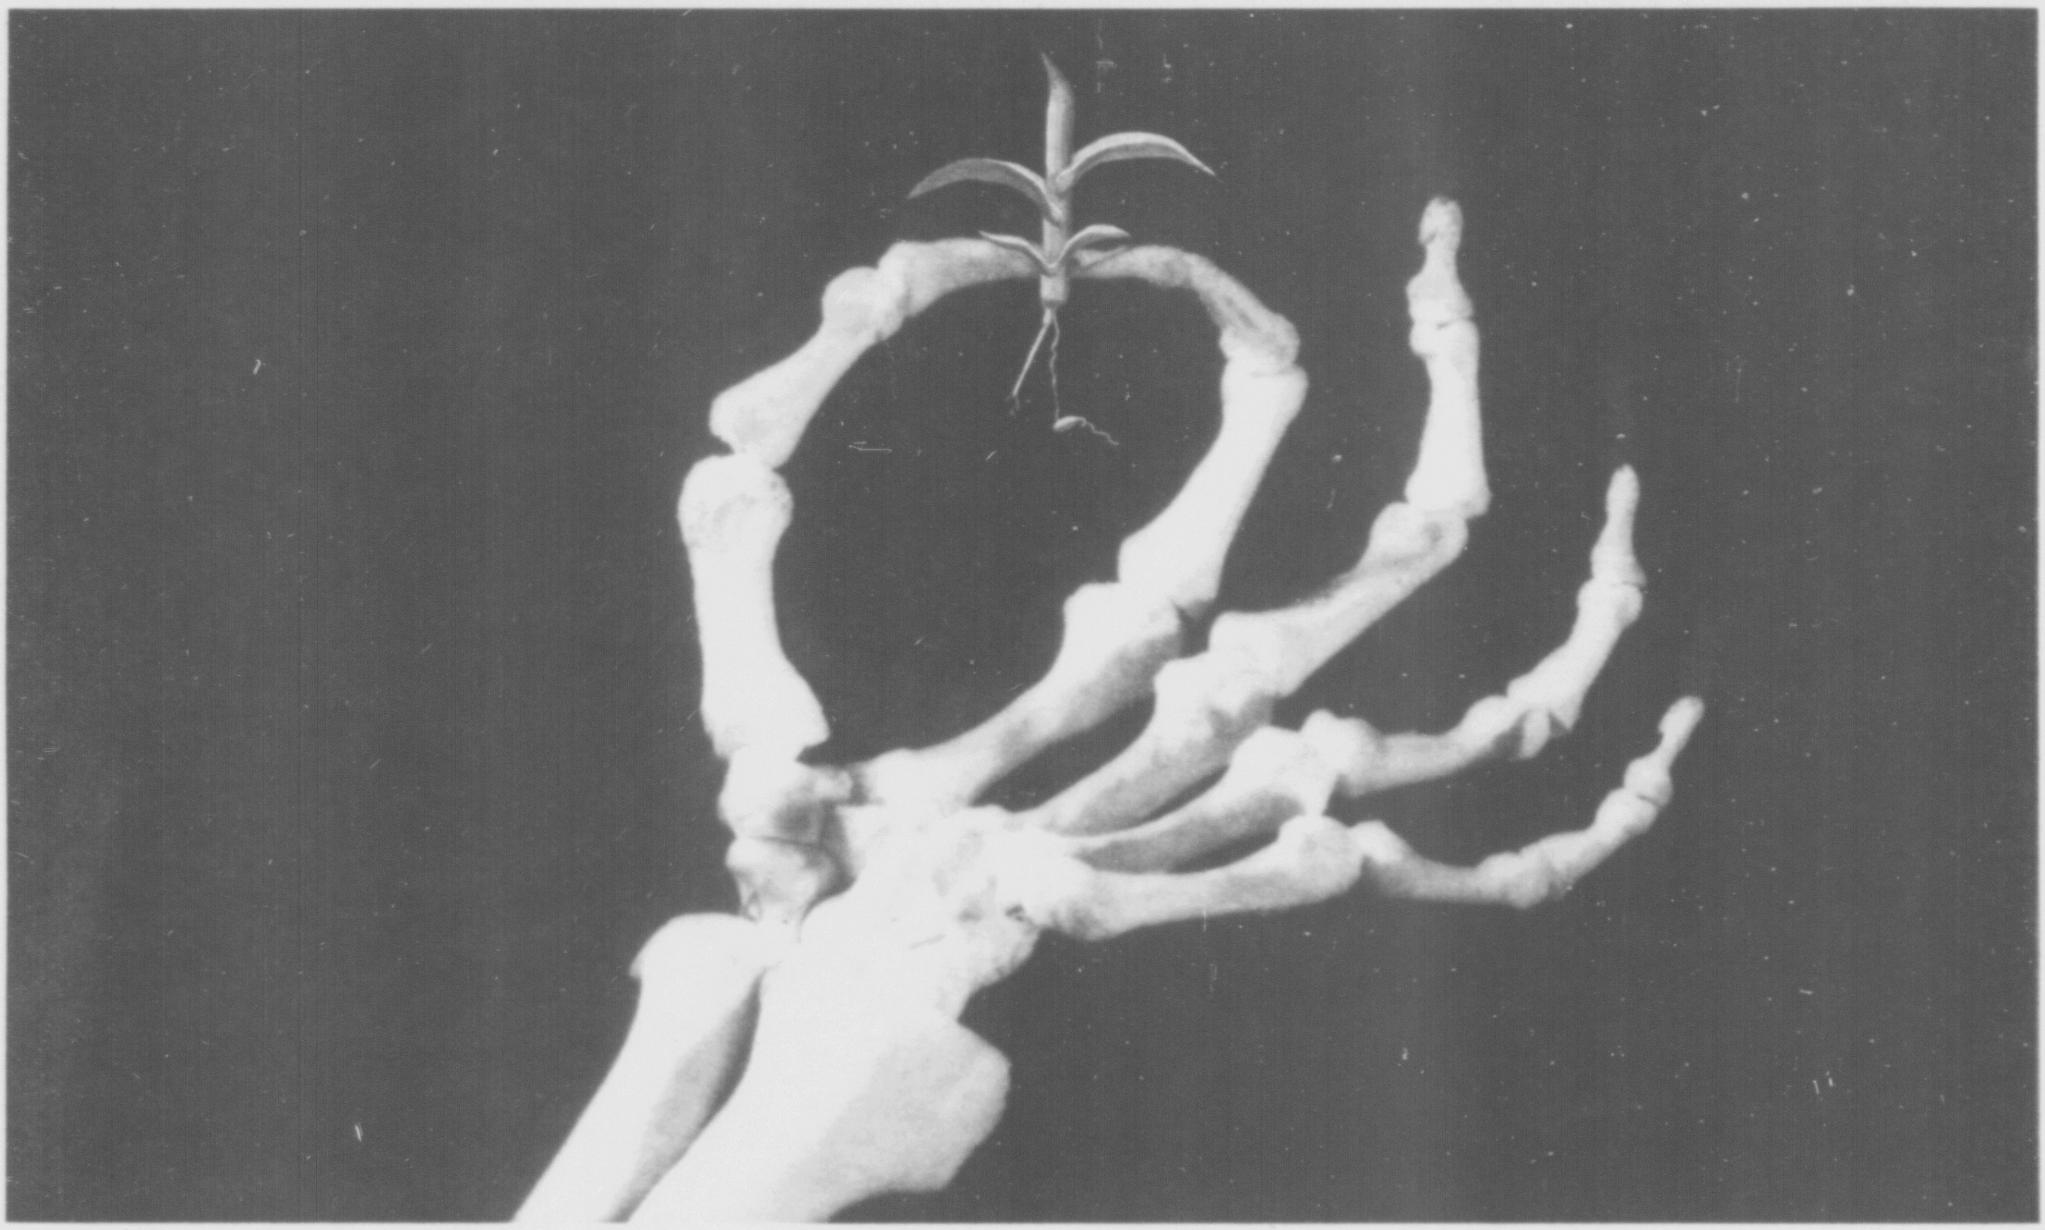
Dacthal Proved 95-100% "Sure Kill" in University-Controlled Tests



DON'T BUY ANY CRABGRASS KILLER

...till you know it contains Dacthal, the Sure-to-Kill Ingredient

Like a mysterious, underground killing force, DACTHAL kills crabgrass seeds as they germinate . . . keeps them from ever becoming noxious weeds in your lawn. Does not damage the "good" grass.

The best crabgrass killers contain DACTHAL herbicide. Be wise. Buy only a crabgrass killer that has the words "CONTAINS DACTHAL" on the front of the package. Agricultural experiment stations from coast to coast tested DACTHAL—proved it killed 95%-100% of all germinating crabgrass seeds in treated turf. One application effective. Effective against other weeds, too—carpetweed, yellow foxtail, purslane, common chickweed, lamb's quarters, and witch grass.

Make sure you see the DACTHAL name on a crabgrass killer before you buy. Diamond Alkali Company, 300 Union Commerce Building, Cleveland 14, Ohio.

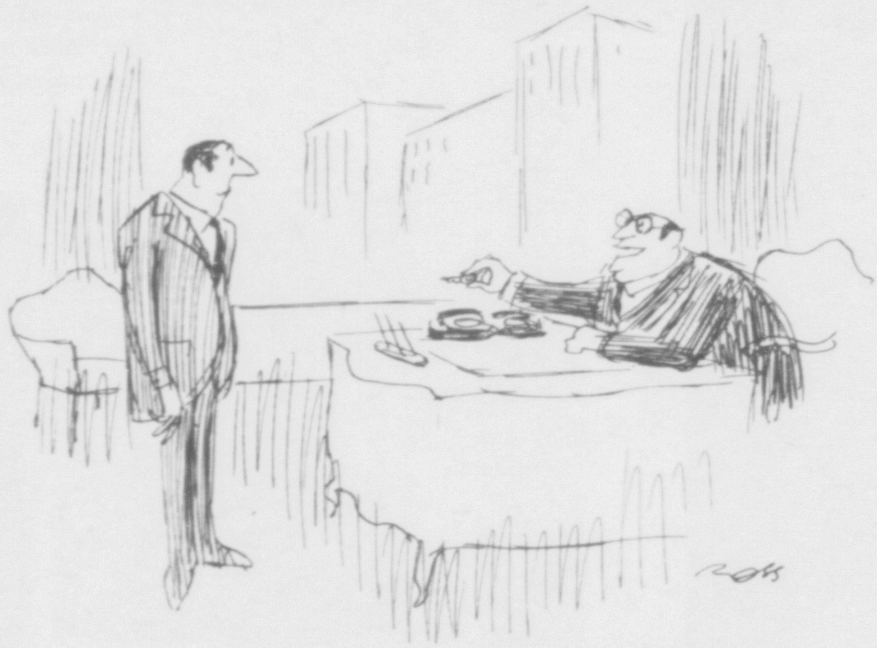
Shelters in the Suburbs?

first Round Table on the questions that concern 50,000,000 of us

Ohio) on civil defense—"a billion-dollar boondoggle." Another, following the same approach, feared that once everyone had shelter against fallout, there would develop irresistible demands for shelter against blast and fire—to satisfy which might absorb the bulk of our national resources, wrecking both our military power and the economy that supports it. Another comment inquired what was the real difference between "death-day now and death-day two weeks or three weeks from now—if the bombs come, we're all lost." One meeting called to consider shelter building wound up with everyone present taking refuge in song—"We'll all go together when we go."

There was a tendency to prefer community shelters to private (do-it-yourself) shelters, as likely to give better protection. Also, "There'll be some sort of leadership, some emergency skills in a group, people will come out better prepared to face what comes next." This opinion wasn't universal. Three comments pointed out that ill or otherwise handicapped people might not be able to get to a community shelter. One southern lady cherished family privacy—"No enemy is going to compel me and mine to tend to our basic bodily functions in public for two minutes, let alone two weeks." Another, owner of a cooperative apartment in California, said firmly: "I'll take my chances with fallout sooner than be cooped up for two weeks with the rest of the people in this house."

There was concern as to what would happen if the warning came when the family was separated—children at school, father at work, mother out shopping, etc. Would everyone be able to get home and into the shelter in time? A suggestion: Each family should have alternate meeting points arranged, so that if they were separated by having to take shelter in different places, their reunion could be assured after the danger had passed. Other comments touched on the question of whether the owner of a family shelter has the right to turn away shelterless neighbors. Of a group of West Coast ministers queried by a suburban daily, half said No, 11% said Yes, the others seemed uncertain. A southern comment: "How safe will anyone be in a private shelter if there is no other, with shocked, angry, savage, hungry people outside?" Several editors noted a tendency to keep the building of private shelters secret, perhaps because of such fears as this.



"Wilson, as the newest addition to our executive staff, I hereby present you with a key to the company fallout shelter."

A vocal minority opinion opposed a shelter program of any kind on the ground that once you accept the idea of shelters you are accepting the feasibility of nuclear war and reinforcing those who believe war is inevitable. All effort, in this view, should be directed toward the abolition of nuclear weapons by agreement, and the settlement of international disputes by peaceful means.

Thus, having boxed the compass of opinion, we come back to the fundamental truth—that the interests of America will best be served, not by seeking survival after nuclear attack for X% of our people but by preventing any such attack.

On balance this appears to represent a fair mean of opinion amongst the inhabitants of our suburban communities. They are aware of their vulnerability; they know that living in heavily peopled metropolitan regions increases that vulnerability to some extent. They see some sense in trying to save lives if war should come—as one editor wrote, "We would not want to have it on our conscience to advise against shelter building." But in the final analysis, the prevention of war rather than partial survival afterward is the purpose which seems likely to be given the highest priority in suburbia as elsewhere in the nation.

Editors' note: Here are the men who make up this round table on the question of fallout shelters in the suburbs—a select panel of editors and publishers of leading suburban papers chosen from communities that are representative of their regions from New England to the Coast, from Michigan to Florida. The answers to our questions were impressive in terms of concern over the problem, and just as impressive was the wide variety of opinions. A well-known reporter and military analyst gives you the gist of their findings here, against a background of the national picture as observed by the writer. We hope it will help you in reaching your own conclusions.

What About Fallout

Newspapermen report from all over the country in SUBURBIA TODAY'S

Edited by GEORGE FIELDING ELIOT

WHAT DO YOU think about building shelters in which you and your family could seek protection against radioactive fallout if a nuclear attack should be launched against this country? Should each family have its own shelter where this is possible? Should there be large community shelters? Shelters in schools and public buildings? Does the whole idea of fallout shelters represent reasonable disaster insurance, or is it an illusion, a giant boondoggle, even a cruel hoax?

We have asked newspaper people and housewives and commuters for their opinion and for a report on what their towns are doing, and their answers, from all over the country, make three points clear at once:

1. There is no solid consensus for or against a shelter program.

2. The climate of interest yo-yos with the temperature of the cold war.

3. There is a fairly widespread tendency to ascribe lack of interest to absence of strong federal direction and federal funding.

The Ready-Made Shelter

Several editors, however, noted some quickening of interest when teams of the National Shelter Survey appeared locally. The 1961 Congress appropriated federal funds for these teams to identify and mark spaces in existing buildings, tunnels, and other structures which, with minor alterations, would be suited for fallout shelters, and to stock these spaces with nonperishable rations, water, first-aid kits, and radiological detection devices. It is estimated that 50,000,000 people could be sheltered in such spaces, many of which are located in suburban areas and within easy reach.

And how many new shelters are the towns going to build, with state and federal help? As an example of the present confusion in suburban plans, consider the records of four Midwest suburban communities, all in the same county: Community No. 1 announced eagerly, "We are planning a crash program"; No. 2 cut its civil defense budget by nearly two-thirds—"No need for more"; No. 3 tripled its civil defense spending; No. 4 reported "No plan, no funds."

As the replies to our questionnaires came in, we found much controversy on one central question: Will nationwide building of fallout shelters make a nuclear attack on this country more likely, or less likely? In one form or another, this question was obviously present in the minds of many editors and others whose opinions were noted. To this reporter, who has been writing on military subjects for a third of a century, it was encouraging indeed to see how clearly, from coast to coast, people seem to understand the root-element of our nuclear defense policy: to deter the Soviet leadership, who alone can launch a nuclear attack on the United States, from ever considering such an attack by keeping them convinced that they cannot hope to escape devastating retaliation in kind.

One editor said bluntly we'd do better to spend our money for retaliatory force or for developing a reliable antimissile weapon such as the Army's projected Nike-Zeus. Other comment echoed this view. Several thought that a shelter program would downgrade our national morale—perhaps encourage the Soviet leaders in their nuclear blackmail tactics. "We're unwittingly building a panic-button psychology" . . . "If shelters become a national obsession, they'll damage American moral fiber more than communism ever could."

Yet quite a number of thoughtful replies faced up to another aspect of the problem—that if, despite the threat of our retaliatory forces, a nuclear attack does come, fallout shelters would save many lives, perhaps many millions of lives, which would otherwise be lost. There seemed general understanding that people within the blast and fire radius of a thermonuclear explosion would certainly be killed. But comparatively simple shelters could give protection against the otherwise lethal effect of radioactive fallout, which could spread over thousands of square miles, covering a far greater area than that of blast and fire. "We ought to give these people a chance," was one comment, typical of several others supporting President Kennedy's statement: "We owe that kind of insurance to our families and our country."

After Survival, What?

But what happens to these survivors when they emerge from their shelters after, say, two weeks—the period usually mentioned for allowing the worst of the fallout to deteriorate? "What kind of world will they survive into? Where will they find uncontaminated food and shelter? To whom will they turn?"

Behind such questions was apparent the feeling that fallout shelters might not mean too much unless linked with a national survival program involving far more elaborate planning and spending than is at present proposed. Two editors sent clippings quoting Senator Stephen M. Young (D.,

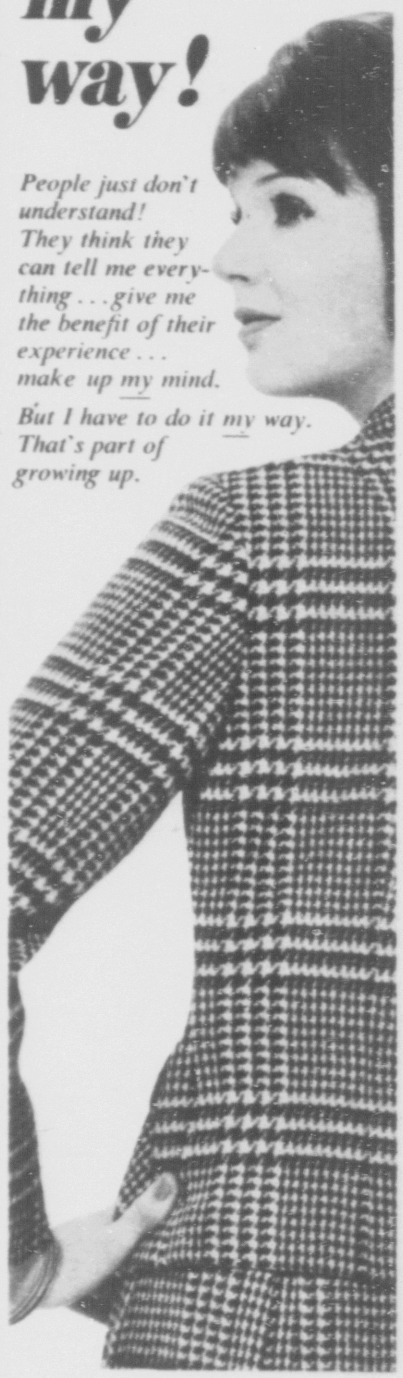
I have to do it my way!

People just don't understand! They think they can tell me everything . . . give me the benefit of their experience . . . make up my mind. But I have to do it my way. That's part of growing up.



Along the road to growing up, many girls face the Tampax decision. It's a very personal decision, and one that the girl must make herself. Certainly no one else can insist that a girl use Tampax, if she doesn't want to. If she does want to, it's because she realizes the advantages of internal sanitary protection are very real. Invisible in place. No belts, pins, pads. No bulk, no odor, no disposal problems. Can be worn while bathing or showering. Almost eliminates differences in days of the month.

NO BELTS NO PINS NO PADS NO ODOR

Tampax* is far and away the leading brand of internal protection. Made of pure surgical cotton, lock-stitched for safety. Fastidiously guarded by a satin-smooth applicator. Nicer, neater, easier to use. Your choice of 3 absorbency sizes (Regular, Super, Junior) wherever such products are sold.

Tips on

WOOD FINISHING

Floors never need rescraping

When you put the finish in the wood—not just on it—your floors will last a lifetime. Minwax goes deep into the wood . . . leaves no brittle surface to scratch or mar. You have a choice of Natural Minwax or a wide range of color tones. Maintain with liquid wax and you never have to refinish your floors.

Today's trend is to paneling

Easy-to-use Minwax brings out wood's natural beauty. Simply apply Minwax Wood Finish to the panel after sanding it thoroughly. Then add a light touch of Minwax Finishing Wax. The result is a rich, hand-rubbed look. For authentic Colonial effects, try Cherry, Ipswich or Puritan Pine. Modern effects include Driftwood, Straw or Spruce Gray.

Unfinished furniture

Minwax imparts a rich, warm glow to unfinished furniture . . . cabinets . . . new shelves and wood trim. Choose wood with uniform grain and sand silk-smooth. Finish as above in your choice of Minwax quick-drying colors.

For over 50 years Minwax Wood Finishes have been the standard of quality with architects, custom builders and antique dealers. Also economical and easy to use are Minwax Finishing Wax, liquid or paste, and that wonderful new repair stick for surface scratches — Blend-Fil.

ESTÉVEZ' coat and dress (below and bottom), a lovely ensemble—or they can be worn separately. The coat has a cape effect because of the deep side pleats and is designed with optional slits at the waist through which the dress's wide belt may be passed. The dress has a jacket effect in back and a princess line in front. Coat-M134, dress-M116.

We Have These Slides

Hi, Ethel! Hi, Fred! Come in!
Just put your coats right here.
You're a sight for sore eyes . . .
Well, we have a surprise—
Now, just let me tell them, dear.

We've been on a tour of the world!
We've been on a marvelous trip!
And we have slides which portray
Our seventeen-day
Cruise on a luxury ship!

Hm? . . . Well, we have these slides, as I say.
No—we're not playing bridge, as expected,
For since someone must look
At the pictures we took,
You and Fred are elected.

[Slight pause]

The first slide is in!
The fun can begin!
Just douse that light, will you, Freddie?
Are you folks all set?
Pull your head back, my pet . . .
Okay. I think we're all ready.

[First slide]

Now, this is St. Thomas . . . St. John? . . . No! St. Croix!
As you see, the bay is quite brown.
Our ship pulled in here—
What's that you say, dear? . . .
It's a picture of you, upside down?

[Second slide]

We saw the Bahamas;
We rode upon llamas;
We climbed up Las Los in the dark.
We viewed Martinique;
We had tea with a sheik—
And that's me with one foot on a shark.

[Third slide]

We ran into Milton
At the Guadeloupe-Hilton—
His head is cut off, but that's him!
Boy! That's the life!
And—who? . . . Oh. That's his—er—wife.
They were just going in for a swim.

[One hour passes]

Well, we have plenty more
(Did I hear someone snore?)
But how did you like the first fifty?
. . . Fred! . . . Wake him up, dear,
We have plenty more here
And the next two thousand are nifty!

PAELLA (Spain)

Fine sherry paired with hot clear broth makes a delightful prelude to Paella. Accompany this Spanish favorite with a salad of crisp greens lightly dressed with oil, vinegar, and a suspicion of freshly ground pepper, or a tray of relishes typical of other countries.

TO PREPARE: 25 MIN. TO COOK: 45 MIN.

- 1 cup olive oil
- 1 2-lb. broiler-fryer chicken, cut in serving-sized pieces
- ½ cup diced boiled ham or smoky sausage
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
- 2 cloves garlic, crushed in a garlic press or minced
- 2 ripe tomatoes, peeled and coarsely chopped
- 1½ lbs. fresh shrimp, shelled, deveined under running cold water, and drained
- 12 small clams in shells, shells scrubbed
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 2 cups uncooked rice
- 4 cups hot water
- 1 cup fresh or frozen green peas
- ¼ cup coarsely chopped parsley
- Few shreds saffron
- 1 rock lobster tail, cooked and meat cut in pieces or 1 pkg. frozen crab meat, thawed, drained, and bony tissue removed
- 1 7-oz. can or jar whole pimientos

1. Heat the olive oil in a paellera or a large skillet. Add chicken and ham and cook about 10 min., turning chicken to brown on all sides. Add onion and garlic and cook 2 min.

2. Add next four ingredients; cover and cook 5 to 10 min., or until clam shells open. Remove clams and keep warm.

3. Stir rice into mixture. Add water, peas, parsley, and saffron. Cover and cook 25 min., or until rice is just tender, stirring occasionally.

4. Mix in the lobster or crab meat, half of the pimiento, and the clams in shells; heat until very hot. Serve garnished with the remaining pimiento. 8 to 10 servings

Note: The ripe olive garnish in the photo is for eye-appeal.

TO PREPARE: 25 MIN.
TO BAKE: 30-35 MIN.
(allow time for rising)

- 2 pkgs. active dry yeast
- ½ cup warm water, 110°F to 115°F
- ½ cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
- ⅓ cup molasses
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 2 teaspoons caraway seed
- ½ teaspoon ground anise seed
- 1¼ cups hot water
- 3½ to 4 cups flour

2. Meanwhile, put the next six ingredients into a large bowl. Immediately pour the hot water over ingredients in bowl; stir until butter is melted.

Turn to bring greased surface to top. Cover with waxed paper and a towel and let stand in a warm place (about 80°F) until dough is doubled, about 2 hrs.

5. Punch dough down with fist, pull edges in to center and turn dough completely over in bowl. Cover and let rise again about 1½ hrs., or until nearly doubled. Punch down dough and turn onto a lightly floured surface. Divide dough in half and shape into balls.

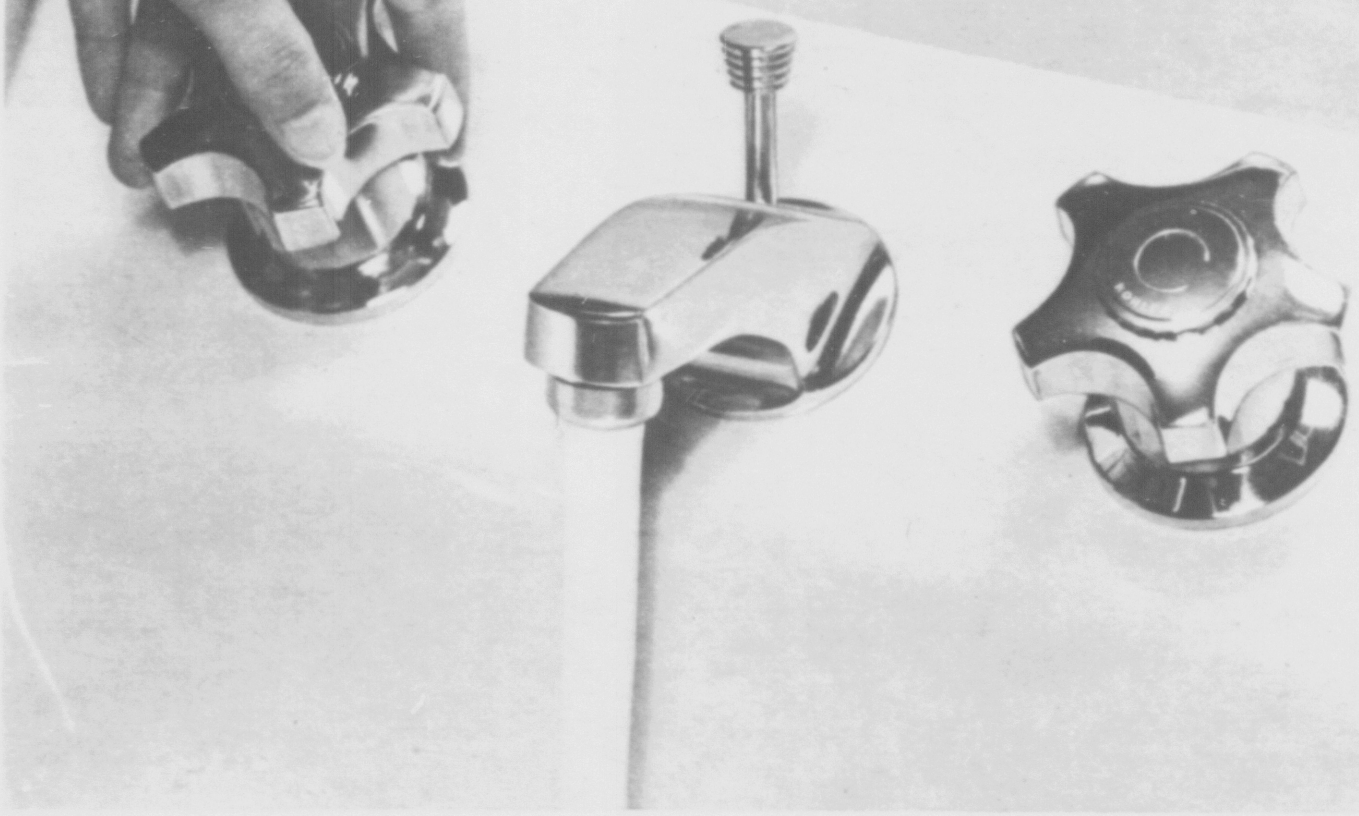
it could take years to find out why we insist on the full name... Kohler All-Brass Fittings



Under their covering of gleaming chromium there's a lot of difference in fittings (faucets, valves, drains and so forth). Among people who make fittings there is general agreement—the best are made of brass. So we won't and don't make any other kind—every Kohler fitting is a Kohler All-Brass fitting.

Everyday use proves that brass wears better. And use over the years shows that brass is highly resistant to the chemical action of water-borne minerals. It also happens to be the ideal base for the chromium finish, another lasting virtue.

All-Brass fittings fit right into the Kohler attitude toward quality. It has never even occurred to us to make a fitting that wasn't All-Brass. After all, in more than seventy-five years we've learned that quality can be built into products selling at reasonable prices.

You will find all of this true when you make Kohler All-Brass fittings your choice.

quantity ratio. This composition of color will help to tie the whole thing together.

In mixing pinks, we must remember that we have warm and cool pinks and that it is not always pleasant to place a lavender-pink next to a glowing salmon, a cyclamen-pink with a rich coral, or a scarlet beside a magenta. It is a good plan to keep to either the warm or the cool side of pink, or else to separate the two with sizeable areas of palest pastel pink. A little forethought will assure a basic harmony.

TAKE YOUR CUE from your pink-flowering trees and shrubs because they are permanent, then build your warm or cool scheme for the flower beds from there. If your garden is new, then you can choose shrubs and trees for the pink of perfection. Some you'll want to consider are: Pink-flowering dogwood or the new near-red one, Cherokee Chief. Crab apples and flowering cherries are available in a vast range—single, double, pastels, and rose-pinks to nearly red—and in heights from a few feet to about 30 feet. The Judas tree (redbud) and saucer magnolia also bloom very early in spring, while tamarix blooms in summer. Shrubs also extend bloom time from earliest spring to late summer with dozens of pink, red, and in-between shades to choose from: weigelas, flowering almond, Carl's viburnum, hawthorn, pink-flowering quince, beauty-bush, butterfly-bush, and the summer spireas, Anthony Waterer, and Billiard's. Among the broad-leaved evergreens—where these are hardy and soil is right—are found myriads of pinks: rhododendrons, azaleas and camellias offer wide choices of colors, heights, and even blooming time. For those in warm climates, hibiscus in rose-pink, salmon, peach, and red are good choices.

You can start the garden year with the early bulbs in pink: tiny chionodoxa Pink Giant, scillas in rose-pink, tiny species tulips of many kinds but particularly the cherry red and white clusiana type. There are several daf-

CRABGRASS:

How the Agrico Lawn Plan helps you wipe it out once and for all!

You can stop the annual invasion of crabgrass—and keep this crab-shaped monster out of your lawn for keeps. But you can't do it with just a crabgrass killer—not even one as effective as AGRICO PRE-EMERGENCE CRABGRASS CONTROL. Complete control—year in, year out—calls for a two-pronged attack:

1. Kill crabgrass seedlings now

They're already in your lawn—ready to sprout as the soil warms. One application of AGRICO PRE-EMERGENCE CRABGRASS CONTROL now will prevent these seedlings from becoming full-grown lawn-cheaters. AGRICO CRABGRASS CONTROL kills crabgrass even in the 2-leaf stage (about 1" high), but for best results, apply it now!

2. Next—Feed your lawn

Grass scientists say the biggest enemy of crabgrass is a thick, healthy lawn. This kind of lawn will crowd out crabgrass because this lawn-cheater needs sun, growing space and air to germinate and survive.

To build a dense lawn, you must feed it a balanced diet of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash. AGRICO GRASS FOOD (60% organic with urea-form) contains these vital elements—and more. Agrico gives you up to 30% more lawn foods per bag than many other fertilizers. So Agrico feeds grass longer. Be careful of short-lasting fertilizers that give out just when crabgrass is at full striking power.

This 2-step, common sense approach assures you a good healthy lawn that can keep crabgrass out. Agrico products are formulated for your local soil and climate in our 39 plants. They go through all spreaders—settings are on every bag.

Agrico Lawn Plan for Spring

First—make sure all your grass is exposed to sun and air by vigorous raking.

Next—feed with AGRICO GRASS FOOD for early dense growth.

Same day, apply AGRICO CRABGRASS CONTROL. For best results, the soil should not be disturbed following this application.

Water deeply; mow no lower than 1½". Bents and southern grasses should be cut ¾" to 1" high.

If you're re-seeding, seed at a heavy rate—3 to 4 weeks after applying Crabgrass Control.

Insects or weeds? Use AGRICO INSECT CONTROL or AGRICO WEED CONTROL.

Get AGRICO where garden supplies are sold. If your store is not stocked yet, write: The American Agricultural Chemical Company, New York 7, New York.

common sense approach to lawn beauty: Agrico® LAWN PLAN

You can have nothing but pink in your garden and still have plenty of variety, masses of color

Keeping Your Garden "in

HAVE YOU EVER tried sticking to just one color in your garden, from the first spring flowers to frost? It's tricky but rewarding, and once you work out a good scheme you can get the greatest variety and ring the most appealing changes on it.

Let us take pink — not only because it is color news at the moment, but also because it offers such a wide choice, such a range of possible combinations and subtleties.

First come the annuals, since they should be planted early to get the showiest possible bloom in all areas. Let us begin with the brand-new pink Polynesian Zinnia for the center of the bed—it grows 2 to 2½ feet tall—and work outward from there. It is a "hot" pink, Cut-And-Come-Again zinnia, so we shall choose Salmon Rose, of the same class, to place harmoniously beside it. In front of them, let's put Peach Blossom and Salmon Lilliput zinnias, growing to 18 inches; and let us edge the bed with 12-inch dwarf bedding petunias: Peach Red, Fire Chief, or Cheerful, the first two in warm red shades and the last in salmon-pink. Backing up the bed, we shall use the 4-foot larkspur Steeplechase Pink (salmon-rose), 3-foot snapdragon Venus (soft pink), or cleome Pink Queen, growing to 4 feet. By now you see how to work, choosing tall, medium, and low-growing plants with flowers that are spikes, round or lacy, to give variety to the picture.

Perhaps a word of caution may be in order, though, to guide you in achieving harmony with pink. You will have noted that we have not used just one shade of pink, but that we have interpreted pink broadly so as to include pastels as well as deep tones that verge on red. This will give your flower beds considerably more impact and interest than would be the case with the one-color, one-tone scheme. Vary the quantities, too, with small "blobs" of one variety, a huge one of another, and a medium-sized quantity of a third, repeating the varieties in another part of the border or garden but reversing or changing the author of "The Front Page," "Twentieth Century," "To Quito and Back," "A Child of the Century," "Charlie," etc.

Are We Wiser Than Our Children?

We've got a lot to learn at their knees, says this famous playwright (and devoted suburban father)

BY BEN HECHT

At home in Nyack, New York—Ben Hecht and his girl, who has been an example to him since she was nine.

I'LL SKIP what sort of a fellow I was prior to the improvements introduced by my daughter Jenny, except for one item. I was an adult (not entirely); rather, I had acquired an Adult World. I had tacked it on to my character, willy-nilly, with the years.

This Adult World is an odd structure. It is called Wisdom and Judgment, which it is, sometimes. It is also a shantytown of arthritic notions and lopsided whims.

As we move deeper and deeper into this patchwork world of adulthood, one certainty sustains our ego—that we are wiser than our children, know more about living (and everything else) than they do. Never mind our ever-increasing murder and divorce rates, lunacy and suicide statistics; our staggering load of prejudices, frustrations, regrets, and atom bombs. Never mind the fact that juveniles, although they play a bit with matches, have never set fire to the world, never started a war; that they have never darkened the earth with injustice or confused it by writing bad books. Whatever the facts, we adults are, if nothing else, smarter than our kids. And one of our most important functions is to guide them—to become like us.

Also very potent in most adults is the notion that children are an alien breed, startling and incomprehensible and misinformed. No memories of their own childhood are in such adults. The child-they-were has been removed from their consciousness as completely as a troublesome gall bladder is plucked out of their interior by a surgeon. And they are the surgeons.

Jenny began pointing out to me the many flaws and fallacies of adulthood when she was nine. She used no books and indulged in no lectures. She enlightened solely by example.

I NOTED that my daughter was able to fall asleep without the aid of barbiturates, bottled beer, or deep massage. I noted that she never boasted or told lies, that she never wasted any time trying to earn anyone's esteem. I noted that she was fond of nearly everyone she met (under 12) with the exception of a few boys whose legs were too fat or who couldn't do any tricks on her trapeze. I had rigged one up in her bedroom, a sort of memorial to my early career (at 14) as a performer in a small-time circus.

I noted also that Jenny believed happily in God, although neither I nor her mother Rose had ever urged her on; that she was able to entertain herself by merely running down the beach—we lived then on the sea front in Oceanside, California.

I noted that she had almost no prejudices or fears. She had earned the companionship of an eight-foot snake. This had required sitting for two days in front of the snake's small cave and playing tunes to it on her recorder. She appeared triumphantly for lunch with her eight-foot admirer coiled around her neck.

I noted that she preferred lying lonely on the sunny beach to meeting a parlor full of celebrities; that each day that dawned was like a surprise party; that when anyone started talking global politics and the chances for a World War III, Jenny always left the premises. And I began to note that she considered herself a sort of Empire of One in which all newspapers and other information dispersers were an intrusion.

And there was no greed in her for money or awards of any kind. She was engaged only in the feat of living. The only emotion that marked her day was gratitude. Her belief in God was mainly her gratitude for His having created so many things of wonder for her to enjoy.

Noting these and other fine points, I began an ego inventory. I decided, after this stock taking, that I was less in-

Why so shy, little one?

bringing up baby®
Hints collected by Mrs. Dan Gerber, Mother of 5

Even the friendliest baby may suddenly turn shy at the sight of a relative or friend whom he's cheerfully accepted before. (Usually a passing stage at 5 months of age.) One reason for this shyness may be the fact that baby has come to realize that other people are different from mother. Your baby knows he can count on you . . . he's not sure about the others. Suggested helps:

- Let baby study visitors from the "protective custody" of your arms. A favorite hold-toy provides added security.
- If you tell cuddle-loving friends to hold off 'til baby makes his own advances, chances are he'll socialize sooner.

Shy babies or sociable babies benefit from the special care the Gerber people take to make quality, nourishing foods. Mr. Dan Gerber gives you an example of Gerber care:

Fruits with a college education. "It may seem strange, but in many cases Gerber Strained and Junior Fruits do get the benefit of a college education. Gerber Agricultural Researchers work with agricultural colleges and growers to improve orchards, growing methods and the quality of your baby's fruits. What's more, once harvested, the fruit must pass rigid 'entrance examinations' for juiciness, ripeness, flavor and color."

Two new Gerber delights for your darling:

1. Strained Orange-Apricot Juice, a delightful companion to the 6 other Gerber Juices. Delicate and distinctive in flavor . . . high in vitamin C. And if baby hasn't yet tried Gerber Apple-Cherry Juice, why not treat him to this delightful sipping pleasure.

2. Gerber Meat Sticks. The perfect finger food for toddlers. Made from selected Armour Pork and Beef, nonfat dry milk solids, they're extra rich in body-building protein. Mildly seasoned for wonderful flavor . . . low in fat for easy digestibility. ARMOUR

"Play with your baby," say the child specialists. Aside from the fun baby gets from participation, 2-way games help teach him the 3 big C's: concentration, co-ordination, co-operation. Then too, if baby learns to play with you, he's less apt to be shy when others want to play with him.

Important: Gerber makes over 100 baby foods: cereals, strained and junior, to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

"Babies are our business . . . our only business!"

bragging; to my prejudices and battle for esteem. But I could look on my flaws with Jenny's eyes and thereby edit and lessen them.

Now that Jenny is 18, she has less to teach me. She is coming to Broadway in a play called "Simone." She plays the part in it of a little girl in the France of 1942 who dreams that she is Joan of Arc. Watching her rehearse, noting her devotion to her first big theatrical chore, my heart applauds something other than her talent as an actress.

I note in the 18-year-old-Jenny that her childhood is still half her soul, that its ways still guide her. And I have one deep wish for her—that she remain herself rather than change into an adult who never knew her.

I have written sincerely, for I think one of the world's chief sicknesses is its divorce from the memory of youth.

I have an increased faith in the prospect of peace because our President has two young children. What fine collaborators for a statesman! Two wells of truth, two admirers of life, two aficionados of sky, sun, moon, wind, and earth.

TO SUM UP—instead of us adults tackling the problem of how to raise our children, a more profitable activity lies in letting our young ones lure us out of our habits of mis-living. I imagine that I taught Jenny many things during her first 10 years. She was an accomplished eavesdropper, which is always an important branch of learning for the young. But her return instruction makes us even as educators.

I'm sure that mothers of girls will find my "revelation" naïve. For good mothers enroll automatically as pupils of their children and keep young and wise by basking in the spirit of their offspring. My message, however, is not for them. It's for fathers. It's this—note your daughter's virtues—the ones you had no hand implanting in her. Observe her superior use of daylight, her disdain for cluttering her head and heart. Take heed of her childhood, and you will find she has vastly more to give you than you have to offer her.

"Class dismissed," says Jenny, "and stop mooning about childhood. We both have a play to get going on the stage. And I'd appreciate your most adult aid."

If you love children, your heart will go out to Tommy Littleraven, a 9-year-old American Indian boy who is attending school off the reservation for the first time. Going to school in town frightens Tommy. He is afraid that his non-Indian schoolmates are laughing at his tattered clothing, at his faulty English.

He yearns to join the school club, to buy personal books, clothing, go out for a soda with the other boys. But his parents are too poor to give him pocket money. And so Tommy wanders off by himself and dreams that someday he will have the money to do what his non-Indian schoolmates do.

if you love children

Make a dream come true! You, your school or group can make this dream come true for an Indian child like Tommy. Contribute $10 a month and provide one Indian youngster with suitable clothing, personal books and a cash allowance. You will receive the photograph and story of the child you help and enjoy a warm person-to-person relationship through an exchange of letters. Please give one Indian youngster an even break—and the sense of security and confidence he needs to join the mainstream of American life.

Fabled Dining In Minutes

Now the world's legendary banquet dishes are ready to heat and serve and so astonishingly good they were cheered as "a milestone" by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and saluted from coast to coast.

Just minutes away from your table, for instance, is the noble Beef Stroganoff of old Imperial Russia. "Generous thick slices of tender beef . . . sauce thick with mushrooms, flavored delicately with sherry," drooled the Seattle Times. "A natural for a buffet supper", suggested the NY Herald Tribune.

Famous Foods of the World make magnificent dining for guests, an inspired change for the family. Three generous servings of Stroganoff, Italy's Chicken Cacciatore or Swedish Köttbullar cost less than a dollar. Try them soon, and the two remarkable soups as well. Live gloriously!

formed than Jenny in many human matters. I was full of useless indignations, immodesties, boastfulness. And, worst of all, one of my basic attitudes was that of winning the esteem of people who meant nothing to me.

There came to me then a revelation I still cherish—the perfection of youth and the imperfection of adulthood. It was not a new sign in the heavens that I saw, for I had chronicled the revelation first when Jenny was three days old. I had written it in a preface to my book, "A Guide for the Bedevilled," as follows—

To Jenny, Aged 3 Days

Old woman, were you ever like my daughter, newly born?
Old man, did such contentment ever star your brow?
What a difference appears to all the world when I look on my daughter, newly born.
Where is the world gone that has lost her face?
I marvel that statesmen once had hands so small and spirits so divine.
I marvel that warriors came all to being with a helpless, trusting gurgle much like hers.
I marvel that all the crude, half-mad, half-evil cry of men with things embattled—began thus,
Began with soft enthusiasm for nothing but the air and light;
Began with graceful look at things unknown,
Began with clear eyes and with tiny, clownish innocence believing in the warmth of God.
All the soldiers dying were like her,
All the angry and tormented ones,
All the fools and scoundrels and all the ogres of unreason
Were like her—
With face no larger than a heart,
Began like her, no more ruffled than the dew tiptoeing on the grass.
Where did the robbery take place?
Where was she stolen from the world, and all the world left without an elfin bugle blowing,
Without a breath of Eden stirring except on my daughter's face—newly born?

It is, of course, impossible for any adult to acquire the virtues of childhood, however apt a pupil he is and however stirring a teacher he has. I had to compromise—stick to my sleeping pills and deep massage; to my lying and

New Universal dress form, perfected by former Hollywood dress designer, provides many work-saving short-cuts

First Dress Form with Full Length Skirt adjusts to "gain" or "lose" when you do. Being bendable and flexible, dresses slip on and off without opening seams. You save needless hours of sewing time. Custom fit is guaranteed or no cost.

The only full length dress and skirt form you can use together or separately. You can hold the upper section right in your lap to fit a blouse.

For fitting belts and skirts, you need use only the belt and skirt section. Special feature allows you to measure hems without the aid of a hem marker.

New Type Adjustable Dress Form Gives A Full Length Skirt Form And Hem-Measurer! ONLY $3.98

By DOROTHY WARING, Fashion Editorial Writer

RECENTLY I saw an eye-opening preview demonstration of the new 1962 Universal Dress Form. I saw it provide sewing shortcuts and do things I never dreamed a dress form could do. Women who swear by the previous model — and over half a million bought one — will have cause to be really enthusiastic when they see this one!

Skirt Form and Hem-Measurer

First of all, this dress form is the only one I've ever seen that gives you a full-length, completely adjustable skirt form and hem-measurer, too. What a boon when you're making or shortening skirts! You simply slip the skirt on . . . pin up the hem, following a line of measurement points at the skirt-length you want . . . then stand back and look!

Instantly, you see how the skirt will look on you because the form's measurements are your measurements. No longer will you have to rip out seams or re-do hems because a skirt hangs too high in front or sags in the back.

Takes Guesswork Out of Sewing

Perhaps the biggest thing about this dress form is that you can make it "gain" or "lose" when you do — thanks to its simple adjustments that let it duplicate all your basic measurements.

Women who have used some of the more expensive forms know how they have to rip and re-sew in order to fit clothes on them. But not with this new time-saver! Because it is bendable and flexible, you simply bend in the shoulders to slip a dress on. This saves hours of needless work. The real satisfaction, however is when you put the dress on yourself! You have the thrill of seeing a "custom-fitted look," just as though your dress had been made for you by your favorite seamstress!

Saves time, temper, tears . . . a dozen ways

Every woman knows it's the needless mistakes, the temper-provoking extra work and the petty exasperations that take the fun out of "making your own." Believe me, ladies, this new form is so virtually mistake-proof it puts the fun right back into making your own clothes.

With it, you can quickly make your too-tight or too-loose clothes really fit like new again.

You can remodel last year's alterable suits and dresses into chic new Spring fashions.

You can even make yourself a brand new Spring wardrobe . . . and do it in much less time than it usually takes! With a terrific saving in dollars, too!

Completely Adjustable

Imagine this! You can widen or take in the diaphragm . . . even raise, lower, flatten or fill out the busts individually!

It comes with a separate belt-fitter that adjusts to duplicate your own midriff.

In fact, all the form's measurements adjust to duplicate your measurements so exactly that whatever fits it will also fit you!

Made of unwoven fabric bonded to sturdy Kraft stock, this is one dress form that's both light-weight and durable. It stands on its own "skirt" — requires no extra costly stand! Yet when not in use, its nine sections fold out flat and tuck away in a bureau drawer.

30-Day Home Trial

Previous models of this remarkable dress form have won editorial praise from such distinguished magazines as VOGUE PATTERN BOOK, LOOK, AMERICAN MAGAZINE and McCALLS PATTERN BOOK. Yet for the same low price of only $3.98, this new 1962 model is vastly superior — and much easier to use!

We know you will be truly delighted once you try it. This is why we are making this generous trial offer. Mail the coupon today. Use the dress form for a full month. Then if you can honestly bring yourself to part with it, we'll mail you a full refund . . . Don't put it off. Be the first in your area to own a new 1962 Universal Dress Form!

fodils with salmon-pink trumpets, hyacinths of both pale and deep pink, and the early-to-late flowering tall tulips will carry pink through April and May, the Darwin, Cottage, Lily-flowered and spectacular Parrot tulips offering dozens of possibilities.

You can fill in the time between bulbs and annuals with early flowering pink perennials. Tree peonies bloom quite early, while the herbaceous peonies start about mid-May to sport their flesh or lilac-pinks, their deep rose and salmon or crimson and other red shades. Bearded iris offer many pinks, not only the familiar lavender-pink but glowing flamingo or soft flesh tones, while dwarf bearded iris varieties, Rose Blush and Heatherbloom, can edge the bed rosily. Japanese iris Flamingo, Pink Frost, Rose Anna, and other pinks carry color toward midsummer and day lilies offer June and July bloom with pinks too numerous to mention. Many lilies, too, particularly the speciosum and their hybrids, are splendid rosy companions for other plants.

IN LATE SUMMER and in autumn we end the season with chrysanthemums, the pinks being among the best hybrids in all types.

In annuals, of course, the choice is unlimited. To make sure you don't overlook any special opportunities, we suggest that you search your seed racks or your catalogs for the following in pink: Hollyhocks, cosmos, scabiosa, cleome, larkspur, zinnias, and snapdragons among the tall growers; Canterbury bells, asters, cockscomb (Celosia), cornflowers, medium-height snapdragons, zinnias, and scabiosa, as well as salvia among the medium growers. Low-growing annuals and bed edgers: Ageratum Fairy Pink, bush-balsam, sweet alyssum, pinks, calendula Apricot Beauty, phlox drummondi, and its even dwarfer varieties, pansies and wine-red shades, impatiens dwarf Sultani, verbena, vinca, dwarf sweet-william, portulaca, California poppy Sweetheart, and dwarf asters.

It's a rosy prospect—yours for the planting.

"That's my lunch."

Of all the Englishmen who drink gin... how many drink Gordon's?

Most of them. And it's been that way for years. To be blunt about it, Gordon's is England's biggest selling gin—as it is America's and the world's. Why? Probably because we have always refused to tamper with a good thing. Gordon's still harks back to Alexander Gordon's original formula—conceived in London 193 years ago—so its distinctive dryness and flavour remain unchanged and unchallenged to this day. Ask for Gordon's by name at your favourite tavern and package store.

REAL ESTATE TAX HIKES REVEALED

Teenage Romans Plan Annual Latin Affair

Patricians, senators, slaves and plebeians will gather from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. Saturday, March 10, in Cafeteria A at Fenton High School for the annual Latin Club banquet.

Latin III students will be the senators, Latin II students the patricians, those in Latin I the slaves, and all students who have completed one year of Latin will be the plebeians.

THE ANNUAL banquet is always held on the Saturday in March closest to the "Ides" (15th), and several banquets have appropriately used themes connected with Caesar or his death.

This year a different theme is being developed: "Jason and the Golden Fleece." Interspersed throughout the courses of the dinner, dramatic skits will be presented by patricians and senators depicting scenes from the story. The climax will be the "Dance of Jealousy" in which the slave girls will interpret, in dancing, the jealousy of the witch Medea and her fatal gift to her rival.

The patricians, senators, and guests recline on mats and eat from lavishly loaded tables which are folded flat on the floor. The slaves will kneel opposite their individual masters, to await their bidding. Three main courses are served and eaten Roman style (with fingers).

The decoration in the room and on the tables will carry out the theme. The cafeteria will be transformed into a Roman atrium, complete with a peristyle of white columns and colorful festoons, and perhaps even a fleece-bearing tree, against a seascape with the Argo.

ROMAN CUSTOMS are carried out wherever possible: in the choice of food, manner of eating, offering to the gods, procession of slaves carrying in the "roast pig," the form of entertainment (wrestling, dancing, pantomiming), the choosing of the "rex bibendi," and the wearing of garlands.

The Latin Club was founded seven years ago by Norman West, of the faculty, who sponsored the first banquet at Fenton in 1956. Since then the club has nearly tripled in size, with membership now numbering 100.

Mrs. Lennie Carico is now the sponsor of the club.

Committee chairmen for Saturday's banquet are: dinner, Ava Mathisen; decorating, Bob Grothe; table decorating, Carole Behnke; publicity, Phyllis Semsch; garlands, Sherry Bieterman; program, Rosanne Heller, and set-up and clean-up, Bill Pfluger and Larry Reimer.

Safecrackers Hit Supermarket Here

Safecrackers got between $3,500 and $5,000 from the National Tea Co. supermarket in the Bensenville shopping plaza late Sunday night or early Monday morning.

The village police department believes that the burglary was the work of a group of three or more professionals.

THE THEFT was discovered by store employes when they reported for work Monday morning.

Two large display stands and other advertising displays were moved to obscure the view from the street. The safecracking operation was carried out behind this screen.

The burglars gained entry by removing two front-door locks, which were then replaced. They left at the rear, after burning off seven locks.

Apparently, bottles of soft drinks were used to cool the drill bits as the safes were being opened. Other soft drinks were brought near the safes to be used to put out a fire, if one started.

THE DRIVER of a bread truck made a delivery to the store between 3:30 and 4 a.m. Monday. He left the bread in the vestibule between the front door and the inner door, and did not notice the burglary.

The National Tea supermarket was the victim of an armed robbery last summer. The robbers got several thousand dollars and have not been caught.

Brentwood Light Poles Are Mapped

A map is being prepared for Bensenville trustees showing the proposed location of light poles in the Brentwood area.

A majority of residents in the subdivision have voted for lights. Some easements will be required before lights can be placed at all recommended locations. However, 25 locations will not require easements.

Trustee Fred Hilton asked for a map showing the location of the 25 lights not requiring easements, before deciding whether or not to go ahead at last week's village board meeting.

Hilton's request prevailed, after Village President Ritchie Thomas broke a tie vote on a motion to go ahead without such a map.

"MEET YOUR CANDIDATE" was the theme of the meeting sponsored Monday night by the Addison Township Republican Women's Club in the Municipal Building, Addison. John Erlenborn, GOP candidate for re-election as state representative, is shown addressing the crowd of voters and candidates that turned out.

How It Hits Pocketbook

The owner of a Bensenville home assessed at $10,000 will pay $13.40 more in real estate tax this year as compared to 1961.

The new tax rate for Bensenville residents is $4.288 per $100 of assessed valuation, which means that the home assessed at $10,000 will be billed for a total of $428.80. Last year the total was $415.50.

This typical home owner will pay $6.60 more for Fenton High School, $4.50 more to the village, $3.10 more for DuPage County operations, and an additional $1.20 for the Bensenville Community Library.

HE WILL pay slightly less to three taxing bodies. The tax bill on the $10,000 home is down 90 cents for Addison Township, down 90 cents for District 2 elementary schools, and down 20 cents for the DuPage County forest preserves.

The Bensenville Park District levy remains the same.

As usual, schools take much the biggest tax bite.

OF THIS typical $428.80 tax bill, $180.60 will go to the grade school district and $154.10 to the high school district, making a total of $334.70. This is 78 per cent of the total tax bill.

This typical taxpayer will contribute $39.70 to village operations, and $20.50 to county functions. The township will get $18.30. Next comes the park district, with $8, and then the library district with $5.40. The forest preserve district brings up the rear, getting $2.20.

Wire-Making Firm Rejected by Board

A copper wire-making firm which had put out feelers about locating in the Bensenville Industrial District was turned down last Thursday by the Bensenville Village Board.

The board decided that the operations of the firm conflicted in too many ways with the village zoning ordinance.

The firm is the Chicago Magnet Wire Co., now located at 345 N. Francisco St., Chicago.

THE CHICAGO plant was visited by the industrial committee of the Bensenville Chamber of Commerce and Industry. The committee's report was read to the village board last Thursday.

The committee reported that a strong odor was associated with the manufacturing operation. The company would require an underground storage tank for between 5,000 and 10,000 gallons of enamel thinner. (The zoning code limit on such storage is 500 gallons). The company would use 1,100,000 gallons of water per month, and trustees wondered about the discharge of this water after it had been used.

Also, the firm would require a railroad siding for delivery of its raw materials, and none is available in the industrial district.

THE COMPANY proposed a plant 60,000 square feet in size, employing about 30 persons in office and engineering work, and about 70 in the plant, which would operate on three shifts seven days a week.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce committee which visited the Chicago Magnet Wire plant were Sandy Howell, Forrest Niccum, John Martens and Don Moschel.

"There are so many areas in conflict with our zoning ordinance that our answer can only be no," said Trustee Fred Hilton, in making the motion to disapprove the proposed factory. His motion carried unanimously.

Snow Blower Is Blamed in Fire

Bensenville firemen fought a blaze for about three hours Tuesday at the home of Henry J. Burrow, 3N371 Devonshire Lane, south of the village.

The blaze started when Burrow was filling his snow blower with gasoline in the basement of his home.

Damage was estimated at between $3,000 and $4,000.

Fire equipment had trouble reaching the scene because the main road to the house was covered with drifting snow, in which a station wagon was stuck. They used an alternate route through the Conrad Fischer school grounds and across a cornfield.

Question Tollway 'Banks'

A question involving "tollway banks" came before the Bensenville Village Board last Thursday.

What are "tollway banks?" They are plastic containers for coins of different denominations, which can be fastened to the dashboard of a car to help speed a motorist through the collection gates of tollways.

JOE CHABAN, proprietor of Chaban's Tavern, asked permission of the board to lease second-floor space at 11 W. Main St. to stamp names on the "tollway banks" and attach the sticky tape which holds them to the dashboard. He said he would employ five persons, full and part time, in the work.

The matter came before the village board because 11 W. Main St. is in the central business district. Trustees decided that the work described by Chaban would not be manufacturing operations, and granted permission for the lease.

For Polio Victim

Private Benefit Is Rejected by Village

Bensenville trustees last Thursday turned down a request for permission for a privately sponsored circus performance for the benefit of Ginger Esler, Bensenville polio victim.

The request was made by Fred Hall, 229 Marshall Road, friend of Miss Esler.

The board suggested that Hall try to get some local civic or service organization to sponsor such a circus performance. Trustee Bill Burde volunteered to meet with Hall to discuss the possibility of such an arrangement and the board authorized him to do so.

AN INFORMAL poll of trustees on the idea of a privately sponsored circus resulted in no one voting in favor of it. Some trustees said they did not wish to set a precedent for such benefits, others said they would like to see the National Foundation or other organization as the sponsor, and others abstained from giving an opinion.

Hall said the DuPage County Chapter of the National Foundation was "broke," after having given $7,000 of its $10,000 allotment for 1961 for the treatment and care of Miss Esler, who was stricken with polio in December, 1960, and spent many months in the hospital.

GINGER ESLER

He said that bills totaling $6,000 remain to be paid.

He suggested that a performance of the Sells Bros. circus be held some time in May.

VERA HINES, a part owner of the circus, attended the meeting with Hall. She said the circus annually works with civic organizations in the Chicago area on benefits, and mentioned such sponsors as the Niles Lions Club, Des Plaines Jaycees, and the fire and police departments of many suburban communities.

She said the circus had never been sponsored by an individual in a community, but that she was willing to try it.

Village to Assist In Suburb Lawsuit

Bensenville will contribute $50 to the legal costs of a lawsuit filed by three other suburban towns to find out if municipalities still have their extra-territorial powers.

The Illinois Municipal League has sent out letters to Chicago-area municipalities asking them to share the legal costs.

The suit has been filed by Park Ridge, Glenview and Park Forest.

CONFLICTING opinions on whether municipalities still have extra-territorial powers have been given by Daniel P. Ward, Cook County state's attorney, and William G. Clark, Illinois attorney general.

Ward says the wording of an act passed by the last General Assembly has deprived municipalities of extra-territorial powers. Clark says it has not. William J. Bauer, Du Page County state's attorney, agrees with Clark.

One of the chief extra-territorial powers at stake is the right of municipalities to approve or reject subdivision plats for areas within one and a half miles of their boundaries.

Illegal Parking

Fines totaling $162 for illegal parking in Bensenville were paid to Justice of the Peace Jack Parish during January. Judge Parish had previously reported fines totaling $778 during the month for other offenses.

Plan Survey Of Sidewalk Financing

Trustee Pete Martyniuk said that a questionnaire will be sent to residents of all parts of Bensenville that are without sidewalks, asking them if they are willing to pay $3 per running foot to get sidewalks.

Trustee Martyniuk is chairman of the streets and alleys committee of the village board, which has been pondering the problems created by absence of sidewalks.

The questionnaire was originally planned for the residents of the Edgewood section (bounded by Hickory, York, Memorial, and Miner). Martyniuk told the board last week that it would be preferable to get information from all parts of the village.

Incumbents Eye Return To School Board Seats

Incumbents have filed their petitions for re-election to both the Bensenville elementary school board of education and the Fenton High School board.

The grade school incumbents have a challenger in the person of Thomas K. Barber, 38, of 17W092, White Pines, who was endorsed by the caucus at a nominating meeting Thursday night in Blackhawk School.

IN ADDITION to endorsing Barber, the caucus voted "not to oppose" the candidacy of Paul Asgeirson, incumbent who was named to the board last fall to replace C. E. VanDusen, who resigned to take a Fenton High School teaching position.

The caucus noted that Asgeirson had past experience as school treasurer and is a cercus observers praised his parcus observers prasied his participation since he was named to replace Van Dusen.

He was not endorsed because he did not apply to the caucus for endorsement, and did not meet with its screening committee.

THE OTHER grade school board incumbent seeking re-election is James DiOrio, who, like Asgeirson, was named to fill a vacancy.

Ellsworth Sachse and John King of the high school board are seeking re-election. Petitions were also taken out by Edward DeMent, 317 Pine Ave., Bensenville, but he has not yet returned his petitions.

Sewer Cost $742 Less Than Bid

Construction of the extension of the Irving Park interceptor sanitary sewer from Eastview to Spruce Avenues in Bensenville cost $742 less than the sum bid by the contractor.

The village board last week approved the third and final payment to Peter Ciccone Inc., contractor. The total cost was $34,471.

Teenager Is Killed in Auto Wreck

Charles Held, 17, of 419 N. Walnut, Wood Dale, was killed Tuesday when his automobile collided head-on with a truck on Grand Avenue between York and Church Roads, south of Bensenville.

County police said Held's car skidded on an icy patch of pavement. Held was dead on arrival at Elmhurst Hospital.

The driver of the truck was not injured. He was Fred Kumnick, 44, of 1024 Washington, Oak Park.

Two Charities Get Drive OKs

Two forthcoming charitable drives were approved by Bensenville trustees last week.

The Salvation Army will hold its annual Doughnut Day on Friday, June 8.

The Family Service Association of DuPage County will conduct a door-to-door solicitation during the week of August 18 to 25, and hold a tag day at the end of the week.

"IT WON'T BE FANCY, but it will be a lot of fun." That's what Tioga VFW Bowling League says about the "Hod Carriers Hop" that it will sponsor Saturday, March 17, (St. Patrick's Day), at the Tioga Home. Some of the guests expected at the ball are, from left: Ed Kiewicz, Bill Burde, Bob Anderson and Lee Ricker.

Campaign Is Picking Up Momentum

Don Fuller, who lit the torch for the "Buy in Bensenville" campaign now being considered by the Bensenville Chamber of Commerce and Industry, reports that many persons have taken the trouble to call him and say that they have taken the suggestion.

Fuller says that such conversations alone have revealed $2,000 of retail purchases made in Bensenville which would have been made elsewhere except for the "Buy in Bensenville" publicity.

Fuller is president of Bensenville Terrace Home Owners Association, which originated the "Buy in Bensenville" campaign as a means of financing public improvements through increased sales tax revenue for the village. (B

Tioga PTA Holds Founders Program

The Founders Day program at the Tioga PTA meeting on Feb. 28 was attended by W. A. Johnson, superintendent of Bensenville schools and Mrs. Johnson; Miss Dorothy Bernhard, past president of Bensenville's PTA, and Mrs. Raymond Hall, who helped organize the individual PTA's of Bensenville and was the first president of Bensenville's PTA Council.

Mrs. Albert Denna, president of Tioga PTA, lit the first candle during the Founders Day ceremony, and placed it on a table. Mrs. Denna then handed a second candle to Mrs. Lois Schumann, the first PTA president of Tioga School.

THE THIRD candle was handed to Mrs. Howard Nelson, who was the second PTA president at Tioga. The fourth candle went to Mrs. Millicent Solesky, who was the third PTA president. The fifth candle was received by James Gau, principal of Tioga.

Pictures and slides of the recent European trip by Mrs. Helen Kern and Miss Joan Fleischman were also shown during the meeting. The narration by the two teachers of their visit to the many exciting European countries was enjoyed by all.

A life time membership in PTA from Tioga School was then presented to Mrs. Howard Nelson by Mrs. Eugene Burmeister, scholarship chairman.

Refreshments were served at the end of the meeting. (B

Trustees, Planners Review 'Philosophy'

Bensenville's village board and plan commission held an informal joint meeting recently to review planning philosophy and other matters of common interest to the two groups.

Arguments for and against apartment buildings were reviewed. Village policy in recent years has been "anti-apartment," with such construction confined to a trickle. (The Hamilton Avenue multiple-family units were built over village opposition, as a result of a court decision.)

THIS APARTMENT policy has contrasted with the policies of some neighboring villages, such as Wood Dale and Addison, which have permitted extensive apartment construction.

Among the factors mentioned which weigh against apartments were: increased traffic, increased school enrollments, neighborhood deterioration as a result of chronic vacancies, and unwillingness of some renters to maintain property as well as if they owned it.

On the other side of the question it was mentioned that: apartments provide a good buffer between industrial and single-family residential areas, old people who can no longer keep up a single-family home should be considered, and in some cases apartments contribute more tax dollars.

IT WAS suggested that a special zoning district permitting one-bedroom apartments might be added to the zoning code. No action was taken at the meeting, however.

Among other matters discussed or reported on were a proposed new application for subdividers, progress on drafting the master plan, and plan commission procedures for conducting its hearings and making its recommendations.

Redmond Named To 2 Committees

William A. Redmond, village attorney for Bensenville, has recently been appointed to two committees in the National Institute of Municipal Law Officers.

He was appointed to the Committee on Legal Problems of Sewage Disposal by Herbert M. Fitle, city attorney of Omaha, Neb.

He was also appointed as a member of the Committee on Inter-Municipal Cooperation for 1962 by Alan M. Firestone, city attorney of San Diego, Calif.

REDMOND has been village attorney for Bensenville since 1947, and has also served as village attorney for Franklin Park and Wood Dale.

Redmond is a member of the State Legislature from Du Page County (36th District), having served in the 70th and 71st Sessions. In the Legislature, he was a member of the Municipalities Committee. He is seeking reelection for his third term. He is unopposed in the Democratic primary. (B

DuPage Funds at Stake in Court Suit

Seeking Damages On Bleacher Buys

More than $130,000 in funds from northern DuPage County high schools is at stake in an action filed recently by Illinois Attorney General William G. Clark.

The suit seeks triple damages on behalf of the state, state institutions and universities and the school districts in the state from manufacturers of field and gymnasium bleachers, fixtures and seats.

The Federal District Court suit asked at least $1,890,000 damages for violation of the federal anti-trust laws from Brunswick Corp. of Delaware, Wayne Iron Works of Pennsylvania, Universal Bleacher Co. of Delaware, Fred Medart Manufacturing Co. of Missouri, Safeway Steel Products Inc. of Wisconsin and Consolidated Foundries and Manufacturing Corp. of Delaware.

Clark asserted that excessive prices paid for purchase of bleachers totaled at least $2,100,000 during the period since 1954 compared to prices which would have been paid under conditions of free and open competition.

CLARK ALLEGED that commencing in 1954 a combination and conspiracy existed among the defendants whereby they fixed prices, terms and conditions, allocated markets and submitted non-competitive bids in the sale of gymnasium equipment to schools.

He charged the conspiracy included penalties upon any of the group deviating from the agreement reached.

The suit is filed on behalf of more than 1,600 school districts as well as the state institutions. Clark indicated the investigation in this field is continuing and that actual purchases involved will exceed $3 million.

HE STATED ALL recoveries realized will be paid over directly to the district or institution injured and damaged.

The York-Willowbrook High Schools spent the largest amount of the three north DuPage County high school districts. Total bleachers purchases for the three districts was $132,951, with York-Willowbrook spending $105,777. Of this amount $40,309.83 was spent in 1954 for bleachers at York High School. Successful bidder was the Wayne Iron Works.

In 1958, the school district spent $65,467 for bleachers at Willowbrook High School. The contract was won by Brunswick Corp. in open bidding.

THE YORK school bids were handled by Childs and Smith, architects, Chicago. The school board itself acted as its own agent in the Willowbrook bids, which included basketball backstops.

Bleachers for Fenton High School to seat 840 persons were purchased by the school board Chicago (Safeway) Scaffold at a total price of $10,782.

The board accepted the bid of Safeway which was the second highest in a group of five to follow the recommendations of the athletic director, chief custodian and superintendent of schools.

The 1958 bleacher bids at Fenton were the third round of bids for the same installation. The first bids were received in August, 1957, but no purchase made. Bids were again accepted in February, 1958, showing lower general prices. The third set of bids in March, 1958, for 60 less seats, again showed a lower price.

NEW FOLDING bleachers seating 1,250 were purchased by Lake Park High School for their new gymnasium in October, 1956. Successful low bidder on the folding indoor bleachers was Brunswick Corp. (Horn Division). The bid was $16,392.

Outdoor bleacher seating was built by the school last year at a cost of $21,000. These grandstands were designed as permanent installations to seat 1,000 spectators. Construction was of cement and the bids were submitted by local cement contractors.

RIBBON-CUTTING CEREMONY opened the new Green St. Discount Shoe Center, 20 E. Green St., Bensenville, last Thursday morning. While Rita Garcia is poised to be first to enter the new store, Village President Ritchie Thomas snips the ribbon. In the other picture, Don Moschel, proprietor, helps Kathy Hunt, 4, choose a new pair of shoes. Kathy is the daughter of Mrs. James Hunt. B

Hours at the library are: Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays, 3 to 5 p.m. and 6:30 to 9 p.m.; Fridays, 3 to 5 p.m.; Saturday, 9 to 1 p.m.; and no hours on Wednesday. (B

Parents: Instruct Kids on Crossing

By WALTER TETT
Chief of Police, Bensenville

The Village of Bensenville tries very hard to protect the youngsters in town in getting to and from school safely. Crossing guards are on hand at the more hazardous locations and the squads are constantly patrolling the streets.

Unfortunately the squads and the guards can't be everywhere and it is for this reason I am writing this article.

All of this protection doesn't help if the children are not properly instructed by their parents to use the protection given them.

IT HAS been brought to my attention by both the crossing guards and policemen that children walk down the railroad tracks or across the tracks in taking short-cuts to and from the schools.

We all know this is a dangerous practice and we try very hard to put a stop to it. I'm sure that with the proper instructions from each and every parent that we can eliminate this very hazardous practice and keep our children coming home and growing older.

To Discuss Guarding of Crossings

Guarding school crossings will be discussed at the March meeting of the Bensenville Terrace Home Owners Association at 7:30 p.m. Monday, March 12, in the cafeteria of Tioga School.

A method of financing the cost of guards will be suggested by the executive board for general discussion, said Don Fuller, association president.

Village President Ritchie Thomas has been invited to speak at the April meeting of the group. A question-and-answer session with Thomas is planned. (BF

Director Attends Meeting

The Rev. Dr. A. J. Munsterman, director of the Bensenville Home, and Mrs. Munsterman attended the first annual meeting of the Council for Health and Welfare Services of the United Church of Christ held last week in Chicago.

The keynote address was given by the Rev. Dr. Henry J. Whiting of New York, executive secretary of the Division of Welfare of the National Lutheran Council.

DR. WHITING said that the task of the church is three-fold. "There is the communication of the gospel," according to Dr. Whiting.

There is also "the building of the Christian community, and 'Diakonia' or service, which is an inseparable link between the communication of the Christian gospel and the building of the Christian community." (B

Fenton to Be Host At Parley

Fenton High School will be host to the Chicago-Suburban Audio-Visual Round Table on Wednesday, March 14.

An invitational dinner for group leaders will be held at 4:30 p.m. The dinner group will consist of equipment manufacturers, producers and educators.

THE DISCUSSION topic for the evening meeting will be "8mm in Action."

Among those who will be present will be: James Fitzwater, director of visual education, Chicago public schools; George Mills, Bell & Howell; John King, of the Kraflex company, a Fenton school board member; Gene Weber, Encyclopaedia Britannica Films; Earl Ellis, regional sales manager of Coronet Films; Charles Miller, audio-visual director, Arlington High School; Gene Heck, curriculum director, Wheaton High School; Merrill Gates, assistant superintendent of schools, Du Page County, and James Bould, consultant from the state office of public instruction. (B

Prohibit Parking on Easements

An ordinance prohibiting parking which blocks easements was read to the Bensenville Village Board last week.

The ordinance was written at the request of Bensenville Terrace home owners because some easements in their subdivision are used as thoroughfares, although they are not dedicated streets.

POLICE stopped ticketing parked cars which blocked traffic in the easements when they discovered they were on private property.

The law is expected to be approved on second reading March 15. (B

ADMIRING the charter received by Cub Scout Pack 28 of Peace Church, Bensenville, at its recent Blue and Gold Dinner, are Cubmaster Eugene Burmeister, left, and Asst. Cubmaster Palumbo. The Rev. Herman Cook of Wood Dale Community Church was the guest speaker at the banquet, which also featured spaghetti a la blue and gold, the presentation of awards and community singing.

Nameplates For Board

Nameplates will be placed in front of Bensenville officials when they gather at the council table for the next meeting of the village board.

The nameplates were suggested by Trustee Fred Hilton, so that the audience at meetings will know who is saying what. Hilton also said he could provide the nameplates without cost to the village.

"I'd like to play 'What's My Name,'" said Trustee Bill Burde in approval.

"Please don't spell my name wrong," pleaded Trustee Pete Martyniuk. (BF

Retreading Plant Voted Location OK

The ordinance amendment permitting location of a Firestone tire retreading plant in Bensenville Industrial District was passed last week by the village board.

In February, the board had directed Village Attorney William A. Redmond to draft the amendment, as recommended by the plan commission.

The plan commission favored permission for tire retreading in the industrial district after it held a hearing on the matter. Firestone officials said the operation would not produce fumes or odors. (BF

Scout Family Marks 6 'Togetherness' Years

For many DuPage families, scouting is a family affair. For the few families with only daughters, it can be a Girl Scout family—girls, mom, dad, and often grandmother too, all actively participating in Girl Scouting.

Typical of such DuPage families in Addison is the Peter Ogilvie family, 208 Maple Court, Addison.

Their introduction to scouting was in the Boy Scout program when son, Peter, became a Cub Scout. Mom became a den mother and dad helped with pack activities.

When Peter became a Boy Scout, Mrs. Ogilvie turned her efforts toward the Girl Scout program as a leader for daughter, Pamela's troop. Mr. Ogilvie then became assistant scoutmaster of Peter's troop.

As the children have grown and their interests in scouting developed, both mother and father took on more and more adult responsibilities in both scout organizations.

Mr. Ogilvie has become district commissioner now that Peter is in high school. Mrs. Ogilvie is the Addison neighborhood chairman, coordinating the work of all Girl Scout troops in the Addison area.

MARGE OGILVIE admits to having learned almost as much as the girls in her Scout career. In fact, she thinks this is one of the best features of being a Girl Scout leader.

Both children say they have enjoyed the badge work of the scout program because it gives so much opportunity to learn new things. Pam is looking forward to being a leader herself some day.

Scouting has been a family affair for the past six years, and from the enthusiasm expressed by the Ogilvies will be a family affair for many years to come. (L

PROOF THAT SCOUTING is a family affair are Addison residents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ogilvie and their children, Pam and Peter, who recently marked 6 years of 'togetherness' in the scouting program. Mr. Ogilvie now has the post of district commissioner and his wife is Addison's neighborhood chairman. L

At last the Edward Vietzen trailer park is a part of the village of Wood Dale!

After close to three years of table pounding, accusations, name calling, resolutions, motions before the village council, angered citizens, petitions, more motions, alternate plans . . . and so on, the controversial trailer park was (1) bound to a contract with the village, and (2) fully annexed to Wood Dale Monday night.

Commissioner Alfred Nerkins moved that the entire ordinance outlining the contract terms and calling for the annexation of the one-acre trailer park located on south Wood Dale Road be passed.

Nerkins was supported by Commissioners Paul Stoeck and Raymond Anderson, and by Mayor John Murray. Commissioner Robert Cesar was absent from the meeting.

After the 30 day waiting period for the ordinance to become law, Ed Vietzen Jr. will begin construction of the 12-inch sewer and drainage system through the trailer park to the Oakbrook School.

THIS SYSTEM will connect to the village's storm and sewer system on the northwest corner of the Vietzen property.

In the years that the Vietzen controversy has ranged, a number of alternate proposals have been advanced for getting a storm and sewer system to the south of the village limits.

Former Commissioner O. H. Nesseler was a strong proponent of a plan calling for condemnation of a narrow strip of property from the terminus of the village system east to Wood Dale Road.

Once the main reached Wood Dale Road, Nesseler reasoned, it would proceed south along the roadway to the school property, and thence to subdivisions mushrooming on the south side of Wood Dale.

ANOTHER PROPOSAL called for a storm and sewer line from the village terminus through the forest preserve behind the Vietzen trailer park and thence to the school and beyond.

However, this action was blocked early last year by the DuPage County Forest Preserve Commission. In July and August of 1961, school board members from District 7, frantically pressed the village council for positive action on the storm sewer.

They envisioned the opening of their new Oakbrook School, adjacent to and south of the trailer park, without sewer service. However, their anxiety was partially relieved when Vietzen offered his private sewer system to the school until the final issue was resolved.

A glimmering spark of enthusiasm for the condemnation route to Wood Dale Road was revived in the council chambers in November, 1961 and another controversy arose — getting a side walk to the Oakbrook School.

THE SCHOOL board and George Welter, retired contractor, had developed plans for constructing a sidewalk along the west side of Wood Dale Road to the Oakbrook School.

But, for this brief moment, it appeared as though the village council might try the condemnation procedure, and thus put a storm and sewer line underneath a newly laid sidewalk.

Inasmuch as the county had donated corregated drainage tile for the sidewalk, and other persons had vowed to contribute their labors and materials, the condemnation route along Wood Dale Road chilled the "sidewalk enthusiasts."

The pre-annexation agreement finally passed upon at the Monday night meeting, and which is wrapped up in the all-inclusive ordinance contained 17 revised points.

VIETZEN WILL pay the village $100 per acre for annexation to the village. In lieu of hook-on fees, Vietzen is now required to construct a 12 inch sanitary sewer line across his property.

The contract states that Vietzen agrees to a maintenance easement across his property on which no permanent structure can be erected. He will pay the village $310 for inspection fees on the sewer line.

In addition, the contract stipulates that 77 trailers may be located on the Vietzen trailer park property. The sewer fee for each trailer is $1 per calendar month, the same as charged other Wood Dale residents.

The contract also requires all underground utilities and surface blacktopping of roads on the Vietzen property to be completed within a five-year period.

IN ADDITION, it calls for the minimum standards for trailer park operation as prescribed by the State. Vietzen must also pay the village $25 every six months for a re-examination of the sewer system on his property.

Should the trailer park fold, the contract calls for the automatic return of the property to the "residential" classification.

A major point of the contract states that no officer, official or agent of the village has the power to change or waive any of the conditions in the agreement.

The mayor and the village clerk have been given the sole authority to execute the agreement between the village and the trailer park owner.

HOORAY! That was the reaction of Edward Vietzen Jr., right, and Edward Vertovec, left, after the decision to annex the Vietzen trailer park to the village of Wood Dale at Monday night's meeting. Vertovec is Vietzen's attorney.

IT'S OFFICIAL! Mayor John Murray affixes his John Hancock to the ordinance annexing the Vietzen trailer park to the village of Wood Dale. The controversy of the trailer park has raged in the council chambers for the past several years.

School Board Member Raps Annexation

A not-so-happy voice was sounded over the din of approval, soon after the Edward Vietzen trailer park was annexed to the Village of Wood Dale at Monday night's meeting.

The "angry young man" was Wayne Waltrip, a contractor at 180 Oakwood, Wood Dale. Waltrip is also a member of the District 7 School Board, though his comments Monday were of a personal nature.

Waltrip charged that the village government was not wholly prudent in its decision to annex the Vietzen trailer park.

"THE VILLAGE council has handed this man a gift," Waltrip said. "Most communities in this county, such as Bensenville, are trying to choke out the trailer parks, but here in Wood Dale, the clock has been set back with an agreement which will surely give the village trouble in the future," he charged.

"I mean no malice when I condemn the trailer park, and I am sure that other communities mean no malice to individuals when they try to choke such businesses out — but the fact remains that a trailer park is a tax leech," he said.

"Last year the school received a little over $100 in school taxes from the Vietzen operation; this is scarcely adequate for educating one pupil," Waltrip stated.

In a telephone confirmation of what Waltrip charged, School the Vietzen trailer park has three children now attending the Oakbrook school.

HE ALSO stated that the cost of educating one pupil annually is $337, more than two-thirds of which comes from local tax support.

"Next year, or the year after," Waltrip stated, "the trailers might be loaded with children. But, the tax rate would still be the same low figure."

"I sure hope that the residents of the village see the folly of this action by the village council," Waltrip stated, "and will do something to block this ordinance before it goes into law." (D

Wood Dale Men to Cry In Beer?

Some Wood Dale men may soon be crying in their beer — that is if they are accustomed to having a barmaid draw their brew.

The Wood Dale Village Council, acting with a twinge of prudishness — or perhaps suburban sophistication — passed an ordinance Monday night prohibiting women to pour, draw, or mix drinks or tend bar.

HOWEVER, THEY were quick to explain that women were not prohibited from serving drinks as waitresses under the terms of this ordinance.

In addition, women who are themselves liquor license holders, or who are the wife of a licensee, are exempted from this ordinance.

It was pointed out that there will be a penalty for violation of this ordinance to be meted out to both the licensee and the woman violator. (D

Short, But 'Profitable'

10-Minute Meeting Results In Annexation, Rezoning

10:20 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. Monday night was a profitable 10-minute period for the Village of Wood Dale and Harry Johnson, representing the Sherwood Forest Development Corp.

In that 10-minute period, Wood Dale (1) annexed some 59 acres into the village, receiving a check for $8,653.50 for the annexation fee, and (2) quickly rezoned the property from the automatic residential classification to commercial and multiple dwelling use.

Parcel no. one of the 59 acres, which lies directly west of the high line and south of Irving Park Road, was rezoned from residential to commercial.

Parcel no. two, south of parcel no. one, was rezoned from residential to Special Use—Multiple Dwellings classification. Apartments are slated to be erected on this parcel of property.

The unanimous action of the village board concurred with the earlier approval given the Sherwood Forest development by the zone board at a public hearing held last Tuesday.

THE PROJECT also has the backing of the plan commission.

Harry Johnson, spokesman for the Sherwood Forest Development Corp., told the Register that a shopping center was slated for the parcel adjacent to Irving Park Road.

Johnson and Baird & Warner, agents, have slated a meeting for the next week to finalize plans for establishment of the shopping center and the erection of the apartment buildings.

JOHNSON SAID that many of the plans have already been mapped out in advance of Monday night's approval of the annexation and subsequent rezoning. He explained that this was a business fact of life.

"You have to keep a lot of your plans under wraps until you are ready to act," Johnson said, "to keep one step ahead of a competitor who might want to put up a nearby development similar to ours."

Johnson stated that construction of the shopping center probably won't begin until the spring of 1963. He stated that the $8,500 check was only a start on the return Wood Dale would realize on this property in the near future.

JOHNSON CITED the ½ cent sales tax return from the shopping center's annual sales, business licenses, fees for use of improvements, and other fees and taxes.

Included in the 59-acre complex is provision for a five-acre school site. Recently Johnson discussed the possibilities of this school site with board members of Wood Dale School District 7.

Johnson is reported to have made a price quotation to the school board, but indications are that the board will try to "dicker" with him for a better price.

JOHNSON HAS told the school board that the five acres he is proposing to offer them would be improved property, untike the six-acre Oakbrook School site which was raw land.

Wayne Waltrip, school board member, told the Register there is a possibility the school district will need more than five acres of land.

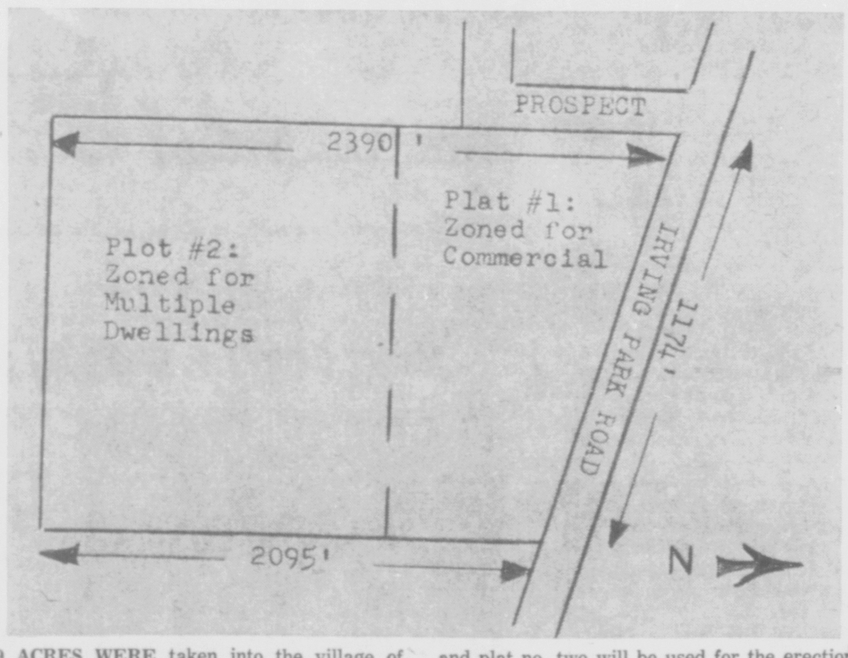
"With all of the apartment construction in Wood Dale to date," Waltrip commented, "we may have to build a larger school on the new site than the Oakbrook School."

Johnson has promised to send the school board a letter of intent detailing the specific location of the five acres, explaining the cost of the property to his company, and thus justifying the price he is requesting.

SUPT. Clarence I. McSwane told the Register a bond referendum for a new school for the school district "could come as early as 1963."

Basically, the school board has not taken an official stand on apartment developments in Wood Dale. But privately, most of them admit that apartments are actually a valuable school tax asset.

They point to several studies which support this claim, and reason that many suburban apartment dwellers are either transient or are in the two age extremes: young couples without children or who have pre-school children, and older couples who have already reared their children. (D



59 ACRES WERE taken into the village of Wood Dale at the Monday night meeting of the village council. Plat no. one will be used for the development of a shopping center, and plat no. two will be used for the erection of an apartment complex. Included in the 59 acres is a provision for a five acre school site for school district 7.

Fawell Pledges Aid To Crime Fighters

Harris W. Fawell this week pledged his support to the creation of a State Crime Commission in Illinois. Fawell addressed voters at a series of 32 "Meet-the-Candidate" coffees held in his honor during the last seven days.

"Today Illinois communities have uncoordinated agencies fighting the very well organized and well coordinated crime bosses. The problem of fighting crime is a mutual problem that demands mutual cooperation and coordination," Fawell, a Republican candidate for State Senator from the 41st District, told his audiences.

Praising DuPage County law enforcing agencies for their vigilence against organized crime, and the suburban police departments for their voluntary cooperative program, Fawell noted "few departments have the manpower to do an effective job. Only a few departments have men trained in the field of intelligence. There is duplication of effort because no central clearing-house exists."

THE FORMER DuPage County Assistant State's Attorney disclosed he has discussed the proposal with DuPage State's Attorney William J. Bauer who favors the Crime Commission program.

"Our policemen, our sheriff's department, and our State's Attorney's office are working under adverse conditions. Today the crime bosses are moving into legitimate business in an effort to gain a foothold in DuPage.

"There should be an agency to supply local police with this intelligence. The background of every crime syndicate henchman should be readily available to all policing agencies," Fawell stated.

Pointing out that organized crime is a multi-billion dollar business, Fawell noted the estimated Chicago area crime lords' take is two and one-half billion dollars annually.

STRESSING "I am jealous of the autonomy of local government and the rights of local government," Fawell assured the group he would not favor having local agencies surrender their rights and powers to a higher power.

"Creation of a State Crime Commission is in no way tied to advocating a monolithic law-enforcing agency that would sweep away local controls," he concluded. (Z

Barber Is Opposed To Rate Increase

An Itasca barber, secretary-treasurer of the DuPage Journeyman Barbers Union, opposes an increase in the price of haircuts in DuPage county. He said this week that an increase from $2 to $3 proposed recently by Chicago barbers is "ridiculous."

Wesley Usher, vice president of the Illinois Journeyman Barbers Association, said:

"The minute we got the last price increase our laundry services were raised in price and our supply costs went up. Everyone wanted to share in the 'gravy'.

"MORE PEOPLE began cutting hair at home and steady customers came in less often. They made their haircuts last longer.

"We gained nothing except the ill will of some of the public who blamed us for the increase," said Usher.

"The present $2 rate is sufficient to make an adequate living. Certainly we will never get rich, but as tradesmen we can provide our families with moderately comfortable livings," Usher said.

"A Chicago barber compared his income with that of a truck driver. If he is discontented, let him go drive a truck instead of promoting a price increase that will only serve to decrease our business."

Music Lover Admits 'Impromptu' Concert

An Addison Townshp man admitted that he entered the house of a neighbor at midnig : last Feb. 19, without invitation, and gave an impromtu concert on the electric organ in the living room.

He was fined $100 for breach of the peace by Justice of the Peace Jack Parish last Friday. However, the judge suspended $90 of the fine, with the warning that it would become due and payable if the defendant should breach the peace again within the next six months.

THE COMPLAINANT, a lady, denied the defendant's statement that he asked permission to play the electric organ, and that she turned it on for him.

She said he woke her from a sound sleep, and refused to leave when she asked him to. She said he left only when the telephone began ringing.

The telephone call was made by next-door neighbors, after she sent her son to them for help.

FURTHERMORE, she told Judge Parish, the peace of the neighborhood continued to be disturbed until 2:15 a.m. by the intruder who, after he left her house, tried to get his car out of a snowbank.

This phase of the disturbance featured the racing motor of the car, the banging of a shovel, and, finally, the barking of a dog which was aroused by the noisy efforts to free the automobile from the snow. (ZF

Wood Dale Will Hire Engineer

The Wood Dale Village Council Monday night re-affirmed a previous decision to hire the Hancock Engineering Co. of Chicago to replace Walter Ashdown and Associates, a Glen Ellyn firm.

Edwin Hancock of the Hancock firm will represent the village as the new village engineer. He will be assisted by James Wilkenson, a former associate of Ashdown.

Commissioner Paul Stoeck rapped his fellow commissioners for not fully informing him of the decision to hire Hancock. He attempted to pin his comrades down on the fees Hancock is charging in comparison to the fees charged by several other area firms who made a bid for the business.

HANCOCK TOLD the board that specific fees had yet to be worked out on a contract which the State furnishes. However, he stated that his firm was abiding by the rates established by the Illinois Society of Professional Engineers.

Among those who negotiated with the village for the position of village engineer were Addison Engineering, a Wheaton firm, and an Elgin concern.

President Needs Aid: Candidate

"The Democratic party in DuPage and Will Counties needs a vigorous state central committeeman to help assure the success of the Kennedy program at the grass roots," said Martin J. "Marty" Gleason, candidate for the committeeman post in the 14th congressional district.

Gleason spoke at the Mardi Gras dinner dance, sponsored by the Addison Township Regular Democratic Organization, Saturday evening at the Salt Creek Country Club.

"The issues of medical care for the aged and Democratic-sponsored advances in the field of foreign affairs should be taken to the people," added Gleason.

"ONLY TWO days ago the President warned that in our fight for freedom throughout the world we must not 'fail or flinch or become fatigued.' If we are to follow his admonition, we must have able, interested leaders in the Democratic party.

"This leadership is necessary not only in Washington and in our state capitols, but at all levels — including that of state central committeeman," advised Gleason. (Z

DuPage Included in 'Self-Help' Plans

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (UPI)— DuPage County is included in the first stage of plans now being formulated to teach at least one member of every family in Illinois how to administer "self-help" medical care in the event of a national emergency, according to Dr. Franklin Yoder, public health director.

The program will be administered by the Public Health and Civil Defense departments.

Yoder said that since the training material issued by the federal government is limited, 10 counties have been selected for a pilot study.

THE COUNTIES are Adams, DuPage, Franklin, Jackson, Lake, Lawrence, Peoria, Rock Island, St. Clair and Sangamon.

Additional training supplies are expected in July, he said.

The training will consist of 12 courses. Subjects to be covered include radioactive fallout and shelter, treatment of burns and shock, artificial respiration and emergency childbirth.

Action for Ziegler Units Are Formed

At separate meetings in Elmhurst and Downers Grove last week, voters represented as Democrats, Independents and Republicans met to form "Action for Ziegler" committees.

Purpose of each group is to provide local support for Jerry Ziegler, the Democratic candidate for Congress from DuPage and Will Counties. More than a dozen similar "action" committees are planned.

"This is a significant development and a welcome one," Ziegler said.

"IN ADDITION to the support of the regular Democratic organization through its elected officers and precinct committeemen, these new groups allow other voters who are dissatisfied with the present representation in Congress to do something positive for my campaign."

Each "Action for Ziegler" committee is being formed by population areas rather than precincts, townships or other divisions. The working committee will be responsible for fund-raising, promotion, publicity and activities in that area. (Z

"MY MOTHER has attended several meetings during the past several days with Mr. Krusemark," said her son, Elmer, of Glen Ellyn. "She feels, however, that she should take a few days to rest up for the final weeks of the campaign.

WOOD DALE

Pack 30 of Wood Dale held its annual Blue and Gold dinner recently in the Highland School. Seventy boys and fathers enjoyed the chicken and shrimp dinner which was planned by the Den mothers and catered by Brown's of Villa Park.

Entertainment was provided by Frank Burrows Jr., who through magic demonstrations, gave a monologue on traffic safety. Burrows represents the Citizens Traffic Safety Board of Metropolitan Chicago.

Den 6 also put on a skit about presidents of the United States.

Three scouts from Troop 60 helping to serve the meal were, Dan Prather, Gerry MacMillan and Bill Hungerford. Dan Prather also blew colors and taps in a very stirring retreat.

Awards were presented to Larry Schmidt for his Lion Badge; Kevin West for his Bear badge and a gold arrow; Mark West received his Wolf badge; Dan Wood was awarded a gold arrow; Steve Kampen was given an Assistant Denner's stripe; and Steve Sands was awarded two arrows, one gold and one silver.

INVOCATION was given by W. C. Prather. Clyde Schmidt, Cubmaster, presided over the meeting assisted by Bud Sands. Gordon Hall, Committee Chairman, acquainted the fathers with the purpose of Cubbing and the need for closer family relations between father and son. Den mothers were given the opportunity to work diligently in the kitchen.

Mrs. Haynes' den won the attendance flag with all fathers of her cubs present, and a suitable roaring cheer resounded throughout the building.

Dr. Roberts is Executive Director of the National Association for Crippled Children and Adults, with which the Easter Seal Center is affiliated.

LOCKE, A Wheaton resident, is familiar to children as "Mr. Ned" of Bozo's Circus, a television program. He is Honorary Chairman of the 1962 DuPage County Easter Seal campaign.

Tours of the center will be conducted by the professional staff which includes physical therapists, occupational therapists and pre-school teachers.

They are: Mrs. Florence Parkhurst, director, of Wheaton; Mrs. Anne L. Ford, Batavia; Mrs. Florence Blanchfield, Glen Ellyn; Mrs. Florence Goold, Downers Grove; Mrs. Rosamond Sloan, Elmhurst; Mrs. Pat Helm Hissong, Elmhurst, and Mrs. Jean Ellor, Clarendon Hills.

DR. ROBERTS

VISITORS will see how their support of Easter Seals provides care and treatment of crippling conditions.

Last year 107 county residents received direct treatment as prescribed by their physicians. Seventy-one were children and 36 adults. The majority of patients were afflicted with cerebral palsy. Other conditions treated were: arthritis, congenital deformities, fractures, multiple sclerosis, and polio.

A total of 3,341 treatments were given in physical, occupational and speech therapy. In addition, 82 treatments were given in homes of patients unable to get to the Center, by the occupational therapists. Physical therapy for homebound patients is a hope for the near future.

PRE-SCHOOL enrollment totalled 19, of whom 12 were prepared for entry into either public schools or special education rooms.

The open house Sunday will precede the 1962 Easter Seal campaign which begins March 15 and will continue through Easter Sunday, April 22. (Z

Great Books Leader Course Is Planned

Training for leadership in Great Books Discussion will be given at the Wheaton Public Library, 102 E. Wesley St., Wheaton on March 21.

The 10 week course open to the public is sponsored by the Great Books Foundation. The free course is designed to train discussion leaders for Great Books groups to be formed in the western suburbs in the fall, L. B. Snider, 4N252 Church Road, Bensenville, local discussion leader, said.

No special academic requirements or previous group experience is required of potential leaders. Interest in good reading and discussion are the only prerequisites.

TRAINEES will meet in weekly two-hour sessions which will concentrate on demonstration discussions, practice leading, and critiques. The training staff of the foundation will conduct the courses.

The Great Books program for adult education is based upon reading and discussing great books of western civilization which give insight into the ideas of great thinkers. Works by Plato, Shakespeare, Adam Smith, and Tolstoi are studied.

Additional information on the course can be obtained from Snider at PO. 6-6311 or from Mrs. William Jordan, west suburban coordinator at FL. 4-5189. (Z

Revenue Reform Is Needed: Krusemark

Views on revenue reform were spelled out in detail by Albert H. Krusemark, Republican candidate for State Senator in the 41st Senatorial District, in appearance before DuPage and Will County audiences this week.

He is in favor of revision of the state Revenue Article, Krusemark said, to meet present conditions and to permit the classification of property for tax purposes.

KRUSEMARK asserted that, as a State Senator, he would fight for equalization of the tax structure "so as to cut down or decrease the disproportionate share of real estate taxes borne by the property owner, the home owner, the farm owner and the business owner."

"Today, from the county level on down, the property owner is paying over 80 per cent of all our taxes," Krusemark pointed out. "This is creating an undue burden on the property owner, who is the backbone of our society. He should not be penalized.

"A very thorough and intelligent and bipartisan study must be made of our entire revenue structure to eliminate the present tax inequities." (Z

Bemis Says Delinquents Must Pay

"I recommend manual, menial labor performed in full public view as punishment for juveniles in malicious property damage cases," Mark Bemis, Republican candidate for county judge in the April 10 primary has been telling audiences throughout the county.

"Firmness in handling juveniles, tempered with fairness, is the policy I would pursue if I were county judge," he said.

SPEAKING often to women, mothers of children and teenagers, the candidate expounded his views on the handling of such court cases.

"I do not believe in giving the well-heeled big wheel any more of a break than should be given a working man of modest means," Bemis has stated.

"Fairness and impartiality in metering out the law should be coupled with mercy when deserved," he declared.

BUT YOUNG people who deliberately commit acts of vandalism should be handled with firmness, Bemis stated.

"If a kid destroys someone's property, I believe he, not his parents, should be the one to pay for it. And I believe he should be punished for his act in such a manner that he would not again be inclined to such behavior." (Z

Trustees Refer Proposal

Modernization of Village Code Is Sent to Committee

Roselle Village Board has referred to committee a proposal to modernize the village code.

Lyman Gould, chairman of the ordinances and plats committee, moved at the Feb. 26 meeting that the village hire someone to index ordinances passed since 1956.

His fellow trustees did not agree with Gould on the proper means of updating the village code to include ordinances passed since the code was adopted in 1956. So, they referred the job of deciding what to do to Gould and the members of his committee, Anthony Morici and Darold Wolt.

THE VILLAGE code carries an index of ordinances numbered up to 200. Since the 1956 code, ordinances, as they were passed by the village board, accumulated in binders. They were not listed in an index.

When Mrs. Mildred Winkler became village clerk in 1957 she began with ordinance number 221 to keep a list of the new ordinances by number, year and subject. For instance, "1959-51" is titled "regulating and licensing bicycles."

However, the only complete collection of village ordinances is in the village clerk's office. Mrs. Winkler used to sell the village code to the public; but it became so outdated, since the ordinances passed since 1956 weren't included, that she stopped selling them.

Mrs. Winkler said that anyone who wishes to learn provisions of an ordinance need only leaf through the binders which contain them, or consult the index in the pre-1956 code, depending upon the date it was passed. If a person can't find the ordinance he is looking for, she will help.

GOULD'S objective, as he expressed it at the Feb. 26 board meeting, was to cross index ordinances. A file card cross index would be organized by subjects. A person would consult a subject and find the number and location of all the ordinances pertaining to one subject. And there might be as many as four or five or more.

This is the procedure recommended by the Illinois Municipal League.

Trustees doubted, though, that anyone besides an attorney would be able to read all the ordinances as required, and cross index them correctly.

Such a person would have to eliminate those ordinances which the board has repealed; notice overlapping ordinances—such as several which pertain to sidewalks, and recognize those ordinance which should be repealed but haven't been. Among those in the latter category are ordinances pertaining to boundaries, annexation and tax levies.

GOULD countered with the suggestion that a clerically-trained person partially cross index those passed since 1956 by noting on cards only title and number. An attorney could be retained to do the actual cross referencing.

Trustees opposed the post-1956 approach. Many ordinances passed before 1956 still are pertinent today, they noted.

An alternative to cross indexing would be reprinting the village code—amended to include ordinances passed since 1956 and excluding those repealed and duplicated—and passing it as a new code. The simple index in front would refer to ordinances contained in the index by title and number.

THERE ARE other inconsistencies in the village ordinances besides duplications and survival of those repealed. Modernizing and tightening describes the work which must be done in some areas.

For instance, there is no ordinance setting a penalty for not buying a village vehicle sticker, although an ordinance states that the deadline for buying them is Jan. 1. Police take up the slack in the law by issuing summonses after a certin fluid deadline date—Feb. 15, this year. The usual fine is $2.

3 Safety Measurers Suggested by Firm

The insurance firm which writes liability coverage for the village of Roselle suggested three safety measures in a letter read at the village board meeting Monday night. They asked that officials inform them when the village has complied.

The board reacted immediately. Village President Albert Jordan told Albert Botterman, superintendent of public works, to cut off a ladder to the top of the water tower at a height of six feet above the ground "tomorrow." He told Mrs. Mildred Winkler, village clerk, to tell the insurance company that it had been done.

THE INSUROR asked for two precautions at the pond on N. Roselle Road. Check the ice regularly for thickness and post "no skating" signs when it is not thick enough; and install a Cyclone fence six feet high around the pond or grade the banks so they do not drop off into a "deep hole."

Mrs. Winkler was directed to send copies of the letter to the park board, since the pond is their jurisdiction, and to police who could check thickness of the ice.

Zoning Board and Trustees to Meet

The Roselle Zoning Board of Appeals has invited village trustees to their first twice-monthy meeting, 7:45 p.m. Thursday (tonight) in the village hall.

The board will select a regular semi-monthly meeting time.

Two new members will be introduced to the zoning board and the village board. They are Dale Gabel, 56 W. Granville St., and Karl Maier, 138 W. Forest St.

THE AGENDA for the meeting schedules the zoning board to decide whether or not to conduct a public hearing or to reverse its verdict to permit a special use of a lot owned by Midwest Folding Building Products Co. at 5 S. Roselle Road as a cartage facility. The board has allowed variations in width of a side and a rear yard.

The zoning board will conduct all public hearings on zoning appeals at its semi-monthly meetings. If no hearings are scheduled they will discuss the theory and practice of zoning.

In a letter inviting the village board to the meeting tonight, Thomas McAvoy, chairman of the zoning board, wrote that the board will discuss zoning enforcement, "having heard the opinion expressed that the persons who try to abide by zoning regulations do not fare as well as those who ignore them." Also Spray Elms

Map Annual War on Bugs

The Roselle Village Board Monday night authorized mobilization for the annual war on mosquitoes this summer. They voted also to spray Elm trees to kill the Dutch elm beetle larvae "as soon as weather permits."

Clark Outdoor Spraying Co. of La Grange was awarded contracts for both jobs — from $1,735 to $2,340 for mosquito spraying, depending upon how often it rains and number of sprayings, and $954 for spraying the Elm trees. This is the same firm which has done both jobs in the village for the past several years. Trustees have been satisfied with the firm's performance.

CLARK WILL spray six to eight times for mosquitoes this year. Besides, he may be asked to spray again, at additional cost, at the end of the season probably in October. Last year a number of people complained of the persistence of the mosquitoes in October, after Clark finished his spraying schedule.

The war on mosquitoes will include "mosquito control" — spraying a half-mile creek, 10 small potential breeding areas, 15 acres of marsh and 58 sewer catch basins to kill the mosquitoe larvae.

Elm trees will be sprayed when the temperature rises above 35 degrees and wind velocity is less than 10 m.p.h. The objective is to spray as far in advance of the return of birds from winter migration as possible, to avoid killing or injuring the birds with the lethal element in the spary.

CLARK WILL spray about 650 trees on parkway, besides streets, owned by the village.

Kenneth Hunter of Geneva, village forester, is firm in his belief that spraying hinders the spread of Dutch elm disease.

Lyman Gould, chairman of the forestry committee of the village board, said he agrees with Hunter. Last year, he said, most of the diseased Elm trees in the village were located in Branigar's Greenwood Valley subdivision at the southeast end of the village. This area, which was annexed to the village in March, 1960, was sprayed for the first time last year.

Village Trees

The village pays only to have village-owned trees alongside streets sprayed against Dutch elm disease. If anyone wants the same firm which sprays village trees to spray trees on his property he may contact the firm, Clark Outdoor Spraying Co., 200 Hayes St., La Grange, FL 4-1970.

TEEN TOPICS

By CANDI PRICHARD

One of the saddest things about being a Senior is knowing that soon our friends will be leaving. We are more aware of this when some of them leave earlier than others.

Jill Crawford, a close friend I've known since fifth grade, left for the Navy a few days ago. We were very proud of her because she is the only girl in our area that has been admitted to the Navy without a high school diploma, on the strength of her outstanding scores in entrance examinations.

I remember when she went down to take them. She was nervous. She said they were difficult, but still she came out with a top-notch score.

While Jill was waiting for her two-week notice, she started catching up on one of her hobbies. She loves to write poetry and prose. She's even written an imaginative short story that sounds like something from "The Twilight Zone." She says only half jokingly she is going to write a novel about the town and friends she loves.

Music is another of her great loves. It was hard for her to part with her cherished record collection, but she finally decided to split them between Marilynn Pemberton and myself. We'll keep them for her until she comes back, if they're not worn out by then.

When she went down to sign in the day she left she became friends with several other girls in the waiting room. They're already planning a combo. Jill's mother will send her trumpet later. By the way, she played first trumpet in the Lake Park High School band— and that's pretty good.

JILL IS also service minded. We used to be Candy Stripers together for Sherman Hospital in Elgin. We'd take the coffee carts around to all the floors or we'd be on call duty. Jill always seemed to make friends with the patients.

I could tell then that she loved hospital work. She wants to take hospital training in the Navy. She's not sure what type of hospital work she likes best, but she'll be good, whatever she does.

As time for her departure drew nearer, Jill became nervous and a little scared. She's lived in Roselle most of her life. Her family and all her friends are here.

WE HAD a going-away party for her several weeks ago. She was so touched that she suddenly felt she didn't want to go. But, Jill called her mother only a day or two after she arrived at her training camp in Bainbridge, and said she loves the Navy and is very happy.

Jill Crawford was only the first one. There will be others of us. One by one we'll be leaving our families and friends and every thing we've ever known to start a new, exciting life. (R

Two Projects Slated

Bids Are Sought for Water Tower, Plant

The Roselle Village Board has invited bids for contracts to build a water tower and an addition to the sewage treatment plant and given notice to contractors that bids will be opened at 9 p.m. March 26.

The new 250,000-gallon water tower will be built next to a water pumping station on Irving Park Road, opposite the Ardmore Avenue intersection. Village Engineer J. Richard Koehler estimates it will cost $77,868.30.

ADDITION TO the sewage treatment plant will cost an estimated $202,038. But, the village will receive 30 per cent of the cost from the Federal government. If the estimate is the same as the total of contract costs, the village will receive $60,611.40 which does not have to be repaid.

Total cost to the village of the treatment plant addition and water tower, then, is $221,868.30. This amount will be financed by issuing revenue bonds. They will be paid off with the money residents pay for sewer and water service.

The "Notice to Contractors" published in trade and professional journals and the Roselle Register states that construction of the treatment plant work must begin "on or before the first day of June, 1962 and shall (be completed). . .on or before the 31st day of December, 1962."

JAMES WOLBER, chairman of the village board sewer and water committee, estimated that the water tower would be built by August 31.

The addition to the sewage treatment plant is needed, engineering studies show, to serve a larger population which is expected.

The water tower will increase water pressure throughout Roselle by eight pounds. In style of construction it will look like a golf ball on a tee.

Trustees Split Over Clauses in New Code

Bloomingdale trustees differed sharply over some of the clauses in a proposed new building code for the village at a village board meeting last week.

Disputing William Pope's recommendation that the village require a 10-year guarantee on water heaters in new homes, trustee Emil Zidek charged that "this is telling the builder what to do" and is an infringement on the rights of the individual.

POPE CONTENDED that the clause would protect purchasers of homes for which the builder had provided a water heater with only a one-year guarantee.

Zidek argued that it was up to the purchaser to decide whether he wanted such a heater.

The building code, now being written, comes up for adoption at a future board meeting.

Tempers flared again when Pope submitted for passage the new section of the village code dealing with public improvements for subdividers.

ZIDEK CLAIMED he hadn't had time to study the proposal and shouldn't be expected to vote on it.

Pope contended that the proposal was the same as had previously been submitted.

"You could have deleted or added something," Zidek asserted.

"We didn't" retorted Pope.

"Well, I won't take your word for it," was Dr. Zidek's reply.

The board split in half on the voting, Flexman and Lang siding with Zidek. Village president Edward Barber broke the tie vote by approving the code section.

Lions Club Gets Set for Circus

Although circus time isn't until June 22, Bloomingdale's Lions Club this week were big-top-minded as a telephone campaign for ticket sales began in the village.

Telephones were installed in the village hall where circus company personnel contacted area residents for advance sale of tickets.

Proceeds of the circus will benefit the boys and girls program of Bloomingdale. (R

Plat Is Approved For New Building

The building committee of the Roselle Plan Commission Thursday night approved a preliminary plat of the new Town Hardware building, to be located at Maple and Ardmore, south of the Pure Oil station.

Owner Homer Lang, who presently operates the store on Irving Park Road, submitted the plat which included a 70 by 101-foot building.

The building committee noted that the plat provides for ample parking, an entrance on Maple Street, and exits on Maple and Ardmore.

THE COMMITTEE questioned the street dedication indicated on the plat as the Ardmore Street exit and asked that evidence of the easement or ownership be shown.

The proposed development was turned over to the village board.

The property already is zoned B-2. The southern part of the lot would probably be developed at a later date.

Monday night the village board approved the plat except for that part of it which shows an exit onto Ardmore street.

Sunset Hills Cub Pack 95 'Knighted'

"Knights of Yore" was the theme of the Tuesday evening pack meeting of Sunset Hills Cub Scout Pack 95, held at Schaumburg Junior High School. Friends and relatives watched the scouts, dressed in suits of armor and helmets, engage in mock battles.

Participants were Richard Burchardt, Larry Bock, David Daniels, Tommy Kline, Paul Rembas, Patrick Mitchell, Bobby Seelbach, Tommy Seelbach, Dennis Barr, Tommy Thompson, Dale Bond and Michael Dempsey. Raymond Bock heralded each event with a bugle call.

Bob Seelbach refereed the proceedings, after which the scouts were "knighted" by "King Arthur," Cubmaster Carl Mitchell. (HR

the Loaf that became a Legend....

WAY BACK IN 1856, St. John's Abbey and University were founded. From the start, the monks baked a wonderful grain-rich bread from an age-old monastic recipe. The thick, brown, hearty loaves became a tradition.... a special trade-mark to the thousands of St. John's men who enjoyed it. Graduates write for it, come back for it.

NOW, this old-abbey bread, with its rare, natural flavor and quality, is being baked for you. You'll find it fresh at most good food stores, in the original ROUGH-GRAIN DARK loaf, and in WHITE. Ask for it, try it, you'll agree:

Village Board Study Set

Stress Sidewalk Role In Protecting Pupils

Village Trustee Jack Crabtree Tuesday night told several people who fear, after recent incidents, that school children pedestrians will be injured by motor vehicles that the village board will study possibility of building sidewalks on streets leading to schools. He met with them before a village board meeting.

Crabtree acknowledged that sidewalks — if children walked on them — would be safer than streets, where many children going home from school walk now.

If sidewalks aren't shoveled during the winter, though, children would be walking in the streets anyway, he said.

SIDEWALKS when they are constructed, most likely will be paid for by the people who own the lots behind the sidewalks, rather than by the village, said Crabtree.

Since people in new subdivisions, and some others in other parts of the village, have paid the cost of sidewalks it would be unfair to require those same people to help pay for sidewalks in front of someone else's property, Crabtree reasoned.

In the past people have objected to sidewalks if they had to pay for them. Most others favor sidewalks since they would make it safer for their children to walk to and from school.

Concern over the danger to children was piqued by the child who dashed in front of a school bus last week.

Mrs. Harold Johnson of 225 S. Home St. was driving a school bus west on North Street the afternoon of Feb. 26. She signalled a group of youngsters to get off the street and let the bus pass. They moved to the shoulders, but as the bus began passing them a girl ran in front of it.

Mrs. Johnson swerved sharply, skidded in slushy snow and nosed in a snow drift near the Maple Avenue — North Street intersection.

HERE ARE some other incidents which have occurred.

—A car struck a bicycle on which a boy from St. Luke Lutheran School was riding on North Street last school year. The boy fell clear of his bike which was bent out of shape.

—Recently a boy ran up behind a bus, jumped up and grabbed the handle of the rear emergency door. The door opened and an alarm bell sounded.

—Tuesday a boy rode for a half block on the rear bumper of a bus by clinging to the emergency door handle.

—Children throw rocks at passing vehicles and "touch" them as they pass.

—During the winter children grasp the rear bumpers of cars, brace their feet and slide in the snow.

Mrs. Johnson thinks that parents are responsible for educating their children to walk on sidewalks where they exist and on the shoulders of streets where they don't.

SHE ALSO thinks that only a few children consistently endanger their own lives by reckless pedestrian habits.

Often parents aren't aware that their children are reckless. Mrs. Johnson has taken names of children and even followed them home. She has called parents or talked to them personally, informing them of their children's unsafe acts. In all cases, she said, parents have been appreciative.

It is never possible to achieve complete safety, she acknowledges. This is true if for no other reason than that different children each year begin using the streets like they are big sidewalks.

The problem is most acute on North Avenue and Washington Street, the two thoroughfares on which the two public schools and the Lutheran parochial school are located. But, drivers find motoring a harrowing experience any time children, recently dismissed from school, are walking on any side streets leading away from the schools.

There is general agreement among parents that the possibility that one child will be maimed makes extra effort by parents, teachers and law enforcement officials necessary now.

Limits Hazy; Slows Work On Zone Map

Determination of Bloomingdale's southern village limits has slowed work on a zoning map, according to Village Engineer Ralph Gross.

Gross told village board members Wednesday night, Feb. 28, that he was having trouble finding a description of the exact southern boundary of Bloomingdale.

He said incomplete minutes of zoning board action was complicating his attempt to compile a comprehensive map.

THE VILLAGE engineer also reported that work on a proposed revision and standardization of street numbers in the village was nearly complete. The board was scheduled to to study these recommendations Wednesday night, March 7.

The new street number program would change many present home addresses. (R

Two New Teachers Join High Faculty

The new teachers have begun their duties at Lake Park High School, replacing Mrs. Edna Schramm and Mrs. Janet Stees, who resigned because of pregnancies.

The former Nancy Wheeler, a student counselor who left at the end of the semester cannot be replaced this school year, said Carl Forrester, school superintendent. She was married in December and joined her husband in Indiana. The school board opposed her departure since the job market for counselors is highly competitive and since her contract did not expire until the end of this school year.

MRS MICKEY Lile, wife of the dean of students, is teaching the former Miss Wheeler's physical education classes. Phyllis McConnell of Dwight is a January graduate of Illinois State Normal University, Normal. She succeeds Mrs. Schramm in the business education department.

Mrs. Georgia Schumacker succeeds Mrs. Stees in the homemaking department. Mrs. Schumacher taught school one year after graduation from Michigan State University. East Lansing. She was supervisor of a dining room at Marshall Field and Company, Chicago, until she accepted the position at Lake Park. (I

Collecting Books for Library

St. Luke Lutheran School, Itasca, is in the process of collecting books and other items for a school library.

Principal Jerry Danzer has requested donations of books, magazines, maps, records and slides.

BOOKS needed most are Bible story books, fiction, nonfiction, reference books, Christian literature, pamphlets and pictures and visual aids.

Magazines wanted are Look, Life, Post, Reader's Digest, Popular Mechanics, Popular Science, Children's magazines, Advance, Lutheran Witness and This Day.

The Bookmark

Beginning next Monday, March 12, you can vote in Itasca Public Library for your favorite book.

Ballots will be available. Weekly results will be posted to announce juvenile and adult books that receive most votes. Voting will continue for four weeks, until April 7. Then final results will be given to herald the start of National Library Week.

It may be easier for a child than for an adult to choose a favorite book. Naming a favorite book may be somewhat like "naming the baby" for an adult. When it comes to making a final selection the choice isn't easy.

DO YOU consider a book written by an author of the ancient world, like Homer, Aristotle or Marcus Aurelius to be your favorite? Or would you choose from plays by Shakespeare, Ibsen and Shaw?

What about the narratives of Bunyan, Defoe, Jane Austen, Dickens, Thackeray, Poe, Hawthorne, Twain and Tolstoy?

Some may find their favorite book to be one of poetry by Milton, Wordsworth, Walt Whitman or a book of essays by Emerson, or William James. Contemporaries like Faulkner, Hemingway, Maugham and others may have written the book that will get many readers' votes.

Like the politicians say, "Don't Forget to Vote!"

dot ....

PREPARE TODAY for tomorrow is the new theme of the Library window, arranged again by Mrs. Lois Pringle with the help of the librarian, Mrs. Helen Smith. Books relating to the life of a college student, college entrance and scholarship exams, and bulletins and guides to many colleges are on display and available to the high school student.

In observance of National 4-H Club Week, March 3 to 10, the Itasca Little Women 4-H Club arranged a window display to show their activities and program and to invite interested girls to join them.

Any organization wishing to use the library window for display may do so on request to Mrs. Smith, head librarian. (I

Here's HAUGH to Plan a Party

THURS., MAR. 8, 1962

Plan a Johnny Appleseed Party

By DOLORES HAUGH

John Chapman, better known to all the legend-loving people of the world as "Johnny Appleseed" died in Allen County, Ind. March 11, 1847. As the story goes he walked across the country with apples in a sack slung over his back and he carried a cane.

He ate the apples and after he had eaten them he poked a hole in the earth and planted the core thus spreading apple trees to mark forever his path through this life. What a tribute and what a purposeful life it was. So in his memory and with thanks you can plan a Johnny Appleseed party. This is a theme that is adaptable to any age group but here we will treat it as a birthday and will insert ideas for other age groups, too.

INVITATIONS

What else but a shining bright apple cut from red shelf paper with a felt leaf. On the reverse side which will be white cardboard type the following verse:

Over hills and in the valleys,
By the roadsides 'long the way,
Came a bent but agile stranger,
That stopped close by one day.
He ate his apple slowly and then
Though 'twas a chore
With his twisted cane he made a hole
And planted there the core.
This was JOHNNY APPLESEED who lived
And passed this way
To leave a lovely apple tree to
Bear fruit for all someday.
So now we are to celebrate
His deeds with fine intent
And to Old Johnny's memory
Host name birthday (or our party) will be spent.
State time, place and ask that the children or guests bring their gift package decorated with bright apples.

DECORATIONS AND PREPARATIONS

Of course if you can find an old branch and sink it in sand in a pail this will be the main attraction of the Johnny Appleseed party. Tie on prizes wrapped in newspaper to make them round and then covered with red crepe paper, enough prizes for each guest. Intermingle them with real apples and paper leaves and you will be well on your way not only for decorations but for a place to eat, as well as a new idea for prize distribution.

The idea of sitting under the appletree in the middle of March for a picnic is fun, too, and if you plan a box menu it might include sandwiches, apple juice for the beverage, apple shaped cookies, and of course, a real apple. If the hostess or host's mother or father is willing they may even dress up as old Johnny and sit down to relate some of the things that happened to him in his journey across the United States.

This can come from your imagination, your own traveling experiences or may be tuned to what you saw at a circus in one town, a zoo in another, a story you overheard in Texas. But this would be the high point of the party.

GAMES

Games and/or dances could circle around apples, if you will excuse the pun with The Big Apple, or any variation according to the "twist" you want to give it for the age group invited. Hide the appleseeds, which may be just paper seeds tucked in various places around the room. And who said you could only bob for apples on Halloween?

So raid the supermarket for a bushel of apples and this column for a bushel of ideas and plant a few of your own. You'll grow an apple tree size party if you try.

Economist Forecasts Expanding Car Market

Expanding purchasing power, changing social trends, and the need for a second car in some 15 million homes are factors moving into reality a 7.5 million annual passenger car market in the United States, Arno H. Johnson, vice president and senior economist of J. Walter Thompson Company, New York, declared Monday. The 1961 production totaled approximately 5.9 million cars.

Addressing a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Metropolitan Ford Dealers Association at the Drake Hotel, Johnson said analysis of the changing economic picture indicates the car market expansion would get under way in the next decade if "vigorous education and selling efforts translate latent needs into insistent demand."

IN A BREAKDOWN of the estimated passenger car potential, Johnson listed the minimum annual replacement at 4.8 million cars. He estimated an additional 700,000 cars from non-owners, 600,000 from new family formations, and 1,500,000 from new two-car families. He regards the replacement market figure as "far too conservative."

Rapidly rising incomes of millions of families, he explained, influence them to take on the desires and habits of those who are now in the income groups above $5,000, which number nearly doubled from 14.4 million families in 1950 to 26.4 million in 1960.

"By 1972," Johnson observed, "our total production of goods and services in the United States should grow to over $835 billion in terms of June, 1961, prices compared with the $516 billion level in mid-1961."

To support this growth, he pointed out, consumer sales must expand about $200 billion to a total of $536 billion from $336 billion in 1961, an increase of over 60 per cent. The $835 billion production by 1972, he said, should provide about $670 billion of personal income for consumers, an average of $10,150 per household for the 66 million households we are expected to have in 1972.

Connection

A written request from Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. McCauley, 714 Memorial Drive, Bensenville, for permission to connect their property which lies outside the village limits, to the village sanitary sewer system, was referred to the board's sewer and water committee last Thursday. (B

Policy Is Valuable

No medical examination is necessary of any subscriber or a family household member if in apparent good health when making application for a Paddock Publications Emergency Protection Personal Accident Policy, a very necessary public service now available through this newspaper.

This outstanding protection program was adopted by Paddock Publications because of our deep concern over the alarming number of accidental deaths and injuries to folks throughout the nation.

EXPERIENCES show that accidents strike people in all walks of life, regardless of age, occupation, finances, time or plan, even here in our own community. The expenses of accidents are costly and few families are prepared to meet such expenses. While the policy cannot possibly be expected to pay all accident expenses, it definitely provides tremendous financial assistance.

This newspaper commends this outstanding service designed by Old Republic Life Insurance Company of Chicago. Application may be made at Paddock Publications office, 217 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights, or by using the handy application form appearing in the newspaper. (BB

Acne is a semi-chronic inflammatory disease of the oil glands and hair follicles of the skin, occurring most often between the ages of 12 and 25.

Because the condition may lead to emotional strain as well as leave physical scars, parents would do well to seek the advice of their family physician immediately when the pimples and blackheads of acne occur, advises the Illinois State Medical Society.

Unfortunately, parents are prone to think of this skin condition as essential to the process of "growing up" and lean to the erroneous belief that the child will outgrow it. Acne is a part of "growing up" in the sense that the glands of the body working normally to maintain the child's growth now increase in activity consistent with advancing maturity.

WHEN ACNE occurs, it is because of a combination of several factors, the chief of which is the skin's difficulty in regulating its glands of lubrication.

Accumulation of oil and dead cells forms balckheads and pimples in the pores or openings of ducts leading from the oil and sweat glands. This often leads to some infection if they are neglected, they may scar the skin permanently, leaving pockmarks.

Because of the pimples, the condition mars one's complexion and children affected often feel that they are shunned by their companions. Thus a feeling of inferiority is apt to develop, which could result in a permanent mental problem.

PROMPT, effective management can make a big difference, because the cause and cure of the disease are known. Because it is not contagious social isolation should not occur.

When a person with acne fails to visit a physician before the condition is well established on face and chest, correction may take months and be too late to avoid scarring. While cleanliness is a factor in the care of the skin, acne does not mean that the person with it has unclean habits.

Treatment consists of extra effort in cleansing the affected parts of the body to help in removing the excess oil. Attention is also directed to improving the general health and living conditions. In severe cases, ultraviolet and x-rays are used, a procedure that must be done by a competent physician. Vigorous squeezing or the use of a stiff brush must not be resorted to. Every effort must be made to avoid damage to the skin.

DIET IS also important in the treatment of acne. Nuts and chocolate should be avoided. A diet, well balanced in all essentials should be followed. Plenty of sunshine and outdoor exercise is essential in the care of the disease.

Acne is no longer a major medical problem and the wise parent will help his child over this so-called tragedy of youth, one which is responsible for many emotional maladjustments.

Allow the physician to decide if the condition is glandular or nutritional—then follow his advice. (S

Recently it has been reported that various cures have been found for Dutch Elm disease. Unfortunately, these reports are not based on fact. Several promising materials are being tested by experiment stations throughout the U. S.

The process of evaluation requires laboratory testing of the materials on the fungus which causes the disease. Materials which prevent growth of the fungus are tried on trees which have been inoculated with the fungus to see if the trees will absorb the material in sufficient quantities to stop the progress of the disease. No material has successfully passed this rigorous test.

LAY PERSONS in various parts of the country have claimed that trees treated with various chemicals have been cured. However, these persons have failed to show that the trees were actually infected with Dutch Elm disease before treatment.

Even with sufficient evidence that the tree was actually infected and survived after treatment, this fact could be attributed as positively to chance as to the treatment. Single cases of cure are not sufficient evidence on which to base recommendations. Until a sure cure is found, the best way to protect elm trees is with proper sanitation measures (prompt removal of dead or dying elms) and an intelligent preventative spray program. The recommended spray is DDT or the safer Methoxychlor, applied before the buds swell in spring. The small twigs must be thoroughly covered. Once the leaves come out the possibility of covering the small branches is reduced. Summer sprays are of little, if any, value and are not recommended.

Much publicity about Dutch elm disease and lack of proper information make the home owner easy prey for unscrupulous "tree experts" with quick cures, or for tree removal crews looking for a quick "buck."

DO NOT BUY any quick cures for Dutch elm disease. Do not cut down a living elm tree not shown by laboratory analysis to be infected with Dutch elm disease.

When in doubt, call on established, reliable nurserymen or your county farm adviser's office. (BB

After the dark, dreary days this winter, some fresh flowers in the home are a cheery sight. Many of the spring flowers can easily be forced indoors before they bloom naturally outside.

Forsythia, pussywillow, redbud, and cornelian cherry are some of the earliest blooming of spring shrubs. Since the flower buds are already formed, these branches can be cut and placed in water in the home. In a few days, the buds will swell and burst into bloom.

REMEMBER, if you cut all the buds off your shrubs, they will not bloom this year, so cut sparingly. Other spring flowering shrubs than the above can be forced in the home. Experiment with the shrubs in your yard and see which ones can be made to bloom by forcing.

If you have any tulip, crocus, hyacinth, or narcissus bulbs which didn't get planted last fall, they can be forced now if they have been pre-cooled by exposure to cold weather all winter. Plant the bulbs in pots; four to six bulbs in each pot. Use a soil mixture of about one-third sand and two-thirds garden loam. Water and drain the pots and set them in a cool (45-50°) dark place in the home where they can form roots and begin to grow. When the shoots come out, move the plants to a warmer, light place but not in direct sunlight. When the shoots turn green set the pots in the south window. Your local florist can supply you with pre-cooled bulbs, or, if you wish, plants already in bloom.

While you are at your florist, get your tickets for the World Flower Show, March 24-April 1, and pick up some assorted flower heads to dress up the green plants in your home. Insert the stems

Support Is 'Good' for Preserves

A petition for creation of a Schaumburg forest preserve by the Cook County Forest Preserve District is receiving good support, Thomas J. Beaulieu, Democratic committeeman, said.

Beaulieu's organization is the originator of the petition. He says that since the county is taxed for the district, and since the county will buy land this year, the people of Schaumburg Township could benefit from it just as well as some other area.

A political opponent in the race for committeeman, Thomas Kruss, had charged three weeks ago a local preserve would increase taxes.

THE STATEMENT at first hurt the petition but after it was explained that no such thing would happen, people began supporting the effort, Beaulieu said.

In a sense, the petition is the putting in of a bid before the district commission.

Resolution

WHEREAS, the Village Council of the VILLAGE OF WOOD DALE deems it necessary to the end that public health, safety, comfort, morals and welfare of the VILLAGE may otherwise be promoted to enter into a pre-annexation agreement between the VILLAGE OF WOOD DALE and EDWARD VIETZEN, in accordance with a petition for annexation heretofore filed by EDWARD VIETZEN for the premises described therein, and

WHEREAS, the present rules, regulations and ordinances of the VILLAGE do not adequately provide for the annexation of property of this kind, nature and improvements, and the existing rules, regulations and ordinances of the VILLAGE OF WOOD DALE pertaining to Trailer Parks are such as to be unreasonable, impracticable, not feasible, and a hardship in this instance, and therefore, inapplicable to the existing VIETZEN TRAILER PARK.

WHEREAS, the Village Council deems it necessary to enter into a pre-annexation agreement with EDWARD VIETZEN to provide for the zoning classification, the making of improvements on said premises, the granting of easements to the VILLAGE for public benefit, the charging of fees, and all other terms and conditions of the annexation of said premises.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE VILLAGE COUNCIL OF THE VILLAGE OF WOOD DALE, COUNTY OF DU PAGE, STATE OF ILLINOIS, AS FOLLOWS:

That the Mayor is hereby authorized and directed to execute on behalf of the VILLAGE OF WOOD DALE and the Village Clerk to attest upon approval of the Village Attorney as to form and legality, an agreement between the VILLAGE OF WOOD DALE and EDWARD VIETZEN, providing for the zoning classification of certain property owned by EDWARD VIETZEN and for which he has filed a petition for annexation to the VILLAGE, and providing further the terms and conditions of annexation of said property into the VILLAGE: said agreement, to be as follows:

PRE-ANNEXATION AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE VILLAGE OF WOOD DALE AND EDWARD VIETZEN

THIS AGREEMENT made and entered into this.....day of .....,A.D. 1962, and executed in duplicate originals (each executed copy constituting an original) by and between the VILLAGE OF WOOD DALE, a municipal corporation, party of the first part, hereinafter called "VILLAGE," and EDWARD VIETZEN, party of the second part, hereinafter called "VIETZEN."

W I T N E S S E T H:

WHEREAS, a petition for annexation of certain property hereinafter described, has been filed with the Village Clerk of the VILLAGE By VIETZEN, and

WHEREAS, VIETZEN has been operating a trailer park for many years on the land sought to be annexed to the VILLAGE, said land being contiguous and immediately outside the limits of the VILLAGE, and

WHEREAS, VIETZEN is desirous of annexing said trailer park to the VILLAGE OF WOOD DALE, only provided certain terms and conditions of annexation are agreed upon prior to said annexation, and

WHEREAS, VIETZEN is desirous of continuing the operation and maintenance of the trailer park as has been done in the past, and therefore, requires a zoning classification of said property to permit a trailer park, and requires that the rules, regulations and ordinances of the VILLAGE pertaining to trailer parks, presently in existence be inapplicable to the VIETZEN TRAILER PARK as unreasonable, impracticable and a hardship upon VIETZEN, and

WHEREAS, it is in the best interest of the VILLAGE and expedient and advisable for said territory to become annexed,

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants and agreements hereinafter set forth, the parties hereto hereby agree as follows:

1. The VILLAGE agrees the property described as follows to-wit: That part of the Southeast quarter of Section 16, Township 40 North, Range 11, East of the Third Principal Meridian described as follows: Beginning on the North line of said quarter section at a point 24 rods West of the Northeast corner thereof; thence West on the quarter section line 20 rods to an iron stake; thence South parallel to the East line of said Southeast quarter 40 rods to an iron stake; thence East parallel to the quarter section line 20 rods to an iron stake; thence North 40 rods to the place of beginning (excepting therefrom the West 4 rods thereof heretofore conveyed to William Buchholz by warranty deed dated March 24, 1891 and recorded March 26, 1891, Book 65 of Deeds, Page 546 as Document No. 45078) in Du Page County, Illinois and
The South half of the East 6 chains of the South 8.33 chains of Lot 4 in School Trustees Subdivision of Section 16, Township 40 North, Range 11, East of the Third Principal Meridian in Du Page County, Illinois be annexed and be zoned so as to permit VIETZEN to operate and maintain a trailer park upon its annexation into the VILLAGE.

The VILLAGE also agrees that the property described as follows: That part of the East half of Section 16, Township 40 North, Range 11, East of the Third Principal Meridian described as follows: Beginning at a point in the East line of said section 110.22 feet South of the quarter section corner; thence North along said line 110.22 feet to the quarter section corner; thence South 88° West on said quarter section line 396.0 feet; thence South parallel with said East line 110.22 feet; thence East 396.0 feet to the place of beginning, being a part of Lot 4 and 5 of School Trustees Subdivision of Section 16, Township 40 North, Range 11, East of the Third Principal Meridian (except legal highways) in the Township of Addison, Du Page County, Illinois, be annexed to the VILLAGE OF WOOD DALE as residential property.

2. VIETZEN agrees to pay the VILLAGE as an annexation fee the sum of One Hundred and no/100 Dollars ($100.00) per acre for the property so annexed.

3. VIETZEN agrees to install at his own expense, in lieu of hook-on fees, a twelve (12") inch sanitary sewer line across the property to be annexed, according to the plans as laid out by Village Engineer WALTER ASHDOWN.

4. VIETZEN agrees to grant to the VILLAGE, a sewer maintenance easement over the area where the twelve (12") inch sanitary sewer line is to be installed. This easement is granted to specifically allow the VILLAGE access to said sewer line for the purpose of maintaining, repairing or replacing any and all parts of said line. The VILLAGE shall restore the land to its original condition after performing any work thereon. No permanent structure shall be erected directly over said twelve (12") inch sewer line without the consent of the VILLAGE. VIETZEN shall have the right to park trailers over said property covered in this easement and over said sewer line, but shall cause said trailers to be moved promptly at VILLAGE request, at his own expense in the event it is necessary to move said trailers to maintain said sewer line.

5. VIETZEN agrees to pay the VILLAGE the further sum of Three Hundred Ten and no/100 Dollars ($310.00) as and for inspection fees of work to be performed on said property and for inspections of sewer hook-ons for all 77 trailers.

6. The parties hereto agree that seventy-seven (77) trailers shall be allowed to be placed on the property to be annexed for trailer park usage, and VIETZEN agrees not to exceed that number.

7. VIETZEN agrees to pay the VILLAGE a license fee of $1.00 per calendar month per trailer, fifteen or more days to be considered a full calendar month, said fee not being subject to change before a lapse of seven and one-half (7½) years, at which time any change in fee to be not more or less than ten (10) per cent of the fee then in force, the same adjustment following each seven and one-half (7½) year period. The fee is payable at the end of each calendar quarter, a report on the number of trailers parked in said park, as well as the date and arrival or departure of any trailers during a calendar quarter to be submitted to the VILLAGE at the end of said calendar quarter.

8. VIETZEN agrees to pay the VILLAGE a sewer usage fee per trailer in the same amount as that charged by the VILLAGE against residents using the sewer.

9. VIETZEN agrees that all underground utilities and blacktopping of all roads on said property to be annexed shall be in and completed within five (5) years of its annexation into the VILLAGE.

10. The VILLAGE agrees that the requirements for operation and regulation of the VIETZEN trailer park shall not exceed those set forth by the State of Illinois for the regulation and control of trailer parks. However, the VIETZEN Trailer Park shall be subject to all other legal rules and regulations of the VILLAGE. Part of the consideration for the sewer easement and sewer installation is that the rules and regulations pertaining to trailer parks adopted by the VILLAGE will not adversely affect the operation of the trailer park by VIETZEN.

11. VIETZEN agrees to pay the VILLAGE a semi-annual inspection fee of $25.00 every six (6) months for the purpose of examining the sewer installation.

12. VIETZEN and the VILLAGE agree that if said property is no longer used as a trailer court and a trailer court is no longer operated and maintained upon said property, then said property shall be re-zoned as residential property.

13. In the event the VILLAGE does not annex the VIETZEN property and re-zone the VIETZEN property for trailer park usage for any reason whatsoever, this contract shall become null and void and the parties shall revert to their status prior to the execution of this contract and neither party shall be bound by any of the terms of this contract, and any easement granted hereunder by VIETZEN shall be null and void.

14. It is further agreed by and between the parties hereto that the sewer maintenance easement is being granted and the sewer installation is being completed by VIETZEN as part of the consideration of this contract and that the fees set forth herein have been set based specifically on the considerations being accomplished by VIETZEN. In the event the VILLAGE shall increase any of the fees over and above the amounts set forth in Paragraph 7 or Paragraph 11, the VILLAGE shall be obligated to reimburse VIETZEN in an amount similar to the increase, said amount being specifically for the sewer installation and the granting of the sewer easement.

15. No officer, official or agent of the VILLAGE has the power to amend or alter this agreement or to waive any of its conditions or to bind the VILLAGE by making any promise or representation not contained herein.

16. The authority of the Mayor and Village Clerk to execute this agreement is evidenced by the Resolution of the Village Council to execute this agreement passed on the 19th day of February, 1962, and recorded in the Journal of Proceedings of the Village Council for said date.

17. This contract shall inure to and be binding upon the heirs, administrators, executors, successors and assigns of the parties hereto.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the VILLAGE OF WOOD DALE has caused this agreement to be signed in duplicate originals (each signed copy of which constitutes an original) by its Mayor and its corporate seal to be hereto affixed and duly attested by its Village Clerk, and EDWARD VIETZEN has caused the same to be signed in duplicate originals (each signed copy of which constitutes an original).

CONGRATULATIONS TO WILLOWBROOK HIGH'S Ed Leppert!

The scrappy little Warrior wrestled his way to second place in the state finals held this past weekend at Arlington High School.

And, as a matter of fact, only a mere five seconds stood between Leppert and Willowbrook's first state championship.

Leppert, who rolled into the state meet upon the crest of 13 straight victories during the season, easily advanced to the final round of the 95-pound division with impressive wins in preliminary bouts.

Opposite Leppert in that championship battle was Bernie Mehaljevic of Reavis, a boy that Leppert had beaten, 3-1, for the sectional title just one week ago.

And before the final buzzer sounded, these two bantam roosters brought an overflow crowd of 4,000 spectators to their feet screaming their approval.

The first period was relatively uneventful with neither boy gaining an advantage. Winning the flip of the coin, Mehaljevic chose the "up" position at the outset of the second period and compiled a considerable amount of riding time during the round.

With only a matter of seconds remaining in the period, Leppert was awarded a point on a penalty and he headed into the final session in possession of a precarious 1-0 lead.

Leppert was "up" in the third period and Mehaljevic capitalized on this situation for an escape to knot the count at 1-1 with the remaining seconds rapidly slipping away.

The situation now was this. Although the score was tied at one-all, Mehaljevic had amassed sufficient riding time during the second period to entitle him to the decison should the deadlock prevail.

BUT THEN WITH 1:05 REMAINING, Leppert struck. He dropped upon his man like a tiger and, although he didn't get the pin, he did pick up two points for a takedown. All Leppert had to do now was hang on for one more minute.

For 54 seconds Ed thwarted his opponent's frantic efforts but on that 55th second, Mehaljevic broke loose and reversed Leppert to tie the score at 3-3. Moments later the final buzzer sounded and it was that second period riding advantage that decided the bout in Mehaljevic's favor.

Intensely striving for victory, disappointment draped the face of Leppert as he accepted his runner-up medal. But Ed's coach, Clyde Dilly, and all those who knew the Willowbrook senior could feel nothing but pride in a boy that had accomplished what Leppert had in this the most grueling of schoolboy athletic events.

THOSE WHO WERE IN ATTENDANCE at Arlington High over the weekend bear witness to the fact that the Chicagoland area is unquestionably the wrestling capital of Illinois. Saturday's amazing crowd at Arlington was the largest ever to attend a state wrestling meet in Illinois.

The suburban schools particularly emphasize wrestling and traditionally turn out the better teams with few exceptions. For these reasons alone, would it not seem logical to hold the state tournament in the suburbs each year.

Eventually, we believe that the tournament will be moved to this area permanently but, as for next year, it's back to Champaign.

Wrestling no longer can be considered a minor sport in a strict interpretation of the term, alhough it does not pack the spectator-appeal of basketball. Yet, at Reavis High in Oak Lawn, wrestling is "the sport" and the Rams have become particularly effective in their specialty.

Reavis set a new state record for team points scored in a state tournament with 63. Buried well back in second place was Waukegan with 36 points. The title was the second in succession for the Southwest Suburban Conference Rams.

But, by now the wrestling equipment has been tucked away for another year and King Basketball has the spotlight all to himself.

1961-62 'Dream Team'

North Chicago Lands Three Tri-County All-Star Berths

Noth Chicago's seemingly-unbeatable Warhawks walked off with three of the five berths on the 1961-62 Tri-County Conference All-Star basketball squad selected recently by rival league coaches.

The Hawks, who have traditionally dominated the Tri-County in almost every athletic endeavor since the league's inception five years ago, landed Les Long, Bill Liskey and Ron Greathouse on the "dream team."

SECOND TEAM

Doug Hall (Cary-Grove).....Forward
George Stump (Lake Park)..Forward
Lee Weston (Mundelein).....Center
Rick Schimmel (Lake Park)..Guard
Keith Jensen (Elmwood Pk.)..Guard

Rounding out the first team selections are Dick Roll of Lake Park and Mundelein's Greg Merriam.

LAKE PARK'S second place Lancers headed the second team with two representatives. Second-team Lancer choices were Rick Schimmel and George Stump.

Also named to the second team were Doug Hall of Cary-Grove, Lee Weston of Mundelein and Keith Jensen of Elmwood Park. Neil Cangiolosi of Elmwood Park and Cary's Ted Frisch gained honorable mention recognition.

Of the 12 boys mentioned by the coaches, three are juniors. They are Merriam, Roll and Cangiolosi.

TALLEST MEMBER of this winter's all-star unit is Lake Park's Roll at 6-foot-4, while Elmwood Park's Jensen is the smallest at 5-foot-9.

Despite a lack of significant size, the team is characterized by the presence of several extremely strong rebounders. Included in this category are boys like Long, Merriam, Roll, Hall and Weston.

Probably the standout individual on this winter's aggregation is Les Long of North Chicago. Despite the fact that he played at least two and in most cases four less games than most of the other leading scorers in the conference, Long still registered the top season total of 186 points, or 23.3 per game.

RANKED BY many as North Chicago's all-time best all-around cager, Les established a new career scoring mark for Lake County with 1,230 tallies for three years of varsity competition. Long will add to that record during North Chicago's tournament appearances.

Liskey and Greathouse rank among the best backcourt combinations in the state this winter. Both are excellent ball-handlers and dead shots.

Dick Roll of Lake Park has done a tremendous job of filling the gap created by the graduation of Joe Gorski last June. For 12 conference games, the Lancer junior averaged just a shade under 14 points a game.

GREG MERRIAM finished up as third-place Mundelein's top scorer in conference play with 141 points. Merriam will be one of the boys around whom Dick Starkey may build a championship quintet next season.

STUMP AND Schimmel were two of the boys primarily responsible for Lake Park's success this season. Both consistently scored in double figures and were particularly strong on defense.

It could be said with but little exaggeration that Doug Hall and Tim Frisch were over 60 per cent of Cary-Grove's offense. The two Trojan hotshots combined for 278 of Cary's 493 total conference points.

Lee Weston, an All-Conference football selection, averaged almost 12 points a game and ranked as one of the league's most vicious rebounders.

ELMWOOD PARK'S Jensen, although not a prolific scorer, directed the Tiger attack from his guard position. A good ball-handler, Jensen kept opposing defenders consistently on guard against his knife-like drives.

Neil Cangiolosi, a junior, figures prominently in Coach John Englert's plans for an improved Elmwood Park quintet next winter.

Fenton and Ridgewood failed to gain mention on the All-Conference team.

District Gymnastics Meets Next

Two down and two to go.

That's the situation in the series of Illinois State High School Association winter sports championships.

Champions were crowned in both wrestling and swimming last weekend, and the state-wide basketball eliminations are under way right now.

The gymnasts move to center stage this weekend at three district sites in the Chicago Suburban area to bid for the coveted berths in the state finals on March 16-17 at Willowbrook High School in Villa Park.

DISTRICT MEETS will be held Saturday at Barrington, Elmhurst (York), and Hillside (Proviso West) with the winners of the first ten places in each event qualifying for the state finals. This is the first year that district meets have been held preliminary to the state festivities.

Among the local schools, Arlington, Prospect, and Palatine are hooked up in the 13-team Barrington District with Willowbrook at York.

Each school may enter up to five contestants in the side horse, horizontal bar, parallel bars, and still rings. However, any contestants entered in addition to the three whose scores count, must be all-around entries.

NOT MORE than three may be entered in the all-around. Only three entries from each school in each event may count toward team score. Three contestants may be entered in the tumbling and trampoline events. A team is limited to a total of thirteen (13) contestants.

York High School of Elmhurst is the defending state champions although a wide-open affair is forecast for the forthcoming spectacular.

No finals will be held in the district meets with winners of the first ten places advancing directly to the state.

Tiger Frosh Five Levels Lake Park

Elmwood Park rolled up a commanding 16-8 first quarter and then merely coasted to an easy 56-23 conquest of Lake Park in a freshman basketball game played at Medinah Saturday morning.

Ahead by 10 at intermission, the Tigers outscored the Lancers, 32-9, during the final 14 minutes to complete the route.

Clark and Giraldi paced the victors with nine points apiece but Lake Park's Will Engel captured high-point honors with 15.

The loss was the 13th of the season for Lake Park and 11th in succession. Coach Dick Davis' boys will compete in the Tri-County Conference freshman tourney which opens Saturday at Mundelein.

Reed, Bisons Rip Ridgewood Quintet, 70-43

The Fenton Bisons ended their regular basketball season in a blaze of glory Friday night, downing Ridgewood, 70-43, on the losers floor. It was only the fourth victory of the season for the junior-laden Bison squad.

Coach Phil Hardy started his seniors, who were wearing the Orange and Blue for the last time. The seniors managed to pull out to a 15-9 first quarter lead.

The Rebels scored only two field goals, but netted another five points on free throws for their nine points as the Bisons fouled regularly.

THE SECOND period saw both clubs play even ball, netting 13 points, but the Bisons still led, 28-22, at halftime. The Bison regulars played the third period and pulled away from the Rebs, netting 18 points to give for host school. Carl Reed set the scoring pace during this spurt, netting eight points on four field goals, while Larry Hanson and Keith Peterson both scored four points.

The Bisons committed only four fouls in the period, and Ridgewood scored only one point from the free throw line. Paced by Bill Lurtz, Ridgewood had their best offensive period in the final eight minutes, hitting 16 points.

However, the Bisons also had their best period offensively, swishing 24 points through the nets to total 70 points.

CARL REED set the Fenton scoring pace for the game with 22 points, his best scoring evening of the season. Keith Peterson scored 12 points to take runnerup scoring honors.

Lurtz scored 15 points to top the Ridgewood attack. Pete Kordan netted 10 to take runner up honors.

The Bisons finished their regular season with a four and fourteen record and their best scoring night of the season with 70 points. The previous high was 68 points when they downed Lisle. In conference play the Bisons wound up with three victories and nine losses.

Bisons, LP Eliminated

The preliminaries are over!

The "weak sisters" have been eliminated and it now remains for select survivors of first round action to determine the 60 regional basketball championships around the state during the next two days.

As of this printing, things have gone pretty much in accordance with pre-tourney calculations with only a few scattered minor upsets reported.

With one exception, the top four schools at both the Lombard and Villa Park regionals rolled unscathed through first round firing. The one exception to the rule was provided by Willowbrook which upended fourth-ranked Downers Grove at Villa Park Monday.

At Lombard, top-ranked York butchered Fenton, 93-29, while fourth-seeded Glenbard East subdued West Leyden, 55-48. The two schools met in a semi-final engagement last night (Wednesday).

Tonight's (Thursday) final semi-final contest promises to be a real dogfight. The Tigers of Wheaton will go up against the unpredictable Hilltoppers of Glenbard West with a berth in the championship game at stake GAME-TIME for tonight's contest has been set for 7:30 join the survivor of the York-Glenbard East game in the finals at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

The Glenbard-Wheaton game must be rated a virtual toss-up. Both clubs were relatively impressive enroute to easy first round victories Tuesday.

Glenbard, a 70-53 winner over Lake Park, finished fifth in the rugged West Suburban Conference this winter with a 7-7 mark. Wheaton, on the other hand, placed second in the Interim League with a fine 14-2 record.

KEY TO THE Hilltopper attack is 6-foot-1 forward Brian Farney. An excellent outside shot and a good driver, Farney poured in 18 against Lake Park.

Another bulwark on this Glenbard aggregation is senior Tom Hancock. The 6-foot-2 guard was second in team scoring during the year behind Farney.

If the Bards are to win, they must successfully devise a defense to check Wheaton's high-scoring Jack Hutchinson. Blessed with a deadly jump shot, Hutchinson closed out the conference season with 42 points to capture the Interim scoring title.

TONIGHT'S semi-final engagement at Willowbook promises to be one of the more interesting and most important in the state. Paired off in this one are LaGrange and Proviso East, easy first round winners Tuesday.

The eventual survivor of tonight's game, which will begin promptly at 7:30 p.m., will advance to the championship round opposite the winner of yesterday's (Wednesday) Hinsdale-Willowbrook game.

Game-time for the finale Friday has been set for 8 p.m.

La Grange's West Suburban Conference champions regained their poise Tuesday after a brief letdown as they hammered Proviso West, 76-49. In Tuesday's second game, Proviso East stopped Riverside-Brookfield, 75-53.

THE LIONS are loaded with an abundance of rangy youngsters. High-scoring Fred Chana (6-6) anchors a front line which also includes seniors Paul Smith (6-5) and Dennis Boone (6-3).

Chana, the WSC's scoring champ, was listed among the honorable mention selections on the 1962 Associated Press All-State team released recently.

Proviso also has been in a slump recently, dropping successive Suburban League games to New Trier, Waukegan and Evanston. The Pirates have the height to match La Grange, however, and will be extremely hard to handle.

Stewart Marshall, 6-4, for third place at 154 pounds.

IN THE NEXT two weight classes Niles West's Bob Herkert and Waukegan's Mike Kelly captured individual honors.

Herkert had one tough bout, a 5-4 victory over La Grange's Steve Hanau, en route to the title fracas, and Bob whipped Savanna's Dick Ernst, 7-2, for the championship. Hanau came back for a 2-1 victory over Reavis' Bob Pehanich in the consolation bracket.

Kelly easily was the class of the field at 180 with only one rough bout, a 4-1 victory over Proviso East's Fred Custardo in the semi-finals. Mike disposed of United's Dick Paasch, 8-0, in the most one-sided championship bout of the evening.

Custardo blanked Morton's Lee Mungai, 6-0, in the third place battle.

At heavyweight Waukegan's Billberg picked up his fourth straight victory over Evanston's Pickens, this time to a 3-0 count. York's Eric Avery, the Palatine Sectional runner-up, pinned West Leyden's Duffy Knott, the Palatine Sectional champion, for third place laurels.

Bards Rout Lancers

Tigers, Hilltoppers Post Regional Wins

by DICK GOTTSEGEN

Wheaton and Glenbard West rolled into the semi-finals of the Lombard Regional basketball tournament Tuesday evening with easy first round victories.

In Tuesday's opener, the Tigers of Wheaton Community overcame an early case of jitters in time to hammer Immaculate Conception of Elmhurst, 73-33.

Although the score does not bear witness, Tuesday's nightcap also turned into a one-sided rout as the Hilltoppers of Glenbard West clobbered Lake Park, 70-53.

BY VIRTUE of their victories, the Tigers and Bards move into tonight's (Thursday) semi-final battle. Game-time has been set for 7:30 p.m.

For the opening few moments of the Wheaton-Immaculate Conception contest, it appeared as though a potential upset was in the offing. The scrappy Knights, winless in the Suburban Catholic Conference this winter, hit the first four points of the game.

Yet, there never existed any doubt as to the superior team and the Tigers quickly caught IC midway through the quarter. Heading into the second period, Wheaton led, 14-7.

BUT THE Knights wouldn't quit. Unable to cope with the rangy Weaton quintet inside, IC pumped away from a distance with considerable success.

During that second-period spurt, Jerry Mariani hit three long jumpers and Joe Niemann two to carry the Knights to within four points at the half, 19-23.

But that was it as far as the Elmhurst school was concerned. Coach Al Duhm's boys charged out in the second half and took over for keeps.

AL LANG hit a jump shot and then added a free throw but IC countered with two points on a field goal by Niemann. Eleven straight points by Wheaton, however, decided the issue.

The Knights managed only two more points during the remainder of the period and headed into the final quarter on the short end of an insurmountable 46-23 deficit.

Wheaton's reserves took over in the fourth session and proceeded to outscore their opponents, 27-10, to complete the massacre.

JACK HUTCHINSON and Ken Lock shared high-point honors for Wheaton with 15 apiece. Mariani dropped in nine for the losers.

Once again, Lake Park's Lancers were stopped short in their bid for a first state tournament victory. The sluggish Medinah quintet was unable to keep pace with their quicker opponents.

Despite an overall height advantage, the Lancers were badly outrebounded. The Hilltoppers moved with ease through the slow-to-react Lake Park defense.

NO LESS than four Glenbard starters scored in double figures. Brian Farney led the way with 18 points while teammates Tom Hancock, Walt Larson and Dave Muller contributed 14, 12 and 11 respectively.

Dick Roll, a 6-foot-4 junior, was the whole show for Lake Park. One of the more impressive players on the floor Tuesday, Roll wound up as the game's top scorer with 20 points on nine field goals and a pair of free throws.

The writing was on the wall for Coach Gerry Carpenter's quintet well before the first period had reached its conclusion. The Hilltoppers sprinted out to a 7-1 lead and kept right on going.

A FREE THROW and hook by Roll and Rick Schimmel's jump shot carried the Lancers to within two points but the losers never again were in the game. At the quarter, Glenbard led, 22-8.

The pattern of the game was well established. Glenbard's lead ballooned to 21 points at the half and to 24 at the conclusion of the third session.

In the fourth and final quarter, Lake Park's reserves gained some measure of consolation by outgunning their opponents, 22-15.

ONE OF THE HIGHLIGHTS of the state wrestling tournament last weekend at Arlington High School was the title bout at heavyweight between Evanston's Bob Pickens (back to camera) and Waukegan's Bob Billberg. The unbeaten Billberg whipped Pickens, 3-0, marking the fourth time this season that he had topped the defending state champion .

Warriors Rip Trojans

Lions, Proviso East Win at Willowbrook

Willowbrook's offensive-minded Warriors rolled to their first regional basketball victory Monday, hammering Downers Grove, 77-52, in first round action at the Villa Park toruney.

By virtue of the victory, Coach Jim Toman's quintet joins a select group, which also includes Hinsdale, Proviso East and LaGrange in the semi-finals. The Brooks met Hinsdale last night (Wednesday) while Proviso and LaGrange are scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m. tonight (Thursday).

In Monday's first round opener, Hinsdale subdued grossly underrated St. Procopius five, 63-54. La Grange clobbered Proviso West, 79-46, and Proviso East mauled Riverside-Brookfield, 75-53, in Tuesday encounters.

FOR AT LEAST the first quarter, the Brooks experienced more than their share of difficulties with the Trojans from Downers Grove. The West Suburban outfit jumped out to an early 8-4 lead in the first quarter and seemed to have the situation pretty well in hand.

But Toman's squad hit its stride midway through the period and eventually pulled out to a slim 14-13 advantage at the buzzer.

From then on it was all Willowbrook. The host Warriors outgunned their West Suburban Conference opponent, 23-13, during those next eight minutes to compile a 37-26 bulge at intermission.

KEY TO THAT second-quarter Warrior splurge was junior guard Harlan Krafft who canned 12 of his 24 points during the period. Krafft finished up as the game's top scorer although teammate Bill Bornemann chipped in 16.

The Brooks continued to pour on the steam in the second half, working for 15-14 and 23-12 advantages during the concluding two quarters.

St. Procopius gave Hinsdale all it could handle for three-and-one-half quarters before finally running out of steam. The Redwings, ranked eighth in the regional field, actually backed the mighty West Suburban Conference Red Devils to the wall as a startling upset seemed imminent.

TRAILING BY two at the half, Proco bombed in three quick baskets at the outset of the third period to take a 27-23 lead. But, sparked by Bob Haarlow, the Devils regained the lead at the conclusion of the quarter, 38-34.

Proco again closed the gap, pulling to within three points with 2:30 remaining. But the Wings just couldn't quite catch up as Hinsdale closed strong for its final nine-point triumph.

La Grange and Proviso East were easy winners Tuesday. The Lions opened up a quick 15-3 lead against Proviso West and then merely coasted to their 79-46 victory.

FRED CHANA and Ron Hextell sparked the victors with 21 and 20 points respectively. Les Worcester and Chuck Simons topped Proviso with 12 tallies apiece.

Riverside gave the Pirates of Proviso quite a scare for the first period but that was the extent of the Bulldogs' bid. The Suburban League powerhouse clobbered Riverside in the second period to gain a 33-21 halftime advantage.

Jim Maness and Mike Murphy chucked in 24 and 23 in that order for the Pirates. Randy Herkel had 16 counters for Riverside.

Tiger Sophs Triumph

Lancers Rally; Nip Elmwood Park, 47-46

Elmwood Park's Tigers came to within an eyelash of upending Lake Park's high-flying Lancers last Friday but in the end a furious final minute's rush by the Lancers proved to be enough for a hairsbreadth 47-46 decision.

Elmwood Park, twice conquered by the Lancers in earlier contests of the campaign, employed a shrewd ball-control game and earned for them what appeared to be a solid nine point bulge going into the final round of play.

The Lancers, on the other hand, played well enough, but it took a determined last quarter rally to steam the tide of the Tiger momentum.

CLUTCH performances by Lancer stalwarts George Stump and Dick Roll were particularly instrumental in their stretch drive. Stump, who finished his night's work with 13 points, crammed six of them into the rally, including two field goals and two clutch free throws that in the end clinched the contest.

Roll, unusually silent during the first three quarters, broke loose for a trio of fielders, including a game tying 10-foot hook, with but 1:06 left on the clock.

In this thriller-diller, a look at the box and line scores tells a fascinating story of the game's intensity. For instance, each team bagged 20 field goals and at the line, Lake Park got the dege by canning seven for 10 as compared to the Tigers six for 12.

EQUALLY close was the assessment of personal fouls with Lake Park drawing 10 as compared to nine for the host team.

Also noteworthy were the quarter scores. At the end of the first heat, the count was even at 17-17. In this quarter the Tigers stung the nets at a 77 per cent clip, hitting eight for 11 from the field. At half time Lake Park held a 24 to 23 edge.

The second half of play took on an entirely different complexion of play which featured both teams taking turns at dominating the play for a quarter.

THE TIGERS out-scrambled the Lancers, 16-6 during the third period and the Lancers bounced back with a 17-7 jolt to beat the Tigers to the wire by a whisker.

High point honors for the night went to diminitive Otto Krueger of the Tigers who canned 14. For Lake Park, pivot Tom Schoneck and George Stump were co-leaders with 13 each.

The victory gave Lake Park a record high total of 16 wins against five setbacks and a smart 10-2 conference slate.

IN THE curtain-raiser, Elmwood Park's sturdy sophomore five laced the locals by a convincing 60-38 final. The Tigers enjoyed a sharp night from the field, netting 24 field goals to the Lancers' 16.

The host team rolled to a 28-15 halftime advantage and then out-distanced the Lancers, 42-23, in the second half, largely due to a 19-point final period splurge.

Ron Eppinga with 14 points paced nine other Tiger scorers while forward Bob Kramarczyk garnered 16 for the Lancers.

Hutchinson Paces Tigers Over Brooks

by PAUL POTYEN

Wheaton's Jack Hutchinson said good-bye to Interim League basketball in a big way last Friday with 40 points as he led the Tigers to a 78-72 win over Willowbrook.

The outcome of the season's last contest gave Wheaton a 14-2 slate and the Warriors an 8-8 mark.

As for the Warriors, it was a stereotype of most of their other unsuccessful efforts this year. The 'Brooks surged off to a 21-19 first quarter lead that was cut to an even 37-37 score at the half. Hutchinson and company then took a two-point edge at the three-quarter mark and slowly pulled away.

IT WAS one of Hutch's finest performances of the year, as the 6-foot-6 center hit for 18 field goals. Second high in the contest was WB's Bill Brookhart who was credited wtih 20 points.

Of Willowbrook's eight losses this year, two were overtime matches, another one was double overtime, and one was by four points. Four others were by scores of 50-38 (Glenbrook), 72-62 (Morton West), 66-53, (Maine West), and last Friday's 78-72 loss.

Bill Bornemann took the season individual scoring honors for WB with 251, averaging 15.7 per game. Seniors who saw their final league action were John Bonney, Tom Rivan, Gene Whitehorn, and Dave Jones.

WILLOWBROOK'S Jayvees saw victory slip through their fingers in the final 30 seconds when Wheaton's Tigers triumphed 49-48 in Friday's opener.

After having built up a healthy 31-20 half-time margin, the Warriors lost the lead for the first time wth 30 seconds to go. Willowbrook's Warren Phillips connected on a jump shot with 15 seconds left, but time had been called, so the points were denied the Warriors.

The 'Brooks weren't as fortunate with their second chance and the victory went to second place Wheaton.

Willowbrook wound up with a 9-7 slate. Outstanding players on the squad were Warren Phillips, Ron Laatz, Bob MacKaben, Leyton Lamb, Dick Busch, and Bob Koch.

Fenton Freshmen Nip Cary

Fenton's freshman basketball squad closed out its regularly-scheduled season Monday afternoon by squeezing out a tight 25-24 win over Cary-Grove at Cary.

Coach Paul Henry's Bisons, down by four points at the conclusion of a low-scoring first period, rallied in the second session to take a slim one-point edge at intermission.

FENTON added another point in the third quarter and then successfully stalled out the remaining minute-and-one-half of the fourth frame for the victory.

Jim Siemers captured top individual honors for Fenton with 11 points, including seven in the third period. Stizlitz bagged 10 for the Trojans.

The Bisons, who are 10-8 for the season, will compete in the Tri-County Conference Freshman tournament which begins Saturday at Mundelein.

Knights Advance In DuPage Meet

St. Alexis' Golden Knights Knights rolled into the semi-finals of the DuPage County Seventh Grade Parochial School basketball tournament with a pair of victories during the past weekend.

Coach John Giannini's outfit hammered St. Joan of Arc, 30-16, Friday and then edged past St. Michael's of Wheaton, 24-23, Sunday.

The Bensenville squad will tackle St. Petronelli's of Glen Ellyn in a semi-final encounter at 3:15 p.m. Saturday at the St. Peter and Paul gym in Naperville. Saturday's semi-final opener will match Immaculate Conception against Notre Dame at 2 p.m.

SATURDAY'S winners then will advance to the championship showdown at 2 p.m. Sunday at St. Francis of Wheaton. The first place game will be followed by an eighth grade all-star contest at 3:30 p.m.

Mike Walsh was the key figure in both St. Alexis victories. Against St. Joan of Arc, Mike dumped in 17 points and he followed that effort with 18 counters against St. Michael's.

It was Walsh's 17th and 18th points, obtained at the charity stripe, that gave the Golden Knights their narrow win over the Wheaton quintet.

Also turning in outstanding performances during the weekend for St. Alexis were Joe Tully and Dennis Podkowa.

Three Qualify For Nationals

Three local girls will compete in the National Indoor Speed Skating championships to be held at the University of Illinois, Champaign, this weekend.

Qualifying for the national meet were Holly Kuffel of Wood Dale, Barbara Westlake of Itasca and Pat Soden of Bensenville. All three skated for the Tioga VFW speed skating club during the winter.

Elmwood Jayvees Nip LP

Down by 10 points at the conclusion of three quarters of play, Elmwood Park came up with an amazing fourth quarter rally Saturday to down Lake Park, 54-51, in the final junior varsity game of the season for both teams.

The Tigers, who had beaten Lake Park in a similar manner earlier this season, outscored the Lancers, 17-4, during that torrid final session.

AHEAD by only one point heading into the second period, Lake Park blistered the nets for 21 points to take a 32-21 lead at the half. Bob Rompala whipped in 10 points during that Lancer spurt.

Elmwood chopped off a point in the third quarter before exploding in the final round.

Ron Lewis topped the Tiger attack with 14 points while teammates Soucek and Tomaino contributed 13 apiece. Rompala was high for Lake Park with 14; Bill Hall and Art Wenzel had 12 and 11 respectively.

By virtue of the setback, Coach Larrry Stees' Lancers closed with a 5-5 season mark.

Bisons Fall In Regional; Rams Win

As far as Fenton High is concerned, the 1961-62 basketball season has reached its conclusion.

And for Coach Phil Hardy's crew it was a disappointing, but not a humiliating ending.

Paired off against one of the state's most explosive quintets, the Bisons absorbed a 93-29 beating at the hands of mighty York and thereby bowed out of state tournament play.

The mighty Dukes of the West Suburban Conference, seeded number one at the Lombard (Glenbard East) Regional, treated those in attendance Monday evening to an impressive display of offensive power.

Establishing the pattern of the evening with 26 points in the first quarter, the Elmhurst quintet mercilessly hammered away at its undermanned opponent with a 64-point victory the end result.

For the first two minutes of Monday's debacle, the Bisons kept pace with York. Bill Economos and Carl Reed hit baskets to match the four early points netted by York's Don Anderman.

BUT THAT was it for Fenton. With unbelievable rapidity York shots sailed through the Bisons' net. Anderman hit another two-pointer, followed by buckets by Jim Dawson, Wayne Strauch, George Johnson, Dawson, Johnson, Bob Rudolph and Strauch.

And now, with only two minutes remaining in the first quarter, Fenton trailed, 20-4.

Trailing, 26-7, at the end of the quarter, the Bisons hit only two points in the second session to fall hopelessly behind at the half, 47-9. York's reserves took over in the second half but even then the Duke attack rolled in high gear.

FOUR BOYS hit in double figures. Dawson and Al Malecha led the way with 16 points apiece while teammates Kurt Fowich and Anderman contributed 15 and 10 respectively.

High for Fenton was Economos with nine; Don Adis added six.

In Monday's nightcap, fourth-seeded Glenbard East rallied in the second half to register a come-from-behind 55-48 win over West Leyden.

THE KNIGHTS from Northlake sprinted out to a 10-8 first period lead and hiked that advantage to 25-15 at the half. But the host Rams chopped nine points from that deficit in the third session and then outscored West Leyden, 18-10, in the fourth quarter to salvage the decision.

By virtue of the victory, the Rams qualified for a semi-final berth opposite York. That game was played last night (Wednesday).

Dave Smith sparked the victorious Glenbard squad with 20 points; teammates Paul Rutter and Bill Shirer added nine each. Tom Lundgren was high for West Leyden with 13.

The Fenton sophs won their final basketball game of the 1961-62 campaign Friday night, defeating Ridgewood, 51-46, on the losers' floor. It was the third victory of the season for the Bisons.

RIDGEWOOD continued to outscore the Bisons in the final period, but Fenton had built up too big of a lead for the Rebs to overcome. Ridgewood scored 17 points in the final period, while the Bisons scored 14.

Cliff Romme turned in his best performance of the season Friday, doing a good job of rebounding and setting the scoring pace with 16 points. Norm Jacobsen took second scoring honors with 11 points.

Warriors' Gymnasts Head Interim Meet

Willowbrook's powerful varsity gymnasts had too much strength for the rest of the field last Saturday in the Interim League's first gymnastics meet.

Coach Vic Lesch's Warriors collected 147 points in running away from the ten other schools in the meet staged at the Villa Park school.

Furnishing the most competition for Willowbrook were Proviso West's Panthers, but the Hillside entry was a distant second with 82½ points. Coach Rick Farris' Prospect Knights scored in every event, but had to settle for third with 66½ markers.

SO COMPLETE was Willowbrook's dominance of the meet that the Warriors picked up five individual firsts. Leach's league champions scored more than 20 points in four events and topped 15 in every category of the gym spectacular.

Prospect was consistent in its scoring, but couldn't come up with that big event. Farris' outfit boasted one individual champion with Gary VanderVoort on the parallel bars. Gary racked up scores of 89-90 for an impressive victory.

The individual champs for Willowbrook were Scholz on the side horse, Stein in tumbling, Al Brelig on the high bars, D. Brelig on the still rings, and Dolan on the trampoline.

ALSO SCORING for the Villa Park Warriors were Gebhardt with a second and Minser with a tie for seventh on the side horse; Shirkey with a second and Moore with a fifth in tumbling; Scorza with a fourth on the high bars; D. Brelig and Ballard with a tie for second and Minser with a tie for fifth on the parallel bars; Burgener with a tie for second and Minser with a tie for fifth on the still rings; and Moore with a fifth on the tramp.

Dick Minser claimed a third, Al Brelig a sixth, and Karl Burgener a ninth in the all-around.

PROSPECT HAD two seconds in addition to Gary VanderVoort's first on the parallel bars. Warren VanderVoort gained a runner-up slot on the high bar, and Paul Shaw finished second on the tramp.

Also scoring for the Foundry Road Knights were Bob Sabey with a fourth on the side horse, Jim Smith with a sixth in tumbling, Dan Price with a sixth on the horizontal bar, Dick Liebenow with a fourth and Gary VanderVoort with a tie for seventh on the still rings, and Ray Strobel with a tenth on the trampoline.

Gary VanderVoort was fifth on the all-around to round out the Knights' scoring.

Junior Women Work for Communities

PET PROJECT of Wood Dale Junior Women's Club is the local library, where members over a 2-year period including above clubwomen, Mrs. Joseph Greeley, Mrs. John Murray, Mrs. Robert Terese and Mrs. Carl Chaverin, have donated 300 hours of volunteer service. The local club is among several others in both Cook and DuPage counties competing in the current Community Improvement Program, a nationwide contest sponsored by the Sears Roebuck Foundation and the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Vie for Top Contest Honor

by TOM EDWARDS

Strong competition in the biennial Community Improvement Contest among the nation's women's clubs will be registered from the northwest suburban area again this year.

At least 11 groups are entering the contest sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs. (Deadline for entries was March 1.)

All eight Junior Woman's Clubs in the Seventh District are reported to be entering their projects of the last two years, along with the Junior Woman's Clubs in Wood Dale and Itasca in the 11th District.

Wheeling's juniors brought home honors to this area in the 1960 contest, placing first in the state and sixth in the nation. They appear to be in strong contention again this year.

OTHER AREA communities entering are Arlington Heights, Schaumburg, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove, Mount Prospect and Des Plaines.

Central theme of the Wheeling club's entry are the activities of the Wheeling Community Council, in which their members have been the chief participants. The council was founded by the junior women about two years ago, and was an important factor in their success in the nationwide contest in 1960.

Development of a "sense of community," cooperative community endeavors, is one of the chief criteria in the judging, according to the contest announcement.

WITHIN THE framework of the Community Council, the Wheeling juniors have undertaken "Community Improvement" as a continuing project, and have formed a permanent club Community Improvement Committee.

As a result of a survey taken by the committee, the Wheeling Board of Trustees has approved a $107,000 sidewalk construction program slated to begin this spring.

But beautification of the community is the primary goal of the committee. It conducted through the council an appearance improvement contest among auto service stations last fall, and recommendations have been made to the village board to control billboards, nuisance weeds and to make greater use of the village symbol and planter boxes.

A MAJOR tree planting program for Wheeling has been undertaken by the committee, which has been joined in its efforts by the Jaycees, with the endorsement and cooperation of the Community Council. Also, the woman's club committee is in the process of choosing a village flower, and the joint committee hopes to institute a village tree.

Other projects listed by the Wheeling Juniors in which they have worked in cooperation with other groups are the institution of public bus service to Chicago, participation in the School Board Caucus Committee and in school bond issue referendums, conduction of a public forum for candidates running in last April's village election, establishment of a Northwest Suburban Mental Health Clinic, a survey of the feasibility of a United Fund, and distribution of Christmas baskets to needy families.

Independent projects cited are work on the organization of a Salvation Army Home Service Unit, sponsorship of a dance class for junior high pupils, support to the public library, and hosting two foreign visitors at the request of the U. S. State Department.

WOOD DALE Junior Woman's Club, only two years old, has prepared an entry showing extensive work on two community-wide projects, support of the public library and keeping an up-to-date calendar of community events.

Besides publishing a community calendar for general distribution, the club sends a weekly listing of upcoming events to the local DuPage County Register, and mails a monthly newsletter to all village homes announcing and describing future events. In addition, a bulletin board announcing all scheduled Wood Dale events for the year is constantly maintained at the entrance of the library, and another similar bulletin board at the railroad depot.

To the library, the club has donated $748, about 75 books and over 300 volunteer hours of work.

Arlington Heights junior women are submitting as their main project their help to two families so that their 13 children are able to attend school regularly.

INITIATING A Community Council in cooperation with the Jaycees is their second leading project. Also, the Arlington juniors are reporting on their participation in the village's adoption and aid to a Peruvian village to help improve international relations, work toward establishing a Northwest Suburban Mental Health Clinic, and their sponsorship of a story hour for pre-school children.

The Arlington Women's Club (a separate organization from the juniors) is submitting a report on their participation and cooperation in establishing a Community Council.

Number one project of the Rolling Meadows Junior Woman's Club is continued support of the Clearbrook School for Retarded Children, furnishing volunteer help and raising funds for the school which they helped to establish.

OTHER PROJECTS of the Rolling Meadows group are various aids to the community library, sponsorhip of a Brownie Troop, participation in park district activities, work in the Northwest Cooperative Mental Health Association, assisting the annual carnival event of the fire department, and helping to organize the Juvenile Association recently started by the police department.

Elk Grove's juniors have divided their entry into three sections, Community, Social and Cultural projects. An imposing list of community projects includes aid to the Clearbriok School, raising funds for the Northwest Suburban Mental Health Clinic and Chicago educational television, sponsorship of a visit of a mobile TB X-ray unit, donations to the community pool and parks, participation in the annual village Peony Pageant, and public relations work to achieve cooperation between civic organizations.

Establishment and support of a public library for the village leads the projects of the Elk Grove women in the other two categories. Also, they have formed an Art League, conducted a community art show, and cooperated with the Community Council in establishing a Youth Club.

The 1-year-old Schaumburg Junior Woman's Club does not yet have a major project, but have already cooperated with other organizations on four community endeavors. They are the organization of the Northwest Mental Health Clinic, help in sponsoring a visit of a TB X-ray unit, participation in a Girl Scout fund drive, and beautifying a village name sign with plantings.

MOUNT PROSPECT juniors started a Senior Citizens Club, solicited about 500 letters asking that the railroad station be rejuvenated (which was accomplished), and provides a partial scholarship to one high school graduate each year.

Civil Defense is the primary project of the Itasca junior women. They were instrumental in establishing a local unit recently, and have eight club members presently taking an 11-week Red Cross emergency training program.

Also, the Itasca women have had the iris approved as the village flower, and a variety of iris has been developed and named Itasca. Residents of the village will note that their 1962 vehicle stamps bear the picture of this flower.

The Des Plaines Junior Women have two main projects they are entering in the contest, Civil Defense and selling U. S. Savings Stamps in the schools.

COOPERATING in the sponsorship of the contest is the Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

Purpose of the contest is to serve as a means "of creating the 'sense of community' that is so sorely lacking in towns, cities and suburbs throughout the land."

Entering clubs were advised to "write a clear, accurate and dynamic account of what your community has undertaken and accomplished," and to give credit to all groups and individuals who contributed to the success of the project.

The scrapbook is to be limited to five pounds, and unless the projects are a cooperative community endeavor, it is advised that the entrants cite only their three main projects.

IN RELATION to the projects entered, it is asked that their total contribution to the community be described, and if they created a "heightened spirit of civic unity and a deepened feeling of community solidarity."

First place place state award is $300, and first place national award is $10,000. National winners will all receive an additional $1,000 if they show in 1964 that their 1962 projects have been successfully continued and others begun. The clubs will be visited by an evaluator.

TWO YEARS OF WORK and weeks of report writing and editing went into the preparation of the entry of the Wheeling Junior Women's Club in the biennial Community Improvement Contest among the nation's women's clubs. The Wheeling juniors placed first in the state and sixth in the nation in 1960. Above Mrs. Rae Swanson (left) and Mrs. Barbara Farr compose the club's scrapbook.

'Living on Velvet'

Oh for a Dog's Life In Suburbs Today!

Suburb Conformity Also Affects Pets

by BETTY AINSLIE

What has happened to the old-fashioned family dog? Has he also become a victim of suburban living? Has he lost his individuality along with his dog house and butcher bones?

You never see a group of dogs out for a stroll and frolic of their own. His acquaintances are as carefully selected as his food. He's bathed, barbered and bacterized. He's given shots for allergies—has consultations with the vet—pampered and pacified.

He conforms to being chained to a doggy stake, or is confined to a fenced in yard. He wears an overcoat and even galoshes. He belongs to the Kennel Club and he's exhibited at shows. He's either a problem or a prize to his owners and he's forgotten the knack of knocking over garbage pails, or romping through fields with the sheer nose-to-the-ground joy of being a dog.

HIS DIET IS supervised. Table scraps upset him and bones cause trouble along the digestive track. He's fed from cans, sacks or boxes, and his weight is as carefully watched as a movie star's.

He's immunized and deodorized, kept in the house and driven in the car. Papers trace his ancestors farther back than the family bible traces our own. He's pedigreed and he costs money, lots of money, so he's valuable property to be fussed over and worried about.

He sports a fancy collar with a new license tag every year; and to keep that tag company he wears a compulsory rabies shot tag. What has happened to dogs like the mixed-up stray who once followed me home from school and decided to remain as our family mascot? Is he long gone in the suburbs?

THE FARM dog like the country mouse finds he has all sorts of relatives living it up in town; and that town cousin is a highly sophisticated and nervous version of his country kinsman.

We have a pampered pooch. He has allergies in summer and fungus infections all year. He occupies the middle of the kitchen floor and he hasn't the faintest idea what to do with a bone. He's big and he barks which makes him think he's a watch dog, but he loves everyone and he's a problem, as all his lots are gobbled up by houses and his lone spots of freedom are few. He's a hunting dog who can't find a spot of food on the floor unless it is pointed out to him. He's a charter member of the vet visiting club and he's constantly expensive; but he has only to gaze at me out of his always bloodshot brown eyes to make my heart melt.

Mac is a fool and a clown. Romps like a pup through the house and has several broken lamps to his credit. He needs baths, sprays, clipping jobs and special foods; but he's our own pedigreed, lovable problem.

OUR SPRINGER is old enough to remember puppy days of freedom when our house stood out lonesomely on the block. He can recollect a couple of Spring seasons when he brought baby rabbits from the fields and laid them tenderly at our feet, unhurt with their fur not even mussed.

So I guess dogs are here to stay even in the suburbs. I suppose we can't have dogs wandering over the neighbor's landscaping so laws are made which chain him to the yard. He can sit at the end of his doggy stake and envy the neighborhood cats free and on the prowl.

Maybe dogs are bored and like humans with nothing much to do develop all sorts of strange maladies; but where there are humans there will be dogs and they've become as much a part of the rush and bustle of suburban living as their owners and react about the same way.

MAN'S BEST friend will always love and adore these strange fellows called masters. Although he may dream of green fields, plenty of trees and being once again a hunter after game, he'll follow willingly his beloved humans even to go rocketing to the moon if necessary.

He's smart; he knows that "a dog's life" means he's really living on velvet in the suburbs today.

Gourmet Gossip

Dill, that zippy, tangy flavor, means more to the gourmet than pickles. Dill weed gives such tasty and unusual flavor to green salads, you'll want to eliminate garlic, oregano, or other herbs you are ordinarily so fond of.

Dill pickles lend a tangy touch, too, to many main dishes. Try chopping a bit of the pickle and adding it, with about a teaspoon of the juice, to your sauces. A cream sauce with dill pickle makes a grand accompaniment to veal steaks or cutlets. The more you try dill the more you'll like it.

'Champagne' Benefit Set

An invitation to a fabulous party! That's what members of Memorial Hospital Guild have been receiving in the mail this past week, announcing a benefit to aid their very own hospital and its building fund.

Marshall Field and Company has asked for the pleasure of guild ladies' company at a champagne buffet to be held Wednesday, March 14, at 6:30 p.m. in its new Oakbrook location.

A FASHION showing of import and American designer collections, spring 1962, and a tour of the new facilities will add an even more festive note to the occasion.

Saddest news of all, reports Mrs. Thomas Jenner, guild general chairman, is that reservations can be accepted for only 400 guests—and not one single person more!

THE HARD-working guild will reap an estimated $3,000 from its benefit coup as all ticket donations will augment its annual gift to the hospital. She asks that reservations be made promptly with unit chairmen.

Checks should be made payable to "Memorial Hospital Guild." Mrs. Viano Raag of 17W521 Holly Court, Addison, was among local unit chairmen who met recently with other members at a luncheon to discuss details of the benefit. (SF

How a Mother 'Suffers'

MY FAMILY HAS NO IDEA HOW I SUFFER for them. If, under this bleached mop, there are any grey hairs, I know how they got there. They put them there, that's what.

There were all those times when the girls were taking dancing and piano lessons. The pain of getting them to practice was nothing compared with the bitter agony of going through the inevitable recitals. I didn't mind making all those costumes. I didn't mind the new dresses or the hair ribbons. It was the performance itself that made me twitch.

MARY

Take a dance recital. There I would sit with my feet and legs jerking out from under me in a vain effort to get them through their stint without a booboo. My hands would get clammy, my eyes watered and the strain made my head ache. During their piano bit, I would find my fingers going right along with theirs. When they hit a clinker, which they almost always did, I died a thousand deaths for them.

Now that most of them are too big for that sort of thing, I thought that life would be more tranquil and the old nerves could simmer down a little. Not so. Father was asked to bowl in a big thing. With some pretty stellar bowlers. Now Father isn't the worst bowler in the world. On the other hand Don Carter needn't shiver in his boots either. He's a sort of hot and cold bowler. When he's good, he's very very good. When he's bad, even I can outbowl him. And that's not saying much of anything.

I didn't realize that he was nervous about it until he suggested that we go and bowl a few lines on Saturday afternoon. The thing was held on Sunday. Everyone, but everyone, knows that Saturday afternoons is nap time for Daddy. It was one of his cold times. And so the tension mounted. The time was drawing nigh. He paced some. He wished he had said no. By this time, so did I.

While the event was taking place, I watched. I didn't want to. On the other hand, I couldn't keep my eyes off. Well, the little dear came through in simply marvelous fashion. I was so proud of him you would think I had invented him. I think I'll spend the day in bed. These things tell on a woman of my advanced years.

Bulletin Board Is Salvation for Mom

Do you find that the budding young Picasso in your family is taking up more and more room on the kitchen wall with his latest masterpieces? Why not let him have his very own bulletin board?

It can be made simply from a rectangle of beaverboard, cork, or similar material which will take thumb tacks easily. If the child is too young to be handling tacks, try a piece of heavy cardboard covered with contact or polished surfaced shelf paper. Hang it by a ribbon with a fancy bow. On this smooth surface he can paste up his drawings with ordinary sticky tape, or you can affix two-way tape to the picture for him so that he can place it on the board himself. The board can be easily washed off, too.

FOR CHILDREN of all ages a bulletin board can be a source of family fun and education as well. Cartoons, game ideas, snapshots and notices "from management" about after-school chores can be placed there for the children to find. Humorous "awards" can be put up also to acknowledge a difficult job well done.

Quite apart from creating family fun, a bulletin board is a useful tool for teaching by example three important keys to getting along with other people: Learn to communicate, or share experiences; be willing to accept instructions from a recognized authority; acknowledge special effort with a special "Thank you."

Warmus-Scherf Rites Take Place In Genoa

A Nuptial High Mass in St. Catherine's Catholic Church of Genoa was the setting of a recent wedding which united a Bartlett man, Andrew Richard Warmus, and Miss Monica Louise Scherf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Scherf of Genoa.

Their double ring ceremony Feb. 24 was performed by Rev. Fr. John A. Dording at 11 a.m. Providing fitting music was Richard Gallagher, who sang and played several selections on the organ.

GIVEN IN marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in an imported chantilly lace over taffeta dress. Details were a cathedral train with fitted bodice and demure neckline, adorned with iridescent sequins, aurora borealis crystals and pearls.

Her silk illusion ballerina veil, in bouffant style, fell from a Swedish crown, highlighted with aurora borealis crystals. They were again used in the rosary she carried, a gift from the groom. The bridal bouquet consisted of white carnations and a single orchid.

MARY CATHERINE KRIBS of Dundee, the bride's cousin, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. John White and Mrs. Robert Meyers, also of Dundee; and Justina Serafin of Bartlett, niece of the groom, who took the part of junior bridesmaid.

All wore identical sheath dresses of red velvet with matching bouffant taffeta overskirts. Their matching circle headpieces were accented with cage veils and they carried white fur muffs with red carnations.

GEORGE SERAFIN of Bartlett, the groom's brother-in-law, was best man. Ushers were Walter Stanek of Chicago, and Robert Wires, Bartlett. A nephew of the groom, Gregory Serafin, was ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Scherf selected a floral brocade sheath with matching fitted jacket, pillbox hat and white gloves. Mrs. Warmus chose a Dior blue embroidered silk organza over taffeta sheath.

COMPLEMENTING her blue dress was a sequin pillbox hat and gloves in delicate pink. Both mothers wore corsages of white gardenias. Feting the newlyweds was a wedding breakfast at "The Ranch" in Sycamore and a reception and dinner held later in the American Legion Home in Marengo.

A graduate of Genoa-Kingston High School and Elgin Community College, the bride attended Illinois State Normal University and is employed at the Union National Bank, Elgin.

THE BRIDEGROOM was graduated from St. Edward High School in Elgin and served two years in the army. Present employment is with the Bartlett Set Screw Mfg. Co.

Following a honeymoon in the South the pair plan to establish residence in Elgin. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Warmus of Bartlett.

Keeneyville Bureau

Keeneyville Home Bureau held its regular monthly meeting March 8 at the Lake St. home of Mrs. Margaret Rosel. The local lesson was "Helping Youths Face Today's Problems."

OUTLANDISH GARDEN HATS, all original creations of Roselle Garden Club members, provided a laugh-filled afternoon at the group's recent spring luncheon, which later took on a serious note with the annual election of officers. In a gay, spring theme centerpieces decorated tables of four and the menu, chicken a la king, molded salads and relishes, was prepared by Mrs. A. Huelke and Mrs. H. Holmes. Tioga VFW Auxiliary

by CHARLENE RICKER

Tioga's Ice Skating Club has been collecting medals with gratifying regularity, and added three more on its recent jaunt to Champaign.

In the 110 yard event, Holly Kuffel took second place and Barbara Westlake was fourth. Barbara then proceeded to capture third place in the 220 yard event.

Three of the club's skaters are eligible to compete in the National Indoor Speedskating Championship at the University of Illinois in Champaign this Saturday and Sunday.

PAT SODEN will compete with the midget girls and Barbara Westlake and Holly Kuffel will race in the pony girls' division.

To continue with the "sports page," the Tioga Auxiliary sponsored Jets won the 1962 minor loop basketball title Sunday.

Next Wednesday, March 14, there will be another rehearsal of the program to entertain the post. There's still time for interested members to join the fun, since these programs are usually juggled around till curtain time and even beyond.

CATHERINE Whalen asks, "Please turn in your community service hours."

Next meeting, March 15, will be the election of officers.

The post bowling league's "Hod-Carriers' Hop" is coming up Saturday, March 17, so haul out the "sad rags" (it's a "hard times" party) and throw together what might be a prize-winning costume.

AMERICANISM Chairman Shirley Soden has been named one of the judges in the contest to design a flag for Bensenville.

Semper Nuptials Held On Feb. 17

Wearing a beige sheath dress with matching jacket, accessories and two white orchids, Mrs. Elma Semper of 15W739 Crest, Bensenville, exchanged vows with Arthur Hennig of Villa Park Feb. 17 in the United Brethren Church, Bensenville.

Rev. Norman Zurbrigg officiated the wedding rites at 5 p.m. in a surrounding of white mums and carnations placed at the altar. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Atkinson of Dubuque.

IN A LIGHT blue sheath ensemble with pink carnation corsage was Mrs. James Di Orio of Bensenville, who served as matron of honor. Best man was Ed Hennig, same town. Ushers were Tom Semper of Champaign, the bride's son, and John Hennig, Naperville, nephew of the groom.

White carnation corsages accentuated the blue dresses worn by both Mrs. Atkinson and the groom's mother, Mrs. A. Hennig of Villa Park.

Following the ceremony 150 guests feted the newlyweds at a reception held in the church basement. The new Mr. and Mrs. Hennig plan to settle in Villa Park in the near future.

Use Area Rugs for Smart Room Decorating Accents

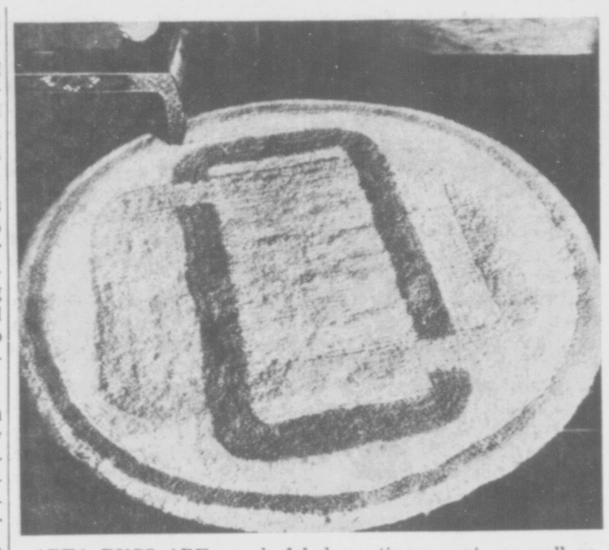
The growing trend in floor coverings today is wall-to-wall carpet in some rooms, area or accent rugs in others. Nothing is so versatile as the small-to-medium-size rugs, to set a color note here, to define a room area there, to achieve a special effect somewhere else.

The Better Home Furnishings Council of Greater Chicago points out that both types of floor coverings have their advantages. Wall-to-wall carpeting can give a finished, unified look to a room, and is hard to equal for a sense of luxury underfoot.

AREA AND accent rugs, on the other hand, are especially useful when there is an attractive flooring material — hardwood or beautiful tile, for example — that the homemaker does not wish entirely covered, when the family expects to move and wants to take the rugs along and when the floor covering is especially subject to hard wear and will need frequent cleaning.

An area rug may be turned, to equalize wear, and can be taken up entirely for cleaning, usually more thoroughly than when the carpet must be cleaned on the floor.

Some spots for which area rugs are especially appropriate are foyers and hallways, dining areas, family rooms and bedrooms. They often are used in living rooms too, with each furniture grouping having its own rug. Many of these rugs may be washed, so they make sense under a dining table where food spills might be a problem.



AREA RUGS ARE wonderful decorating accents as well as floor coverings. This round rug, a Japanese-inspired pattern named "Jahade," comes in three sizes, 4, 6 and 8 feet across, and in such tempting color combinations as beige and natural; moss green and yellow green; tones of yellow; copper and browns; grays and tans and tones of blue. Area rug illustrated is by Wunda Weve Carpets. (S

WHILE SOME have all-over designs, many more have patterns especially created for a given size and shape. They come in virtually every shape, from the customary rectangle to circles, half-moons, free forms, and shapes adapted to motifs, such as animal patterns for children's rooms.

Color is of particular importance, and many of the rugs depend heavily on color for their total decorative effect. One new line offers as many as seven color combinations for each pattern. Homemakers who have difficulty deciding on a color scheme for a particular room could hardly do better than to build their color schemes around the tones found in one of these rugs. They have been styled by color experts.

Area rugs come in all sizes up to 8 by 12 feet, though most are somewhat smaller than room-size. Better ones have non-skid backing to prevent the hazard of tripping and sliding.

Trays, Carts 'Speed' Table Setting at Community Fare

Table setting and service at community suppers go faster when workers try to cut out unnecessary steps and motions.

Here are some work-saving suggestions from Mildred Bonnell, University of Illinois home economist:

Place all the equipment to be used in setting tables on a cart. Then roll supplies from table to table. This plan eliminates many trips back and forth to the kitchen to get supplies.

KEEP SILVER in a series of bread tins that are easy to carry instead of in drawers that are heavy to pull out. Having a separate tin for each utensil, such as one for forks, one for knives and one for teaspoons, will make it unnecessary to straighten jumbled drawers.

Use a funnel for filling salt and pepper shakers. A coffee pot or pitcher with a spout speeds sugar-bowl filling.

Use trays for handling glasses, cups and dishes.

Use both hands when possible. For example, put salad plates on a tray with both hands simultaneously. You can do the job twice as fast as if you set down one plate at a time with just one hand.
